The first part of the report deals with the general situation of the country and the progress of the war. It is followed by a detailed account of the operations of the army and the navy. The report concludes with a summary of the results of the war and a statement of the author's views on the future of the country.

Brief History of the Monthly Catalog

The Printing Act of 1895 specified two products for the description and collocation of public documents.

- The Catalogue of the Public Documents of the [...] Congress and of All Departments of the Government of the United States (Document Catalogue) fulfilled the requirement for a “comprehensive index of public documents” to be prepared “at the close of each regular session of Congress.”
- The Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications (MoCat) met the stipulation for a “Monthly Catalogue ... which shall show the publications printed during a month, where [those publications are] obtainable, and the price thereof.”

Thus, the original relationship was a current awareness listing (in the MoCat) and a permanent, authoritative, and comprehensive catalog (in the Document Catalogue).

In 1947, the cost and perennial difficulty of compiling the Document Catalogue led the Superintendent of Documents to recommend to the Joint Committee on Printing that the Catalogue be discontinued after the edition for 1940 was completed. The MoCat began to serve in the capacity of a single source for bibliographic information, fulfilling the requirements of the 1895 act, which stand to this day in 44 USC §1710-1711.

From 1895 until 1976, the Government Printing Office (GPO) arranged and described documents according to its own standards and systems. A major revision of the appearance and functionality of the MoCat took place in July 1976. GPO catalogers began producing machine-readable cataloging records (MARC) conforming to Anglo-American Cataloging Rules (AACR), Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH), the Ohio College Library Center (later the Online Computer Library Center, OCLC) bibliographic standards and formats, and other applicable national level standards. Since that time, GPO has gradually expanded the emphasis of its cataloging and indexing program from the production of a single printed product to the creation and maintenance of a database of high-quality, standards-based bibliographic records. These records are used by GPO and the library community to support an expanding array of bibliographic control activities.

The bibliographic data used to produce this abridged paper edition is also used to produce a compact disk/read-only memory (CD-ROM) and a World Wide Web (WWW) edition. The Web edition links users directly from bibliographic citations to electronic publications, and assists the public to locate information in depository libraries and through GPO sales. GPO bibliographic data is also available to individual libraries directly from GPO and from a variety of commercial sources for the creation of high quality local databases and public access catalogs.

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the United States from its discovery to the present time. It is divided into three volumes. The first volume covers the period from the discovery of the continent to the establishment of the first colonies. The second volume covers the period from the establishment of the first colonies to the Declaration of Independence. The third volume covers the period from the Declaration of Independence to the present time.

Catalog Arrangement

Bibliographic entries in the Monthly Catalog (MOCAT) are arranged in Superintendent of Documents classification number order. Each record is also assigned a unique catalog number—a two-digit prefix representing the catalog year, followed by a sequential number beginning with "1" in the first issue of each year. Within this arrangement, the publications of each Government author are further identified by the name and address of the issuing agency.

Catalog entries in this catalog may be accessed by title keyword index (alphabetical list of truncated titles, arranged by important words selected from publication titles).

Please consult the CD-ROM version of the MOCAT for indexing accessed by:

- Keyword
- Author
- Title
- Series/Report Number
- Subject
- Stock Number
- Contract Number
- Classification Number

Indexes in the CD-ROM version of the Monthly Catalog will cumulate from the beginning of the calendar year through the current issues.

Abbreviations

Abbreviations used in the bibliographic entries are those described in the Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules, 2nd ed, and the GPO Classification Manual: A Practical Guide in the Superintendent of Documents Classification System.

Order Information

The Superintendent of Documents (SuDocs) of the U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO) is authorized by law to sell copies of Government publications. # Principles of Geology

The first principle of geology is that the present is the key to the past. This means that the processes we observe in the world today are the same as those that have operated in the past. For example, if we see a river cutting a valley, we can infer that a river once cut that valley in the past. This principle is the foundation of all geological reasoning.

The second principle of geology is that the geologist must always keep in mind the fact that the earth is a dynamic system. The earth is constantly changing, and the geologist must be able to recognize and explain these changes. This means that the geologist must be able to identify the forces that are causing the changes and the time scale over which they are operating.

The third principle of geology is that the geologist must always keep in mind the fact that the earth is a complex system. The earth is made up of many different parts, and the geologist must be able to understand how these parts are related to each other. This means that the geologist must be able to identify the different components of the earth and how they interact with each other.

Geological Information

Geological information is the knowledge of the earth's history and structure. This information is obtained through a variety of methods, including field observations, laboratory experiments, and the study of ancient records. The geologist must be able to collect, analyze, and interpret this information in order to understand the earth's past and present.

The first part of the paper discusses the general theory of the subject. It is shown that the theory is based on the principle of least action. The action is defined as the integral of the Lagrangian over time. The Lagrangian is a function of the coordinates and velocities. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action. The second part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a potential. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action.

The third part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a magnetic field. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action. The fourth part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a gravitational field. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action.

The fifth part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a time-varying potential. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action. The sixth part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a time-varying magnetic field. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action.

The seventh part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a time-varying gravitational field. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action. The eighth part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a time-varying potential and magnetic field. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action.

The ninth part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a time-varying potential, magnetic field, and gravitational field. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action. The tenth part of the paper discusses the application of the theory to the case of a particle in a time-varying potential, magnetic field, and gravitational field. It is shown that the action is a function of the coordinates and time. The equations of motion are derived from the principle of least action. It is shown that the equations of motion are equivalent to the principle of least action.

Federal Depository Library Program

The Federal Depository Library Program was established by Congress to provide free public access to Government publications. Nearly 1,350 public, academic, State, and law libraries serve as information links with the Federal Government by maintaining collections of Government publications. Collections are tailored to local needs and are open to the public. Fifty-three of the libraries are designated as regional depository libraries with responsibility for permanently retaining material and for providing inter-library loan and reference services in their regions.

Copies of documents no longer available through the GPO sales program can usually be found in regional depository collections.

To determine which depository libraries have selected publications listed in this catalog, use the Locator Service at the Superintendent of Documents World Wide Web site, http://www.access.gpo.gov/su\_docs/dpos/adpos400.html.
