Choosing the Right Business for You

	There is no way to eliminate all the risks associated with starting a small business;
	however, you can improve your chances of success with research, good planning, and preparation. Start by evaluating your strengths and weaknesses as an owner and manager of a small business.
Your Personal	• What are your personal needs? Your financial objectives?
Objectives	• How will owning a business affect your family? Your standard of living?
	• What are you interested in getting out of your business – money, power, flexibility?
Your Talents	• Do you have any special skills or expertise in a particular industry?
	• How will your talents help you in the development and operation of your own business?
	• How good are you at making decisions, planning and organizing?
	• Do you like to sell? Can you sell? You will be required to sell and advertise yourself, your company, and your products or services.
Your Personality Traits	• Are you a self-starter? Is your drive strong enough to maintain your Trans	motivation? It will be up to you — not someone else telling you — to develop projects, organize your time, and follow through.
	• How well do you get along with different personalities? Business owners need to develop working relationships with a variety of people:
	customers, employees, bankers, lawyers, accountants, vendors, etc.
	• Are you willing to risk everything you own? Will you be able to live with the fear of loss? Will your family?

QUIZ: Do You Have What It Takes?

Take this simple quiz. For each question, place a check mark by the answer that best identifies your personality.

1. Are you a self-starter?

- 1. I do things on my own. No one has to tell me to get going.
- 2. If someone gets me started, I keep going all right.
- 3. Easy does it. I don't put myself out until I have to.

2. How do you relate to people?

- 1. I like people and can get along with just about anyone.
- 2. I have plenty of friends and don't need anyone else.
- 3. Most people irritate me.

3. Can you lead others?

- 1. I can get most people to go along when I start something.
- 2. I can give the orders if someone tells me what we should do.
- 3. I let someone else get things moving; then I go along if I feel like it.

4. Can you take responsibility?

- 1. I like to take charge of things and see them through.
- 2. I'll take over if I have to, but I'd rather let someone else be responsible.
- 3. There's always some eager beaver around wanting to show how smart s/he is. I say let 10. How good is your health? 'em.

5. How good an organizer are you?

- 1. I like to have a plan before I start. I'm usually the one to get things lined up.
- 2. I do all right unless things get too confusing; then, I quit.
- 3. I just take things as they come.

6. How good a worker are you?

- 1. I can keep going as long as I need to. I don't mind working hard for something I want.
- 2. I'll work hard for a while, but when I've had enough, that's it.
- 3. I can't see that hard work gets you anywhere.

7. Can you make decisions?

- 1. I can make up my mind in a hurry if I have to. It usually turns out okay, too.
- 2. I can if I have plenty of time. I don't like to be the one to decide things.

8. Can people trust what you say?

- 1. You bet they can. I don't say things I don't mean.
- 2. Sometimes I just say what is easiest.
- Why bother, if other people don't know 3. the difference?

9. Can you stick with it?

- 1. If I make up my mind to do something, I don't let anything stop me.
- 2. I usually finish what I start—if it goes well.
- 3. If it doesn't go well immediately, I quit.

- 1. I never run down!
- 2. I have enough energy for most things I want to do.
- 3. I run out of energy sooner than most of my friends.

If most of your checks are beside the first answers, you probably have what it takes to run a business.

If most of your checks are besides the second answers, you may have some difficulty running a business. Better find a partner who is strong on the points on which you are weak.

If most of your checks are next to the third answers, even a good partner may not be able to shore you up.

Whether you go it alone or with a partner, read on to find out what steps to take next.

Considerations in Choosing Your Business	Your experience is most important in considering starting a new business or purchasing an existing one. If you start a new business or purchase an existing one , past experience in that particular industry will help you better understand your customer market, the operating cycle of the business, the practices unique to the trade, and it may help you avoid costly mistakes.
	Before you open your own business, consider working or volunteering in a business similar to the one you want to start or buy in as many positions as possible. This way you can try it out before committing. You can also explore the business by attending association and networking meetings within the industry and by talking to other entrepreneurs . Ask questions. Entrepreneurs love to talk about their businesses.
Is Your Business Idea Feasible?	Evaluating the feasibility of a business allows you to make a more informed "go or no go" decision. It involves a detailed examination of financial, personal, and market realities. Some of the key elements that you should explore and honestly appraise include:

- Do you have enough money to get your idea off the ground without going into debt? If not, where are you going to get your money? Do you have enough cash and the right combination of prior experience, credit status, and other tangible assets to secure financing for the venture?
- Are you willing to take the risks of loss associated with assuming debt?
- Can the business generate enough revenue to pay its expenses as well as your desired level of owner profit?
- Are your management skills adequate for overseeing and developing the business operations and market and selling your product or service?
- Is there a demand for your product or service?
- 8 SBA.gov/CA/SF

	• Can you really compete and stay competitive with other businesses that have been at it longer and have an established reputation?
	• Have you done research on market demand, or have you just assumed that people need or want your product or service?
	• Are the rewards from the business, both monetary and personal, worth the effort and investment you are going to have to make?
	• What is the worst thing that could happen if you go into business for yourself? Are you capable and willing to deal with the worst possibility, should it occur?
On the Upside	Here are some of the advantages of small business ownership:
	• You get to be your own boss.
	• Hard work and long hours directly benefit you, rather than increasing profits for someone else.

- Earnings and growth potential are unlimited.
- A new venture is exciting.
- Running a business provides endless variety, challenge, and opportunities.

Local, State, and Federal Business Requirements

If you are operating a home-based or service business, you may think that you don't have to comply with any of the numerous local, state, and federal regulations, but in all likelihood, you do. Avoid the temptation to ignore regulatory details. Doing so may avoid some red tape and expense in the short term, but it can be an obstacle as your business grows, result in costly fines, or even cause the sudden closure of your business. Take the time to research the applicable regulations and structure your business so that it will be in compliance from day one.

The following is a checklist of the most common requirements for small businesses, but it is by no means all-inclusive. Regulations vary by industry and location. If you're in the food-service business, for example, you will have to meet the standards of the health department. If you use chemical solvents, you will have to comply with environmental regulations. Being out of compliance in any aspect of your business could leave you legally unprotected, lead to expensive penalties, and jeopardize your business.

Business LicensesThere are many types of business licenses: state, local, and professional.Depending upon what you do and where you plan to operate, most businesses willbe required to have a license of some sort. Licenses are administered by a varietyof departments, so first check with the Business License Office or the TaxCollector in the city or county where you plan to do business. Please see the table"Licensing and Regulatory Contacts" on page 15.

To find out if your corporation requires a state license, contact:

California State Board of Equalization (800) 400-7115 boe.ca.gov

Or

The Governor's Office of Business and Economic Development (GO-Biz) Permit Assistance Center (877) 345-4633 calgold.ca.gov

Fictitious Business Name	Businesses that use a name other than the owner's legal given name must register as a fictitious name with the county as required by the Trade Name Registration Act. Fictitious names are sometimes referred to as "doing business as" names, or "DBAs". This does not apply to corporations doing business under their corporate name or to those practicing any profession under a partnership name.
Federal Self- Employment Tax	Everyone must pay Social Security tax. If you are self-employed, your Social Security contribution is made through the self-employment tax. You will also need to determine how best to report earnings and pay your business taxes. Internal Revenue Service
	(800) 829-1040 irs.gov
Business Formation	You must decide if your business will be structured as a sole proprietorship, partnership, corporation, or LLC. Partnerships, corporations, and LLC's should be legally established using an attorney to develop the contracts. If you have decided to incorporate your business, contact the Secretary of State:
	The Secretary of State's Office 1500 11th Street, Third Floor Sacramento, CA 95814 (916) 657-5448 sos.ca.gov
Local Fees	Many cities and towns require that you register and pay a fee to do business there.
	Contact the Tax Collector's Office in the city or county where your business will be located.
State Taxes	You must file your state business taxes separately if you are a partnership or corporation. If you are a sole proprietorship, you file through your personal income taxes. You can obtain the necessary business tax forms and general information from the Franchise Tax Board , which has local offices throughout California.
Seller's Permit	You will need a seller's permit or a resale number if you plan to sell products. The permit allows you to purchase inventory from suppliers without paying taxes. To obtain a permit, contact the State Board of Equalization .

Employer	If you have employees, you are required to have an employer identification
Identification	number (EIN). You may also get one if you prefer not to use your Social Security Number	number in business transactions. Contact the IRS to obtain an employer identification number.
	Internal Revenue Service (800) 829-1040 irs.gov
Workers'	You are required to carry workers' compensation insurance if you have Compensation	employees. If an employee is injured on the job, this insurance will cover his or Insurance	her medical bills, for which you would otherwise be liable. You can obtain a policy from many private insurance companies or from the State Compensation Insurance Fund.
	California Industrial Relations Department dir.ca.gov
State Withholding	If you have paid more than $100 in wages to an employee in a given calendar
Taxes	quarter, you are required to withhold taxes for state disability insurance, personal income taxes, unemployment insurance, and employment training. You must register for an employer account number. Contact the Employment Development Department of the State of California edd.ca.gov
	Also see the following table "Licensing and Regulatory Contacts"
Federal	Under certain circumstances, you are required to withhold income tax and Social Withholding Taxes	Security (FICA), be liable for your employees' portion of Social Security taxes, and pay federal unemployment tax. Nonpayment of federal employer taxes can result in audits, penalties, difficulties obtaining bank financing, and closure of your business.

Patents, Trademarks, Servicemarks, Copyrights & Trade Secrets

What is a Patent?

A patent for an invention is the grant of a property right to the inventor, issued by the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO). U.S. patent grants are effective only within the United States, U.S. territories, and U.S. possessions. The right conferred by the patent grant is, in the language of the statute and of the grant itself, "the right to exclude others from making, using, offering for sale, or selling" the invention in the United States or "importing" the invention into the United States.

There are three types of patents:

- Utility patents may be granted to anyone who invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, article of manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof;
- 2) Design patents may be granted to anyone who invents a new, original, and ornamental design for an article of manufacture; and
- 3) Plant patents may be granted to anyone who invents or discovers and asexually reproduces any distinct and new variety of plant.

What Is a Trademark or Servicemark?

A trademark is a word, name, symbol, or device that is used in trade with goods to indicate the source of the goods and to distinguish them from the goods of others.

A servicemark is the same as a trademark except that it identifies and distinguishes the source of a service rather than a product. Registration of the mark in the U.S. is only effective within the United States.

Trademark rights may be used to prevent others from using a similar mark, but not to prevent others from making the same goods or from selling the same goods or services under a clearly different mark. Trademarks which are used in interstate or foreign commerce may be registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO): uspto.gov

What is a Copyright?

Copyright is a form of protection provided to the authors of "original works of authorship" including literary, dramatic, musical, artistic, and certain other intellectual works, both published and unpublished. The 1976 Copyright Act generally gives the owner of copyright the exclusive right to reproduce the copyrighted work, to prepare derivative works, to distribute copies or phonorecords of the copyrighted work, to perform the copyrighted work publicly, or to display the copyrighted work publicly.

The copyright protects the form of expression rather than the subject matter of the writing. For example, a description of a machine could be copyrighted, but this would only prevent others from copying the description; it would not prevent others from writing a description of their own or from making and using the machine. Copyrights are registered by:

Copyright Office of the Library of Congress copyright.gov

What Are Trade secrets?

Trade secrets are any closely held information that you may have that gives your business a competitive advantage. As long as you can keep the information secret it will be your trade secret. Some examples of trade secrets include business processes, manufacturing process, research techniques, research data, design processes and critical designs, marketing/sales/customer information, operation/environmental information, and chemical formulas.

Preparing Your Business Plan

Blueprint for Your Business	The business plan is a personal management tool that you should continue to use after start-up. It will assist you in the ongoing development of your business. A thoroughly researched and well-thought-out business plan will clarify your goals, focus your energy, give direction to your work, and help you gauge your progress. To obtain a loan or attract investors, you will need to present a cohesive picture of your business, the management team, why it will succeed, and how you intend to repay the investors.
The Format	No business planning outline is totally comprehensive. The outline provided on the following pages will get you started. If you need assistance with a business plan, please contact one of the counselling and training service providers listed at the back of this book.
	As you go through the plan, you may find that you do not know the answers to some of the questions or even understand some of the terms used. This is common and it is the main reason to try and make a plan. Building a business plan forces you to research and start asking questions that you may not have even known to ask before starting .

Business Plan Outline

Executive Summary

The Executive Summary is the first component of your business plan, but is actually written after all other elements of the plan have been created. It succinctly summarizes in no more than two pages the Organization Plan, Marketing Plan, and Financial Plan. It should be thoughtfully written, because potential investors often will not read the body of the plan if their interest is not piqued by the executive summary.

Company Description

- What is your mission statement?
- Who are the principle members of your company and what are their roles?
- What is the legal structure of your company?

Market Research

- Describe your industry
- What regulations apply to your company?
- Who will buy your product? Why?
- Who are your competitors?
- What advantages do you have over your competition?
- Product/Service Line What is the product that your company will provide?
  - Describe your pricing structure?
  - In what life-cycle stage is your product or service?
  - What intellectual property-rights might you need for your product or service? Do you have them already?
  - What research and development activities are you performing already or planning on engaging in?

Sales

- What is your plan to grow the company?
- How will you communicate with your customers?
- How will you sell your product or service?

Business Plan Outline

Financial Projections Include monthly projections for the first year and annual projections for the next two years. Construct the following financial tools for your first three years:

- Income statement (also called a profit and loss statement)
- Balance sheet
- Cash flow projection
- Break-even analysis

If you do not know how to construct these projections, please contact one of the counselling and training service providers listed at the back of this book.

Appendices

- Articles of Incorporation
- Partnership agreements
- Copies of leases
- Resumes, position descriptions
- Personnel policies
- Market survey results

Financing Your Business

More than 80% of new entrepreneurs start their businesses without any commercial loans or debt financing.

In order to avoid saddling themselves with debt, these business owners often choose to obtain their initial financing from their own savings, friends and family members, informal investors, or home-equity loans.

For those who do not have these financing options available, many seek financing from commercial lenders. Lenders prefer to finance businesses with a proven track record and a plan for growth based on the owner's experience in the industry.

When seeking commercial financing, you need to be prepared to discuss your project with a loan officer. Completing your business plan is a crucial part of that preparation.

Eligibility Criteria for SBA Guaranteed Loans To be eligible for an SBA guaranteed loan, the business must:

- Be organized for-profit and qualify as a small business under SBA's size standards;
- Be of good character and demonstrate sufficient management expertise and commitment to provide reasonable assurance of a successful business operation;
- Have satisfactory historical earnings and cash-flow record, or probable future earnings that demonstrate the ability to repay the loan; and
- Have reasonable capital injection for a new business start-up or a business acquisition.

For an existing business, acceptable tangible net worth is required, demonstrating that the business can operate on a sound financial basis.

Some types of businesses are ineligible for SBA financial assistance, including those engaged in:

- speculation,
- lending,
- investment, and
- residential real estate acquisition.

Documents Needed to Apply for a Loan Loan applications are obtained from participating lenders. Generally, the following documentation is required:

- A current income statement and balance sheet for existing businesses.
- A realistic projected monthly cash flow and income statement for one year.
- A current personal financial statement for each principal of the business having 20% or more ownership
- Itemized use of proceeds
- Lists of collateral with an estimate of current market value and liens against the collateral
- A comprehensive, well-documented, carefully-researched business plan
- A schedule of business debt as well as aging of accounts receivable and payable
- Personal and business tax returns for the last three years
- A copy of your lease and any contracts or agreements pertinent to the applicant business

SBA Lending FAQs sba.gov/financing

SBA enables its participant banks to provide financing that is otherwise not available to small businesses. The SBA accomplishes this by guaranteeing approximately 75% - 85% of the loan for the bank. This helps to offset the risk of default that banks associate with lending to small businesses. For bank guaranteed loans, the maximum amount is generally $5,000,000. There is no minimum amount; and some banks will make loans as small as $5,000.

If a bank makes the decision to extend an SBA-backed loan to a business owner, the SBA will provide the bank with a written authorization outlining the terms and conditions of the SBA guarantee (e.g., the interest rate, payment terms, loan maturity, use of proceeds, and the required collateral).

If the business defaults on the loan, SBA will pay the bank the guaranteed share of the unpaid principal balance of the loan. SBA also shares in any recoveries obtained from the collateral. The borrower remains liable for repayment of the full loan amount.

The SBA does not directly lend to small businesses. It does not provide grants or other direct financing to businesses. SBA programs are accessed through participating partners.

If you are buying real estate that will be occupied by the business (minimum 51% occupancy requirement) or heavy equipment, you may also qualify for a 504 Certified Development Company (CDC) loan with as little as 10% down.

How do I apply?

The SBA's participating lenders receive the SBA loan applications, and they are responsible for processing, closing, disbursing, and servicing the loans. A list of local SBA participant lenders follows this section. If your local bank of account is on our list, that is a good place to start. Many of the banks now have on-line application procedures, so you may check their web site before you start. Additionally, Borrowers may connect directly to hundreds of lenders at once using SBA LINC – an online tool that connects you to SBA lenders serving your area. Access SBA LINC at:

sba.gov/tools/LINC

SBA's involvement in the lending process is limited to reviewing the loan application submitted by the bank to assure it meets eligibility and credit standards. The following information is generally needed:

- your business plan,
- cash flow projections,
- pro forma balance sheet,
- personal financial statements,
- copies of IRS tax returns,
- business financial statements (if already in business),
- collateral available to secure the loan,
- and management resumes of those involved in operating the business.

Be prepared to discuss your proposal in detail with your lender. If the bank determines they are comfortable with making the loan, they will then forward your loan application along with their credit analysis to the SBA for approval of the SBA guaranty.

What do I need to qualify for an SBA loan?

The business must be organized for-profit and meet size standard and other eligibility requirements (including a review of citizenship status and any criminal history). A reasonable equity injection or down payment of 20% to 35% or more is generally required for startups. This is usually in the form of cash that is not borrowed, machinery and equipment, or other tangible assets. The owners or managers must demonstrate that they have the knowledge and experience needed to operate and manage the business successfully. The business must demonstrate it can generate sufficient profits to both repay the loan and provide the owner with reasonable compensation for operating the business.

What if I have a bad credit history?

SBA lenders do consider the personal credit history of anyone owning 20% or more of the business. The first thing a bank will do when you apply for a loan is to obtain your personal credit report. If you have not already reviewed your personal credit report, you should do so. You can access your credit report for free by visiting www.annualcreditreport.com.

Be prepared to discuss with the bank any credit problems (e.g., late pays, collection accounts, judgments, and bankruptcies). If these derogatory items can be justified by extenuating circumstances, you may still have a chance to obtain a business loan.

What kind of collateral is required?

Repayment ability from the cash flow of the business, not collateral, is the primary consideration in the SBA loan decision. Good character, management capability, and owner's equity contribution are also important. All owners of twenty percent (20%) or more of the business are required to personally guarantee the full amount of the SBA loan. The SBA does not decline a loan solely due to lack of collateral; however, if collateral is available, and the borrower refuses to pledge it, the loan can be declined.

What are the terms and interest rates on an SBA loan?

SBA does not set the interest rate on SBA loans, only the maximum rate the bank may charge. Most SBA loans are variable rate loans, with a maximum interest rate of prime plus up to 1% to 6.5%, depending on the size and type of loan. The prime rate changes daily and is published in the Wall Street Journal. The actual rates and terms of loans are negotiated between the lender and the borrower. SBA also charges a guaranty fee to the lender, which is passed on to the borrower. The fee is based on the SBA-guaranteed amount of the loan (not the gross amount of the loan), and ranges from 0.25% to 3.5% for the largest loans. The guaranty fee may be financed as part of the SBA loan amount.

What is the benefit of the SBA guaranty?

SBA's loan program was designed to provide assistance to businesses that cannot obtain financing at reasonable rates and terms elsewhere. If a borrower can access credit with better terms, it usually means they have established credit or they have plenty of equity in real property.

How long do I have to repay the SBA loan?

Most SBA loans have a ten-year term. If the loan is for the purchase of commercial real estate where the business is located and operated from (minimum 51% occupancy by the business), the term can be up to 25 years. All SBA loans are fully amortizing, with no balloon payment. There is no prepayment penalty except for loans with a term of 15 years or more.

What if I am declined for an SBA loan by my bank?

Find out from the lender why the loan was declined. Try to overcome those reasons as best you can, and then reapply to a different SBA lender. Lenders are not all alike, and it is possible to find a lender willing to approve a loan application that may have been turned down by other lenders.

What are the benefits of the SBA-guaranteed loan?

The SBA guaranty reduces the lender's risk, and allows lenders to approve loans that they otherwise might not be willing to approve based on their internal lending standards. This allows many otherwise-qualified small businesses to obtain financing that would not be available without the SBA guaranty. In addition, the SBA guaranty provides for a longer loan term, generally up to ten years. Finally, all SBA-guaranteed loans are fully amortizing, with no balloon payment.

SBA Microloan Program

The SBA Microloan Program was developed to increase the availability of very small loans to prospective small business borrowers. Under this program, SBA makes funds available to nonprofit intermediaries (microlenders), who then make loans to eligible small business borrowers in amounts that range from under $500 to a maximum of $50,000. Applications are submitted directly to the microlenders (see following list).

Each microlender has its own loan approval requirements, but must take as collateral any assets bought with the microloan. In most cases, the personal guaranties of the business owners are also required.

Terms, Rates, andFeesUnder the Microloan Program, the maximum loan amount is $50,000. The averageis around $25,000. The maximum term is six years. However, loan terms varyaccording to the size of the loan, the planned use of funds, the requirements of themicrolender, and the needs of the small business borrower. Interest is at a fixed rateset by the microlender, currently in the range of 7.5 to 10.5%.

Use of Funds The loan proceeds can be used for:

- working capital,
- equipment,
- furniture and fixtures,
- inventory, and
- leasehold improvements.

504 Certified Development Company Loan Program

If you are buying real estate to house your business, or heavy equipment, you may qualify for a 504 Certified Development Company (CDC) loan ("504 loan") with as little as 10% down. This program provides growing businesses with long-term, fixed-rate financing for major fixed assets.

A 504 project includes a loan made by a private lender, usually for 50% of the project cost which is secured with a senior lien on the property. This loan is not guaranteed by SBA. In second lien position is a loan that is 100%-guaranteed by SBA in an amount not to exceed 40% of the project cost. The small business borrower is required to provide a minimum 10% borrower's injection.

The SBA 504 loan enables small businesses to benefit from a below-market, fixed interest rate for up to 20 years to finance long-term fixed assets.

Alternative Financing

Even if you are unable to secure conventional financing for your business from a lender, there are still several avenues open to you.

> Credit Cards One of the most common methods of financing a new business is utilizing credit cards. If you have even moderately good credit, they can be easy to obtain, and using them is easy and flexible. The downside is the interest rate is almost always higher than what you would pay for a conventional term loan or line of credit, possibly as high as 20 percent, and fees and penalties can be burdensome.

> > If you do decide to use credit cards, open a new card just for your business, and then keep your personal expenditures off that card. Doing so will make it possible for you to keep track of your business costs and will make possible refinancing of the debt easier and more likely in the future.

- Peer-to-Peer Lending These non-SBA programs are emerging as popular and useful options for funding a small business. Typically operating through the internet, they do away with participation of a traditional financial institution to allow borrowers to connect directly with individuals interested in lending money. Small amounts offered by numerous individuals can be pooled together as a loan offering to the small business.

Angel investors are individuals who provide capital usually in exchange for convertible debt or ownership equity. Some investors organize themselves into angel groups or networks.

Angel Investing, Equity investing is usually carried out by venture capital funds, and typically Venture Capital targets companies with the potential for rapid and substantial growth, often in technology-based businesses. Venture capital investments are generally made as cash in exchange for shares in the invested company. Venture capitalists seek a high rate of return on their investment. To obtain venture capital, the small business owner must be willing to give up some ownership and control of their business.

	The center contains both a training room and a resource center. The training program assists small businesses by providing classes which cover a spectrum of interests and needs, including technology, marketing, accounting, financing and start-up information. The resource center provides materials on a wide variety of topics, such as marketing and financial resources, with a strong emphasis on creating business plans. Free one-on-one counseling from SCORE is also available in the center.
	View the San Francisco SBA District Office online calendar at: sba.gov/events and enter Zip Code 94105. Register and view events at: http://sbatrainings.eventbrite.com
	All SBA programs are extended to the public on a nondiscriminatory basis. Reasonable arrangements for persons with disabilities will be made, if requested at least 2 weeks in advance: call 415-744-6820.
SCORE	SCORE, a small business counseling program sponsored by SBA, is composed of active and retired business executives who volunteer their time to counsel and advise small business owners on the many aspects of starting and managing their businesses. Avoid some of the pitfalls and bumps in the road by learning from their experience. Confidential, one-on-one counseling both face-to-face and online is always free. SCORE also conducts workshops, for which there may be a nominal fee to cover costs.
	As members of your community, SCORE mentors understand local business licensing rules, economic conditions and important networks.

Considerations in Operating a Home-Based Business

Many entrepreneurs consider basing their businesses in their homes for a number of reasons: it keeps overhead low; they are able to combine running a business with the need to care for other family members, and have flexibility in terms of work hours, etc. As a result, a growing number of businesses today are home-based.

Not everyone, however, is suited for working in their living environment. Many home-based business owners have cited isolation as being a major problem; others point to a lack of the necessary self-discipline.

Consider these points when establishing your business in your home:

- You must be self-disciplined. You cannot be distracted from your business by the demands of family, visiting neighbors, etc. You must be able to set limits and plan your time.
- You should treat your business as though you're operating in a commercial space. This means establishing and maintaining set hours and an environment of professionalism. Dedicate space that is used for your business and absolutely nothing else.
- Create a supportive business environment. You will need to have the furnishings and technological support of a commercial office, including a desk, chair, computer, inventory, etc.
- Verify that it is legal to operate out of your home. Contact the city or county where you reside to obtain a copy of your zoning ordinance. If you live in a condominium, check with your condo association, as some prohibit the operation of a home-based business.
- Establish a solid structure for your business. Choose the correct legal form for your business. Many home-based businesses are sole proprietorships, but make sure that you choose the appropriate form for your business. Set up an effective record-keeping system, and ensure that you are in compliance tax requirements. Make sure the business use of your home is compatible with your existing homeowner's policy; you might need a commercial policy for full protection.
- Maintain a good relationship with your neighbors. Avoid complaints that may arise from the traffic caused by clients visiting you or by delivery trucks.

Build a supportive network among family members. It is important that your family understand and support you in your business, because a home-based business will more often than not create some disruption to their lifestyle and privacy.

Business Organizations

There are many business organizations that can benefit you throughout the life of your business by offering information on:

- New equipment and technology related to your business.
- Seminars, conferences, and trade fairs for your industry.
- How to allocate resources within your business.
- Effective marketing and advertising strategies.

Business and Trade	Business and trade organizations are an invaluable source of information and Organizations	assistance. There are thousands of associations covering virtually every industry, so the chances are good that you will find one that fits your type of business. Check with your local reference library-another good advisor-for assistance or research online with your preferred search engine to find these.
	Many associations have regional and sometimes local chapters. Most have newsletters for their members. At the very least, subscribe to the newsletters.
	This is one of the best sources for obtaining information directly related to your business.

Networking Groups Networking groups and organizations come in various types, but most help you avoid the isolation we discussed earlier, and they provide timely information and answers to your questions. They may even provide valuable contacts and new customers. The more you participate, the more beneficial the relationship. Meetings of business groups and networking organizations are usually listed on social media platforms, online on meetup websites, in local newspapers, and in local event calendars.

Chambers ofCommerceChambers of Commerce provide information on local activities and trends inyour area that impact your business, business education programs, andopportunities for you to network with other local entrepreneurs. Chambers arealso good sources of information about upcoming business activities inyour community. Often there is a fee to become a member of a local chamber.
