Mr. NORRIS. My colleague [Mr. HOWELL] is necessarily detained from the Senate by reason of illness.

Mr. FESS. I wish to announce the necessary absence of Mr. SHIPSTEAD by reason of illness.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Ninety Senators have answered to their names. A quorum is present.

Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that at the conclusion of the memorial ceremonies in memory of the late Senator Walsh, of Montana, the Senate take a recess for 15 minutes.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

FUNERAL OF SENATOR THOMAS J. WALSH, OF MONTANA

The casket containing the body of the dead Senator had previously been brought into the Senate Chamber and placed in the area in front of the Secretary's desk.

The Members-elect of the House of Representatives entered the Senate Chamber. They were soon followed by the Ambassadors of and Ministers from foreign countries; the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, escorted by the marshal, clerk, and reporter for the Court; by the Chief of Staff of the Army; the Chief of Naval Operations of the Navy; the Major General Commandant of the Marine Corps; and the Commandant of the Coast Guard.

The committee of arrangements, consisting of the following Senators, Mr. WHEELER, Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas, Mr. McNARY, Mr. ASHURST, Mr. BORAH, Mr. PITTMAN, Mr. KENDRICK, Mr. SCHALL, Mr. KING, Mr. CAREY, Mr. DILL, and Mr. WALSH, entered the Chamber and occupied the seats assigned them fronting the area on the east side of the aisle.

At 10 o'clock and 5 minutes a.m., the President of the United States, accompanied by his Cabinet, entered the Chamber and took the seats reserved for them fronting the area on the west side of the aisle.

The family of the deceased Senator were escorted into the Senate Chamber and took the seats reserved for them at the left of the casket.

His Excellency Most Reverend Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, accompanied by his chaplains, Monsignor Cornelius F. Thomas, rector of St. Patrick's Church, Washington, and Monsignor James H. Ryan, rector of the Catholic University of America, preceded by the Chaplain of the Senate, Rev. Z^cBarney T. Phillips, D.D., and the cross-bearer and two acolytes, and by Right Reverend John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore; Monsignor David T. O'Dwyer, of the Catholic University of America; Monsignor James J. O'Brien, of Albany, N.Y.; Monsignor Edward L. Buckey, rector of St. Matthew's Church, Washington; Very Reverend W. Coleman Nevils, S.J., president of Georgetown University; Very Reverend John T. Fenlon, president of St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Md.; and Reverend Fathers Joseph M. Nelligan and William J. Sweeny, of St. Gabriel's Church, Washington.

The VICE PRESIDENT. The Chaplain of the Senate will now take charge of the exercises.

The CHAPLAIN (Rev. Z^cBarney T. Phillips). The services will be conducted by His Excellency Most Reverend Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore.

Archbishop CURLEY. In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Come to his assistance, ye saints of God. Meet him, ye angels of the Lord. Receive his soul and present it to the Most High.

Response by the attending clergy: May Christ, who called thee, receive thee; and may the angels lead thee into the bosom of Abraham.

Archbishop CURLEY. Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord.

Response: And let perpetual light shine upon him.

The male choir of St. Matthews Church, of Washington, D.C., sang the hymn, Lead Kindly Light.

Archbishop Curley recited the following prayer:

Enter not into judgment with Thy servant, O Lord; for in Thy sight shall no man be justified, unless through Thee he find pardon for all his sins. Let not, therefore, we beseech Thee, the hand of Thy justice be heavy upon him whom the earnest prayer of Christian faith commendeth unto Thee, but by the help of Thy grace may he escape the judgment of vengeance who, whilst he was living, was marked with the sign of the Holy Trinity: Who livest and reignest world without end.

Response: Amen.

Archbishop CURLEY. Deliver me, O Lord, from everlasting death on that dread day when the heavens and the earth shall be moved and Thou shalt come to judge the world by fire.

Response: I am struck with fear and trembling at the thought of judgment and the wrath to come, when the heavens and the earth shall be moved, and Thou shalt come to judge the world by fire.

Archbishop CURLEY. That day is the day of wrath, of wasting and misery, a dreadful day, and exceedingly bitter, when Thou shalt come to judge the world by fire.

Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord.

Response: And let perpetual light shine upon him.

Archbishop CURLEY. Lord, have mercy on us; Christ, have mercy on us; Lord, have mercy on us.

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us.

(The Archbishop sprinkled the corpse with holy water.)

Archbishop CURLEY. And lead us not into temptation.

Response: But deliver us from evil.

Archbishop CURLEY. From the gate of hell.

Response: Deliver his soul, O Lord!

Archbishop CURLEY. May he rest in peace.

Response: Amen.

Archbishop CURLEY. O Lord, hear my prayer.

Response: And let my cry come unto Thee.

Archbishop CURLEY. The Lord be with you.

Response: And with thy spirit.

Archbishop CURLEY. Let us pray.

O God, to whom belongeth always to show mercy and to spare, we humbly beseech Thee for the soul of Thy servant, Thomas, whom Thou hast called out of this world, that Thou deliver him not into the hands of the enemy nor forget him forever; but command that he be received by Thy holy angels and taken to paradise, his true country, and that as he hath believed and hoped in Thee, he may not suffer the pains of hell but have joy everlasting. Through the same Christ our Lord.

Response: Amen.

Archbishop Curley delivered the following sermon:

Dear friends in Christ, we pass from the centuries-old sacred prayers for our beloved dead to just a few short words of appreciation, on my part, of one whom I knew intimately and whom I loved. I shall preface my very brief remarks with a quotation from that most marvelous character in all Christianity, the Apostle of the Gentiles, written to his friend Timothy, in his second epistle, where he uses the following words:

I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.

As to the rest, there is laid up for me a crown of justice, which the Lord the just Judge will render to me in that day.—II Tim. iv : 7, 8.

Dear friends in Christ, the Apostle of the Gentiles was nearing life's sunset. Frankly and honestly, as one voicing an objective truth, he declares as the basis of his hope that he had fought the good fight and had kept the faith. We are assembled here to pay our last meed of respect to all that is mortal of one who in his own humble way might have repeated the Pauline words.

It is not customary for us to eulogize our beloved dead. If they lived their lives on the high plane indicated by their faith; if they made the teachings of their Divine Master the lamp to guide their way; if they exemplified in their living their staunch adherence to the fundamental rule—thou shalt love the Lord Thy God—thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself—then they need no eulogy. They have written their own in the golden book of deeds well done. They have handed on to posterity its richest inheritance not purchasable by any monetary consideration—good example that is better than precept.

If they have not lived as they should have; if their lives belied their faith; if there was lack of equation between their principles and practices, then they deserve no eulogy regardless of high position, place, or power.

The beloved Senator from Montana deserves a eulogy, but he needs none. He loved and served his God. He loved and served his fellow man.

He practiced his faith quietly, unobtrusively, without show or demonstration. He knelt with his fellow adorers, rich and poor, on Sundays in one of the churches of this city, and there remained during the offering up of the august sacrifice of the Mass in sweet communion with his God. Frequently during the year he approached in all humility the altar railing to refresh his soul with the "bread of angels." National fame did not spoil him. Pride did not grip him. Humility, grounded in self-knowledge, saved him from the ruin wrought in the heart and character of man by foolish egotism. He was not a Catholic in name only. He was, thank God, in the fullest sense of the word a practical Catholic. He lived his religion.

He served his country. The Nation knows it and to-day gives ample recognition of that fact as it honors his memory in a way in which the memory of few men is honored. This service of country was no mere superficial sentiment with the dead Senator from Montana. It was a duty deep-rooted and sacred, binding him in conscience and before God. His first loyalty was to his God, and after God came his country, this country, your country, and my country—this mighty Republic of the West. He was American to the core. His patriotism was as profound and as actuating as his religion, and it was so precisely because he was loyal to his God. If a man is not loyal to his God, he can scarcely be expected to be loyal to his country. With the man whom we loved and knew familiarly as "TOM WALSH of Montana," there was no antagonism between his faith and his loyalty to his great Nation's Government and institutions.

His colleagues in the United States Senate may not have been able at all times to see eye to eye with him on questions of national policy, but there is not a man of them who will not agree with me when I say that they respected his views as those of an honest, fearless American who had at all times the best interests of the people at heart. He had convictions and he had the courage of them. He loved justice. He hated iniquity. He did his duty as he saw it, and he did it conscientiously and courageously, even though its doing gave him pain at times. And I am in a position to say that I know he suffered keen anguish on one memorable occasion when imperious duty bade him go forward in its performance. The record of this august senatorial body—in fact, the story of our Nation's great—will carry the name of Senator WALSH of Montana as that of a man who ranked amongst the most loyal, most deserving, most unselfish servants of the people. His sudden passing has been heralded throughout the world. It has caused sorrow in the humblest as well as in the highest homes of these United States.

The Chief Executive of this Nation, whom God preserve, had selected him as a member of his official family, to be head of an important department of Government. That selection was applauded by men of every political and religious faith. And now the Nation in its hour of need will miss the honest, straightforward advice of the incomparable WALSH of Montana. His name had all but become a synonym for justice.

To his friends everywhere, proud of the man in their sorrow for his demise, our sympathy.

To his own loved ones what can we say in this moment of crushing grief? Mere human words are weak and inadequate.

But there are inspired words, and they come down to us through the centuries laden with consolation and cheer:

And we will not have you ignorant, brethren, concerning them that are asleep, that you be not sorrowful, even as others who have no hope.

For if we believe that Jesus died, and rose again; even so them who have slept through Jesus, will God bring with him.

Wherefore, comfort yet one another with these words.—I Thess. iv.

You have the prayerful condolence of a saddened Nation today. And now, beloved friends, may I be permitted to express the hope and prayer that the God of Nations will raise up for the good and guidance of our country in these distressful days men of the fine mold of this great son of Montana, men who will forget self and dedicate themselves whole-heartedly to the service of their Nation, men who will not count the cost but to give of their best to the work of keeping this Republic true to the spirit of its fathers.

What we lack and sorely need,
For want of which we bleed and bleed,
Is men of a more Godly breed—
Honest men in highest places;
Men with single aims and faces;
Men whose nobler thought outpaces
Thought of self, or power, or pelf;
Men whose axes need no grinding;
Men who are not always minding
First their own concerns, and blinding
Their soul's eyes to larger things;
Men of wide and Godly vision;
Men of quick and wise decision;
Men who shrink not at derision;
Men whose souls have wings.
Oh, for one such man among us—
One among the mobs that throng us,
And for self-advancement wrong us!
Him we would acclaim—
Hold in highest estimation,
Reverence with consecration
As the savior of the Nation,
Dower him with fame.
Lord, now raise us such a man—
Patriot, not partisan,
And complete Thy mighty plan!

And now farewell to the fearless friend of justice and of truth. We shall follow him on the wings of prayer out beyond the tomb. May light perpetual suffuse his soul, and may rest eternal be his. Amen.

The choir sang the hymn Requiem Aeternam.

Archbishop CURLEY. May the angels lead thee into paradise; may the martyrs receive thee at thy coming, and take thee to Jerusalem, the Holy City. May the choirs of the angels receive thee, and mayest thou have rest everlasting with Lazarus, once a beggar.

We shall close these services with a blessing.

And may the blessing of Almighty God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, descend upon you today and remain with you forever.

Response: Amen.

The President of the United States and his Cabinet, the family of the deceased Senator, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, the members of the Diplomatic Corps, the Members-elect of the House of Representatives, the Chief of Staff of the Army, the Chief of Naval Operations of the Navy, the Major General Commandant of the Marine Corps, the Commandant of the Coast Guard, Archbishop Curley, Bishop McNamara, and the attending clergy retired from the Chamber.

The casket containing the body of the deceased Senator, preceded by the Chaplain of the Senate, was carried from the Chamber and taken to the Union Station to be borne to Helena, Mont., for interment.

The VICE PRESIDENT (at 10 o'clock and 40 minutes a.m.). In pursuance to the order heretofore made, the Senate will stand in recess for 15 minutes.

On the expiration of the recess (at 10 o'clock and 55 minutes a.m.) the Senate reassembled.

CALL OF THE ROLL

Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The VICE PRESIDENT. The clerk will call the roll.

The Chief Clerk called the roll, and the following Senators answered to their names:

Adams	Capper	Glass	Lonergan
Ashurst	Caraway	Goldsborough	Long
Austin	Carey	Gore	McAdoo
Bachman	Clark	Hale	McCarran
Bailey	Coolidge	Harrison	McGill

Reynolds	Smith	Trammell	Walsh
Robinson, Ark.	Steiner	Tydings	Wheeler
Robinson, Ind.	Stephens	Vandenberg	White
Russell	Thomas, Okla.	Van Nuys
Schall	Thomas, Utah	Wagner

Mr. SHEPPARD. My colleague the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. CONNALLY] is unavoidably detained because of illness. This announcement may stand for the day.

Mr. NORRIS. I desire to announce the necessary absence of my colleague [Mr. HOWELL] because of illness.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Ninety Senators have answered to their names. A quorum is present.

MESSAGES FROM THE PRESIDENT

Messages in writing from the President of the United States were communicated to the Senate by Mr. Latta, one of his secretaries.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT (S.DOC. NO. 1)

Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas. I send to the desk an order which I ask to have read.

The VICE PRESIDENT. The order will be read.

The order was read and agreed to, as follows:

Ordered, That the inaugural address of the President of the United States be printed as a Senate document.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business in open session.

The VICE PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Arkansas.

The motion was agreed to.

The VICE PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following nominations:

William Phillips, of Massachusetts, to be Under Secretary of State.

Wilbur J. Carr, of New York, to be an Assistant Secretary of State.

Raymond Moley, of Ohio, to be an Assistant Secretary of State.

Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas. I ask that for the present the nominations lie on the table.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The VICE PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following nominations, which were read by the Chief Clerk:

William F. Stevenson, of South Carolina, to be a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for the unexpired portion of the term of 6 years from July 22, 1932.

T. D. Webb, of Tennessee, to be a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for the unexpired portion of the term of 5 years from July 22, 1932.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of New York, to be a member of the Federal Farm Board for the unexpired portion of the term of 5 years from June 15, 1929.

Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas. Mr. President, I am advised that it is essential for the Senate to dispose as promptly as may be of the nominations that have just been read by the clerk, for the reason that the condition of the public business in the departments affected requires prompt action.

With respect to the members of the Federal Home-Loan Bank Board nominated, that Board is not in a position to function until other members are appointed and confirmed.

With respect to the appointments in the State Department, the vacancies exist, and it is essential that these officers be installed and begin their duties.

The other nomination, that pertaining to the Federal Farm Board, is not so emergent; but if we can dispose of these nominations today the Senate will be in a position, immediately following its action, to take an adjournment sine die.

We all understand that the Congress is being convened in extraordinary session next Thursday, and it would be convenient to most Senators with whom I have talked to have a day or two in order to adjust some public business and some private affairs that have long been deferred.

For these reasons, Mr. President, I am going to request unanimous consent for the present consideration of these nominations.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. McNARY. Mr. President, the request is a rather unusual one, but I confess that these times are unusual.

I conferred a few moments ago with the able Senator from Arkansas and with some other Senators, and I realize that there is some advantage in adjourning sine die until the next session, which will convene on Thursday. I think in this course there is some advantage to the country. I know it will be some accommodation to the Members of the Senate.

So far as I know, the nominees are all acceptable. At least, that is the report that has come to me from those who know these gentlemen. I am not going to object; but I wish to say to the Senator from Arkansas and other Democratic Senators that hereafter all nominations must go to the respective committees having jurisdiction of the appointments.

In view of the present situation throughout the country, however, and in order to show a desire to cooperate and enable this session to adjourn, for my part I shall not object.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the nominations? The Chair hears none.

The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the nominations? [Putting the question.] The ayes have it, and the nominations are confirmed.

Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas. I ask that the President be notified of the action of the Senate.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Without objection, the President will be notified accordingly.

ADJOURNMENT SINE DIE

Mr. ROBINSON of Arkansas. I move that the Senate adjourn sine die.

The VICE PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Arkansas.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 11 o'clock and 8 minutes a.m.) the Senate adjourned sine die.
