

NOTIFICATION TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

Mr. JOHNSON of Texas submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 204), which was read, considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee consisting of two Senators be appointed by the Vice President to join such committee as may be appointed by the House of Representatives to wait upon the President of the United States and inform him that a quorum of each House is assembled and that the Congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make.

The VICE PRESIDENT. The Chair appoints the Senator from Texas [Mr. JOHNSON] and the Senator from Illinois [Mr. DIRKSEN] as the members of the committee on the part of the Senate.

NOTIFICATION TO THE HOUSE

Mr. DIRKSEN submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 205), which was read, considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary inform the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate is assembled and that the Senate is ready to proceed to business.

HOOR OF DAILY MEETING

Mr. MANSFIELD submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 206), which was read, considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the hour of daily meeting of the Senate be 12 o'clock meridian unless otherwise ordered.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

Mr. JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. President, I should like to inform the Senate that the Senate will meet tomorrow and proceed to the other body to hear the President's state of the Union message.

Following the completion of the delivery of that message, the Senate will return to its Chamber and have the regular morning hour for the introduction of bills and the presentation of memorials and petitions, and for such statements as Senators may care to make.

The minority caucus will be held this afternoon.

I have reviewed with the minority leader the several bills which are now on the calendar, some of which have already been cleared for consideration by the policy committee. As to other bills, the policy committee will meet at an early date and act upon them.

We shall have a very heavy workload this session, and if we are to complete our labors by July, when the first national party convention is to be held, it will be necessary, I think, for the committees to meet earlier than usual and to remain in session later than usual, and for the Senate to stay in session in the evenings during some of the period of February, March, and April, which it is not the custom of the Senate to do.

I appeal to each Member of the Senate to cooperate in arranging the schedule so that we can act upon all the proposed legislation which needs to be considered with proper deliberation and dispatch.

Generally speaking, we will consider the bills which are on the calendar in the order in which they appear on the calendar. There will be many exceptions to that in cases of emergency, but that will be the general rule.

Following the meetings of the caucuses and of the policy committee I shall make a detailed statement to the Senate about the kind of proposed legislation it is expected the Senate will have before it next week.

Mr. DIRKSEN. Mr. President, will the distinguished majority leader yield?

Mr. JOHNSON of Texas. I yield to my friend from Illinois.

Mr. DIRKSEN. Mr. President, I simply desire to inform the minority Members that the conference of Republican Senators is set for 2:30 this afternoon, in the usual conference room.

Mr. JOHNSON of Texas. And I should like the majority Members to be reminded that we shall have our caucus at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. President—

The VICE PRESIDENT. The Senator from Texas.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. President, pursuant to the resolution previously agreed to, as a further mark of respect to the memory of the late Senator LANGER, I move that the Senate stand in adjournment until tomorrow.

The motion was unanimously agreed to; and (at 12 o'clock and 24 minutes p.m.) the Senate, as a further mark of respect to the late Senator LANGER, adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, January 7, 1960, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6, 1960

This being the day fixed by Public Law No. 305, 86th Congress, enacted pursuant to the 20th amendment to the Constitution, for the meeting of the 2d session of the 86th Congress, the Members of the House of Representatives of the 86th Congress met in their Hall, and at 12 o'clock noon were called to order by the Speaker, Hon. SAM RAYBURN, a Representative from the State of Texas.

The Chaplain, Rev. Bernard Braskamp, D.D., offered the following prayer:

Psalm 124: 8: Our help is in the name of the Lord.

O Thou who hast opened unto us the gateway to a new year, we are earnestly seeking Thy divine guidance and strength as we enter upon this 2d session of the 86th Congress.

We beseech Thee to lay Thy hands of blessing and benediction upon our President, our Speaker, the Members of this legislative body, and all who are serving our beloved country in whatever capacity.

May our minds and hearts be the sanctuaries of Thy presence and the channels of Thy power.

Grant that when difficult problems and decisions throw all their weight against us we may lean hard upon Thee for help and learn the secret of victorious living.

Hear us as we bow in adoration and unite in offering unto Thee the prayer of the Prince of Peace, our Lord and Saviour.

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever.

Amen.

SEMIANNUAL REPORT, MUTUAL SE-CURITY PROGRAM—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES (H. DOC. NO.
231)

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States, which was read and, together with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs and ordered to be printed:

To the Congress of the United States:

Transmitted herewith is the 15th semiannual report on the operations of the mutual security program for the period ending December 31, 1958. The report was prepared by the Coordinator of mutual security program, with participation by the Department of State (including the International Cooperation Administration), the Department of Defense, and the Development Loan Fund.

The essence of our experience during the 7½ years of the program on which reports have been transmitted to the Congress, is that the mutual security system is vital to our national security. If we do not persist in the continuous and vigorous application of military, economic, and technical programs making up the mutual security system, our foreign policy will be rendered ineffective. This ultimately cannot fail to have the most serious consequences for every living American.

If we fail to win the contest in which we are now engaged, the potential destruction of our way of life becomes, by the degree of our failure, more and more a dangerous reality. It behooves us all to keep this peril fresh in our minds.

I trust that this report will provide a yardstick to evaluate the measures we and other members of the great community of nations are taking in the mutual security program to defend our freedoms.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: At the time of your gracious appointment of me as a Delegate to the NATO Interparliamentary Conference, I was not aware that the same would be held at a time when it would be impossible for me to attend because of other responsibilities undertaken for the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

With deep appreciation of the honor conferred by the appointment and even deeper regret that circumstances beyond my control prevent my attendance, I am,

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that on Thursday, January 7, 1960, it may be in order at any time for the Speaker to declare a recess, subject to the call of the Chair.

HON. SAM RAYBURN

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, the American experiment in government from its inception to the present time is the most original and unique in history. From an infant nation our country has steadily progressed until today it is the most powerful and influential nation in the world, and particularly dedicated to peace on earth.

In the making of our history names of great men and women in all walks of life stand out with prominence. In the field of government, legislative, executive, and judicial, great figures are recorded in our history. It is hard to distinguish in the lifetime of any man what his place in history will be. The emotions of living generations preclude the human mind interpreting correctly beyond that one lifetime what place a man will hold in history. That usually lies with the historians of tomorrow. But in our time there is one man we can pick out who stands out in our minds and in the minds of the people as a man of history, particularly on the constructive side of life and the constructive side of history. His birthday anniversary is celebrated today.

I refer to that great American, not only a son of Texas but a citizen of and respected and loved throughout the United States, a man with a heart of gold, our beloved Speaker, SAM RAYBURN. Our country has been enriched by the services of SAM RAYBURN. You and I and all others who have had the honor of knowing him either as friends or through association with him are better persons because of our friendship and our association with our beloved Speaker. I know, too, that I express the sentiment of all our colleagues and of the American people, whether they know the Speaker personally or not, particularly the people of his own congressional district who have honored him for so many years, when I say that in extending to him our congratulations we sincerely hope that God in His infinite wisdom will continue to bestow upon SAM RAYBURN for many, many years to come an abundance of His choicest blessings, and that he will still be presiding over the House of Representatives. And, in order to make it complete, that he will still be a Member of the House of Representatives.

The following shows the record of Mr. Speaker RAYBURN, of Texas, as Speaker of the House of Representatives as compared to the service of Speaker Henry Clay, of Kentucky:

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I now yield to my distinguished friend, the gentleman from Indiana, the Republican leader of the House.

Mr. HALLECK. Mr. Speaker, I should like to say at the outset that the ovation tendered to Speaker RAYBURN when he first called the House to order today is clear evidence of the deep affection we all have for him. And so happy am I to join my colleagues on this occasion—this is not bipartisan—it is not nonpartisan; it is just a genuine expression of gratitude and admiration for our great Speaker RAYBURN. I must say that while I heartily put my stamp of approval on just about everything the majority leader has said about our Speaker, I cannot quite go along with his statement that he just be Speaker of the House forever.

But, having said that, may I simply say again that it has been a great pleasure to work with SAM RAYBURN. I have now been here approximately 25 years—not as long as some—but through that time we have all witnessed his very faithful devotion to his duties as Speaker of the House of Representatives. I have felt the warmth of his personal friendship. Believe me, I appreciate it as I am sure everyone here does.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, the responsibilities and duties of the Speaker of the House of Representatives are appreciated by all of us, but they can be most effectively appreciated by one who has been Speaker of this House. To me, the Presiding Officer of the House of Representatives is one of the great figures of America—no matter what party he is a member of. Every Speaker I have served under has performed his trust in carrying out the rules of the House with fairness and without regard to party or partisan considerations, deciding the questions that arise under parliamentary law in accordance with that law and in accordance with the rules of the House and protecting the rights of all Members. We all pay our respects to our distinguished friend and former Speaker of the House, the gentleman from Massachusetts, my dear friend, JOE MARTIN, as a great Speaker who has presided with eminent fairness and justice to all Members.

I now yield to the distinguished former Speaker of the House.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, and my colleagues, it is a great privilege to have the opportunity, even for a few moments, to pay my respects to a dear friend, an old friend and a Member whose friendship has lasted over 35 years without a jarring note. It has been my privilege to know SAM RAYBURN all these years, and I can testify, as few men can testify, to his rugged Americanism, his loyalty to country and his intense desire above everything else to maintain the high honor and the integrity of the House of Representatives. There have been many times when other branches of the Government have tried to encroach upon the prerogatives of the House of Representatives, but as long as we have had SAM RAYBURN in the Speaker's chair, we know that the rights of the House have been ably and adequately defended, and that never while he is Speaker will the rights and integrity of the House of Representatives be sacrificed.

As my good friend, the majority leader, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. McCORMACK], has well said, Mr. RAYBURN has been a Member longer than anyone else.

All these have been very eventful years. They have been years of great trial; years which, if we did not have men like SAM RAYBURN at the helm, America would not be the forward going, progressive country that it is today. I thank God that we have had SAM RAYBURN as Speaker. His services for his country will never be forgotten.

I want to pay particular tribute to his great service in behalf of constitutional government, a government of laws and not of men. May I wish SAM many happy returns of the day. May he have a pleasant birthday and may the years hereafter bring him the very best of health and may they bring increased opportunity to serve not only his country but all of humanity.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the distinguished gentleman from Texas [Mr. ROGERS].

Mr. ROGERS of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today on behalf of the Texas delegation to say "happy birthday" to you and to pay you the deserved tribute to which a great man is entitled. It was my distinction, and one, let me say, of which I am justly proud, to have had you as my Representative in Congress, during the early years of my life. For many years you represented my family, and most recently my mother, who passed away a few years ago. I do not think anyone in any district in this United States of America was more proud of you than my family. I know the same would have been true with every other Member of the Texas delegation who is in Congress today or who has served in the past, or, I may say, who may come in the future. Texas is proud of you, and justly so. You have proven that man can live by law, if those laws are based on fairness, justice, and equity. You have been the exemplification of decency and fair dealing. I think that the history books will record your great contributions in this respect as the outstanding contributions in this era, on achievements that will challenge future generations.

The greatness of most men is measured by plaques, awards, and other material presentations. I am sure you have plenty of those. I know of many. But I think the truest measure of greatness is the respect and devotion which one man bears for another. In your case, a respect and devotion indelibly imprinted in the minds of those men and women who have had the good fortune to know you and have had an opportunity to serve with you. There is no one who knows you or who has ever been associated with you who does not know that when you say you will do something, it will be done.

I do not think any greater tribute can be paid to any man.

As a great American, a great statesman and a great Texan, the Texas delegation is deeply honored to have you as our leader. We wish you a happy birthday, and we are going to look forward to repeating this ceremony for many years to come.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. CANNON].

Mr. CANNON. Mr. Speaker, one of the many emoluments which accrue to us as Members of this body is the association with men from all sections of the Nation—men who have been carefully selected and screened by the inexorable processes of political preferment and who come to us here as representatives of the industry, the geographical area, and the people for whom they speak. Here are developed friendships and associations and influences which remain with us through life.

The friendship of men like Speaker RAYBURN has touched and enriched the service of every man who has served with him. And, in turn, he has, without exception, been the friend of every man who has served with him in the Congress.

It has been my good fortune to be associated with him here longer than any other Member of this House. I was present and saw him sworn in as a Member of Congress for the first time. And have seen him sworn in, or been sworn in by him, in every succeeding Congress.

I have seen 10 Speakers in that chair. All of them men exceptionally qualified for the duties of that high office. And of all of the 10 Speakers with whom it has been my privilege to be personally associated, and with the long line of illustrious men who preceded him and whose decisions it has been my privilege to read, there is none who, in my opinion, ranks higher not only in the discharge of the technical duties of his office, but certainly in those greater attributes of heart and mind which have distinguished all of them than the great Speaker who presides here today and who has occupied that position longer than any other man in American history.

Mr. Speaker, I do not speak of SAM RAYBURN as a partisan or even as a member of any one party, because it necessarily follows that as Speaker of the House he is the titular leader of our branch of the Government. He speaks for America. The term of his extended speakership covers one of the most critical periods in world history. He has had to deal with many exacting problems, because the Government during that period has been confronted with some of the most difficult problems in the short history of the Nation. In these critical situations he has represented not only his own party to which he has been always loyal, but all Members of the House and every American citizen. And his record through these trying times has been one of which every Member of the House can be justly proud.

We wish for him many happy returns of the day. And we wish for him and the country many more years of devoted service as Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the minority whip, the distinguished gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ARENDS].

Mr. ARENDS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Massachusetts for yielding to me. Might I say those of us who do not happen to live in Texas or who have not been there over a period of years take with a grain of salt, probably, some of the tall stories that have been told of Texas and Texans; but let me say that to hear and see the demonstration that today has been accorded to our beloved Speaker leaves no doubt in the mind of anyone that Texas has raised an outstanding No. 1 statesman in the person by the name of SAM RAYBURN. I believe all of us, whether we come from Texas or not, can agree that in the person of the great Speaker SAM RAYBURN, Texas has sent us her greatest man.

Let me say before proceeding further that I can best express myself by simply saying "Amen" to what has been said, to the many fine tributes already paid to you today on your anniversary, and I hope the years ahead will, as they have in the past, fall lightly on your shoulders.

This was very forcefully brought home to me when I attended a celebration in my district not long ago for a man who was 100 years old. There was another elderly man sitting at the table behind me. I turned and asked him how old he was. He said he was 90. I asked him if he was enjoying the evening. He said, "Yes, but things are dragging out too long here; I am worried about this old gentleman who is 100 years old." Here we have the example of relativity, for a man 90 was worrying not for himself but about the man who was 100 years old.

It is my personal wish that you may be spared for many, many years of continued useful service, and that you will preside here whenever your party is in power, but aside from politics, as an expression of friendship, speaking for myself, and I am sure for all other Members of this body, we wish you many years of happiness and health, and express our great appreciation of the services you have rendered your State and your country.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I now yield to the distinguished gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. BOGGS].

Mr. BOGGS. Mr. Speaker, on previous occasions of your birthday I have recited to the House the long legislative history of yourself. We have now run out of comparisons. You have exceeded the record of any man who ever served in the House of Representatives. Therefore, the only comparisons now that can be made are with distinguished British parliamentarians, such as Gladstone, Balfour, and Churchill.

But today, for just one moment, rather than delve into history—because you, Mr. Speaker, are already a part of history—I should like to tell the Members that a week ago I had the great privilege of traveling to Mr. RAYBURN's home district and participating there in a testimonial luncheon accorded him by his constituents. This was a very heartwarming demonstration by the people that Speaker RAYBURN has so well represented for a half century. The testimonial was sponsored by the civic clubs of Sherman, Tex.; and despite the fact that they had the largest place in the city of Sherman, namely, the auditorium, it was impossible for a great many people to obtain seats. As a matter of fact, some of my distinguished colleagues from Texas gave their seats to people I brought from my State of Louisiana.

I think the real tribute was in the fact that the people the Speaker has served for 50 years were willing to turn out and give him this magnificent testimonial. I think all of the people there thought, as I did, as these beautiful speeches were made, that despite the fact this great man has had to make decisions affecting all of mankind in two great wars and under many Presidents, both Democratic and Republican, he has never been too busy to serve the people who have honored him by electing him so many times to high public office.

It was my privilege then, and it is my privilege today, to join with them in saying "Happy birthday to you."

I think a significant thing appeared in a news article in his hometown paper, to the effect that when the heat of debate was over and the session was ended the Speaker never went on a trip. He always went back home.

Happy birthday to you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, as the concluding speaker I shall recognize in the performance of my duties as majority leader, I yield to my real right arm, the distinguished Democratic whip, my very dear friend, the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. ALBERT].

Mr. ALBERT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to join all Members of the House today in paying tribute to our great Speaker, a giant of a man whose stature grows with each passing year. I refer to his stature as a statesman and not to his physical stature, because as he stated at his press conference this morning he weighs exactly the same today as he did 40 years ago, and that with his winter clothes on.

Along with the distinguished gentleman from Louisiana, and many other Members of the House and Senate, it was my privilege last week to go to Sherman, Tex., when a tremendous tribute was paid the Speaker by the citizens of that community and of his congressional district. A number of my constituents were also present for the occasion.

I was happy to read in one of the newspapers from my district only this morning an editorial by Ennis M. DeWeese of Hugo, Okla., in the Southeast Oklahoman of December 31, 1959, which I think expresses the attitude of the people of my State.

This editorial is as follows:

What was said in praise of SAM RAYBURN at the appreciation banquet for the veteran Speaker of the House at Sherman, Tex., Wednesday night was well deserved.

SAM RAYBURN is a big man because he has brains—plain old horse sense to an unusual degree—and he has never lost the common touch.

Mr. SAM, to use a homely expression, "knows the human critter and understands what makes him tick." He's the sort of realist for whom the need is ever present.

He certainly deserves to be rated among the greatest men in the legislative branch of Government since the Federal Union was formed.

Mr. Speaker, the distinguished gentleman from Louisiana has referred to an article appearing in the Sherman Democrat of December 29, which contains a splendid portrait of the Speaker, and with leave of the distinguished gentleman, I shall include this as a part of my remarks.

It is as follows:

SAM RAYBURN: A LEGEND IN HIS OWN LIFETIME

WASHINGTON.—SAM RAYBURN of Flag Springs, Fannin County, Tex., and more recently of Bonham, belongs to a rare category of human beings—

He has become a legend in his own lifetime.

For a whole generation national writers have told the story of his records as a public official and the many laws he has fathered to improve the daily lives of the plain people of America in whom he has a passionate, almost religious faith.

Many people know that he has been Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives 17 years—longer than any man in history—and almost twice as long as Henry Clay;

He has served more years in the House of Representatives than any man since this Democracy was born;

He has helped to guide the United States through its two greatest wars, its greatest prosperity, and its greatest depression.

A lot of people know some of his legislative achievements. The REA, which brought electricity to almost all the farms of America; the farm-to-market road program which is lifting the farmer out of the mud; the regulation of Wall Street which protected the savings of millions of people when invested in stocks and bonds; GI insurance and the veterans disability payments which have helped every American soldier and his family since 1917; soil conservation and flood control measures to help save the priceless heritage of the soil so that unborn generations of Americans may continue to eat abundantly—these are a few of the Rayburn accomplishments in the Halls of Congress, which affect the daily welfare of all Americans.

NO PUBLICITY MAN

But in spite of this knowledge of his records and his accomplishments, many people have only a hazy idea of what kind of a human being this man is.

For this RAYBURN himself is largely responsible. Most men in public life seek, even crave, every bit of publicity they can manage.

Not so with RAYBURN.

He has never had a "publicity man" on his staff.

He is probably the only official in Washington who is brusque with news photographers, letting them take 1 or 2 pictures, then ordering them, "That's all, boys—no more pictures."

He has steadfastly refused to write the story of his eventful life.

He seldom makes a speech in Congress.

Once he complimented an associate by saying, "He doesn't run around getting his name in the newspapers."

Well, what kind of a human being is SAM RAYBURN?

First, he is a simple, even old-fashioned man.

He dresses conservatively, hates loud clothes and hats and ties, both for himself and for others.

LIKES PLAIN FOOD

A hearty eater, he finds no pleasure in "frilly" dishes. Once, on his way back from Washington, he phoned his mother. She asked what he wanted for supper that night. "Crumb-in," he said—cold cornbread crumbled in sweet milk. He got it.

Pork shoulder, chicken fried in hog lard, white onions, scrambled eggs, chili without beans, vanilla ice cream, beefsteak, snap beans, toast, giblet gravy on hot biscuits, and always cornbread—these constitute his idea of "real eating."

In Washington he has lived in the same small, comfortable apartment for more than 30 years.

He still drives—and personally dusts and shines—the 1947 Cadillac which the Democratic Congressmen took up a collection to give him nearly 13 years ago.

His conversation is couched in the simple, homespun, Anglo-Saxon words he learned around his father's fireside south of Windom. He intensely dislikes what he calls those five-cylinder words. When he speaks, everyone understands exactly what he means.

IN ROBUST HEALTH

He is one man who has never had any desire to go abroad. When Congress adjourns, there is only one place he wants to go—and does go—home.

SAM RAYBURN has enjoyed an unusual robustness of health.

He has never been in a hospital except to have his tonsils removed.

He has never had a headache.

When Congress adjourned this year, it worked through the entire night and finally called it quits at 6:36 a.m. RAYBURN was up all night presiding over the House of Representatives, yet he was back at his office at 11 a.m., worked all day seeing a constant stream of visitors, and then went to a White House dinner that night. The next day he was at his office bright and early.

Undoubtedly his own health habits have contributed to this robustness. He rarely misses staying in bed 9 hours every night. He eats very temperately. He loves to walk, and if the weather is bad, he gets his exercise by walking back and forth throughout the huge Capitol Building.

HONEY HIS MEDICINE

Sunshine, he believes, is great medicine, and he likes to walk or sit in the sun for long hours.

And honey to him is medicine. Every morning he has honey for breakfast.

When he goes to bed, he goes right to sleep. "If I can't do my job standing up, I danged sure can't do it lying on my back and worrying about it," he explains.

SAM RAYBURN is a man full of restless energy.

Part of this comes from his natural vitality and good health. The rest comes from his training.

He was 1 of 11 children in a poor family. Every member of the family had to work hard in order to make ends meet. He was taught not only that work was necessary, but that it was honorable.

Then he went to Professor Mayo's East Texas Normal, the forerunner of East Texas State College at Commerce. There he fell under the spell of one of the greatest influences of his life, William Leonidas Mayo, an inspired man who gave more Texas boys and girls from poor families a chance to get ahead than any man of record.

LIKES HARD WORK

"During the morning exercises, Professor Mayo was the most inspiring man I ever knew," RAYBURN said 53 years later. "He made a student feel like a criminal if he did not work, and not only that, but work to his utmost capacity."

This habit of incessant work he has never abandoned. On most holidays, when the Capitol is deserted except for tourists, he comes to his office and if there is no mail to answer and no visitors to see, he is restless as a bear and makes some kind of work.

To his staff, one of his trademarks is—"Let's do it now." Often at the end of a tiring day, a staff assistant will say, "I want to discuss this with you, but I'll wait until tomorrow." His stock reply is: "No; let's do it now."

He works quickly, restlessly, tersely.

Most of his telephone conversations, whether they be with the President or a rank stranger, are never over 2 or 3 minutes long. He detests receiving a long letter, and almost never writes one longer than a page. Congressmen come to see him with a complicated problem, but he gives his decision quickly, firmly, and normally the conference is completed in 5 or 10 minutes.

HATES WASTEFULNESS

That is one of the reasons why Washington newspapermen say that he sees more people in a day than any other high official in the Nation's Capital.

Waste, whether it be of time or natural resources or human talent, pains him.

"It just hurts me to see soil washing away," he once told a visitor. "I love the dirt."

Talking of a young man of great talent who had not used it, he commented sadly, "It's a shame, but he just didn't have a program."

He believes religiously that every person should set for himself an aim early in life and then work without ceasing until he has reached his goal.

That was his own program in life. When he was a child, perhaps 8 or 9 years old, in the cotton fields of Fannin County, he made up his mind that some day he was going to make a lawyer and go to Congress and be Speaker of the House. He never let go of the dream.

DEATH BEFORE FAILURE

"I would rather have died than to have failed," he said years later. He firmly believes that every person can achieve his goal in life if he makes up his mind early and never stops working toward it.

To many observers, much of RAYBURN's success came from his universal reputation for candor and telling the truth.

A newspaperman once said to him, "Mr. Speaker, you see a hundred people a day with problems and you tell them what you will do and won't do or that you'll think about it. But I never see you making notes on what you tell them, yet you never seem to forget. What is your secret?"

RAYBURN's hot, brown eyes, flashed.

"If you tell the truth the first time, then you don't have to remember," he shot back.

Another time he said: "Tell the truth first and save later explanations."

Presidents and other high officials sometimes find it difficult to get honest opinions because many people try to tailor their advice to what they think the high official wants to hear.

LAYS IT ON THE LINE

Not so with RAYBURN.

When they ask RAYBURN for advice, he lays it on the line. This frankness under all circumstances has made him a much-sought adviser.

Perhaps this explains much of his great popularity with the Washington press corps. Often he will tell newsmen: "I don't want to talk about that," in reply to their questions, but when he does say something, they know it is the complete truth as RAYBURN sees it.

Along with his candor, a frequently mentioned trait is RAYBURN's fairness.

Many Democrats and Republicans differ with him on political questions, but they are virtually unanimous in praising his fairness. Even, when the House of Representatives is considering a bill to which he is strongly opposed the supporters of the bill are given every break to which they are entitled under the House rules.

"The greatest ambition a man can have is to be known as a just man," he once said.

"Be just—be fair," he says over and over again in advising people.

SPIRIT OF FAIRNESS

"Laws should never be passed to punish someone or to give someone an unfair advantage. Every law should be passed in a spirit of fairness," he frequently declares.

And whenever a bill comes up which he thinks was designed to punish someone, he emphatically votes "No."

This spirit of justice is reflected in his highly successful techniques of leadership in the Congress.

The Speaker possesses tremendous power, second only to the President. His power in the House of Representatives is especially great. If he chose to punish a Member who opposed him, he could embarrass and in some instances, defeat the Member by seeing that his pet bills are killed, that he is kept off good committees, that campaign funds are withheld from him.

That is not RAYBURN'S way of doing business.

Instead of punishing, RAYBURN simply withholds future favors, bestowing them on those who are his friends. He stands by those who stand by him, but he never seeks vengeance on those who fall to go along.

TALKS WITH FRIENDS

During the working day RAYBURN is always moving, seeing a constant stream of visitors, very sparing of words, relaxed but always busy.

When the working day is over, his greatest diversion is to sit and talk by the hour with trusted friends. The conversation covers the politics of the day, with his reminiscences of the great and near-great thrown in from time to time.

But the conversation always seems to get around to the topics he loves best—his family, his district, the soil, and his faith in the future.

It is impossible to understand RAYBURN without knowing the family stock from which he came. Basically Scottish in ancestry, the Rayburns exhibit many traits associated with the rugged people who defended their religion and their homes in Scotland's mountains for centuries.

At the age of 47, his father packed up a wife and 10 children and left the east Tennessee mountains to start a new life in the black land country of north Texas. Making a living for this big family—soon there were 11 children—from 40 acres of Fannin County land was a continual struggle. Everybody worked and worked hard. They were poor, but they were happy and the family circle was close and warm.

CLOSE KNIT CLAN

Today five of the children are still alive, and they have always been a very close knit clan. They love best to visit with each other.

Once a man asked Bobbie Phillips, who cooked for the Speaker in Bonham for a quarter of a century, which Rayburn owned a certain piece of property.

"I don't know 'bout that," she replied. "I just know what one of 'em has, they all has." Thriftiness, candor, simple tastes, a fierce love of each other, their friends, the land, and their country—these Scottish traits are common to the entire family.

Washingtonians for nearly half a century have been learning about the Fourth District of Texas and its people, for the topic comes up at almost every gathering where the Speaker is present, whether it be a state dinner or a private conversation in his small apartment.

PRaises PEOPLE

He likes to tell of the district's sturdy, hard-working, self-reliant, independent people; of their ambitions for good homes, a good name, and opportunity for their children; of its wonderful, deep, black topsoil; of how its soil is being cared for, its rivers dammed, its towns improved, and the rise in its people's well-being in this century.

"My people have shown me a friendship and a devotion unequalled in any annals," he says wistfully.

Asked once what he considered his greatest accomplishments in the Halls of Congress, he quickly replied, "The REA and farm-to-market roads. Those are things that help the real people."

One of RAYBURN'S most noticeable traits is his optimism.

He never sighs for "the good old days"; he thinks people today are living better, have better opportunities, are better clothed, housed, fed, and educated than ever before, and he believes that their life will be even better in the years and decades ahead.

STILL HAVE LIBERTIES

It stirs his wrath to hear people say that "we have lost our ancient liberties."

"What liberties have we lost?" he demands. "The American boy and girl today can think what he pleases, say what he pleases, write what he pleases, and can choose his own way of life freely so long as he does not trespass upon someone else.

"We have amended our Federal Constitution 22 times, but today we have every single liberty we had when the Constitution was written in 1787.

"And as long as every citizen holds in his hand a free and unpurchasable ballot—and uses it—we will keep these freedoms."

RAYBURN flares up when he hears people talking about "the bad boys and girls of today."

He just doesn't believe it.

FINEST GENERATION YET

"I think this is the finest generation we have yet produced. They're smarter than the boys and girls of my generation because they have had better training; they are just as patriotic; they are just as clean, and when the burdens of citizenship come to them I know their minds will be keen enough, their shoulders broad enough, and their hearts big enough to preserve, protect, defend, and perpetuate this great democracy," he says over and over again.

"I have great faith in people. I believe that about 98½ percent of the American people have more good in them than bad and, when properly appealed to, they will do the right thing. I have dealt with hundreds of thousands of people in all walks of life, and I have found that when you treat a man right he will nearly always meet you more than halfway," RAYBURN maintains.

RAYBURN'S sad, shrewd face, dominated by his deep, dark brown eyes, often wears a stern, almost forbidding look. This leads some who do not know him well to think that he is hard and perhaps fearsome.

KNOWN FOR KINDNESS

In maintaining order in the House of Representatives or in a political convention, he can be stern and very forceful, and he is the exact opposite of the backslapper.

But those who know the man will remember him longest, not for his achievements nor his commonsense, but for his kindness.

A person in trouble, any person, can count on SAM RAYBURN for understanding and help. About the only people he dislikes are those he calls cruel people. The man with a mean tongue or the man who takes advantage of someone less fortunate, these RAYBURN has no use for.

"I think SAM RAYBURN'S outstanding characteristic is that he always has time, or takes time, to help anybody who has a problem," Congressman CLARK THOMPSON, of Galveston, once said.

Any human being who has trouble is entitled to sympathy and help, that has been the RAYBURN creed always.

Life magazine some years ago told this true story:

A young newspaper reporter in Washington lost his teenage daughter through illness. Although he had occasionally attended RAYBURN'S press conferences, he barely knew the Speaker.

OFFERS HIS HELP

The morning after the daughter died, the father heard the doorbell, and answering it, found SAM RAYBURN there.

"I just came by to see what I could do to help," he said.

Startled, the father said, "I don't think there's anything you can do. We're making all the arrangements."

"Well, have you all had your coffee this morning?" RAYBURN asked.

"No, we haven't had time."

"Well, I can at least make the coffee." And he did.

The reporter said to him, "Mr. Speaker, I thought you were supposed to be having breakfast at the White House this morning."

"Well, I was, but I called the President and told him I had a friend who was in trouble, and I couldn't come."

GIVEN MANY HONORS

Few men in American history have received so many honors or have heard so many compliments from their contemporaries as has SAM RAYBURN.

But perhaps the finest compliment of all came from an unidentified Hunt County farmer in 1943.

Newspaper reporter Clayton Hickerson asked the farmer about RAYBURN.

"There's always some cantankerous talk 'bout politicians," the farmer said, "but I ain't never heard much 'bout Old SAM. He always sees that we're treated right. I guess he always will."

Happy birthday, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ALBERT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman from Texas [Mr. THORNBERRY] may extend his remarks at this point in the Record.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Oklahoma?

There was no objection.

Mr. THORNBERRY. Mr. Speaker, we all rejoice that we are given the privilege today to honor our beloved Speaker and wish him a very happy birthday.

Five years ago tonight on the occasion of the traditional birthday party given annually in honor of the Speaker by his close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Miller, of Dallas, Tex., a beautiful song was written and sung by the charming and talented lady, Hank Fort, the composer of numerous songs and folk ballads. Miss Fort is well known throughout the Nation not only because of the beautiful songs and ballads which she has composed but also as a wonderful and attractive entertainer. Miss Fort is from Tennessee, where the Speaker was born.

I know all of us will agree that this wonderful song is one which pays a splendid tribute to the Speaker and is a song that can be sung not only on his birthday, but throughout the year and particularly on the Fourth of July, the birthday of our Nation.

The words to Miss Fort's song are as follows:

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MISTER SAM

Happy birthday, Mister SAM.
We raise a toast to you.
All throughout the land
We know you stand
For the red, white, and blue.

Happy birthday, Mister SAM,
This is a special day.
'Twas a lucky morn
When you were born.
Cause you're Mister U.S.A.

It's great that we can celebrate,
That we're free to shout and sing,
And we all join in thanking you
For making freedom ring.

Every person great and small,
From Maine to Alabam,
Wants to wish you health,
Long life and health;
Happy birthday, Mister SAM.

Mr. JUDD. Mr. Speaker, few, if any, men have made a greater total impact than Speaker SAM RAYBURN, on the affairs of our Government during this last fateful half century. It is a privilege to join today in the celebration of his 78th birthday. His great influence has been wielded largely through the House of Representatives and his extraordinary leadership in it. No man is more deserving of having his name memorialized for all time in this Capital City and on Capitol Hill.

It would be especially fitting for the House of Representatives and a grateful Nation to pay deserved tribute to SAM RAYBURN, devoted patriot and sterling American, by giving his name to the new office building being built on Independence Avenue, to enable the Members of this House to perform their duties and the work of the House more efficiently. Speaker RAYBURN has been largely responsible for the construction of this building, and I have today introduced a House resolution to designate it the Rayburn House Office Building. All who use it in decades to come will be reminded of the very great service rendered to our country and the world by this noble man and dedicated public servant.

Mr. LIBONATI. Mr. Speaker, it is with a deep sense of humility that I approach the intimate subject of your birthday anniversary celebrated today in this House of great living statesmen. Somehow I have a feeling that it would be most sagacious on my part if the subject of age were dispensed with entirely.

Wise men say that the age of a man should be measured by the depths of his intelligence. Alas, the discussion of this facet of the subject would lead me into more delicate numerical determinations—you would not like it.

But may we, who through our experiences in the Congress, reiterate our supreme confidence in your leadership, and further pay homage to your greatness as a patriot and your long dedicated statesmanship to the sacred principles of our Government and its institutions.

We who work with you and accept your leadership thank God that you are among us to guide the Congress of the United States, the future welfare of our Government and its freedom loving citizens. We salute you today to pray for your presence here as Speaker on your next anniversary.

We know that you will continue to serve your Nation in the paths of liberty and justice. Your gavel will protect free institutions against tyrannical and arbitrary legislation. The American people rely upon your leadership too, to guide their destiny. God bless you on this memorable day. May you remain with us forever.

Mr. EVINS. Mr. Speaker, permit me to join with our distinguished majority leader, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. McCORMACK], and others in paying tribute to you and to your distinguished record of service and extending best wishes for a happy birthday on this your birthday anniversary. We of Tennessee are proud of Speaker SAM RAYBURN, we have a great love and affinity for Texas and everything Texan.

But, I should like to "correct the record" to make it crystal clear that Speaker RAYBURN is not altogether Texan but is in fact a native of Tennessee—indeed, Speaker RAYBURN is all-American. SAM RAYBURN was born in Roane County in east Tennessee which adjoins the district which I have the honor to represent in the Congress. He has many relatives and friends in my section of Tennessee.

Speaker RAYBURN is honored and respected in my State along with Tennessee's other great sons, Presidents Andrew Jackson, Andrew Johnson, and James K. Polk. Certainly it is appropriate as the new Congress convenes today that we should salute and congratulate Speaker RAYBURN, as he has presided over this House longer than any other man in the history of our country. He is to many of us not only Mr. Speaker, but Mr. Congress, Mr. Democrat, and Mr. American.

So I join with my colleagues in extending congratulations to our beloved Speaker on his birthday and in wishing for him many more happy birthdays and a new decade of service to our country.

SPEAKER RAYBURN STANDS FOR A GOVERNMENT OF LAWS AND NOT OF MEN

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, this is an illustrious occasion. In paying honor to Speaker SAM RAYBURN today, on his 78th birthday, we are honoring a great American. And we are, at the same time, taking a moment to reflect on and pay tribute to the principles and values which have made our country great, because throughout his illustrious career SAM RAYBURN has been a moving force for these principles and values.

I believe that we are honoring today a man who will go down in history as one of the alltime great molders of history. During his long career he has stood as a sentinel of calm wisdom in many hours of crisis for our country. And in the many less spectacular years of history, he has worked in a quiet and never tiring way for our country's progress and well-being.

It would not be possible—certainly not for me—to describe the qualities of leadership. These are qualities which everyone recognizes and no one can define. But some of the things which account for the greatness of SAM RAYBURN I can describe:

He has stood for a government of laws, and not of men.

He has, to a much greater degree than most of us mortals have the capacity to do, been motivated by his country's welfare in all things, without confusing the country's welfare with personal ambitions, personal pride, and other disturbing emotions.

He has stood for integrity.

He has stood for the democratic processes and, as such, has been respectful of minority views.

He has stood most of all for the dignity and the high purpose of the House of Representatives of the United States. In all matters the House of Representatives has come first, and SAM RAYBURN and the high office he holds has come second.

SAM RAYBURN is himself the embodiment of all these things he has stood for so conspicuously and impressed so clearly in the minds and hearts of his countrymen. It is our good luck, and the country's good luck, that he is young and vigorous in both mind and body.

Like other Members of this body who have served for many years with Speaker RAYBURN, I, too, have an individual, deep, and personal affection for him, and I add my heartfelt personal congratulations upon his 78th birthday.

Mr. MAHON. Mr. Speaker, the chairman of the Texas congressional delegation, our colleague, WALTER ROGERS, has spoken eloquently for the Texas members on this memorable occasion. I wish to join Mr. ROGERS and others here in a word of tribute to our beloved Speaker on this, the anniversary of his birth.

The gentleman from Texas [Mr. RAYBURN] has been a pillar of strength in the House of Representatives throughout my service here. He has been my friend and inspiration. He has been resolute in his determination to be fair in his leadership. He has won and rewon at each succeeding Congress the admiration and respect and the love of his colleagues on both sides of the aisle.

But the influence of the Speaker has not been circumscribed to the four walls of the House of Representatives. His influence and power have made themselves felt in every corner of the earth. He is not just a statesman of Texas or of the United States; he is a world statesman. His imprint upon the history of our time will linger forever in the annals of our Nation. It has been a great privilege to serve with this good, strong man from Texas. He has borne his honors with a becoming dignity and restraint. The Speaker is not ostentatious; he is simple of manner, modest, forceful, great. Words are such poor vehicles to express our thoughts but it is a heart-warming experience to contemplate the career and character of SAM RAYBURN and to pay tribute to him on his birthday.

I think all Americans would like to join with us today in saying, "Good luck, Mr. Speaker, in the continuation of your great service to America."

Mr. ELLIOTT. Mr. Speaker, for more years than many of us have been here birthday greetings have been extended on this date to the Honorable SAM RAYBURN, of Texas. It is my hope that for many more years to come birthday greetings will continue to be extended to him as a great Member of this body. There is little I can say here about him that has not already been said or that is not apparent to each Member of the House.

Yet all of it is worth repeating as a reminder of the greatness of this distinguished American and Texan. Having served longer as Speaker of the House of Representatives of the U.S. Congress than any other man in history, he is recognized as the greatest parliamentarian and is known as the foremost legislative leader throughout the free world.

But there is more to him than this. No one can surpass his devotion to our great Nation. As devoted as he has been to his party, he has in every crisis facing our Nation risen above the political and partisan differences of the moment to fight with courage for the security of our country and the lasting freedom of men, women, and children throughout the world.

He has through his leadership insisted that we here conduct ourselves in a responsible manner, and that we provide a legislative program not only responsive to the needs of the people but also one which will deserve and receive the confidence of all of the people of this Nation.

Mr. RAYBURN with all his association with the great of the world has never lost the common touch nor the simple dignity which has earned for him the affection, admiration and devotion of all of us who have the privilege of being associated with him.

Mr. Speaker, there are three essential qualities for great leadership: foresight, courage, and fairness. Mr. RAYBURN personifies these traits to the utmost degree. He has shown himself to be gentle and strong, wise and understanding. I am sure that I do not exaggerate when I say that in the time I have been in this body there is no one who has come or gone who has held and enjoyed a larger measure of the confidence and the affection of his colleagues than has SAM RAYBURN.

On this day of his birth it is not possible to overlook the great contributions he has made to the stability, strength, and honor of our Government.

I hope that we may have his wise counsel at the policy table of our Government for many years to come.

On behalf of the people of my district, I offer him congratulations and best wishes.

Mr. HECHLER. In the company of legislative giants who have paid tribute to our beloved Speaker, SAM RAYBURN, I feel a little out of place to add my small voice. But while others have lauded him for his outstanding record performance as the presiding officer of the greatest legislative body in the world, I want to say a word or two about the human qualities of this man.

A little over an hour ago, Speaker RAYBURN held a press conference. In the glare of television lights, bombarded by prying questions which covered the waterfront, he talked about the troubles of the world and the affairs of this Nation with great dignity, humor and humility. His outer office was crowded with friends and well-wishers, big and small. Being his birthday, and also the opening day of Congress, it was probably the busiest day of his life.

Yet this statesman found the time to sit down and chat with a freshman Congressman from the Fourth District of West Virginia for 15 or 20 minutes. It was a great honor for me, not alone to have the chance to take so much of his time, but also to exchange ideas with the Speaker and to share in his wisdom on many different subjects. Unhurried, unselfish, giving always of himself, he displayed the great qualities of depth, perspective and a sharp sense of humor and sense of balance which go to make up the great person he is.

So, Mr. Speaker, I salute you and join with the people of the world in saluting you on your 78th birthday.

Mr. ROOSEVELT. Mr. Speaker, your birthday is always a source of inspiration to those of us who have been fortunate enough to serve under your leadership and during your speakerships.

The Rayburn Library at Bonham, Tex., symbolizes for me at least the character of your leadership and contributions to our Nation. In its outward form it is both handsome and obviously long lived and durable, built not to survive the storms of today or yesterday, but the crises and great issues of future years as well. Inwardly, it encompasses the breadth, the richness, as well as the minor items of historical treasures which make up the history of such a vibrant Nation.

Mr. Speaker, you have meant to many of us not only the dignity of one of the greatest public offices in a great democracy, but you signify that to function best this office must be filled in a democracy by a kind, wise, and intensely comprehensive human being.

We shall look forward to the enjoyment of many days in the future, as we do enjoy and appreciate this one, when we are given an opportunity to wish you the happiest of birthdays and the fulfillment of all your desires in the years ahead.

Mr. DOYLE. Mr. Speaker, every day in every way during these 14 years that I have had the honor and pleasure of being a Member of this legislative body, you have been so fair and just and reasonable and gentlemanly in all of your rulings and in all of your discharge of great responsibilities and heavy loads of official work to me individually, that I feel that in the presence of the eloquent tributes already made by my colleagues to your greatness as our distinguished Speaker that any words I would humbly utter would prove entirely inadequate by comparison.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, on this 78th birthday, to you, whom I feel is the greatest Speaker of the House of Representatives in the history of our beloved Nation, I just say directly, as you sit there in the Speaker's chair, happy birthday and many, many more of them.

Mr. KEOGH. Mr. Speaker, on this 78th birthday of our distinguished and beloved Speaker, Hon. SAM RAYBURN, of Texas, there is little that any individual can say that has not already been said in glowing terms.

Everyone in this Chamber—and everyone who will read these words—knows that SAM RAYBURN has served for more years as Speaker of the House of Representatives than any Speaker in our history. However impressive that record is of itself, its real significance is that it serves as a testimony to his great character—which is the basis of his constant reelection to the House and to the office of Speaker. Two of the attributes of character essential to his office are integrity and wisdom. SAM RAYBURN personifies these attributes. The confidence freely imposed in him by the membership on both sides of the aisle, as well as by the administration under three Presidents would be jealously withheld from a man who did not possess the integrity with which he is endowed. No one has ever heard of Speaker RAYBURN breaking his word.

As Speaker of the House of Representatives during the trying years of World War II and most of the difficult days since the termination of that conflict Speaker RAYBURN has displayed a wisdom that is unsurpassed in the modern history of the House of Representatives. This coupled with his incomparable leadership has brought about the enactment of laws that are not only necessary and proper but inspired and courageous. This leadership is the manifestation of his unswerving devotion to the Nation and to his party.

I feel privileged to be a part of this body under the speakership of SAM RAYBURN and to be able to join my colleagues in felicitating him and wishing him everything that is good on this anniversary of his birth.

Mr. ZABLOCKI. On behalf of the Wisconsin delegation to this House, and myself, I want to extend to you, Mr. Speaker, our sincere felicitations on the occasion of your birthday.

We are delighted to see you in good health and in such fine spirit, ready to resume the exacting task of presiding over the deliberations of this House.

May the good Lord grant you, Mr. Speaker, many more years of service to your country and your fellow men, and bless you with good health and happiness in this new year and the years ahead.

Mr. SIKES. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that the Florida delegation joins in extending warmest personal regards to you, Mr. Speaker, on the occasion of your birthday. There is much that each of us would like to say on this occasion to convey to you our genuine personal regard and our great appreciation for your good works. Yet, so much already has been said by so many who are far more gifted in phraseology that it is difficult to find words to convey the sense of meaning which is felt.

Few men in public life have been as greatly beloved as you. Few men have enjoyed such distinction of outstanding leadership. None have surpassed your record of accomplishments. The combination of these unusual and outstanding achievements is one which is truly unique and found only in the person of our own beloved SAM RAYBURN.

The Nation has been favored indeed in having benefited through these many years from the experience, the wisdom, and the leadership of our Speaker. His warm and pleasant personal guidance has been invaluable to every Member, young and old alike, who has availed himself of the Speaker's counsel, and all of us have done this. It is a great privilege to see a man mature into a living legend during his own lifetime a truly great and outstanding American. That, Mr. Speaker, is the position you occupy in the minds and hearts of your colleagues and of the people throughout the world.

Mr. HORAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say to the majority leader what a privilege it is to participate in this grand event this afternoon. It has been my pleasure to serve with Mr. RAYBURN for better than 17 years and I want to say what a glorious privilege it is to be here and to congratulate our great leader on his birthday.

Mr. CELLER. Mr. Speaker, I have served with Mr. SAM for a period of over 37 years and during that period I have come to know the manner of man he is, his integrity, his unflinching leadership, his acute sensitivity to justice.

Mr. SAM has served in this Chamber in war and in peace; he has served in periods of adversity and periods of prosperity. Throughout his service, he has stood as firm as a rock and surmounted all difficulties. He has an enduring faith—in his country, his party, and in his fellow men. We all applaud his loyalty to his friends and his fairness to his foes. He wields the gavel of his office with objectivity and temperance. No one can deny his great influence upon the membership and the impress of his personality and character upon the major issues of our time. Formerly, as chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, he nurtured bills of major significance that are now law and which bear his honored name, a name which is known and respected through the world.

We are all happier here because of his presence amongst us. It is indeed a privilege to salute Mr. SAM on his birthday.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, on this, your birthday, here in this Chamber a great many words are being spoken, by Members of both parties, in your honor and in praise of your long period of distinguished service in the House of Representatives. It is only natural that we who have been fortunate enough to serve in the Congress, under your leadership, and who have benefited and profited by your help, guidance, and assistance, should love you and respect you.

Our Speaker, however, wins hearts wherever he goes. On December 12 we were highly honored when you paid us a visit in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. I would like to insert into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD a letter to the editor which appeared in the Cedar Rapids Gazette on December 19. This letter was written by one of the people who attended the banquet at which you spoke. I think this letter mirrors a noble character—the kind of man our beloved Speaker is.

The letter follows:

[From the Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Gazette, December 19, 1959]

SAM RAYBURN TALKED PRINCIPLES

To the EDITOR: On December 12 Linn County and the city of Cedar Rapids were highly honored by the presence of one of the greatest living statesmen of these United States—the Honorable SAM RAYBURN, Speaker of the House of Representatives. Mr. RAYBURN has served the United States in Congress for 46 years. In Cedar Rapids he was the principal speaker at a fund-raising dinner for the Democratic Party. His speech was very broad and full of American principles—to anyone who is broadminded and has principles. He told how hard our forefathers worked, with far-reaching vision, to write the Constitution that has stood the tests of time, and serves the country today just as it did the Thirteen Colonies. Through all these years with their many changes, the Constitution has needed only 19 amendments, one of which has been repealed.

He talked about the youth of America and how they must be trained to take over and carry on and uphold the American heritage after we are gone.

He talked about an America so unified, brotherly, and happy that there would be no North and South or East and West.

He spoke about the ups and downs he has seen in this Nation since he first went to Washington, blaming the Republican administration for some of them and quoting statistics to support his viewpoint.

He reminded his fellow citizens that where there is need, there is opportunity; and where there is privilege, there is duty.

He told how the senior Congressmen help the Members who are newly elected to Congress. He told how so many Congressmen's wives help their husbands through thick and thin, and what a wonderful institution marriage is when its obligations are fulfilled.

On the whole, Mr. RAYBURN's speech was almost nonpolitical; it was a speech of American principles and morals. With very little revision the same speech could very appropriately be delivered to a gathering of Masons, Knights of Columbus, parent-teacher association, chamber of commerce, or any other organization.

I am very glad that I attended the banquet and heard Mr. RAYBURN's speech and saw him deliver it. I am very proud to be able to say I shook hands with Mr. RAYBURN.

Every citizen owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. RAYBURN or any other statesman who has served this Nation so many years. Let us be respectful to our senior statesmen, whether they are of this political party or that. This United States of America, in order to uphold democracy, must have more than one political party. Let's give credit where credit is due.

E. A. COULTAS.

MOUNT VERNON.

THE LATE CHARLES A. BOYLE

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. O'BRIEN].

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, the death of our colleague, the late CHARLES A. BOYLE, a member of the Illinois delegation, under tragic circumstances in Chicago during the recess, fills our hearts with sadness.

He distinguished himself as a lawyer and a legislator, by his aggressiveness and willingness to work for the minorities and the oppressed. His activities in private life were a succession of accomplishments for those from whom he could expect no reward. His generosity was boundless and his desire to serve his fellow man is recorded in the minds of those he benefited.

CHARLIE BOYLE will be remembered when many of us, occupied with our own concern, have been forgotten, for he never feared to work for an unpopular cause, when in his own conscience he knew it as a just cause. He championed the oppressed, the downtrodden, and the outraged. His efforts at righting wrongs done to men in the service of their country are recorded. His unselfish devotion to the things he believed to be duty will serve better as a monument to his integrity than anything we can say here.

Congressman BOYLE early in life faced obstacles and triumphed over them. His difficulties in gaining an education for the profession of his choice challenge the imagination. His was a spirit that brooked no thought of compromise. Honors came to him and he wore them lightly.

I recall the efforts and long hours that CHARLIE BOYLE expended to become what we know as a good Congressman. He began doing that during his freshmen term, and he never stopped. He worked diligently and conscientiously on all legislation before his committee, and in doing so made a contribution to every committee assignment he ever held. He never lost his objective viewpoint nor ceased to work hard and effectively.

We pay our deep respect to a tireless worker, a delightful character, and above all to a family man whose heart was filled with gratitude for the blessings which were his. His widow and his children have our deepest sympathy for they have suffered an irreparable loss.

Mr. YATES. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. I yield to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. YATES].

Mr. YATES. Mr. Speaker, the ways of the Lord are inscrutable and not open to question. We must accept, therefore, the sad fate which befell our beloved colleague, Congressman CHARLES A. BOYLE, last November, when death claimed him suddenly. All of us were stunned and saddened when we learned of his untimely passing.

CHARLIE BOYLE was a most unusual personality. Traveling as he did in the world of political affairs filled with distinguished men who possessed great charm and friendliness, CHARLIE BOYLE nevertheless stood out as one who owned these fine qualities to a singular degree. His geniality, his warmth, his spirit filled the atmosphere whenever he entered a room.

He was helpful. There was not anything he would not do for any of his colleagues. There was not anything he would not do for his constituents. There was not anything he would not do to be helpful to his fellow men. Never has the 12th Congressional District, which is the neighboring district to mine, been so ably represented as it was by CHARLIE BOYLE. It had never been represented by a member of our party prior to his election in 1954.

So quickly did he gain the confidence of his constituents that even with the history of the district as going toward the opposite party, he was elected and reelected. His constituents knew his talents. They knew his qualities. They knew that here was a man who served them in the way in which they wanted to be served.

One can only think, with the passing of CHARLIE BOYLE, of the poem by the great poet who wrote several centuries ago, John Donne, when he said:

No man is an Island, Intire of itself;
Every man is a peece of the continent,
A part of the maine;
If a clod bee washed away by the Sea, Europe
is the lessee,
As well as if a promontory were,
As well as if a mannor of thy friends or of thine owne were;
Any man's death diminishes me,
Because I am involved in mankind;
And therefore do not send to know for whom the bell tolls;
It tolls for thee.

To Mrs. Boyle, to her wonderful family I want to express the sympathy of Mrs. Yates and myself upon their irreparable loss of a wonderful husband and father.

Mr. CANNON. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. I yield to the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. CANNON].

Mr. CANNON. Mr. Speaker, the news of the death of our friend and colleague, CHARLIE BOYLE, came as a great shock, first because he was a personal friend and secondly, because as a member of the Committee on Appropriations he had rendered invaluable service to the committee, to the House, and to the country.

He was an unusual man. He had been selected a year or two ago as the ideal father in America. And his family life carried out every implication involved in that unusual designation.

He was especially valuable as a member of the Committee on Appropriations. He was not only a man of mature judgment, and wide business experience but he was a man of exceptional judgment. He could always be depended upon when we needed sound counsel and advice to bring to us a practical solution of some of the most difficult problems that confronted the committee. The country has lost a great legislator.

I wish to join my friend from Illinois who has just spoken, in tendering to Mrs. Boyle and the children our deepest sympathy.

Mr. MAHON. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. I yield to the distinguished gentleman from Texas [Mr. MAHON].

Mr. MAHON. Mr. Speaker, I did not know the late CHARLIE BOYLE very well until he became a member of the Subcommittee on Defense Appropriations. During his service as a member of the Defense Subcommittee I sat with him through the weeks and months of hearings and I became familiar with his brilliant mind and his warm and understanding heart. He was a stalwart friend of defense. I shall never forget his helpfulness in our important work.

CHARLIE BOYLE was a truly great man, a fine legislator, a man who loved his country, who loved his colleagues, and a man who loved his family. We have sustained a great and irreparable loss in the passing of this fine American.

I join my friend from Illinois and others in paying tribute to his memory and expressing words of sympathy to the dear ones he left behind.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. KLUCZYNSKI].

Mr. KLUCZYNSKI. Mr. Speaker, on the morning of the fifth day of November 1959, following the judicial election in the city of Chicago, I turned on the radio in my home and was shocked to learn that my colleague, the Honorable CHARLES A. BOYLE, was fatally injured in an automobile accident the night before.

CHARLIE BOYLE graduated from Mount Carmel High School in Chicago in 1925, from Loyola University in 1930, and from Loyola Law School in 1933. He was admitted to practice law in Illinois and was a member of the Chicago, Illinois, and American Bar Associations. To obtain his education he worked in various positions. He was a speaker of note and was the winner of several oratorical contests. He was selected as the Chicago-Land Father of the Year in 1952-53 and later was chosen as Mr. Illinois. He was a member of the House Committee on Appropriations and on the Subcommittee on Defense.

Our friend CHARLIE BOYLE was a man of great ability. He was always sincere and forthright. His integrity was such that his word was as good as his bond. We admired him for these sterling qualities; but, more than that, we loved CHARLIE BOYLE because of his great capacity for friendship. He was always kindly, congenial, and helpful. He radiated optimism. His very presence in a room brightened it. It was a joy to be in his presence.

In Congressman CHARLIE BOYLE'S death, his State and his country have lost an outstanding public servant and a great statesman. We, his colleagues who knew and loved him, have lost one of our dearest friends.

I am saddened by his death and offer my deepest sympathy to his gracious wife, Helen, and the other members of the wonderful family he has left behind. It is my hope and prayer that they may find some measure of consolation in the fact that a devoted husband and father lived a full and rich life, a life dedicated to the service of his fellow men.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. LANE].

Mr. LANE. Mr. Speaker, as the roll was called we noted the absence of a dear friend, Representative CHARLES A. BOYLE, of the 12th Illinois District. It is always difficult to resign ourselves to the death of those who were close to us, but sorrow is harder to bear when they are taken from us in the full vigor of their lives.

CHARLIE BOYLE was a young man, rich with ideas that he wanted to incorporate into legislation for the benefit of his constituents and for the Nation.

His keen mind and eloquent voice served his country well. The Appropriations Committee and the Subcommittee on Defense will miss his understanding of the challenge facing our country and how that challenge must be met. His big and generous heart was matched by his faith in freedom. He knew that we cannot mark time. Our economy must ever expand in order to make our Nation strong, and to help other peoples to travel with us along the road of human progress.

Congressman BOYLE was a devoted husband and father, and his deeply religious spirit was expressed every day of his life by respect and consideration for his fellow man.

To his large family we extend our sincere sympathy. We want them to know that their fond memories of a father who gave them a name to be proud of, are shared by those of us who were privileged to serve with him in the U.S. House of Representatives.

In every way he earned the reward of eternal happiness.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ARENDS].

Mr. ARENDS. Mr. Speaker, grievous at heart, I join with the rest of my colleagues in the House of Representatives, particularly those of us from Illinois, in expressing our great sorrow with the passing of our Illinois Member of Congress, which came about so unexpectedly and was so untimely. Although I may not have known CHARLES BOYLE as well as some other Members of the House, I did know him well enough to become affectionately acquainted with him. I knew him as a man of upright character, one of the friendliest individuals I have ever known in my whole life. It seems he was one individual who enjoyed the good things of life and he wanted others also to share in all good things. One thing about CHARLES BOYLE I must mention, in my many conversations with him, was that never once did I talk with him but that somewhere and sometime during the conversation he would bring up a question about his wonderful family. He was a devoted family man. He was proud of his homelife, his wife and his wonderful children. It always impressed me, knowing that only a man who so loved his family could really and truly be a great man. So along with those of us today who mourn his loss, I say to his fine family, may God give you comfort in the loss you have suffered.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MURPHY].

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to join my colleagues in paying our respects to the late CHARLES A. BOYLE.

I have known Mr. BOYLE intimately for a great number of years. We were associated in the practice of law, politically and socially. Mr. BOYLE'S son graduated last year with my son from Loyola Academy in the city of Chicago.

It was a great shock to me and my family when we learned of Mr. BOYLE'S death because I had spent several hours with him the previous day.

The people of the 12th Congressional District in Illinois have lost a truly great Representative and we of the 86th Congress a truly great friend.

My family and I extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Boyle and her family in their bereavement.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. ROONEY].

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. Speaker, it was indeed a great shock to read in the morning papers of November 5 last of the tragic passing of my good friend and distinguished colleague, Representative CHARLES A. BOYLE, of the 12th Congressional District of Illinois. At the time he was a man still in the full vigor of his life and his fatal accident left me dumbfounded.

CHARLIE BOYLE came to the Congress in 1954 as the first Democrat ever elected to the House from the 12th District of Illinois. We served together as members of the House Committee on Appropriations as the result of which I had a very high regard for his ability and intelligence as a sound legislator. It was my privilege to have enjoyed a close and warm friendship with CHARLIE and I realize that I have lost a good and true friend.

CHARLIE BOYLE was an exemplary family man leaving a lovely wife and eight fine children. In 1952 he was named Chicagoland Father of the Year.

CHARLIE BOYLE will be sadly missed in this House of Representatives and by the people of his district, the State of Illinois, and the Nation. I shall always think of him with fond memories, and express my profound sympathy to his dear wife and his children.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. PUCINSKI].

Mr. PUCINSKI. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise today to join my colleagues in eulogizing one of the great Members of Congress, the late Honorable CHARLES AUGUSTUS BOYLE, who for the past 5 years has so diligently represented the 12th Congressional District of Illinois.

Mr. BOYLE's death on November 4, 1959, was as much a loss to the entire Nation as it was to the people of the 12th District, who loved and supported him in his courageous stand toward solving the many problems which confront a republic.

Many of my colleagues will recall how Congressman BOYLE made the motion last September to adjourn the 1st session of the 86th Congress. This was the fifth time that Mr. BOYLE had been selected by his colleagues to conclude the deliberations of Congress, and it reflects the high regard that all of us, on both sides of the aisle in this astute body, had for our distinguished colleague.

The House of Representatives has had many distinguished Members who have made an indelible mark on the course of history. To this group we can all proudly add Congressman BOYLE's name, for while he had come from a humble background, Mr. BOYLE's uncompromising attitude toward fairplay and justice has made him a pillar of our democracy.

In his brief career as a Member of Congress, Mr. BOYLE had won the respect of both Democrats and Republicans because he was always in the forefront wherever the traditional liberties of our Nation were challenged. His determined defense of the rights of all American citizens, regardless of race, creed, or color, was an inspiration to all of us. His ability to present his views and support them with indisputable facts in defense of justice shall long be remembered by those who have had the honor of working with him.

Mr. BOYLE was the first Democratic Congressman ever to be elected from the 12th District of Illinois, when in 1954 he was elected to the 84th Congress. Because of his dedication to the principles of good government, he was reelected to the 85th and 86th Congresses. Perhaps the greatest measure of the esteem and admiration in which he was held by his constituents was documented when Mr. BOYLE was reelected in 1956, despite the Republican landslide of that year.

Mr. BOYLE's rise to prominence indeed reflects the full glory of a democracy, which does not judge a man by his background, but rather by his ability.

Mr. BOYLE was born on August 13, 1907, on a farm near Spring Lake, Mich. After leaving the farm, he sold newspapers and worked his way through college and law school as a conductor, a checker, an investigator, a driver, and finally as an inspector for the Chicago Motor Coach Co. Despite the tremendous demand on his time in trying to earn a livelihood, Mr. BOYLE managed to attend Loyola University and Loyola Law School during the evening hours and won his law degree in 1933.

Mr. BOYLE never forgot the plight of the individual American, and because of this deep respect for the rights of the individual, he wrote a distinguished record as a member of the House Judiciary Committee and the Committee on Appropriations.

In 1955, Congressman BOYLE was sent to Tokyo, Japan, to investigate and report on status of forces agreements and act as congressional observer in the trial of GI's at Maebashi. It was his duty to help make postwar Japan more cognizant of the full concept of jurisprudence and the preservation of individual rights in a nation steeped in its own traditions.

Mr. BOYLE's wide interests made him a specialist in housing, and in 1937 and 1938 he was appointed zone attorney for 12 States in the Federal Housing Administration. He helped draft much of the legislation, including the rules and regulations for the FHA.

It is with deep conviction that I say here today that Mr. BOYLE's loss will be felt by the entire Nation, for here was a man who possessed not only great personal ability and dedication to the concept of freedom, but he was also a man with a tremendous heart.

To his wife and eight children we today extend our deepest sympathy. May he rest in peace.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. EDMONDSON].

Mr. EDMONDSON. Mr. Speaker, I join my colleagues in extending sympathy to the family of our distinguished colleague, CHARLIE BOYLE. He was a warm, sympathetic, and friendly man; one beloved by all. When the beloved dean of the Illinois delegation spoke of a man's willingness to fight for the oppressed, he certainly described CHARLIE BOYLE.

I remember in 1955 a constituent of his became embroiled in some difficulty in Tokyo as a member of the Armed Forces. CHARLIE BOYLE not only came to his assistance, but at great personal sacrifice traveled across the country to catch a plane and go to the Far East, and interceded personally in Japan in behalf of this boy who was in trouble with Japanese authorities while a member of the Armed Forces overseas. Very few men would go so far out of their way and go to such personal sacrifice as CHARLIE BOYLE did to help a young man. That speaks more eloquently than any words could speak of his willingness and readiness to be helpful to his fellow man in distress or in need or undergoing oppression of any kind.

I am proud of the friendship I had with this fine American and able legislator.

I join with my colleagues in deploring his loss to the Nation.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. TABER].

Mr. TABER. Mr. Speaker, I did not know CHARLIE BOYLE very well until he came on the Appropriations Committee. I was impressed from the start with the fact that he was able to command the great problems that we had confronting us and that many of us perhaps find exceedingly difficult. He was a man of real ability and great force. The country will be worse off because he is gone, but it can also be helped by the fact that we did have amongst us a man of that character.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. ALBERT].

Mr. ALBERT. Mr. Speaker, I join the distinguished dean of the Illinois delegation in this fine tribute to CHARLIE BOYLE. Word of his untimely death came as a shock to me.

CHARLIE was an energetic, enthusiastic, courageous Member of this House. He had great devotion to duty. He was friend of the little man, a defender of justice at all times. He was my friend, and I shall miss him.

CHARLIE left a wonderful family. It was always inspiring to see him with his children. To them and to Mrs. Boyle I extend my heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. REUSS].

Mr. REUSS. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to add what I have to say to the many fine expressions made here this afternoon by those who loved the late CHARLIE BOYLE.

Much has been said of his friendliness, his wisdom, his industry. But what I was impressed with more than any other of his many fine qualities was his deep belief in justice. He truly foresaw, in his maiden speech here on March 16, 1955, that any steps that we were going to make toward world peace had of necessity to be founded upon justice. I recall the thrill with which I heard him make that speech in this House. Among other things he said:

Mr. Speaker, I am happy to be a Member of this House, and I am very happy to be a member of that group who once again asks you and pleads with you to try to do everything possible in both an economic and in a political sense in the interest of peace. We admit we are doing almost everything we can, in a military sense. In our dealings with all nations, it will mean that we must have the modesty to admit that our own national interest is all that we are really capable of knowing and understanding, and the courage to recognize that if our purposes and undertakings here at home are decent ones, unsullied by arrogance or hostility toward other people or delusions of superiority, then the pursuit of our national interest can never fail to be conducive to a better world. Then, by our own conduct, we will be telling the sad and the lonely of the world of the love that is theirs to be, and by the cross of Christ and His passion and the might that is born in brotherhood and unity we will be showing the world that we are doing more than mere lip service to an empty ideal—that we are, in fact, trying to live in the community of nations under God.

I agree with him, and with the words spoken shortly after by his colleague, the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. O'HARA], that we had just heard the delivery of one of the great maiden speeches in the history of the House.

This search after justice by CHARLIE BOYLE was displayed in small things as in great. I remember one afternoon when we were all over at Griffith Stadium watching the Senators play a baseball game. The officers in the stadium that afternoon had been very lenient. A number of foul balls hit into the upper tiers had been grabbed as souvenirs by those who were watching the ball game—without any questions being raised. Then, late in the game, another foul ball was knocked up into the upper tiers. It was caught by a little, slight fellow, poorly dressed, someone who was obviously meager in his share of this world's goods. At that point, the official policy seemed to change; the officer came around and demanded the ball, and pocketed it. Although we were sitting some rows away, I thought the slight little man was going to cry, and while I and the others were sitting there, trying to bring this little tragedy into focus, and to decide what if anything could be done, CHARLIE BOYLE, who was sitting next to us, moving with great speed, went forward and went up to the officer. I could see that a heated argument was in progress. Then, suddenly, the officer, with a sheepish smile, gave the baseball to the slight little man. He burst into a great and wonderful smile.

Now, if CHARLIE BOYLE is to be criticized for throwing his weight around, if he did not sufficiently observe the fine line which should be drawn between the functions of the executive and the legislative, I am sure that the Lord will forgive him. So shines a good deed in a naughty world.

His lovely wife, Helen, has lost a loyal husband; his wonderful children have lost a devoted father; and those of us here who loved him have lost a friend who never can be replaced.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise this afternoon to join my beloved dean and other colleagues in the House of Representatives in paying tribute to the late Honorable CHARLES A. BOYLE.

CHARLIE BOYLE and I came to the Congress in the same year and from the first time I shook his hand he was a tower of personal strength to me. He always had a smile and a good word for all.

I think of the words here this afternoon: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

I think that describes CHARLIE BOYLE more eloquently than any words I might utter here today.

To his charming wife and eight children I join the others in expressing very sincere sympathy in the loss of a great father and husband, a great legislator, and a great American.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California [Mr. MILLER].

Mr. GEORGE P. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I want to join with the others in expressing my sincere and deep appreciation for the great work and qualities of our late colleague, CHARLES BOYLE, of Illinois.

It was my privilege to know him and to work with him. The things that have been said here today about him are true and they reflect the esteem in which he was held by his colleagues in the House of Representatives.

Mr. BOYLE was a Christian gentleman; he practiced the philosophy of the dignity of man.

We are the losers at his passing. I express my sympathy to his wife and lovely family.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. HEMPHILL].

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, it was my happiness to know intimately the late CHARLES BOYLE. During the past summer here when our families had gone home, he along with some other Congressmen—and I was privileged to be in the group—used to go swimming at one of the clubs here. Often we had dinner together.

I found Mr. BOYLE to be a fine friend. He was a man of dedication, he was sincere, he was a person who exemplified the best in family relationships.

I found it was a great privilege to know CHARLES BOYLE and to have his friendship and along with other Members who have spoken here, I extend my deepest sympathy to his wife and to his family.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. VANIK].

Mr. VANIK. Mr. Speaker, it was with profound sorrow that I learned of the fatal automobile accident which took the life of my good friend, CHARLIE BOYLE, on election night last November.

I join with my colleagues from Illinois in paying tribute to Congressman CHARLES A. BOYLE of the 12th District of Illinois. His constituents and the Nation have lost a true and fearless advocate, a dedicated servant. His widow and family of eight wonderful children have lost a devoted husband and father. I have lost a dear friend.

I have known Congressman BOYLE and his family as friends and neighbors since we came to Congress together. It was my privilege to see the Boyle family in their happiest and most treasured moments—when the children would romp and play and sing with their dad. They were a close-knit, devoted family team.

Congressman CHARLES A. BOYLE was a man of many interests. Foremost, however, was his love of home and love of family. In 1952 he was elected Chicago-Land Father of the Year and later chosen "Mr. Illinois." Although a prominent Catholic layman, CHARLIE was recently accorded honorary membership in a Jewish synagogue in his district. Such was the measure of this man.

In his work in Congress, CHARLIE BOYLE was dedicated and untiring on every issue. His words and his vote were always recorded on the side of the humanity which he loved.

I know the courageous spirit which dwells in his widow, Helen Boyle, and the family strength which will empower her and the children to successfully make their way ahead.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HAYS].

Mr. HAYS. Mr. Speaker, I join and concur in everything that my colleagues have said about the statesmanship of the late Congressman BOYLE and about his high type of service here in the House. But, as much as we will miss him, I think he will be missed far more by his family, his wife and his eight children, because it has been my privilege to see a lot of devoted and doting fathers in my time, but never one who so constantly had his family in mind as CHARLIE BOYLE did. Therefore, I wish to especially express my sympathy to his wife and to his children, who will miss him greatly in the years to come.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. SANTANGELO].

Mr. SANTANGELO. Mr. Speaker, I join with my colleagues in paying tribute to CHARLIE BOYLE. On November 4, 1959, while driving alone, a tragic automobile accident took CHARLIE away from us in this Chamber.

Mr. Speaker, I shall always remember his kindness, his friendship, and his automobile. I personally shall miss him very much.

Washington, D.C., can be a cold town, especially to a newcomer. When I first arrived in Washington this town was cold and the evenings were somewhat lonesome. The first warm feeling I received here was after the President's ball in 1957 when CHARLIE took me and my wife to pile in his old jalopy with four other congressional couples. Dressed in tails and evening gowns, we made the town and had a wonderful evening. We enjoyed a cup of hot coffee, while dressed in tails, at the White Tower. This was the first pleasant evening I spent in this town, and I owe it to CHARLIE BOYLE. He showed me that Washington had a heart and that Congress had men of intelligence, warmth, and understanding. Putting 10 people in his car made CHARLIE feel young and very happy. It made him feel as if he were at home with his eight children driving around the country with him. At breakfast or in the cloakroom, when we breakfasted together, which was very often, or when we shared a cup of coffee together, he would frequently talk about his lovely wife, Helen, and his eight children. He often talked about the problem of raising a large family and how difficult it was. He was a loving husband and a devoted father.

Representative BOYLE's prematurely ended career was a classic American success story. Born on a farm in Michigan, CHARLES BOYLE worked his way through college and law school by driving a Chicago city bus for 7 years. After his admission to the bar he practiced law in Chicago. During the late thirties he served as zone attorney and agent for the Federal Housing Administration. His experience on the farm and his life in the city caused him to understand the problems of the farmer and the aspirations of the city cliffdwellers.

As a proven champion of the underdog and orator of note, CHARLES BOYLE was inevitably drawn to a political career. He was elected to the 84th Congress and reelected to the two succeeding Congresses. His record here in Washington was outstanding. Representative BOYLE's character was recognized by his people. His fellow Chicagoans named him "Chicagoland Father of the Year" in 1952. I was fortunate to serve with him on the Committee on Appropriations, and I can attest that he was an excellent legislator and a splendid American.

CHARLES BOYLE passed this way and has gone to the great beyond. Because on the way he touched me, I am richer in experience, wiser in judgment. I am happier in memories. All who met him on his journey through the corridor called life share this feeling and sentiment.

To his wife, Helen, and his children, I extend my heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. O'HARA].

Mr. O'HARA of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, another chapter in Americana has closed. CHARLIE BOYLE represented and lived by the true American tradition. There was no silver spoon in his mouth when he was born, but in his heart was golden treasure and as he grew into childhood the ambition budded to prepare himself for an adult life of service to humanity. Everything that he was to get in this world he had to earn for himself. To take him through college he drove a taxi. He did anything that he could honestly to earn his way and to prepare himself for his destiny.

Mr. Speaker, I think that every man does have a destiny, his mission to perform. CHARLIE BOYLE had his destiny. I always thought that he had a sense of realizing the nature of his destiny. His acts of friendship in this House, his every word and every deed, pinpointed his realization that his was a destiny of service to humanity. Everybody was his friend and CHARLIE BOYLE never failed a friend. In Chicago everywhere they spoke of him, and in the grief that now prevails still speak of him, as warm-hearted CHARLIE BOYLE. His heart was as tender as his voice was eloquent, and his brain sharp and keen.

At the close of the last session I stood chatting with him out behind the rail near the coffeeroom. I said, "CHARLIE, you are 52; you are young; you have made a great record in the House; you have served unselfishly and outstandingly your constituents and your country; you have a great future ahead of you. You have an ability that I have never known in any other man to the degree that you possess it—the ability of memory. You are in the prime of life, your national stature already brilliantly established, and your future can lead to any heights."

Once I had introduced a young man to CHARLIE BOYLE. CHARLIE had not seen this young man for 2 years, had had no contact with him, no especial reason for remembering him, yet when again he met him he called him by his first name, "Fred, how are you?" He possessed one of the most unflinching memories for names I have ever known.

He went everywhere. He met people. Such a man in the political world, with his ability, with his dedication—of course, there was a future for him. So I was saying to CHARLIE right out there in this Chamber behind the rail that he had a great future in public life. He said, "No, BARRATT, I do not feel that way." We then talked of the sacrifices men in Congress are called upon to make, sacrifices willingly made and unadvertised, but the toll they take from families. No man ever loved his wife and children more than CHARLIE BOYLE.

I do not know that he had a sense of what was going to happen to him, but I remember that little chat so well, right out there in this Chamber behind the rail, and it came vividly to mind that morning in November when I had turned on the radio to hear the dreadful tidings of his death.

Mr. Speaker, this is another one of those occasions when we realize the inadequacy of words. All of us loved CHARLIE BOYLE, and we have been in this well trying to project something of our feeling, something of our sentiment, something of our grief. But words are inadequate. We feel so deeply within us that there are no words that can measure the volume of our grief.

To that fine wife and to those eight wonderful children I extend my most profound sympathy.

At his funeral, joining our beloved dean, TOM O'BRIEN, and CHARLIE's colleagues from Illinois were HENRY REUSS and CHARLIE VANIK, close friends of the Boyle family. I shall never forget that scene. HENRY and CHARLIE standing among the children, their arms stretched out to embrace them all together, and all weeping. This is how we felt. Warm-hearted CHARLIE BOYLE had left us, in the midday of his sojourn; another chapter in Americana had been closed. He had fulfilled his destiny of service to humanity.

Mr. AVERY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. I yield to the distinguished gentleman from Kansas.

Mr. AVERY. Mr. Speaker, I should like to join my friends in paying tribute to our former colleague, the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. BOYLE. As Members present today probably know, Mr. BOYLE's philosophy of government and my own were about as far removed as two philosophies could possibly be. But despite that we were very good friends.

It was our privilege to be elected to the Congress in the same year, 1954, and because our wives were both members of the 84th Club, through that association we had considerable social contact with Mr. BOYLE, and it was through that particular medium that I became well acquainted with him.

So many things about Mr. BOYLE impressed me. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. O'HARA] mentioned that he had eight children. Notwithstanding his own family I was impressed with the generosity of Mr. BOYLE's character, by the fact in addition to their own children, they found room in their home and heart for another child. I know of few Members of the House who would have undertaken additional responsibility under similar circumstances. Any person who is willing to make a place for another child in his own home certainly has manifested his true interest and dedication to his fellow men more than in any other way it could possibly be expressed. I think it was characteristic of Mr. BOYLE's sympathetic nature, his true love of his fellow men, and his dedication to his own responsibility as a father, a citizen, and as a Member of the House of Representatives.

Again may I say, Mr. Speaker, that Mr. BOYLE will certainly be missed by all of his colleagues who serve the Congress. We extend our condolences to his wife and his children.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend my remarks.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, the tragic death on November 4, 1959, of our late colleague and my personal friend, CHARLES A. BOYLE, was a shock to me, as well as to my colleagues.

During his service in this body, CHARLIE BOYLE and I became close friends. He was one of the most serious and industrious Members of this body. His ability was outstanding. Those in this body who served with him will long treasure his memory.

CHARLES BOYLE, at 52, was at the peak of his intellectual vigor, and, in his third term in Congress, had achieved the facility of a veteran legislator. In his congressional service, he made full use of the experience gained in his student days, when, while earning his law degrees, he drove a bus and served in other capacities the Chicago Motor Coach Co. His experience as zone attorney for the Federal Housing Administration, supervising 12 Midwestern States, qualified him to speak as an authority on many matters connected with housing. CHARLIE BOYLE made a name for himself by his eloquence at an early age, winning the Chicago high school oratorical championship in 1924, and in 1930 both winning the Carter Harrison oratorical medal at Loyola University and placing second in the national intercollegiate regional oratorical tournament. Through his legal and legislative career, he had practiced and developed this speaking ability to a high point of excellence.

In his personal relationships CHARLES BOYLE was also notably successful. As devoted husband, and father of eight children, he won recognition in 1952 as "Chicagoland Father of the Year" and "Mr. Illinois." He was a man of many warm friendships, genial, and deeply concerned for the welfare of his neighbors. An American of Irish descent, a communicant of the Catholic church, a man of deep faith, he was always found fighting the battle of the sick, the weak, the oppressed, the persecuted. He opposed and fought bigotry in any form. By word, example, and deed, he lived up to the spiritual truths he so strongly believed in.

He was a strong supporter of newly established nations, and new nations emerging from colonization. For example, he was one of the strongest champions of the recently established nation of Israel. His name will long live in a memorial established by Israel in his honor in 1957, on his 50th birthday—a grove of 1,000 eucalyptus trees near the hills of Judea.

To Mrs. Boyle and her loved ones, his friends and colleagues offer our tribute of honor to his memory, and of sorrow in the passing on of CHARLIE BOYLE.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may be permitted to extend their remarks at this point in the RECORD regarding the life and services of the late CHARLES A. BOYLE.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

There was no objection.

Mr. LIBONATI. Mr. Speaker, God's strength of will foredooms men to the hereafter. And so it was with our distinguished colleague, CHARLES A. BOYLE, of Illinois, whose recent tragic death was bemoaned by his friends, associates, and family.

Throughout his entire life he chose to serve those who needed most the succor and strength of honest and true leadership in public affairs. He never faltered in his support of liberal doctrines for the protection of the natural freedoms of the oppressed. And with that oratorical brilliancy characteristic of the sages of other years of these Capitol Halls, he forcibly and with pointed language carried the debate to the success it merited.

It is a common fault of most men in political life to stretch their finances beyond their own worldly gains. And so it was with CHARLES BOYLE whose many kindnesses won for him many blessings of the poor and unfortunate.

His youth and early adult life was one of great struggle and sacrifice. He worked his way at various trades, some menial, others skilled, to reach the heights of the legal profession.

As a father he was a worthy example of the true American parent. His heartfelt devotion to his family was a byword among his neighbors.

His love of his eight children is reflected in the many sacrifices that he endured providing for their education and welfare.

He was a Catholic person who lived by his religious precepts. He was happy most in a political scrap—and the Lord knows that he was an expert in a slam-bang campaign. He was in the forefront in Israel's fight for recognition and freedom. Among these people of religious faith he was admired and supported in all of his undertakings and campaigns. He believed in what he stood for. His was not the stand of a political bigot whose personal opinion betrayed his public position on questions. CHARLES BOYLE was an alert and devoted, dedicated statesman. He was a staunch and loyal friend. Who could ask for more? The people of the Nation, the State of Illinois, and the citizens of Chicago have lost a statesman of great character and national stature in the death of our popular colleague, CHARLES A. BOYLE.

May God bless his family and dutiful and loving wife, Helen, who with courage and confidence is bravely carrying on. It is with a deep faith instilled in both by their mutual ambitions for the future of their loving children that she is able to go on.

It is our duty to see that time does not dull our interest or memory fade our friendship for this fine family—may his soul rest in peace.

Mr. DERWINSKI. Mr. Speaker, the tragic and untimely passing of our colleague, the Honorable CHARLES A. BOYLE, is a loss to all of us. As a fellow member of the Illinois delegation, I can testify to the tremendous esteem and respect in which he was held in the district he served and by all who associated with him.

We knew him to be a man of great ability, knowledge, and genuine and deep understanding of the problems of human life. In all his activities, he was gentle and unassuming. He was especially dedicated to the interest of the city of Chicago, and he firmly believed and practiced his personal political philosophy in a completely independent mind. In his service in the Congress of the United States, he served his district, his city, State, and Nation with great devotion.

I extend to Mrs. Boyle and their children my deepest sympathy.

Mr. NATCHER. Mr. Speaker, I join with the many friends of CHARLES A. BOYLE in expressing my sorrow at his untimely passing.

I subscribe to every tribute which has been paid him by the Members of the House and especially by the members of our Committee on Appropriations. CHARLES A. BOYLE represented the finest as a gentleman and as a true statesman. He was kind, considerate, able, industrious, sincere, and courageous.

The city of Chicago and the State of Illinois suffered a great loss in the death of this outstanding Representative.

I join in expressing my sincere sympathy to the members of his family and his many friends.

Mr. HORAN. Mr. Speaker, I, too, wish to join with my colleagues in an expression of appreciation of the character of our departed fellow Member, and in the extension of sympathies to his widow and the family.

It was my privilege to have served on the Appropriations Committee with CHARLIE BOYLE. He was always friendly, he always had time for a gracious visit or an intelligent exchange of views on any existing mutual problem. CHARLIE BOYLE was an honest man, and as has been said here many times today, always seeking for the just and the equitable answer. He served with diligence and distinction on our committee and his untimely passing is a real loss to us and to the Nation.

Mr. ROOSEVELT. Mr. Speaker, the tragic passing of CHARLIE BOYLE has brought real sorrow to all of those of us who were fortunate to be his friends.

His intense loyalty, his always warm and bubbling personality, and his always evident sincerity contributed richly to those who were associated with him not only in an official capacity, but in the many ways in which men come to appreciate and value their mutual friendships.

CHARLIE BOYLE was a lawyer with a keen and discerning knowledge and perception, but above all he was a warm human being who thought in terms of the welfare of people, in terms of the love and affection which he knew from his own family and which he would wish for all other families.

He was a liberal, but not a radical. He was a hard worker who knew the joys of real comradeship.

We shall miss him sorely and I, for one, shall feel his presence and a sort of obligation to strive even harder for those things to which he was devoted for the welfare of his own constituents and his country.

To Mrs. Boyle and all his family go our most heartfelt thoughts and prayers.

Mr. SHIPLEY. Mr. Speaker, I wish to take advantage of this opportunity to join my colleagues in the House in paying tribute to a great American, the Honorable CHARLIE A. BOYLE whose untimely death occurred recently.

During the first session of this Congress I had the privilege of serving with CHARLIE whom I considered a wise counselor, a friend, and a man whom I deeply respected. He has served for many years in this House with distinction and the loss of no longer having the benefit of his keen intellect and judgment will not only be felt by his constituents, but by the entire country.

I extend my sincere sympathy to Mrs. Boyle and their children in the loss of a devoted husband, father, and fine American.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, we were all deeply shocked at the news of the unfortunate accident which resulted in the death of our colleague, CHARLES BOYLE, of Chicago, Ill. He had served in three sessions of the House of Representatives and during that period of time had made an outstanding record as an able representative for his district, city, and State. CHARLIE BOYLE attained success in his chosen profession—the law—and also in public service by consistent work, application, and extending liberally of his services and time to the welfare of his friends and constituents. His district has indeed lost a representative in Congress who will be very difficult to replace. While a Member of Congress, he worked long hours to acquaint himself with legislation. He diligently followed up on all requests and demands coming from his community and by reason thereof had built up a personal following in both political parties which would have warranted for him a long service in the Congress of the United States.

CHARLIE BOYLE was the father of eight children and in recognition of his outstanding status as a father and family man he was selected as the "Chicagoland Father of the Year" in 1952 and 1953. His many friends in Chicago and in the Congress will miss him in the coming session and for a long time in the future.

I wish to extend to his wife and family my deepest sympathy in their bereavement.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, the House of Representatives has lost one of its ablest younger Members and each of us individually a good friend in the untimely death of Hon. CHARLES A. BOYLE, of Illinois.

CHARLIE BOYLE was a man who shared of himself generously. There was not a problem which any Member faced and with which CHARLIE BOYLE could help that did not get his personal attention. This, regardless of political affiliation, I know. As a member of the Committee on the Judiciary, Mr. BOYLE helped me a number of times with problems which came before that group. He gave unstintingly of his time and effort in these matters.

Later on we both became associated on the Committee on Appropriations and worked together closely as colleagues on the Subcommittee on Defense. All through the arduous hearings of last year CHARLIE BOYLE never failed to preserve his calm, his good nature, and his keen insight into problems both of a national and a personal type which came before our committee.

The House has lost a fine Member; the people of Illinois a fine servant, and I feel the loss of a good friend. Both Mrs. Weaver and I extend to Mrs. Boyle and the fine family our condolences upon their great and troubling loss.

Mr. ZABLOCKI. Mr. Speaker, I wish to join with my colleagues in expressing my profound sorrow at the passing away of our late friend from Illinois, the Honorable CHARLES A. BOYLE.

I had the pleasure of serving with him in this House during these past three Congresses. He was a man of exceptional ability and of firm beliefs. He was a good friend and neighbor and an outstanding legislator. The people of the 12th District of Illinois lost in his death a constant and outspoken champion of their interests.

To his widow and family I wish to extend my sincere sympathy. May they derive some measure of consolation in their bereavement from the thought that the good Lord has called CHARLES to be among His very own.

Mrs. CHURCH. Mr. Speaker, I wish to join my colleagues in the Illinois delegation in expressing our shock, our grief, our loss. The death of Congressman BOYLE leaves a void within our ranks that will not easily be filled.

Many would speak with truth of his capacity which was proven here by his rapid rise within our ranks. Many would praise—and rightly so—his devotion to his district, to his city, to his State, and to his country. I could join in each of these expressions with sincerity and wholeheartedness. I, personally, however, wish to call to mind and shall long remember those personal attributes of CHARLES BOYLE which made him a friend to every man. Such a friendly spirit, ever ready and true, is not often found in this world; and the loss of his friendship will be felt by each and every one of us who served with him here. He gave his help, his time, and, indeed, himself, without stint.

With his district I share the sense of loss that comes with the passing of a public servant so dedicated to the services of his people. To his family whom he loved so tenderly I send my deep and understanding sympathy.

Mr. PRICE. Mr. Speaker, I join my colleagues from Illinois and the hosts of others in the House who have expressed their sorrow over the death of the Honorable CHARLES A. BOYLE, who so ably represented the 12th District of Illinois in this body.

No one could have come in contact with CHARLIE BOYLE without developing a strong feeling of friendship for him because his whole personality generated warmth and affection and led people to know his great capacity to share himself with his fellow man. It was evident in his every action that he wanted to help his fellow man and that he wanted to participate in those things that lead to the achievement of happiness for others.

It has been said here this afternoon that CHARLIE BOYLE gave every indication in his devotion to his work that he thought first of the good he could do for others—for his community and for his country. This was his trademark. He worked night and day, tirelessly, to better the world he lived in. Well grounded in moral philosophy he quickly grasped the types of programs that appeared most likely to point to better conditions for those he represented in Congress.

As a legislator he quickly established himself as an effective leader. Few were more quick to analyze a situation than CHARLIE BOYLE. Few were more aggressive in fighting for worthy causes.

To his wonderful family I extend my heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. KEOGH. Mr. Speaker, a tragic automobile accident on election night in 1959 has taken from us a beloved colleague, the Honorable CHARLES A. BOYLE. Upon coming to the House of Representatives at the beginning of the 84th Congress, CHARLIE BOYLE quickly made a host of friends among the Members—each of whom was pleased to be considered his friend during his entire service. In this body where oratorical competence is considered almost a commonplace he soon proved himself to be an outstanding and eloquent advocate. His eloquence—far from being an artifice—was simply an outward expression of the depth of his feelings and faith in the causes he espoused.

The energy and industry that CHARLIE BOYLE demonstrated in his congressional career, both in this Chamber and in the Committees of the Judiciary and Appropriations, had its origin in his youth when he worked his way through college. His powers of persuasive speech served him well in his chosen profession of the law which he practiced for a quarter of a century. He was exceptionally devoted to his family and to his professional and other activities and, despite the demands of an engrossing and active life, he never neglected anyone or any cause to which he was attached. His activities included membership in professional, fraternal, and other organizations which he served well.

It was in his family life that the admirable character of our late colleague revealed itself. His dedication to his wife and to his fine family of eight children brought to him the coveted honor of being chosen Chicagoland Father of the Year, 1952–53. To his family and to his countless friends within and outside the Congress I want to offer my sincere condolences. CHARLIE BOYLE will be truly missed.

Mrs. GREEN of Oregon. Mr. Speaker, it is with a very heavy heart that I have listened to these many words that have been said about our good friend and colleague, the late Honorable CHARLIE BOYLE, of Illinois. I have seldom been as shocked as I was when I heard of CHARLIE BOYLE's untimely accident. I have seldom felt as deep a sense of deprivation as when I was told that he would not be with us in the future. But I can take some consolation from the memory of his courageous dedication to the principles in which he believed, and his inexhaustible supply of energy and enthusiasm with which he went forth to do battle for the goals his conscience set for him. CHARLIE BOYLE was a great Member of the House. CHARLIE BOYLE's devotion to his work, and to the people whom he so ably represented, cannot be taken away from the aura that fills this Chamber by his passing. To Mrs. Boyle and their family I extend my deepest sympathy and my very best wishes.

Mr. CHELF. Mr. Speaker, I was shocked and grieved to learn of the untimely passing of our beloved colleague CHARLES BOYLE, of Chicago.

CHARLIE was a lovable, capable, sincere, intelligent, fearless, God-fearing, God-loving Member of this great body. He served his constituents with a devotion that truly inspired all of us. His ready wit—grin, and pleasant disposition, will be greatly missed. The Nation and Illinois have lost a noble son—a real Christian—a splendid gentleman and a fine legislator. May God rest his sweet soul in peace and bless his family always.

Mr. EVINS. Mr. Speaker, I should like to pay a brief but sincere tribute to the memory of the late CHARLES A. BOYLE, Congressman from Illinois who passed away on November 4 during the recess of the Congress.

I was privileged to serve on the Appropriations Committee with CHARLIE BOYLE and learned to admire and respect him greatly. He was an extremely active, capable, and forceful legislator. He served on our committee and in the House with distinction and honor. The news of his sudden and tragic death while the Congress was in adjournment came as a shock and we were all saddened to learn of his passing and his presence will be missed.

To Mrs. Boyle and the members of his family I extend an expression of genuine sympathy in their bereavement.

Mr. FLOOD. Mr. Speaker, our early meetings of this session are saddened as we think of old friends who are no longer with us. One loss comes home to me personally with particular force, that of the jovial, the energetic, the eloquent CHARLES A. BOYLE. We shall long miss and deeply mourn the loss of that forceful mind, that great heart. As a legislator, CHARLIE BOYLE was noted for his mastery of some particular fields of interest, growing out of his life experience, such as labor and transportation and housing; but it was for his human qualities that he was most notable. CHARLIE BOYLE loved people, individually, in illimitable numbers. He could not stand to see anybody pushed around, and he would not stand for anybody being pushed around, whether by other individuals, by organized groups, or by governments. He was a one-man task force, doing battle against injustice and tyranny and prejudice wherever he found them. May his soul rest in peace. Our hearts go out to his wife and eight fine children in their great loss. May the heritage of courage and vigor, of love and religious faith, which is their legacy from that good husband and father, console them in their affliction, and strengthen them for the hard tasks ahead.

Mr. COLLIER. Mr. Speaker, because Congressman BOYLE and I became close personal friends during the years we served together in Congress, I feel deeply bound to offer these remarks on his passing.

Shortly before the 1st session of the 86th Congress adjourned, I played golf with CHARLIE and later joined him at his home as I had done previously. It was always a great pleasure for me to be with the late Congressman BOYLE's family for it was truly a fine, typically American family. I shall never forget the pleasures of our association, socially and professionally. My late colleague from Illinois was one of the hardest working gentlemen I have known in my life; he was as direct and forthright in his approach to controversial issues as any man. I have never known him to lose sight of his basic objectives nor turn his back upon anyone who needed assistance. Nothing I can say at this time can add to what has already been said by so many others who knew and respected him as a person and a statesman. His untimely death was indeed a shock to all of us and his passing a loss to so many.

His achievements are a monument to his public service and his wonderful family, a reflection of his love for the Christian way of life that is the cornerstone of this great Nation.

Mr. PHILBIN. Mr. Speaker, the news of the tragic, untimely passing of Congressman CHARLES BOYLE struck us all a stunning and a crushing blow.

Only a short time before that fateful night, we had seen him in our midst—on the floor and in the halls of this great representative body—vibrant, vigorous, and in the full bloom of health and spirit—filled with the zest of life, immersed in his dedicated tasks and duties which he invariably faced and carried through with a seriousness of purpose, a wealth of knowledge, a driving determination, a gifted capacity and a lofty idealism that commanded the respect and admiration of every Member of the Congress and won for him widespread gratitude of the very many he had loyally served with such unfaltering zeal and effectiveness.

CHARLIE BOYLE was beloved by all his colleagues. He was instinctively kind and generous and intuitively responsive to the needs of the people.

Devout in religious beliefs and practices to which he was profoundly devoted, he possessed a broad, tolerant mind which encompassed and harbored in a very unusual degree love of his fellowman. In his generous heart he was the true, practical exemplification of the deeper, hidden meanings of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

A sound thinker, an eloquent talker, an articulate forceful advocate of forward-looking, humane causes, a brilliant lawyer, a painstaking, indefatigable worker, Congressman BOYLE during his tenure in the House served with conspicuous ability, sincerity, and effectiveness.

CHARLIE BOYLE was stricken down at the very height of his powers, with the larger portion of a great and promising career still before him. His lamentable demise has left a deep void in this body and has brought genuine sorrow and sadness to all of us.

We cherished his noble character, his congeniality and warm, good fellowship just as we admired his ability and devotion to duty.

A great American and a great Christian gentleman has been called to his heavenly home. We join his bereaved family and many friends in mourning his loss.

But he has left a legacy of devoted service, and goodness, and kindness and warm fellowship here that will long be remembered, that will leave a deep imprint upon the memories and the annals of this great legislative body.

To his bereaved family, his friends and all those dear to him, with a heavy heart, I tender my deepest and most heartfelt sympathy. In their truly irreparable loss I pray that the Good Lord may solace them and bring them strength and courage to bear his passing with resignation to the divine will.

And may our beloved and dear friend and esteemed colleague, CHARLIE BOYLE, rest in heavenly and eternal peace.

Mr. MACK of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, we have suffered a great loss in the tragic death of our esteemed colleague, CHARLES A. BOYLE, of Chicago. He was an outstanding public servant, dedicated to his service in the House of Representatives. No one in recent years has served his constituents as faithfully and well. He was loved and admired by all who knew him. He had a host of friends in Illinois, not only in Chicago but downstate as well. He had many, many friends throughout the whole country.

CHARLIE BOYLE was one of the most astute politicians we have ever known in the State of Illinois. He was a very able attorney, a great legislator, and an outstanding father. He had great love for his family and lived by the laws of God. We were always proud to have CHARLIE BOYLE serve with us in the Illinois delegation. He was the type of man we like to have serve with us, and we shall all miss him greatly in the years to come.

I join with my colleagues in extending my sympathy to his gracious wife and his wonderful family. May God give them strength and guide them in the difficult years ahead.

Mr. O'BRIEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I offer a resolution (H. Res. 401).

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That the House has heard with profound sorrow of the death of the Honorable CHARLES A. BOYLE, a Representative from the State of Illinois.

Resolved, That the Clerk communicate these resolutions to the Senate and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased.

The resolution was agreed to.

THE LATE STEVEN V. CARTER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. COAD].

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may be permitted to extend their remarks in the RECORD regarding the life and services of the late STEVEN V. CARTER.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Iowa?

There was no objection.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, we were all saddened last November 4 to learn of the passing of our colleague, STEVEN V. CARTER, who passed from this life exactly 1 year following the date of his election to the Congress from the Fourth Iowa District.

It was a privilege of mine to count STEVE as a friend. I knew him well, for not only had we traveled along the way together in the activities in which we were mutually associated, but upon one occasion STEVE stayed with us for several days in our home here in Washington. It was at this time that I came to know, better than I ever had before, the sterling qualities of STEVEN CARTER.

STEVEN V. CARTER was born in Carterville, Utah, on October 8, 1915. At the age of 14 he moved to the town of Lamoni, Iowa, where he attended and graduated from the Lamoni High School and Graceland College. He later attended the University of Iowa and was graduated from there in 1937 with a B.A. degree in economics and political science. Continuing his education, he graduated from the State University of Iowa College of Law with a juris doctor's degree in 1939. He practiced law in Leon, Iowa, for 19 years. This practice was disrupted by his service in the U.S. Navy in the South Pacific during World War II.

His career as an attorney in the town of Leon was highlighted by his great interest and activity in his community's civic affairs. His interest and faith in the youth of America was demonstrated by his contributions to the Boy Scout activities in his community. He was a member of Grand River Lodge, No. 78, A.F. & A.M., the Lions Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, and the executive board of the Southern Iowa Council of Boy Scouts of America.

The highlight of his life, as far as civic activity and accomplishments were concerned, was that he was elected to the 86th Congress on November 4, 1958, the first and the only Democrat to be elected from the Fourth District of Iowa. Not only did I know STEVE as a friend, but I knew him as one who was a real American.

What I have just presented to you were the facts of his life. These were, in part, some of the accomplishments of his life. But, they do not in total represent the attributes and the values, the desires and the dreams of our friend and colleague, STEVE CARTER. STEVEN V. CARTER had qualities above these mere facts of his life, and he never gave up on anything. STEVEN and I shared, together, in the campaign activities in which we were both interested. I knew STEVE as an ardent campaigner. I knew him to be a hard worker. All of his people were impressed by his courage as a valiant fighter; and, found him to be a gracious and a humble winner. He was a successful attorney, practicing law in his home community. He was a devoted man and was respected in the area in which he lived. But, exactly 1 year after his election, the dread disease of cancer took him from our midst. However, during his year of service in these marble halls, STEVE CARTER made a record. I remember well the day he introduced a bill calling for a crash program against the great diseases of our time—heart disease, multiple sclerosis and cancer. For here, on that day, stood a man who even then was caught in the grasp of a fatal malady—but a man who refused to turn in retreat. It was this kind of perseverance that exemplified the life of this man CARTER. It was this perseverance that was equaled only by STEVE's mild manner, by his patience, and by his thoughtfulness. STEVE never had an easy life. He knew of life's trials. He had been confronted with life's tribulations. He had experienced, at times, defeat. But STEVE CARTER never gave up, for his life and all of life to him was a challenge. And so he fought on. STEVE CARTER was still fighting for life when he slipped away quietly in the early morning hours of November 4, 1959.

It is true that from our low spiritual level, our dim eyes cannot, through the smoke and fog, see the coming dawn. But, if we climb up to the mountain peaks of faith in the eternal God, we can see above, beyond, and below the horizon where the dappled mists of saffron and purple are blushing into crimson and yellowing into gold. The sun is rising.

Out of the darkness and night
The world rolls into light,
It is daybreak everywhere.

I am sure that this is as STEVE found it. I want today to express my profound sympathy and sorrow to STEVE's widow, Lucy, and to their two sons, Steven A. and Charles.

Mr. Speaker, I now yield to my colleague, the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. WOLF].

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, there is a sadness in my heart as we begin this new session of the Congress, for I miss keenly the presence of a former devoted Member of this body—a colleague of mine from the State of Iowa—the esteemed STEVEN V. CARTER, who left us last November.

A greater example of dedication to duty has seldom, if ever, been set than that set by STEVE CARTER. Day after day when he should have been conserving his energies, he was in these Halls, and in this Chamber, looking out for the interests of the people of the Fourth District of Iowa and of the Nation. Few men have a finer record.

In the late days of the last session, his tremendous courage and devotion came through when he had to be physically carried to the Chamber to cast his vote on several pieces of very significant legislation. Many Members commented on this strength of purpose which drove a man in his fast failing health to perform to the last ounce of his physical endurance. This expression has been used in reference to many men, but in the case of my dear friend, STEVE, I am convinced that this devotion undoubtedly took several months off of his life.

I consider it an honor to add my voice to others here today in tribute to STEVE and in gratefulness for the privilege of knowing him and working with him. I shall miss him dreadfully in the coming months, but his courage and steadfastness of purpose will forever remain an inspiration to me and to all who knew him.

I sincerely hope that STEVE's son, Steve, will follow in the footsteps of his father. He has already demonstrated real leadership working at his father's side here in Washington and in Iowa. To the Carters I can say, hold your head high and walk in the knowledge of your husband's and father's great public and community service.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. JENSEN].

Mr. JENSEN. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise to pay my respects to our departed friend and colleague, STEVE CARTER. I had never met STEVE CARTER until he was elected to this House of Representatives, but it did not take me long to know that here was a man with deep and wonderful convictions; a devoted father, and husband, a friendly man. There was something big and fine and good about STEVE CARTER that you liked deep down in your heart.

I had many talks with STEVE. I inquired about his health. He always said, "BEN, I think I am going to make it. I am feeling better." Now I am sure he wanted most to make you, his friends, feel better; that was his nature. He scattered sunshine even to the last minute of his good life. He came to this House in a weakened condition when most men would have said, "No. I cannot make it." Not STEVE. He came to the floor of this House of Representatives and cast his vote according to his best conscience, and he did it with a smile. Never did I know a more friendly man than STEVE CARTER. I mourn his passing.

I extend my deepest sympathy to his good wife and children and loved ones.

I attended the funeral of STEVE CARTER, and there I saw the great respect and admiration which his friends and neighbors had for this good man. There they were—a house full of people at his home and a church full of people and flowers heaped high. In fact there were not enough seats in that large house of God to seat the folks who came to pay their last respects to their friend and our friend, STEVE CARTER.

God rest his soul.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. SMITH].

Mr. SMITH of Iowa. Mr. Speaker, I knew STEVEN CARTER for many years. He represented a district where several dozen of my relatives lived. He practiced law in this district in a wonderful, quiet, Christian town called Leon, where he was also laid to rest on the west slope of a hill overlooking a quiet valley. He not only was a leading citizen of that area, but he was also typical of those who live so close to the soil, to nature, and to God, and to life itself.

He was clean, quiet, temperate, and understanding of others. He could disagree without being disagreeable. He was also very persistent, as he quietly pressed forward for the things in which he believed.

He ran for Congress for 10 years before being elected. Each time, becoming known to more people for the man he was. He loved his work and he stood at attention looking straight forward and never yielded to the pain and suffering until he fell.

As he became weaker physically, he became even stronger in his determination to serve as he had promised. He greatly taxed his remaining strength to come to the House floor and to work for those things he had promised to support. He hoped that his sickness would disappear, but he hoped even more that his colleagues would give all their support to research and other measures to spare others of suffering.

He acquired a wide knowledge of public affairs and his mind was very clear as to the direction he should move. Even when he was suffering with pain, he suffered no difficulty in finding his direction. His attitude was an inspiration to all of us to work harder in our years upon this earth, and a reminder of the value of our time.

Few men have worked as long to serve such a short time, and few Members who served a long time ever did more in a long time than he did in a short time.

The Fourth District of Iowa has lost a constructive and aggressive legislator and though this body has lost his personal affiliation for all time, we have permanently gained from the impression STEVEN CARTER made upon us. Like his family, we have lost from the fact that we can gain no more from his personal association.

To his family, I express my deepest sympathy—our heart goes out to them. May the Lord bless them all.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. SCHWENGEL].

Mr. SCHWENGEL. Mr. Speaker, I most certainly want to add my words of tribute to this fine gentleman with whom we have had the privilege of serving in this great body. While I did not have the privilege many of you experienced of knowing him over a very long period of time, I did get to know him early after he came to this body and learned to respect and to love him because when it was necessary for him to make a decision he found it possible to see what was right and then took his position on that matter.

Our friend and colleague the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. JENSEN] spoke about his tolerance and fairness, and I am sure that we agree with him. I remember one occasion when we were appearing in behalf of an important project in his district and mine and certain statements were made involving another Member of Congress, a member of the other party, one of our colleagues. STEVEN CARTER saw that this was wrong and he took a position then and there to get the record straight even though it concerned a person very high in his party. I cite this to show that he had very deep convictions, and this is one of the reasons I think he was able to make the outstanding record he made even though he served so short a time and under very difficult circumstances. I remember particularly his attitude. Knowing of his condition, like many of you, I went by to pass the time of day almost every day when he was on the floor, and it was refreshing to know that even while in your own heart you felt there was not much chance, yet he had an optimistic attitude about this condition of his, and when inquiry was made about his health, he said: "Well,

I believe I am getting along all right, I am going to fight this through; I am getting stronger," and so forth. This optimistic attitude was good, I think, not only for himself, but also was particularly good for his colleagues. It is something that I learned is a good thing and I hope in the future it may stand me in good stead, as I am sure it will with those who have associated with him in this great body.

I noted, especially in my conversations with him, his interest in worthwhile things.

I was pleased to note at the funeral services, which I attended, that the man in charge—I have forgotten his name—called attention to the interest Mr. CARTER had in the Scouts, in the public schools, in the project that meant an improvement for the community, and particularly the youth of the community. This is an outstanding thing to note in a public servant.

Many things could be said about STEVE CARTER that would be an inspiration to all of us. I think it is a good thing for our colleague from the Sixth District of Iowa [Mr. COAD] to take the floor today and give us this opportunity to pay tribute to him and to have these things spread upon the record of the House.

I, too, join with my many colleagues on both sides of the aisle in extending sympathy to his fine family who will mourn his loss. But it must be an inspiration for them to know and to realize it was a great privilege of theirs, as it was to us, to know this man and to have lived with and under his influence.

There is a statement on a public building in my town which goes something like this, and I think of it when I think of men like STEVE CARTER:

What a man does for himself dies with him. But what a man does for his country, his friends and his Nation, lives forever.

In that sense this man will live, as many others who have gone before him, are living with us today and have their influence.

I join with my colleagues and with his friends, neighbors, and constituents of the First District of Iowa in extending sympathy to his very fine family.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert the speech by Dr. Roy Cheville which he gave on the occasion of STEVE CARTER's funeral in Leon, Iowa.

MOUNTAINS OF FAITH

Jesus talked to his followers about faith that would remove mountains. In his own daily life he lived by ascending mountains. He never waved a wand to remove some obstructing hill in order to make life easy. He faced life honestly and seriously and recognized there were mountains before him and at times around him. He climbed and from such vantage points saw in eternal perspective what could not have been seen so clearly in the valley. He surveyed life from the summits of mountains of faith. This day, we are reflecting on the life of a friend who faced the blockading effects of life's crags and peaks and climbed them to experience larger vision.

ON A MOUNTAIN

A few years ago a friend and I set out to climb Mt. Tamalpais in California. At the foothills the fog hung low and mists seemed to enshroud us. We met a hiker coming who had turned around when half way up the mountain. "It's wet and you can't see anything," was his warning. We pushed on and at the top, the sun broke through and we saw in glorious perspective the plains and hills. Beyond was the ocean, symbolical of the great unknown. The sun lightened the scene with cheerful warmth. We stood in silence for a while. There is little to say in the greatness of earth's wonders. There were only two of us. We do not take large companies when we climb up mountains of faith. Often we have to go alone. Many times we have to go in faith that the sun will break through.

Once I went with a company of youth to climb Mt. Manitou in Colorado. The hurrying crowd called out, "Who'll get there first?" They scampered away without looking to the right or to the left. On reaching the top they called out, "Who'll get down first?" How little they saw! How much they missed. Some of us walked a while and then looked out over the valley. Then at the top the glorious picture stretched out before us. We have to get up high enough to see life in its totality and in its relationships. Close up to Notre Dame we may see only a gargoyle staring at us. At a distance we see the total historic cathedral in proportion and balance.

THE MOUNTAIN VIEW OF MOSES

In the sunset years of Moses' life, he climbed Mt. Pisgah and saw the promised land. He had given his life to a people who did not understand him. He had dedicated himself to taking his people toward the country that he would never enter. A man of smaller spiritual stature might have complained and given up. Not Moses. He saw with God. This is the simple story.

"And Moses went up from the plains of Moab, unto the mountains of Nebo, to the top of Pisgah * * *

"And the Lord showed him all the land of Gilead, unto Dan * * *

"And the Lord said unto him, 'this is the land which I swear unto Abraham, and unto Jacob * * *

"I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not go thither."

Here was faith of the first order. Moses saw his place in an ongoing purpose that was to last beyond his day. A measure of a man is in that to which he devotes his life, for which he gives all he has. Little souls want comforts and awards at the immediate moment. Great souls give themselves to things that may not be realized in their lifetimes. They believe the worthwhile will come to pass. They are happy in moving forward toward the goodly land.

The letter to the Hebrews refers to the roster of the faithful. It speaks of those who gave because they saw the distant scene that would never be their homeland.

"These all died in the faith, not having received the promises but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them." Hebrews 11:13.

THE PISGAH VIEW

Once Sir John Adams used a term in a class on comparative education that has enriched my life. He spoke of "the Pisgah view." He urged us all to look at things from the mountain view. From this loftier height we would be able to see these ways. (1) In relative importance. Sometimes we are too close to see relative worths. Life becomes, as an Archbishop of Canterbury told students of Oxford, like a store window in which a prankster came in over night and changed the price tags. We get our values confused. With clearer perspective some things fade into insignificance. (2) In long-time perspective. We see things so often in a 5-minute outlook. Reinhold Neibuhr, when accused of being pessimistic, told his friend that he would have a pessimism about the decades but a faith in the eons. (3) With the procession of explorers. From Mt. Pisgah we see with prophetic spirits who have seen with God. Up here we sense with Flaubert that "the principal thing in this world is to keep one's soul aloft."

BEYOND TIME MEASUREMENT

On the mountains of faith there are no time clocks, no calendars. The eternal process and purpose moves on. We see it moving on and on. We get into it and go forward. Recently, I visited with a professional architect who had lost his eyesight. Day and night meant nothing to him. He was touching reality without these limitations. Still he was dreaming big things. He was climbing the mountains of faith. I say to such as he—

We live in deeds, not years; . . .
In feelings, not in figures on the dial.
We count time by heart throbs.
He lives most who thinks most,
Feels the noblest, acts the best.

Today I am not concerned about how long my friend lived in calendar years. I am not interested in recording mileage. Rather, am I interested in what he saw when he climbed his Mt. Pisgah.

LIVES THAT IMPEL US

Lives of courageous faith stir us to climb. Recently I read the story of Rick Fox who went from Colorado to Baylor University. He was to study medicine. He was the top man of his class the first year. In his second year recurrent pains in his stomach sent him to the doctor. The man of medicine was honest, "Rick, I've got to give it to you straight. You have terminal cancer and you can't live." Rick's reply, "Let me have 30 minutes alone with God." He came back ready for the future. "Use me as a laboratory specimen. I will memo my reactions." To his classmates came this injunction, "Be a good doctor." He wanted to go home to his loved ones in the mountains. Sixty students lined the way to the airport as he was wheeled to the plane. The silver plane was lost in the clouds. Two days later he was gone. These medical students could never forget his word from his mountain of faith, "Be a good doctor."

THESE EXPRESSIONS OF HOPE AND FAITH

Today I hold to the fore these expressions of hope and faith that showed up in the mountains of faith of Steven Carter. (1) The intent to achieve education and professional life. He was not born in wealth and served on silver platters. There were no rich relatives to put him forward in school. There was dogged determination to make his own way. And this he did. (2) The facing of reality. He knew quite well his health hazard. He did not indulge in neurotic escapism. He did not moan, "Why did this have to happen to me?" He did not turn to complaining. He saw things squarely and honestly. With him I associate these lines of Longfellow—

Fear not in a world like this
And thou shalt know ere long,
Know how sublime a thing it is
To suffer and be strong.

(3) The last mountain of faith. In the closing days when departing came nearer, the serenity of faith stood out. There was concern about what matters most in the family, in the political arena, in the personal commitment to God.

AFTER GRADUATION

Out of my educational background I have come to think of death as a graduation day when we move on into the University of Eternity. Only those have right to eternity who find life so full, so short, so that an eternity is needed. For others eternity would be a monstrous boredom with nothing to do. Steven Carter just got well started in the business of living. With his questing spirit, he should find the University of Eternity appealing. From Mt. Pisgah he sees the great stretches of the promised land yet to be explored.

It has been said that those fear death who have lived poorly here and that those who wish death are those who have weakened here. The healthy man neither fears death nor desires death. He lives meaningfully each day and wants more time, but when the trumpet sounds that his present mountain-climbing is over, he stands confidently on Mt. Pisgah, with God at his side and says, "It is well."

THESE WORDS FROM THE MOUNTAIN

Today, let us climb our own mountains of faith. Here let us find release from the pressure of things of passing worth. Here let us see the wholeness of life. Here let us meet the God of Life, as Moses did, and be assured of His concern for us. Here let us dedicate ourselves to things that go beyond our time. We look ahead in hope that something we have done and are doing will be carrying our people on toward the land of promise.

In the quiet we hear what Moses said to Joshua. I hear Steven Carter saying it to his sons—

"The Lord thy God will go before thee."
"Fear not, neither be discouraged."

And we hear what Moses said to his people—

"The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms."

"As thy days, so shall thy strength be."

This day from the mountain of faith we hear God pointing us to the land to be, to the life we shall make come to pass, through our common endeavor with God's guidance. We hear Moses' watchword to Joshua as the heritage of Steven Carter to us, "Be strong and of good courage."

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. ROONEY.]

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that all our hearts were saddened by the tragic passing of our distinguished colleague, the Honorable STEVEN V. CARTER, who died at the Bethesda Naval Hospital on last November 4.

At the time of his passing he represented the Fourth Congressional District of Iowa. His short service in the House of Representatives was under the shadow of the dreaded disease of cancer and much of his time was spent in and out of hospitals. He showed great spunk and courage in his efforts to recover from his severe illness. He impressed me as an able and intelligent legislator and he will be sadly missed by the House of Representatives, the people of his district, the State of Iowa, and the Nation.

His wife and sons have my deepest sympathy in their great loss.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. ALBERT].

Mr. ALBERT. Mr. Speaker, I join the Iowa delegation in paying this word of tribute to STEVEN CARTER. STEVE was a Christian gentleman, he was one of God's noblemen. He was my friend.

Although during the last weeks of his service in this House it was obvious that he was burdened with an affliction from which he would probably never recover, he spread the sunshine of optimism wherever he went. He was a person who never gave up. He was friendly; he was kind; he was courageous; he was considerate, even to those who disagreed with him.

We have lost a fine Member who served with us for only a short time.

I extend my deepest sympathy to his widow and children. May God be with them in their bereavement.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Utah [Mr. KING].

Mr. KING of Utah. Mr. Speaker, on the sad day of November 4, 1959, after a lingering but valiant struggle, there passed from our midst our distinguished colleague, the Honorable STEVEN V. CARTER, who, for 1 year, had so ably represented the Fourth District of Iowa in the Congress of the United States.

I rise on this occasion to pay tribute to STEVE, only in a small measure because of the fact he was born in my district, the Second Utah Congressional District, but principally because I loved him. He was a great and a noble man.

Congressman CARTER was a man of quiet but indomitable courage. The circumstances of his passing, with which we are all familiar, evoked the spontaneous admiration and respect of every Member of this body.

STEVE was passionately devoted to the democratic processes. In his way of thinking, every citizen had equal responsibility to give expression to his opinions and to invigorate his Government by aggressive participation in its processes on the local level. Whatever was worth believing in was worth fighting for.

In his mind the great champions of democracy were its honest citizens who, without expectation of office or reward, played their part year after year in familiarizing themselves with the vital national issues and in casting honest votes for honest government. His greatest heroes were those who bore arms for the preservation and the advancement of peace.

STEVE was gentle but fearlessly devoted to the accomplishment of his chosen objectives. Although his tenure in Congress was short, his influence was long and penetrating. He affected my own life for the good, and I will remember him affectionately as long as memory continues.

I express my condolences to his lovely wife, Lucy, and to his splendid sons, Steven A. and Chuck.

Mr. Speaker, on November 5, Elder Edmund J. Gleazer, Jr., of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and a classmate of STEVE's, gave tribute to him at a memorial service held in Washington, D.C., which I extend at this point in the RECORD as a part of my remarks:

STEVEN V. CARTER: MEMORIAL SERVICE, NOVEMBER 5, 1959

(By Edmund J. Gleazer, Jr.)

In just a few minutes the Carter family will leave for Iowa. Before they go there should be some acknowledgment of what they have achieved, not only for themselves, but for many others whose lives they touched. I use the word "achieved" purposefully.

STEVEN CARTER, Lucy, and Steven A., and Chuck, have met adversity and turned it into victory. They have fought battles during this past year such as all mortal men must fight, and out of it all there has arisen, for those who have the eyes to see, a tender love, not confined to their family; a faith tried and refined; and a quality of courage worthy of the great ones who have come to this Nation's Capitol in its finest hours. I call this achievement; not easily won, but a consummation of vision built upon dedication and interwoven with an honest desire to serve one's fellowmen.

STEVE CARTER wanted to serve his country in the Halls of Congress. The privilege was granted but not for a period of long duration. Many of his days during this past year were spent in the hospital. But although the time was short, the force of his life will be felt far beyond the Eighty-sixth Congress; because it is in passing through the valleys of uncertainty and pain that men discover their common humanity and look with gratitude upon those of their number who bear their load without complaining; who can give a sincere smile when the going becomes most difficult.

I have not wanted to picture STEVE as a paragon of virtue—he would chuckle at any such attempt. However, it was my good fortune to know him best in the last few weeks of his life. We had been college friends years ago—but in those easy-going, breezy days, the real dimensions of a person's soul were not probed or measured. It has been in these recent sober times that we, together and with his family, began to plumb the depths of human experience and the understanding love of God. And in this growing fellowship with the Father of us all we found our hearts much more closely joined. Communication can be immeasurably richer when men commit themselves to uncharted areas in the realm of faith and hope and beyond the edge of knowledge. And in this setting there came to all of us with new assurance that "The eternal God is thy dwelling place, And underneath are the everlasting arms."

In these few moments we memorialize not only STEVEN CARTER but most surely those virtues and qualities without which a nation of free men cannot stand. These qualities are forged in the heat of the conflict of good with evil; the opposition of self-centeredness and the common welfare; the struggle between men's aspirations for a better world and their content with the present. I want to say, as the body of STEVEN CARTER leaves this city, that I saw him on a hospital bed reveal in the way he met the most serious issues of life the essential elements of leadership in a democracy.

His going, therefore, is not a retreat but rather a signal to us at a most critical time to reassess the purposes to which we dedicate ourselves during the span of our days. The time is all too short for any one of us. We are called to answer our own commissions. So, let us turn to our unfinished tasks in the belief that "there is a God in heaven who is infinite and eternal, from everlasting to everlasting the same unchangeable God, the framer of heaven and earth and all things which are in them."

It is this faith that gives support to our virtues.

It is in this faith that we find true fellowship.

It is by this faith that we humbly and repentantly seek His benediction for each of us.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. HECHLER].

Mr. HECHLER. Mr. Speaker, we are all going to miss STEVE CARTER. We are going to miss his courage. We are going to miss that gentle voice back of which was a determination and a conviction of steel.

Frequently I used to sit by STEVE CARTER in this Chamber and shared with him some of his hopes and aspirations for his State, his Nation, and for all humanity. I remember very clearly the maiden speech which STEVE CARTER gave in this Chamber. I was sitting next to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. YATES] when Mr. YATES said, "Close your eyes a minute and listen." And we closed our eyes and we agreed that the voice of STEVE CARTER sounded very similar to Raymond Massey's famous lines in the play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." This was not by chance, because there was much of Abraham Lincoln in STEVE CARTER's philosophy and personality.

Yes; we are going to miss STEVE CARTER, but his spirit will always remain with us.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. RANDALL].

Mr. RANDALL. Mr. Speaker, in the memorial remarks I am about to make I shall be very brief, because I think that is the way STEVE CARTER would have wanted it. Coming here in March I was junior even to the short tenure of STEVE'S, and yet sitting here in this Chamber time and time again he was helpful. He pointed out some things that he thought I ought to know that had not been explained to me.

It has been said here this morning that there is something unusual about any U.S. Representative who can represent 300,000 to 400,000 people. But, there was something very unusual about STEVE CARTER. He had a quiet, mild manner, but underneath it all there was a philosophy of life that I enjoyed hearing him express.

I think you can tell something about a man by being at his last rites. There is an old adage that a prophet is not without honor except in his own country, but I saw there that Sunday afternoon at Leon, Iowa, genuine grief expressed, heartfelt grief. No church was large enough to house the assemblage and being the only Member of this body outside of the Iowa delegation there, I observed something that I shall never forget. Hundreds and hundreds and hundreds of people passed by that bier and hundreds more waited outside in that cold temperature, unable to get into the school building, which was filled to capacity.

Yes; this House will miss STEVE CARTER in this ensuing session. I am sure we all extend our sincere condolences to his fine wife, Lucy, to his right arm, Steve, Jr., and to the younger son.

Mr. MEYER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the distinguished gentleman from Vermont.

Mr. MEYER. Mr. Speaker, when I came to Washington early in December of 1958 to make some preliminary arrangements, STEVE CARTER was the first new colleague I met. At that time he appeared to me to be in good spirits, in good health, and strong. As time went on, I made good friends with all of the new Members from Iowa. The thing that I remember most about STEVE CAR-

TER was that he was a man who thought, thought deeply, and thought well. He expressed himself well. He stuck to very high principles. Not so many of us are able to shed much light on this world of ours, but I am certain that STEVE CARTER lit a candle and that the candle that he lit will continue to cast a light for some time to come.

I know that I shall miss him. I know we shall all miss him. I extend my sympathy to his family and to the people of his district.

Mr. JOHNSON of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. COAD. I yield to the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. JOHNSON].

Mr. JOHNSON of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I wish to join my tribute to the heartfelt tributes already paid here today to our beloved late colleague, STEVE CARTER. He was one of the first junior Members of the Congress that I met upon my arrival here last year. I know that early in the year he was making plans for the long pull; even after he knew that the risks were rising he continued to devote himself to the study of the problems facing the country, to the duties of this office and to the best of his strength and ability he was faithful in his performance of his duties of this office.

Late in the year he had high hopes that he had successfully surmounted the illness which beset him. Throughout the entire trying experience of last year STEVE CARTER showed that quiet courage, that patient devotion to duty, that hope for the future, that confidence in himself and in the Congress and in the Nation, and from his example all of us certainly can take renewed hope and renewed heart as we face our duties in the coming year, without STEVE. I wish to add my words of comfort to those who especially feel the loss of our beloved colleague.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend my remarks at this point in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, since the close of the 1st session of the 86th Congress, the House of Representatives has suffered a sad loss in the death of our friend and colleague, STEVEN V. CARTER, Democrat, of Iowa. Mr. CARTER, who had just reached his 44th birthday on October 8, died on November 4 at Bethesda Naval Hospital of an illness against which he had been making a gallant fight since 1957. I have been proud to look upon STEVE CARTER as a personal friend, and feel I had come to know him well, even in the brief time he has been with us as a freshman Congressman. He was a man of unselfish devotion to the public good, of high personal ambition and strong party loyalty, faithful to the trust his constituents had reposed in him.

As I said on a previous occasion, I repeat now, "STEVEN CARTER was one of the bravest men I ever saw in public service." The distinguished Speaker of the House of Representatives commented on the same occasion, the return of STEVEN CARTER to his seat in the House in September 1959, speaking for the membership of the House generally: "He has impressed all of us as an earnest, honest and able legislator."

I will never forget his courage and devotion to duty during the closing days of the last session when he came from the Naval Hospital in Bethesda to vote on an important measure that was being considered by the House at that time. His bravery and devotion to duty brought tears to the eyes of many members.

During his service in the House, brief though it was, Representative CARTER was successful in securing substantial benefits for his district, including an appropriation for a dam in the Des Moines River Valley and a missile tracking station, and sponsored several bills of national significance. Among these was a bill for a half-billion-dollar crash program against cancer, heart disease, cerebral palsy, arthritis, and multiple sclerosis. Another was to establish more effective controls over peacetime nuclear tests and over the disposal of nuclear wastes. His, too, is a proposed amendment of the United Nations Charter to promote the rule of law in international affairs.

STEVEN CARTER had served in the Navy in the South Pacific during World War II, and was an active member of both the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. For 19 years he was a practicing lawyer in Leon, Iowa. A major interest of his life was Scouting, and for 15 years he served the movement as scoutmaster, cubmaster, and senior Scout adviser. He also served on the Executive Board of the Southern Iowa Area Council of Boy Scouts of America. His wife, his two sons, may mourn him proudly, as befits the heirs of one whose thoughts were noble, and whose actions brave, and who endured the onslaughts of his final illness with patient fortitude.

To Mrs. Carter and her loved ones, I extend my deep sympathy in their great loss and sorrow.

Mrs. ROGERS of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I learned with deep sorrow of the death of our fellow Member and friend, STEVEN V. CARTER.

He was a man of fine ability and strong convictions, and I have never seen greater courage in great physical suffering.

He was devoted to the veterans' cause, and it was fine to work with him. The people of Massachusetts who met him at the time of the hearings on veterans' affairs at the statehouse liked and appreciated him so much.

We extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathy to his loved ones.

Mr. ROOSEVELT. Mr. Speaker, STEVEN CARTER was a marked man from the beginning of his term in the House of Representatives. He had won a signal political victory, then had exhibited for all to see a devotion to duty and courage, in the face of physical afflictions, which are only the gifts of the very great and true men.

Knowing STEVE and sharing with him his beliefs and ideals was a privilege which none who have had it will soon forget. If he was taken away from us before he could complete his work, he should feel assured that he left a host of friends determined to plow ahead. The rich memories which he has left behind will be augmented, Mr. Speaker, by the many thoughtful and generous gifts which, at the wish of STEVE and his family, have been turned into dollars to find a cure for the dread disease that struck him down.

The Eleanor Roosevelt Institute for Cancer Research, to which these gifts have been entrusted, is not only deeply grateful for the thought of STEVE, which the donors have so eloquently expressed, but for the responsibility which these gifts give to that institute to strive in every way to make that help bring to reality through research the cure, or cures, which may lie ahead for thousands in the future.

To all his friends, but especially to his wife and his family, go our warmest and deepest expressions of friendship and sympathy and the hope that the plaque which will be erected at the Eleanor Roosevelt Institute for Cancer Research in STEVE's honor will symbolize, in some part at least for them, the many contributions which STEVE made to others during his life.

Mr. HOEVEN. Mr. Speaker, I join my Iowa colleagues in expressing deep regret at the passing of my good friend, STEVE CARTER. Although I did not know him before he came to Congress, I soon learned to admire and respect him. His unfortunate illness brought out the best in him. In spite of his pain and suffering he faced life with a smile. During his short service in the House, STEVE CARTER demonstrated his ability as a good public servant.

I attended the funeral of STEVE CARTER where I saw demonstrated, at the large attendance, the love and respect in which he was held by his friends and neighbors, who knew him best. STEVE CARTER well served his day and generation.

Mrs. Hoeven joins me in extending our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Carter and all members of the family.

Mr. ELLIOTT. Mr. Speaker, I did not know STEVEN CARTER for a long time. He sat in this body for a single session. But I can say that in that period his demeanor and work made it obvious that his death is a great loss to his district, State, and Nation. I pay tribute to him as a man of devotion to his country who in the space of a year won the esteem of his colleagues and promised to be a great legislator.

STEVEN CARTER served his Nation in many ways: as an officer in the U.S. Navy, as a leader in Boy Scout work, as an active layman in the Christian Church, and as a citizen fulfilling civic responsibility. For 10 years prior to his election he was a worker in the political activity of his district.

I think he will be long remembered here despite his short tenure; and that memory will be one of a fine, outstanding American who gave great service to his Nation. I extend to his family my deepest sympathy for their great loss.

Mr. TEAGUE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, along with others who have previously spoken, I want to add my word of tribute to the late STEPHEN V. CARTER, who, in the brief time he served in the House of Representatives, did so much to make his mark in this body and to cause us to remember him for many years to come.

It was my good fortune to have our late colleague assigned to the Committee on Veterans' Affairs as one of the newly elected Members of the 86th Congress. I named him to the Subcommittees on Administration and Insurance, and, also, he was a member of a special subcommittee, headed by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. MITCHELL], which was appointed to specifically consider three important administrative proposals. Of the three proposals, House bill 6319 became Public Law 86-146 and established new safeguards relative to the accumulation and disposition of certain funds of incompetent veterans. This proposal will result in the saving of large amounts of money to the Federal Government, while, at the same time, protect the rights of all of those unfortunate veterans who have been declared incompetent.

The second proposal upon which the gentleman from Iowa worked was House bill 7106, which was enacted as Public Law 86-222, and which repealed the forfeiture procedure applicable to veterans' benefits and, in effect, ended the double penalty which has been applicable to veterans who made misstatements or gave false information concerning a claim before the Veterans' Administration.

The enactment of both of these proposals was aided by the advice and counsel of the Honorable STEPHEN V. CARTER, and we were looking forward to his same calm, judicial approach to the other matter pending before this subcommittee, namely, judicial review for veterans' claims.

Our colleague was held in the highest esteem, respect, and admiration by all of those who served with him on the committee and this was true regardless of party. His kind manner and his willingness to cooperate in any endeavor to which he was assigned will be cherished by all of us who knew him while he was a member of our committee. To his wife and children I extend my heartfelt sympathy and know that the ability and integrity of this servant of the people is a great source of comfort to his family in their hour of loss.

Mr. O'HARA of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, although I knew the Honorable STEVEN V. CARTER but slightly, he has left with me a memory that cannot be erased. It was on one of the closing days of the first session. The vote was crucial and it was bound to be close. I looked around and saw, a few seats removed, STEVE CARTER, slightly bent forward, his face chalky white, obviously laboring in great pain. The end was not far away, and he knew it. Yet he was there, at his post of duty, to answer his name when the roll was called. I shall always think of it as one of the sublimest exhibitions of courage, in the challenge of duty, that ever has come to my attention.

My heart goes out to his widow and the members of his family. He left them the inspiration and heritage of a noble life lived nobly, with faith and with courage, to the very last painful moment.

Mr. KYL. Mr. Speaker, in the congressional campaign of 1958 I was a political opponent of the late STEVEN CARTER. He was my Congressman the year he served in the House.

In the years I have known STEVEN CARTER he was a Christian gentleman and a man of courage. He was a good father, and his love of young people took his efforts beyond his family to activities with the Boy Scouts and other youth groups. He was a good neighbor, and the support his home people gave him at the political polls is proof of the high regard in which he was held by those who know him best.

For his fine family there should be solace in the fact that his life was dedicated to that which is right, and that he will remain an inspiration for many who had the benefit of his guidance.

Mr. COAD. Mr. Speaker, I offer a resolution (H. Res. 402).

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That the House has heard with profound sorrow of the death of the Honorable STEVEN V. CARTER, a Representative from the State of Iowa.

Resolved, That the Clerk communicate these resolutions to the Senate and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased.

The resolution was agreed to.

THE LATE ALVIN R. BUSH

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FENTON].

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, it is with a great deal of sadness that I announce to the membership of the House of Representatives the sudden death of our beloved colleague, ALVIN R. BUSH, of R.D. 2, Muncy, Pa., on Thursday, November 5, 1959, at the Williamsport (Pa.) Hospital.

Following the adjournment of the first session of the 86th Congress, Mr. BUSH, as was his custom, toured a great part of the counties in Pennsylvania which comprised his district—the 17th.

On Monday evening, November 2, he made his annual visitation to the Jersey Shore Rotary Club where he made his last speech.

Tuesday morning, November 3—election day—apparently in good health, he voted in his home precinct. He retired that evening at 10 o'clock.

Mr. BUSH awoke at 4:45 a.m. on Wednesday, complaining of chest pains and he was immediately transferred to the Williamsport Hospital. He suffered another attack that same night and his condition became critical. He passed away on Thursday, November 5, at 12:30 p.m.

AL BUSH, as he was affectionately called, was one of the finest gentlemen that I ever met. He was kind and always considerate of his fellow man.

I became acquainted with AL several years before he came to Congress, and with his election to the seat vacated by former Representative Robert F. Rich, who was not a candidate for reelection, I learned to know him for the gentleman that he was.

Mr. BUSH was elected to the 82d Congress on November 7, 1950. He was reelected every 2 years, and consequently was in his fifth term. During his service in the House he served on various committees, such as the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Department, and the Committee on Public Works. During the present term of Congress he was a member of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Mr. BUSH served his constituency with distinction. His paramount thought at all times was the welfare of his country, his constituents, and family.

Born June 4, 1893, in Boggs Township, Clearfield County, Pa., he attended a country school until he was 13 years old, at which time necessity forced him to go to work in the coal mines.

In 1913 he obtained a job as a mechanic's apprentice in a Clearfield machine shop, after which he opened up a small repair shop in Philipsburg, Pa.

During the First World War, Mr. BUSH served with the Army in France. After his release from the service, he returned to Philipsburg. In 1920 he purchased a small bus line serving the surrounding rural communities. He drove the buses himself and repaired them at night.

Mr. BUSH migrated to Williamsport in 1932 at a time when buses were replacing trolley cars in that city. He, and later his son, Alvin C. Bush, operated the Williamsport Transportation Co. until a few years ago when they sold it.

Mr. BUSH purchased and modernized the Wyno Farms, making it one of the show places of his area. His Guernsey herd is recognized as one of the finest in the country.

He was a member of the Methodist Church, the American Legion, the 40 and 8, Veterans of Foreign Wars, various Masonic organizations, Pennsylvania Breeders Association, and the Consolidated Sportsmen of Lycoming County.

He had been a director of the Muncy Valley Hospital and the Lycoming County Fair Association, relinquishing these because his presence in Washington prevented him from attending meetings.

He was a director of the Lowery Electric Co., and Radio Station WWPA, and served on the Advisory Committee of the Williamsport Salvation Army.

AL and his dear wife, Lucinda, visited at my home, and Mrs. Fenton and I visited them at their home. We shall indeed miss him.

In addition to his wife, Lucinda M., a daughter Shirley, wife of John H. Eck, and a son, Alvin C. Bush, survive; also four grandchildren.

AL BUSH was the type of citizen who is so greatly needed in our country today. A real American, he was a living example of what can be accomplished by hard work and individual initiative. There never was a finer exponent of the free enterprise system that has made the United States the greatest country of all. His belief in his fellow man, his strong character, and his will to assist all, endeared AL BUSH to men and women in all walks of life.

AL BUSH's achievements and success were his own. I feel that in his recent years he found much self-satisfaction in a job well done.

I have lost a real and sincere friend, his community, district, and State have lost a faithful and very able public servant, and our country has lost a capable, conscientious statesman.

Our country has lost a great champion for the liberties and freedoms which we still enjoy, and which, as AL so often said, did so much for him.

I know that God will give Mrs. Bush and her loved ones the strength and fortitude to carry on in the days ahead, and to help keep the Bush name the fine symbol of Americanism that it has stood for in so many years of life and progress.

The heartfelt sympathy of myself and my family go out to Mrs. Bush and her family in their great loss. May God comfort them all is my most sincere wish.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to our colleague, the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HALLECK].

Mr. HALLECK. Mr. Speaker, last fall, shortly after adjournment of the 1st session of this 86th Congress, it was my pleasure to visit the 17th District of Pennsylvania at the invitation of our late colleague, the Honorable ALVIN R. BUSH.

I could not possibly have had a more gracious host, a statement all of you here who knew AL BUSH as I did will understand and appreciate.

It was my privilege, during that visit, to serve as guest speaker at a banquet in Williamsport at which AL was honored for his years of service here in the House of Representatives.

As one who had developed a deep affection for our gentle colleague, you may be certain I took full advantage of the opportunity to offer my testimonial to AL BUSH, in his presence and before his people as a dedicated American.

How happy I am now that this opportunity came my way back in October of 1959.

And how shocked and grieved I was to learn, such a short time after this happy experience at Williamsport, that death had come to a wonderful person who had so recently appeared to be in good health, and who so obviously was enjoying the challenge of his career here in the Congress.

The AL BUSH I knew was a hard-working, versatile, and effective Representative who understood his responsibilities and who met them.

But I think the picture all of us will carry through the years when we remember our friend is that of a man who was extraordinarily kind to everyone he met, regardless of station. This was no kindness born of expediency. AL BUSH was kind because he genuinely liked people. And they liked him.

I will not soon forget the warmth of the reception given him by so many of his friends and neighbors at the dinner meeting in Williamsport.

And I shall always be grateful that the chance came my way to take part in such a richly deserved tribute to a dear friend.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to our colleague the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ARENDS].

Mr. ARENDS. Mr. Speaker, it is impossible for me to convey in words the loss I have felt with the passing of my friend AL BUSH. As we begin the work of this session, all of us will miss the contribution he invariably made to our deliberations.

AL was a quiet, unassuming man who was always seeking ways that he could be helpful. He loved people, and he had innumerable friends. To him friendship was something to be cherished, and there was not anything he would not do to aid a friend. He was a personal friend of mine whom I shall never forget. I think he was an inspiration to all of us, for whom we had great affection and respect.

AL BUSH was a man of convictions, and he had the courage to express them and to adhere to them, come what may. He sought nothing for himself. He was not interested in fame and glory. He was solely interested in doing that which he thought would best advance the welfare of the people he represented and the country as a whole.

Before coming to Congress he was a successful businessman. As a member of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, he brought to the deliberations of that committee his knowledge and experience in the field of transportation. At one time he was general manager of the Williamsport Transportation Co. and served as president of the Pennsylvania Bus Association.

When he was called to the Great Beyond and met his Maker, I am sure it was said to him, "Well done, my good and faithful servant."

I extend my sincerest sympathy to his fine wife and family. I hope they can find some consolation in the knowledge that AL left footprints on the sands of time that serve to guide us all for fruitful living. He now lives peacefully in the heavenly temple of the Lord.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. TABER].

Mr. TABER. Mr. Speaker, ALVIN BUSH succeeded Robert Rich here. He came from a district which has always had the highest type of representation and he maintained that type himself. He always stood for the legislation which would help the people of the United States and against that tendency that has been so apparent in recent years to waste the people's money and break down our Government. I admired the way he handled himself in his work here and everywhere else very much.

His people suffered a great loss. At the same time we can be thankful that they had a man of such a fine character here.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. BOW].

Mr. BOW. Mr. Speaker, in the loss of ALVIN BUSH we have lost one of God's great noblemen. I felt that AL BUSH was the exemplification of all that was good in this country; one who was able to rise to the heights in this House from an humble beginning; one who never lost humility, which endeared him to all of us.

He came to Congress in the same session that I came here. He was a good and close friend of mine throughout these years. His great concern for so many he cared for is what made him stand apart from others. He had a sister who lives in my district in the State of Ohio, who suffered a tragedy a little over a year ago. AL BUSH came to me at that time and asked me if I would be of service to his sister if the occasion ever arose. She came to me not long ago and told me many things about AL BUSH as a young man, and how he rose, and the things he did. It was a great story of Americana.

I am proud to join with the Members of Pennsylvania in extending to his family our most sincere sympathy, and to his sister who I am sure misses him.

It is hard to fill the place left by so noble a man as Mr. BUSH.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to my colleague, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. DAGUE].

Mr. DAGUE. Mr. Speaker, the untimely passing of our esteemed and respected colleague, ALVIN R. BUSH, has cast the pall of sadness over this opening session and as we mark his vacant place we are not inclined to question the wisdom of the Master in taking him from us, but instead we pause to ponder the uncertainty of this life's journey and the temporary nature of these associations we hold so dear.

AL BUSH appreciated the privilege of service in this body as must any humble man who had found his greatest joy in the simple companionship of friends and loved ones in a country environment. But AL BUSH, to a greater degree than most, brought to the Congress an awareness of the needs of his people and a determination to preserve for them those fundamental freedoms for which his forebears fought a dictatorial king and his minions.

The ties between AL and myself were unusually close since we represented districts embracing comparable philosophies. In addition, we enjoyed the confidence of each other and a perusal of our voting records will reveal that we saw eye-to-eye on most of the issues. Truly, Mr. Speaker, this House has not sustained a loss since I have been here that has touched me more deeply.

His widow and his children are bravely carrying on as AL would have them do and I know that they have been greatly comforted by the assurance that his colleagues in the Congress are joined with them in mourning the passing of this great and good American. May our guardian and guide have them in His care and keeping.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. ROONEY].

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. Speaker, it is with a feeling of genuine sorrow that I raise my voice in brief but sincere tribute to the life and character and public service of Hon. ALVIN RAY BUSH, of the 17th District of Pennsylvania, who passed away on last November 5.

At the time of his death ALVIN BUSH was the third-ranking Republican on the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. While I did not have the years of close personal association and contact with him that some of his other colleagues may have had, I nevertheless acquired a very high regard for his character and ability as a legislator. He was a dignified and kindly gentleman, a fine man who always impressed me as one who could appreciate the problems of his fellowman.

I extend to my friend's wife and daughter and son my deepest sympathy.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MUMMA].

Mr. MUMMA. Mr. Speaker, I have listened intently to the remarks covering the life, character, and public service of my friend ALVIN BUSH, and I join in them believing they have been absolutely correct, not an overstatement, but in fact understatement. I think I can qualify as a witness to Mr. BUSH's character for I believe I was closer to him than any Member of this House without making any exception. He was my "ride"—you know what that means—I traveled with him up to Harrisburg and back for 9 years and I got to know him very well. In addition to that I ate dinner with him practically every night we were in town; and some of the boys can attest that we ate lunch together almost every day. In all these trips and meetings, we would have an opportunity for quiet discussion of issues in Congress that seemed to be most pertinent that week. Thus I got to know AL BUSH, and I concur in everything that has been said about him.

One thing in his life that was omitted is the fact that he was also the owner of a bus system serving suburban Harrisburg. At one time they had 100 buses in operation. AL used to tell me how he started work in a clay mine, which is sort of like a coal mine, and how he repaired those trucks at night. It is amazing to think of his building of that bus company in Harrisburg with 100 buses under his operation.

I miss him greatly, and from what I have heard here this afternoon, think that this is the general attitude of many, many Members of Congress.

I extend my very deepest sympathies to his wife and to his daughter, whom he was especially proud of, as well as to his son Alvin, a chip off the old block.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. ALBERT].

Mr. ALBERT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to join the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania and other colleagues in paying this word of tribute to ALVIN BUSH. Although we sat on different sides of the aisle, he was my friend. There is no aisle between friends in this House.

ALVIN BUSH was a man of few words but of deep convictions. He was a warm friend to all of those who had the privilege of knowing him.

ALVIN BUSH was a valuable Member of this House. He was a great character. This has been testified to today by Members who have had the opportunity to know him longer and more intimately than I.

I shall miss him.

I join in extending sympathy to his widow and children.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. LANE].

Mr. LANE. Mr. Speaker, we pause to honor the memory of our departed colleague, Representative ALVIN RAY BUSH of the 17th Pennsylvania District.

He came to us in 1950 to speak for the people of upper Pennsylvania and served them faithfully until his death in 1959.

To the many of us who are lawyers by profession and limited to the ways of urban life, it was a pleasure to work with AL BUSH who opened our eyes to the enduring values and beauties of the bountiful countryside that he loved so well.

AL was a breeder of purebred Guernsey cattle, and an authority on bus transportation. With this background he was able to bridge the difference between rural and urban problems and give us the benefit of his practical advice.

His assignment to the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee was a recognition of his painstaking ability to analyze all sides of a problem before making up his mind. And when he did, you could be sure that his opinion was sound.

Representative BUSH was an overseas veteran of World War I, a 32d degree Mason, and a devout member of the Pine Street Methodist Church.

He was as steady as they come, blessed with the self-reliance and the character that constitute the true strength of our people.

To his widow and his children we send the comfort of our sympathy and our gratitude for his services to the Nation.

AL BUSH was a loyal friend and a highly respected public servant.

He has joined the heavenly company of those whose lives on this earth were distinguished by the good they did for others.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUIGLEY].

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, in one brief 48-hour period during the first week of last November this body lost three distinguished Members and for myself three very good and very dear friends.

I had the privilege of knowing STEVE CARTER less than a year. I first made his acquaintance when he came to the 86th Congress, and I had the honor of serving with him as a member of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs of the House.

My close friendship with CHARLIE BOYLE and his wonderful family began some 5 years ago when we both entered this body as freshman Members of the 84th Congress. However, my friendship with AL BUSH predates my arrival to this body by many years. My first meeting with Mr. BUSH was not as a congressional colleague or as a political opponent. Our initial association was that of a lawyer-client relationship. As a young lawyer I had the task of guiding Congressman BUSH and his son through an acute crisis in their family bus business. During that case I literally lived in the Bush household. Ultimately the crisis passed. We all survived it, and I not only had the grand and satisfying reward of winning the case but of beginning a close and intimate friendship, a friendship which membership in this House has enkindled and a friendship which political differences never dampened.

Mr. Speaker, as we pause today to pay tribute to each of our departed colleagues who were with us when we adjourned last September and who are not with us today, and as we attempt to extend our condolences to the Bush, to the Boyle, and to the Carter families, I cannot help but note that in each of their untimely passings there is a stern reminder of the task remaining before us. AL BUSH was felled by a heart attack. CHARLIE BOYLE died in a tragic highway accident. STEVE CARTER was a victim of the dread disease cancer. The unanswered challenge to bring under control each of these three couriers of death and suffering and heartbreak, cancer, heart disease, and highway accidents, is a task that lies before us. There is nothing that we can say or do that will return our colleagues to us or to their families and the words we say here will at best be inadequate to console the families in their great loss, or even in paying a deserving tribute to each of our three departed colleagues.

However, Mr. Speaker, I suggest that in the days ahead we can here in the Congress do everything that it is possible for us to do to see to it that each of these three scourges which have struck down our colleagues are ultimately banished from our midst so that they will no longer be permitted to impose the heavy hand of sorrow they have visited on the families and friends of AL BUSH, CHARLIE BOYLE, and STEVE CARTER. I suggest, Mr. Speaker, in paying this tribute that no more fitting tribute could be paid to three great and good men.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to my distinguished colleague from Pennsylvania [Mr. CURTIN].

Mr. CURTIN. Mr. Speaker, when the roll of Members was called today opening this new session of the Congress, ALVIN BUSH was not here.

Last November 5 this great legislative body lost, by death, a most distinguished Member and I, together with many others, lost a close and dear friend.

ALVIN BUSH was a real Christian gentleman. He was one of the finest men I have ever had the privilege of knowing and one whose counsel and help was always available to any who sought it. He represented the 17th District of Pennsylvania in this Congress for 9 years with distinction and ability. He lived a full and rich life, dedicated to his family and to the unselfish service of his constituents and of his country.

He was a dedicated family man, completely devoted to his lovely wife and two fine children. They have my most sincere sympathy.

It is, therefore, with a heavy heart that I join in these services today for I have lost a loyal friend, his family has suffered an irreparable loss, and Pennsylvania has lost one of its most distinguished sons.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I now yield to my colleague, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MILLIKEN].

Mr. MILLIKEN. Mr. Speaker, I, too, would like to join with my colleagues in paying my respects to AL BUSH. I did not have the privilege of knowing him very long, but when I learned of his death I was greatly shocked and very much upset. I had known AL BUSH only in this 1st session of the 86th Congress, but I had learned to love him and respect his judgment. Many days, when trying problems and questions were before us, AL BUSH was a very steady hand to me and to the Pennsylvania delegation. I know that I, the Pennsylvania delegation and the Members of the U.S. House of Representatives will miss and remember AL BUSH for a long time.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the distinguished gentleman from Maine [Mr. MCINTIRE].

Mr. MCINTIRE. Mr. Speaker, the passing of AL BUSH takes from this body and from among us as individual Members, one of those whom we had learned to love. It was my privilege to enjoy his friendship, and to go to him for counsel and a discussion of the issues over these last 8 years that I have served in Congress.

I considered it a rare opportunity to count him among my personal friends and to realize that his warm friendship was most sincere, that his philosophy was basically entrenched in the great principles upon which this country was built; and that to the extent to which his influence could be felt, these were the principles that he wanted to see maintained as we wrestled with the great problems before this great body.

It was indeed with a distinct personal loss that I learned of his passing. Mrs. McIntire joins with me in extending our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Bush and the members of the family.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members who desire to do so may have 5 legislative days in which to extend their remarks on the life and services of our late colleague, AL BUSH.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, universal regrets among all Members of Congress were expressed at the untimely death of ALVIN RAY BUSH. For 9 years he served the 17th Pennsylvania District with credit and distinction. As a man of wide experience in business affairs, his sound, solid judgment was appreciated by all who knew him. He had but a single ambition and that was to serve faithfully and well his native State and the country. A great legislator and a great American died when AL BUSH passed away. Because of our warm friendship, his death was a deep personal loss to me. To his good wife and family I extended my heartfelt sympathy. In their hour of sorrow they can be comforted by the great service he did for mankind.

Mr. ROBISON. Mr. Speaker, it was my privilege to serve during two congressional years with the late ALVIN R. BUSH, of the 17th District of Pennsylvania.

AL was not only a colleague and congressional neighbor but, I am proud to say, a friend as well. Whenever matters of mutual interest to our adjoining districts arose, I was always afforded the courteous and capable cooperation of my friend. He will be sorely missed.

AL had many attributes which I am sure all of us found admirable. Among all those, I shall particularly remember his homespun humor, his constant cheerfulness even under adversity, and, above all, his integrity and devotion to the principle laid down by Henry Clay, in 1829, that, "Government is a trust, and the officers of government are trustees; and both the trust and trustees are created for the benefit of the people."

May I join with my colleagues in expressing my deepest sympathy to his family.

Mr. HORAN. Mr. Speaker, to those of us who were privileged to know AL BUSH there must come the real feeling of having lost a true friend. His was a constructive life and any review of AL BUSH's nearly three score and ten years here discloses all of the fine things that a truly patriotic, community-minded, and home-loving man can do to make this a better place in which to live, progress, and seek wholesome happiness.

We will all miss AL BUSH. I want to join with my colleagues in extending our sincere sympathies to his widow and his family.

Mr. LAFORE. Mr. Speaker, it is with a deep sense of personal loss and sadness that I rise to pay tribute to my distinguished colleague from Pennsylvania's 17th District, the late ALVIN R. BUSH.

He was a good man beloved not only by those who shared his political philosophy, but by those who disagreed.

As a new Member, I profited much by his experience, advice, and understanding.

His untimely death was not only a great personal loss but a loss to the State and Nation he served so well.

I would like to express my heartfelt sympathy to his family.

Mr. FLYNT. Mr. Speaker, I join with my colleagues in expressing my sorrow in the unexpected and untimely death last fall of our admired and respected friend, ALVIN R. BUSH. Congressman BUSH and I had served continuously on the same committee since I first became a Member of Congress.

He was a pleasant and affable associate in the work of our committee and in the work of the House of Representatives. He was an able and respected Representative of his State and district and a beloved Member of this body. He was a warm, personal friend.

Those of us who were closely associated with him knew him as a man of high integrity and character. He displayed intense interest on legislative matters which came before us, and he made valuable contributions to the legislative work during the entire period of his service as a Representative in Congress.

I shall always remember AL BUSH as a devoted public servant of ability, strength of character, humility and gentle nature. I shall also remember him as a devoted personal friend.

Mrs. FLYNT joins me in extending to Mrs. Bush and their children our deepest sympathy, and we share with them their sorrow.

Mr. VAN ZANDT. Mr. Speaker, on November 5, 1959, the Nation lost one of its outstanding citizens in the death of our colleague and my good friend ALVIN R. BUSH, who for many years represented the 17th District of Pennsylvania in a highly efficient manner.

AL, as he was commonly known, was born and reared in Boggs Township, Clearfield County, in my congressional district. Many of his relatives are my constituents and have told me over a period of years of AL's early life in the Clearfield-Philipsburg area in Pennsylvania. Like many successful Americans, AL BUSH began life in humble circumstances—as a matter of fact in the coal mines—and by diligent efforts he advanced himself in the business world and at the time of his death was one of central Pennsylvania's most successful and outstanding businessmen.

AL's experience as a soldier in World War I, his success in the business world, and his willingness to help and understand the problems of his fellow man were recognized by the residents of the 17th Congressional District when they sought a capable successor to former Representative Robert F. Rich upon the latter's retirement from Congress. AL was elected to the 82d Congress, November 7, 1950, and since taking his seat in January 1951 he not only established himself as an able legislator but endeared himself to his colleagues through his friendliness and his love for people.

The death of AL BUSH leaves all of us with a heavy heart because we have lost a loyal friend and distinguished colleague. To Mrs. Bush and the children, I extend my deepest sympathy with the fervent hope that they will receive a measure of consolation in the knowledge that AL BUSH through his exemplary life has left many fond memories that will be cherished by the countless friends who deeply mourn his sudden death.

Mr. GAVIN. Mr. Speaker, it is with great sorrow we record the passing of our very good friend and colleague, ALVIN R. BUSH—one of Pennsylvania's outstanding Representatives. His loss will be keenly felt by the Pennsylvania delegation and our State.

AL, as we called him, was a man who loved his district, State, and Nation; and served them well. He was intensely devoted to the interests of the people he represented.

He was always calm, and strong, and self-confident, and treated everyone with great courtesy. AL was always congenial and affable and by his kind deeds and many useful services he evidenced a great love of people.

He was a humble and kindly man whom one admired as companion and friend; always considerate of everyone; a man who added much to our daily lives with a kind word for everybody.

He was an honest, conscientious, and loyal legislator, always looking after the welfare of his district and State. He was a firm believer in the principles of liberty and our American way of life, with the highest concepts of citizenship.

His devotion to and love of country was something to be admired; always ambitious to uphold and defend the fine ideals and traditions of our Nation. He strove mightily to attain those objectives which he thought were for the best interests of all our people and his work in the House of Representatives was useful and constructive.

In a life such as his perhaps the thing most to be admired was the fact he was a good citizen and a devoted American; a man who contributed much to the building of his community, State, and Nation.

We will miss his fine friendship and companionship and it is with great sorrow we record his passing. To his family I extend my deepest and heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. EVINS. Mr. Speaker, permit me to take this means of paying a sincere tribute to the memory of our late colleague ALVIN R. BUSH of the 17th District of Pennsylvania who passed away last November 5 during adjournment of the Congress.

I was shocked and saddened to learn of his untimely passing.

For many months ALVIN BUSH and I had offices practically adjoining and I learned to know and love him greatly. He was a remarkable man in many ways—one of fine ability and dedication to his district, State, and Nation. He lived a rich and full life of unselfish service to his family, friends, constituents and country and will be sorely missed by all.

To Mrs. Bush and members of his family I extend an expression of genuine sympathy in their bereavement.

Mr. MEADER. Mr. Speaker, unfortunately, it is a human tendency to go along from day to day performing our routine tasks and experiencing intervals of pleasant enjoyment until abruptly we are confronted with the realities of life and death. Such was the shock I experienced upon the sad news of the passing of my good friend, my colleague and office neighbor, AL BUSH.

AL BUSH was a good citizen. In this body of 437 men and women, which we like to think of as the outstanding institution for self-government by the people of all time, AL BUSH, in his quiet way made a most significant contribution. He was not the flashily articulate exponent of popular causes nor one to engage in the repartee and clash of congressional debate. But, with his friendly smile and a devotion to his country and the principles which he deeply believed would further her best interests, he diligently ministered to the needs of his constituency. Both in his participation in the work of his committees, and in the deliberations of the House itself he cast his votes and made his decisions for the benefit of all Americans.

It would be impossible to dislike AL BUSH. He genuinely liked others, and all of his colleagues, whatever their political views or their personal natures, could not help but return the genuine friendliness of this man.

Mr. Speaker, this House needs orators, it needs pioneers, it needs strategists, but it also needs friendly, right-thinking men and women. That is why we all will miss AL BUSH.

Mr. FLOOD. Mr. Speaker, among the familiar faces for which we find ourselves looking in vain, as the 2d session of the 86th Congress swings into action, is that of my respected and valued colleague of the Pennsylvania delegation, Representative ALVIN R. BUSH, of the 17th Congressional District. The news of AL BUSH's sudden heart seizure, on November 4, and death in Williamsport Hospital on the following day, brought shock and sorrow to me, as to all who knew him. AL BUSH was a devoted public servant, putting his business astuteness and his energetic determination into the advancement of the sometimes unpopular cause of governmental economy. Much of our legislation, over the past 9 years, has profited from the vigilance and good sense of ALVIN BUSH. His knowledge and experience in the field of bus transportation were often called upon, in his work with the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and with the Subcommittee on Transportation and Aeronautics.

It will long be remembered to his credit that he was an enthusiastic supporter of little league baseball, and proud of the claim of Williamsport, in his district, to have founded little league baseball. In the past session, he had sponsored a resolution to establish a National Little League Baseball Week.

We shall miss his aid as a legislator, but more than that, in the days ahead, we shall miss his quiet, friendly presence, and the feeling that, whatever our differences, we were all trying to accomplish a task together, for the common good of our Nation and of our home districts.

To Mrs. Bush, to their children, Mrs. John H. Eck and Alvin C. Bush, and to the many others who knew and loved AL BUSH, I offer my sincere and heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. RHODES of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I join my colleagues in paying tribute to ALVIN R. BUSH, one of the outstanding members of our Pennsylvania delegation. His untimely death brought sorrow to those of us who were privileged to serve with him on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

AL BUSH was admired and respected for his humbleness and sincerity. He was a conscientious legislator with strong beliefs and courage of his convictions. We will all miss his contribution to our deliberations in the crucial months of this session.

To his family I extend my heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. KEARNS. Mr. Speaker, in the death of AL BUSH, the country, the Congress, and the people of the 17th Congressional District of Pennsylvania lost the services of a most capable legislator.

AL BUSH was a man of outstanding character, ability, and great courage. His affability and warm smile brightened many days for all of us. Personally, his friendship and consideration will always be one of my precious memories.

Again, I extend to Mrs. Bush and the family my deepest sympathy.

Mr. SAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, if any Member of the House was more genuinely liked by his colleagues than ALVIN RAY BUSH, his service ended before I entered Congress.

Many, many close friendships are established here on Capitol Hill. Like shipmates in wartime, we forge innumerable and indissoluble fraternal bonds in the course of our meetings and conversations. Our debates may sometimes reach a high degree of intensity, but when we recess or adjourn the combatants walk out together in much the same spirit of amity that prevails at the close of an athletic contest when victim and vanquished join arm in arm as they leave the arena.

ALVIN BUSH and I sat on the same side of the aisle and our political convictions were largely parallel; thus in the 9 years we served together, conflicts in our views on issues to be decided in this legislative body were infrequent. But it would have made no difference if we had never shared the same opinion. His host of friends here today whose voting records show no taint of similarity with that of our departed colleague will concur unanimously.

ALVIN BUSH did not think about a person's pedigree, his background, his party affiliation, or his political philosophy. As he was a good man, he enjoyed associating with good men. Of him it can be truly said "He lived by the Golden Rule." He was a deeply religious man, and his Creator's precept on love of one's fellow man was inherent in his character.

Through a geographical advantage, I was able to spend more time with ALVIN BUSH than most Members of the House found possible. Our families were close and I visited his home and enjoyed many an hour there with him, Mrs. Bush, and their fine children. My life has been enriched by their homelife with its warmth, enthusiasm, and sincerity.

Anyone whose accomplishments are akin to those of ALVIN BUSH could justly be proud of his record, but here was a modest man who discounted what he had done because his only concern was to serve his country and his fellow men so that they and their progeny might live in an atmosphere conducive to a wholesome life in the service of their God. His career bespeaks his ability, determination, and zeal. He went overseas in the defense of his country in World War I, then picked up where he had left off and went on to success as a businessman. With all these interests, he took time to participate in civic affairs and to become active in hospital work. He was a devout church member, and he accepted public service with a spirit of extreme responsibility and dedication.

Our friend has gone to his reward, but his warm personality and inspiring camaraderie will always be appreciated by everyone who ever had the pleasure of knowing him and of sitting with him in this Chamber. God grant him eternal peace.

Mr. FENTON. Mr. Speaker, I offer a resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

HOUSE RESOLUTION 403

Resolved, That the House has heard with profound sorrow of the death of the Honorable ALVIN R. BUSH, a Representative from the State of Pennsylvania.

Resolved, That the Clerk communicate these resolutions to the Senate and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased.

The resolution was agreed to.

THE LATE WILLIAM LANGER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. SHORT].

Mr. SHORT. Mr. Speaker, during the congressional recess my State of North Dakota suffered a grievous blow. Our senior Senator and the dean of our North Dakota delegation, Senator WILLIAM LANGER, passed away at his home here in Washington, D.C. I believe it is fitting and proper that we here in the House pay tribute to him today.

Senator LANGER's passing was a loss to North Dakota and its people, but his death is also a loss to the Nation. Few people in history have seen fit to champion the cause of the underprivileged to a greater extent than our senior Senator. His tactics in accomplishing his end objective were sometimes rather spectacular and earned for him the name of "Wild Bill," but to his friends out West this was more of a tribute than a criticism.

BILL LANGER served as Governor of North Dakota in the drought and depression years of the thirties, and earned the lifelong gratitude of North Dakota farmers for some of his drastic actions in keeping farmers from becoming victims of bankruptcy.

My brief remarks today in no way do justice to the stature, the personality, and spectacular career of our Senator LANGER from North Dakota. Those who knew him well will understand what I mean.

Born a North Dakota farm boy, he was endowed with the mental capacity to graduate from Columbia Law School as valedictorian of his class, and voted by his class as their colleague most likely to succeed. His life's record of achievement confirmed the confidence expressed in him by his classmates.

While BILL LANGER's political life was stormy and feeling ran high at times in traditional North Dakota fashion, none of this feeling ever extended to the members of his family. The Senator's wife and four daughters were held in the highest esteem by everyone. Mrs. Langer suffered for many years with cancer and passed away only a few short months before Senator LANGER's death. I know that all of my colleagues join with my wife and me in extending to the Langer girls and their families our heartfelt sympathy in their loss.

An indication of the high regard in which the Senator was held by his home folks was demonstrated when hundreds of North Dakota citizens turned out in below-zero temperatures for his burial beside his wife in their family cemetery at Casselton, N. Dak., only a short distance from where the Senator was born.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. ROONEY].

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. Speaker, I should like to join my colleagues in the House in paying tribute to a good friend and highly capable legislator, Hon. WILLIAM LANGER, of North Dakota, who died on last November 8.

I held Senator LANGER in high esteem and affection from the time I first came to the House of Representatives in the 78th Congress and admired him over the years for his consistent efforts on behalf of legislation beneficial to our postal employees and other Federal workers. As a member of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee he played a great part in improving the pay and working conditions of Federal employees. He was one of the principal supporters of legislation which established a new liberalized formula for computing retirement annuities.

Men like Senator LANGER are sadly missed and I shall always think of him with fond memories. He was a great and courageous American and I extend to his daughters my deepest sympathy.

Mr. SHORT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members who wish to do so may be permitted to extend their remarks in the RECORD regarding the life and services of the late WILLIAM LANGER.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Dakota?

There was no objection.

Mr. O'HARA of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, it was with profound sorrow that I learned of the passing of the late senior Senator from North Dakota, the Honorable WILLIAM LANGER. He was my close personal friend for many years. In courageous dedication to what he believed to be right, and in the championing of little people whom to defend was to invite the vengeful wrath of publicized respectability, he was matchless. I hope that the story of his life, with its lessons of devotion to duty regardless of the cost or consequence, and its inspiration to faith and courage in the doing of good deeds, will not be lost to succeeding generations. In the life and career of one of the most colorful statesmen in American history, and one of the giant champions of the oppressed in an era now closing, there is rich material for the biographer.

The Nation and all mankind is the loser with the close of an era when after every election the word came over the wires from North Dakota: "Again the people have rallied behind BILL LANGER and Usher Burdick."

To the family of this noble man and of his fine wife, his inspiration and co-worker, and by whose side he now rests in a cemetery in North Dakota, goes my deep sympathy.

Mr. BURDICK. Mr. Speaker, the Nation lost a distinguished Senator and North Dakota a great champion on November 8, 1959. On that day, the State's senior Senator, WILLIAM LANGER, died in his sleep at his home in Washington at the age of 72, ending a 45-year political career.

WILLIAM LANGER, who was born on a farm near Casselton, N. Dak., on September 30, 1886, served as State's attorney for Morton County between 1914 and 1916; as North Dakota attorney general between 1916 and 1920; and as Governor for two terms between 1932 and 1934 and 1936 and 1938. In 1940, he was elected to the U.S. Senate and for three terms thereafter.

In 1918, he married Miss Lydia Cady of New York, who stood by his side during his career. She died only 3 months before her husband.

WILLIAM LANGER's name virtually became synonymous with that of the Non-partisan League, the reform movement known as the political prairie fire. In 1916, he was the league's first successful candidate for North Dakota attorney general.

BILL LANGER, as he was affectionately known by his constituents, had a deep compassion for the underdog. Consistently, throughout his long political career, he carried the standard of the poor and the oppressed against the rich and powerful, without regard to the consequences.

The small farmer, the working man, the small businessman had no better friend.

With BILL LANGER in Washington, North Dakotans knew they had a friend at court, for he conscientiously considered the problems, no matter how trivial, of all his constituents—friends and foes.

For many, BILL LANGER's humanitarianism is best remembered in the troubled 1930's, when as Governor, he took bold action to relieve the terrible burden that depression and drouth had brought to the people.

This vital, interesting personality will be sorely missed but dearly remembered by thousands of people.

Mr. SHORT. Mr. Speaker, I offer a resolution (H. Res. 404).

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That the House has heard with profound sorrow of the death of the Honorable WILLIAM LANGER, a Senator of the United States from the State of North Dakota.

Resolved, That the Clerk communicate these resolutions to the Senate and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased Senator.

The resolution was agreed to.

REPORT

PURSUANT TO FEDERAL REGULATION OF LOBBYING ACT

P	QUARTER
	1st	2d	3d	4th

(Mark one square only)

NOTE ON ITEM "A".—(a) IN GENERAL. This "Report" form may be used by either an organization or an individual, as follows:

- (1) "Employee".—To file as an "employee", state (in Item "B") the name, address, and nature of business of the "employer". (If the "employee" is a firm [such as a law firm or public relations firm], partners and salaried staff members of such firm may join in filing a Report as an "employee".)
- (2) "Employer".—To file as an "employer", write "None" in answer to Item "B".
- (b) SEPARATE REPORTS. An agent or employee should not attempt to combine his Report with the employer's Report:
  - (1) Employers subject to the Act must file separate Reports and are not relieved of this requirement merely because Reports are filed by their agents or employees.
  - (2) Employees subject to the Act must file separate Reports and are not relieved of this requirement merely because Reports are filed by their employers.

A. ORGANIZATION OR INDIVIDUAL FILING:

1. State name, address, and nature of business.

2. If this Report is for an Employer, list names or agents or employees who will file Reports for this Quarter.

NOTE ON ITEM "B".—Reports by Agents or Employees. An employee is to file, each quarter, as many Reports as he has employers, except that: (a) If a particular undertaking is jointly financed by a group of employers, the group is to be considered as one employer, but all members of the group are to be named, and the contribution of each member is to be specified; (b) if the work is done in the interest of one person but payment therefor is made by another, a single Report—naming both persons as "employers"—is to be filed each quarter.

B. EMPLOYER.—State name, address, and nature of business. If there is no employer, write "None."

NOTE ON ITEM "C".—(a) The expression "in connection with legislative interests," as used in this Report, means "in connection with attempting, directly or indirectly, to influence the passage or defeat of legislation." "The term 'legislation' means bills, resolutions, amendments, nominations, and other matters pending or proposed in either House of Congress, and includes any other matter which may be the subject of action by either House"—§ 302(e).

(b) Before undertaking any activities in connection with legislative interests, organizations and individuals subject to the Lobbying Act are required to file a "Preliminary" Report (Registration).

(c) After beginning such activities, they must file a "Quarterly" Report at the end of each calendar quarter in which they have either received or expended anything of value in connection with legislative interests.

C. LEGISLATIVE INTERESTS, AND PUBLICATIONS in connection therewith:

1. State approximately how long legislative interests are to continue. If receipts and expenditures in connection with legislative interests have terminated, place an "X" in the box at the left, so that this Office will no longer expect to receive Reports.

2. State the general legislative interests of the person filing and set forth the specific legislative interests by reciting: (a) Short titles of statutes and bills; (b) House and Senate numbers of bills, where known; (c) citations of statutes, where known; (d) whether for or against such statutes and bills.

3. In the case of those publications which the person filing has caused to be issued or distributed in connection with legislative interests, set forth: (a) Description, (b) quantity distributed; (c) date of distribution, (d) name of printer or publisher (if publications were paid for by person filing) or name of donor (if publications were received as a gift).

(Answer items 1, 2, and 3 in the space below. Attach additional pages if more space is needed)

4. If this is a "Preliminary" Report (Registration) rather than a "Quarterly" Report, state below what the nature and amount of anticipated expenses will be; and if for an agent or employee, state also what the daily, monthly, or annual rate of compensation is to be. If this is a "Quarterly" Report, disregard this item "C4" and fill out item "D" and "E" on the back of this page. Do not attempt to combine a "Preliminary" Report (Registration) with a "Quarterly" Report. ←

AFFIDAVIT

PAGE 1 ←

NOTE ON ITEM "D."—(a) In General. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value, and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"—Section 302 (a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(1) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in accordance with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multipurpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(1) In General. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D5" (received for services) and "D12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contribution under "D13" and "D14," since the amount has already been reported under "D5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "B" on page 1 of this report.

REPORT

PURSUANT TO FEDERAL REGULATION OF LOBBYING ACT

P	QUARTER
	1st	2d	3d	4th

(Mark one square only)

NOTE ON ITEM "A".—(a) IN GENERAL. This "Report" form may be used by either an organization or an individual, as follows:

- (i) "Employee".—To file as an "employee", state (in Item "B") the name, address, and nature of business of the "employer". (If the "employee" is a firm [such as a law firm or public relations firm], partners and salaried staff members of such firm may join in filing a Report as an "employee".)
  - (ii) "Employer".—To file as an "employer", write "None" in answer to Item "B".
- (b) SEPARATE REPORTS. An agent or employee should not attempt to combine his Report with the employer's Report:
- (i) Employers subject to the Act must file separate Reports and are not relieved of this requirement merely because Reports are filed by their agents or employees.
  - (ii) Employees subject to the Act must file separate Reports and are not relieved of this requirement merely because Reports are filed by their employers.

A. ORGANIZATION OR INDIVIDUAL FILING:

1. State name, address, and nature of business.

2. If this Report is for an Employer, list names or agents or employees who will file Reports for this Quarter.

NOTE ON ITEM "B".—Reports by Agents or Employees. An employee is to file, each quarter, as many Reports as he has employers, except that: (a) If a particular undertaking is jointly financed by a group of employers, the group is to be considered as one employer, but all members of the group are to be named, and the contribution of each member is to be specified; (b) if the work is done in the interest of one person but payment therefor is made by another, a single Report—naming both persons as "employers"—is to be filed each quarter.

B. EMPLOYER.—State name, address, and nature of business. If there is no employer, write "None."

NOTE ON ITEM "C".—(a) The expression "in connection with legislative interests," as used in this Report, means "in connection with attempting, directly or indirectly, to influence the passage or defeat of legislation." "The term 'legislation' means bills, resolutions, amendments, nominations, and other matters pending or proposed in either House of Congress, and includes any other matter which may be the subject of action by either House"—§ 302(e).

(b) Before undertaking any activities in connection with legislative interests, organizations and individuals subject to the Lobbying Act are required to file a "Preliminary" Report (Registration).

(c) After beginning such activities, they must file a "Quarterly" Report at the end of each calendar quarter in which they have either received or expended anything of value in connection with legislative interests.

C. LEGISLATIVE INTERESTS, AND PUBLICATIONS in connection therewith:

1. State approximately how long legislative interests are to continue. If receipts and expenditures in connection with legislative interests have terminated, place an "X" in the box at the left, so that this Office will no longer expect to receive Reports.

2. State the general legislative interests of the person filing and set forth the specific legislative interests by reciting: (a) Short titles of statutes and bills; (b) House and Senate numbers of bills, where known; (c) citations of statutes, where known; (d) whether for or against such statutes and bills.

3. In the case of those publications which the person filing has caused to be issued or distributed in connection with legislative interests, set forth: (a) Description, (b) quantity distributed; (c) date of distribution, (d) name of printer or publisher (if publications were paid for by person filing) or name of donor (if publications were received as a gift).

(Answer items 1, 2, and 3 in the space below. Attach additional pages if more space is needed)

4. If this is a "Preliminary" Report (Registration) rather than a "Quarterly" Report, state below what the nature and amount of anticipated expenses will be; and if for an agent or employee, state also what the daily, monthly, or annual rate of compensation is to be. If this is a "Quarterly" Report, disregard this item "C4" and fill out item "D" and "E" on the back of this page. Do not attempt to combine a "Preliminary" Report (Registration) with a "Quarterly" Report.◀

SENATE

THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1960

The Chaplain, Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, D.D., offered the following prayer:

Our Father God, in a fateful hour, with such vast issues at stake, grant that those here who, by the people's choice, have been called to high places of state may maintain in themselves the fidelity of those who speak for a privileged nation to which much has been given and from which much will be required.

In all the words and actions in this Chamber, help them to remember that we are a part of the past, of the present, and of the future. We belong to all those who in the yesterdays condemned oppression and fought the good fight for freedom.

In the present we are the comrades of those who, across all frontiers and borders, and despising all shackles of the mind, however imposed, strive for the brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God. And may we remember that we belong to the tomorrows as we live by a faith that sends a shining ray far down the future's broadening way. As by that faith we live, may those who here speak for America sow the seeds of a golden harvest for all mankind in a peaceful world that beckons. We ask it in the dear Redeemer's name. Amen.
