"Armed and Ready, Mr. President": Demonstrators Urged to Bring Guns, Prepare for Violence at January 6 "Stop the Steal" Protest in DC

[Wewantthetotalwar]

Following Twitter posts from President Trump rallying his supporters to attend an upcoming "Stop the Steal" protest at the U.S National Mall the day Congress will meet to officially decide the 2020 Presidential election, users on a pro-Trump online forum interpreted Trump's statements as call to take direct action: insisting they have finally received formal "permission" from the President to arm themselves for the "revolutionary" protest and to engage in political violence.

On December 19, 2020, a user began a thread on a prominent pro-Trump forum - where users have been known to promote violence and hate speech - containing a recent Tweet from President Trump<https://ent.siteintelgroup.com/Far-Right/-Far-Left-Threat/as-congress-finalizes-election-far-right-community-rallies-behind-trump-s-call-to-protest-election-fraud.html?acm=2693\_26355> claiming it was "statistically impossible" for him to have lost the 2020 Election and thereby encouraging his followers to attend a "wild" upcoming "Stop the Steal" protest in Washington D.C. on January 6.

In addition to users on the ensuing thread organizing ride shares and lodging for the event, the post was met with an array of incitements from users who felt emboldened by the President's statement to take direct action at the event. Users not only threatened to attack left-wing protesters but also Democratic and Republic politicians and other government officials involved in the finalizing of the electoral college vote count.

Multiple users targeted the Congressmen and women for intimidation, with one user encouraging participants to "be already in place when Congress tries to get to their meeting" and "make sure they know who to fear." Another user similarly suggested that if "congress votes against the true will of the people

" and elects Joe Biden as President despite "all the evidence of fraud and corruption," then the protesters should "start marching into the chambers."

Urging protesters to "go after the traitors directly," a user claimed that a military strategist gave them the advice to "have a list of their family members as well."

Asserting that the right to bear arms was provided for "exactly times like this," another user spurred those participating at the January 6 event to "exercise your 2nd amendment" if the Republican politicians refuse to support Trump's election fraud disputes. They also insisted anyone "scared" of doing so should "stay out of the way."

"Fuck [the Republican party] right back," wrote another user, urging Trump's supporters to "show up with guns and threaten them with death."

In response to one user stating that they "don't condone violence" against politicians, a user retorted that "patriots" who are "still too cowardly to condone violence" are "part of the problem," exclaiming the violence "NEEDS TO FUCKING HAPPEN."

When users inquired if Trump was in fact advocating for participants to attend the march armed when he published the Tweet promoting the protest, several users affirmed that they interpreted his statement as calling on his supporters to bring weapons.

"I read that as armed," one user insisted, positing that if "everyone commits" to carrying weapons at the protest then "how can they stop us?" Another user suggested that if participants "aren't marching armed" then there is no "point" to marching at all. A user also claimed that when Trump made his statement he "knew what we will be bringing," thereby echoing a call to action previously made by the President in regard to the Proud Boys: "Stand back and stand by."

Making reference to Trump's tweet asserting the event "will be wild," one user claimed Trump was implying the rally would be violent like the "wild West." Another user insisted that Trump was thereby asking protest participants to "be wild," asserting that a supposedly violent insurrection by his supporters has "always been the plan."

"[Trump] can't exactly openly tell you to revolt...This is the closest he'll ever get," the aforementioned user continued, receiving a response from a user declaring: "Then bring the guns we shall." A screenshot of the interaction follows:

Openly denouncing and disregarding the strict gun laws of Washington D.C., several users declared their intentions to bring firearms and other weapons to the march. "Armed and ready, Mr. President," wrote one user, with another declaring they will "be open carrying and so will my friends." The latter user also noted that Trump's supporters have just been "waiting for Trump to say the word" and thereby proclaimed: "there is not enough cops in DC to stop what is coming." These and other examples of users announcing they are bringing weapons to the protest can be seen in the screenshot below:

Moreover, users on the forum strongly urged those who plan on attending armed to do so in large groups in attempt to avoid being apprehended by law enforcement. One user also suggested going to the march "in numbers so heavy and so protected" that they are "able to arrest treasonous members of the government." A user responded to the aforementioned comment opining that "this is what Trump expects," underscoring that the President's supporters can "not allow congress to certify a fraudulent election and get away with... don't allow any government forces to intimidate us."

"Numbers and organization will matter," another user commented, warning that "the lone wolf armed patriots" will be "picked off deep in the city" by law enforcement.

Following several inquiries regarding the legality of open and concealed firearm carry in the U.S capital, users proposed that that participants of the protest should not have to abide by the law: claiming as justification that the "treasonous" Democratic party is responsible for committing numerous " crimes:" such as "stealing the election," "betraying your country to a Chinese spy," "murdering the elderly in nursing homes," and "killing Ambassadors and Americans with proxy wars or drone strikes." One user thereby proclaimed, "[Democrats] did what they had to do now we gotta do the same."

User "POS" posited that because Democrats have already allegedly "broken" the "Rule of Law," Trump's supporters must "fall back to the next level: the Rule of War." Notably, the aforementioned user concluded their statement with the phrase "Might makes Right," a popular creed among totalitarian regimes.

"We need to follow the law while stopping a communist takeover?" remarked a user, with another baselessly maintaining that the Capital's firearm ban is "completely unconstitutional and therefore illegal." Acknowledging that bringing guns to the march is "definitely not legal," one user nonetheless encouraged others to "2A anyway." Similarly, another user suggested that protesters should disregard the legality of firearm carrying because "this is war and we're clearly in a post-legal phase of our society."

Many users also drew on Revolutionary War language to incite violence at the event, with one user urging "Be there on the 6th ready for 1776" and another making the following incitement against Trump's opposition:

This is taxation without representation. Im nothing special and I pay 50 g's a year in taxes and who it goes to hates me because I'm a white male. This is war and these blue haired pussies are about to get capped.

Predicting and encouraging violent unrest at the rally, user "CR6" stated that they would be "shocked" if the pro-Trump protesters "just stand by waving a bunch of flags while they go right ahead and certify an illegitimate president." The user then proposed that the "goal" of the protest should be to make sure politicians known there "WILL be consequences" if President-elect Joe Biden is inaugurated. CR6 asserted that the protest is a "historical opportunity" to "change the world," declaring that Trump's supporters will not "accept a fraudulent election" and that the "DC Rats" - or government officials involved in deciding the election - will either "listen to [their] voices" or face "their own peril."

Propheying left-wing counter-protesters engaging in altercations at the protest, one user asked if "citizen's arrests" would be legal, to which another user responded: "don't arrest," instead advocating for "Citizens firing squad."

"Shooting tyrants is the basis of the 2nd amendment," incited another user.

Maintaining that "peaceful action" is not an option, user "AN456" declared that they "do want violence" to ensue at the protest, positing: "You think a crowd of yelling peaceful protesters is going to actually change anything?...If you can't find a use for violence, then In January, Biden will be your president." The aforementioned user further insisted that "people will get shot" at the protest.

"Fun fact: no revolution has ever been won without violence," one user postulated, with another user insisting that Trump's supporters now have the opportunity to "kill the opposition." After a user responded to the latter comment cautioning that killing the opposition is "not a legal avenue" to secure the election for Trump, another user retorted, "when they are committing treason it is...treason is punishable by death," with user "B2040" also thereby proclaiming: "I'm gonna do it anyway."
