

MEMORIAL

OF

A NUMBER OF CITIZENS OF NEW YORK,

REMONSTRATING

Against the passage of any bankrupt law at the present session of Congress.

JANUARY 25, 1841.

Ordered to be printed.

To the honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled :

The memorial of the undersigned, merchants and others, citizens of New York,

RESPECTFULLY SHOWS :

That your memorialists feel a deep interest in the question of a bankrupt law now before Congress, and therefore ask leave to present their views on the subject.

That your memorialists view with anxiety and alarm the proposition to enact a bankrupt law which does not embrace the compulsory as well as the voluntary principle, inasmuch as they firmly believe that such a law would prevent the collection of a large amount of just debts which would otherwise be recovered.

That the general principles of the bill which passed the Senate at its last session, seem to your memorialists to be unjust as well as unequal ; for they do not recognise the rights of the creditor, who has a claim, both legal and moral, to be a consenting party not only to the discharge of the debtor, but to the selection of assignees to close the estate.

That the operation of a voluntary bankrupt law, in the present depressed condition of the whole country, would prove particularly disastrous, as well to the property as to the morals of the nation.

That the merchants of the Atlantic cities are not only the factors of the whole Union, but also agents to collect for the Government all the duties levied upon foreign importations ; and in both these respects they would be most seriously, and as they believe unjustly, injured by the passage of a voluntary bankrupt law.

That it is to be feared there will not be sufficient time for deliberation on this important subject at the short session, when numerous other exciting questions will probably be under consideration.

For these, among other reasons, your memorialists respectfully, but earnestly, remonstrate against the passage of a bankrupt law at the present session of Congress. And your memorialists, &c., &c.
