Mr. Hamilton, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, made the following report:

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the petition of Michael White, asking a pension for services in the navy of the United States, submit the following report:

From the petition it appears that Michael White, while serving on board the schooner Retaliation, under Captain Bainbridge, was taken prisoner by the French, released a short time afterwards, and in 1800 quit the service. He then went into the merchant service, and as captain of a vessel continued in it for thirty years. He states that he was ruptured in the service of the United States; and in the year 1849 several physicians examined him and found him in this condition. There is no proof to show that he was ruptured in the service, and much less that he was disabled; but, on the contrary, after leaving the service, he was engaged as captain of a merchant vessel for thirty years.

From the papers in the case, the committee feel obliged to make an adverse report upon the prayer of petitioner.
