

TO AMEND SECTION 128 OF THE JUDICIAL CODE,
RELATING TO APPEALS FROM DISTRICT COURTS

JANUARY 31, 1927.—Referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed

MR. CHRISTOPHERSON, from the Committee on the Judiciary, submitted the following

REPORT

[To accompany H. R. 12442]

The Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill H. R. 12442, having considered the same, recommend that the bill do pass.

The purpose of this bill is to clarify an uncertainty as to the right to review court orders of the district court of Alaska. Section 128, subdivision (b), first paragraph of the Judicial Code as amended by the act of February 13, 1925, embodied in chapter 229 of volume 43, Part I, of the Public Laws of the Sixty-eighth Congress, is as follows:

First. To review the interlocutory orders or decrees of the district courts which are specified in section 129.

As there is doubt as to whether or not this and the section mentioned includes Alaska and other Territorial and insular courts, it is proposed to amend by adding to this paragraph the following words, "including the district courts of Alaska, Hawaii, Virgin Islands, and Canal Zone," so that the paragraph will read as follows:

First. To review the interlocutory orders or decrees of the district courts, including the district courts of Alaska, Hawaii, Virgin Islands, and Canal Zone, which are specified in section 129.

This proposed amendment has the approval of the Attorney General and if adopted will settle an uncertainty with reference to reviews from the courts in question.
