FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

DAVID JESSEN and GRETCHEN
JESSEN,

Plaintiffs,

v.

COUNTY OF FRESNO and CITY OF CLOVIS,

Defendants.

No. 1:17-cv-00524-DAD-EPG

ORDER DENYING DEFENDANT CITY OF
CLOVIS' MOTION FOR ATTORNEYS'
FEES

(Doc. No. 74)

This matter came before the court on March 12, 2019 for hearing on a motion for attorneys' fees brought on behalf of defendant City of Clovis. (Doc. No. 74.) Attorney Richard Belardinelli appeared on behalf of plaintiffs. Attorney Kevin Allen appeared telephonically on behalf of moving defendant City of Clovis ("City") and attorney Leslie Dillahunt appeared on behalf of non-moving defendant County of Fresno. Following oral argument, the motion was taken under submission. For the reasons stated below, the City's motion for attorneys' fees will be denied.

The factual background of this case has been addressed in prior orders of this court and need not be repeated here. (See Doc. No. 64 at 2–4.) On January 7, 2019, the court issued an order granting defendants' motions for summary judgment and directing the Clerk of the Court to enter judgment in favor of defendants and close the case. (Doc. No. 64.) On February 4, 2019,

1 the City filed the motion for attorneys' fees now pending before the court. (Doc. No. 74.) The
2 City seeks $51,496 in attorneys' fees against plaintiffs for pursuing a lawsuit that it contends
3 "became frivolous after the close of fact discovery or, the very latest, after expert disclosures."
4 (Doc. No. 74 at 1–2.) Plaintiffs filed their opposition on February 19, 2019, and the City filed its
5 reply on March 5, 2019. (Doc. Nos. 78, 81.)

6 Pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988(b), the court, in its discretion, may award reasonable
7 attorneys' fees to the prevailing party in a case brought under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Although this
8 provision does not distinguish between prevailing plaintiffs and prevailing defendants, courts
9 have interpreted the statute as treating the two differently. A prevailing defendant in a § 1983
10 action may be awarded attorneys' fees under § 1988 only when the plaintiff's action is "frivolous,
11 unreasonable, or without foundation." Tutor-Saliba Corp. v. City of Hailey, 452 F.3d 1055, 1060
12 (9th Cir. 2006) (quoting Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC, 434 U.S. 412, 421 (1978)). In 13 determining whether this standard has been met, courts must avoid 'post hoc reasoning by 14 concluding that, because a plaintiff did not ultimately prevail, his action must have been 15 unreasonable or without foundation." Id. "A defendant can recover if the plaintiff violates this 16 standard at any point during the litigation, not just at its inception." Galen v. Cty. of Los Angeles, 17 477 F.3d 652, 666 (9th Cir. 2007). "A case may be deemed frivolous only when the 'result is 18 obvious or the . . . arguments of error are wholly without merit.'" Karam v. City of Burbank, 352
19 F.3d 1188, 1195 (9th Cir. 2003) (quoting McConnell v. Critchlow, 661 F.2d 116, 118 (9th Cir.
20 1981)). Accordingly, "[a]ttorneys' fees in civil rights cases should only be awarded to a 21 defendant in exceptional circumstances." Barry, 902 F.2d at 773 (citation omitted).

22 Here, there is no dispute that defendants are the prevailing party in this action. (See Doc.
23 No. 78 at 6.) In support of its argument for attorneys' fees, the City quotes extensively from the 24 court's order granting summary judgment and argues that in the discovery phase of this litigation,
25 plaintiffs obtained no evidence to support their legal theories. (See Doc. No. 74 at 11, 15–16.)
26 However, to the extent that the City relies on the court's reasoning in granting defendants'
27 motions for summary judgment to argue that plaintiffs' claims were frivolous, the Supreme Court, 28 as noted above, has cautioned district courts to "resist the understandable temptation to engage in

1 post hoc reasoning by concluding that, because a plaintiff did not ultimately prevail, his action
2 must have been unreasonable or without foundation.” Christiansburg, 434 U.S. at 421–22. An
3 inability to present evidence establishing a genuine dispute of material fact to defeat summary
4 judgment does not necessarily mean that plaintiffs’ claims were frivolous. See Karam, 352 F.3d
5 at 1196 (holding that the fact that evidence to support plaintiff’s theory failed to materialize and
6 that summary judgment was granted in favor of the defendants did not render plaintiff’s claims
7 groundless, without foundation, or frivolous); see also Espinoza v. City of Tracy, No. 15-cv-751
8 WBS KJN, 2018 WL 3474476, at *2 (E.D. Cal. July 19, 2018) (denying defendant’s motion for 9 attorneys’ fees despite plaintiff’s failure to present any evidence at summary judgment); Murdock
10 v. County of Fresno, No. CV F 09-0547 LJO SMS, 2011 WL 13842, at *4–6 (E.D. Cal. Jan. 4, 11 2011) (denying defendant’s attorneys’ fees request where plaintiff lacked evidence to support his 12 discrimination and retaliation claims). But see Galen v. County of Los Angeles, 477 F.3d 652, 13 667–68 (9th Cir. 2007).

14 Moreover, the court is not persuaded by the City’s argument that this action became 15 frivolous after the close of fact discovery from May 3, 2018 onward, or at the latest, from the date
16 of expert disclosures on June 11, 2018 onward. In this case, the City waited until the September 17 18, 2018 deadline for the filing of dispositive motions to file its motion for summary judgment.
18 (See Doc. No. 41.) After doing so, the City also served a Rule 68 offer of judgment on plaintiffs,
19 including a mutual waiver of attorneys’ fees and costs, which plaintiffs did not accept. (See Doc.
20 No. 74 at 11; Doc. No. 74-1 at 295–99.) This procedural history indicates that the City continued
21 to litigate this action—certainly after either May 3 or June 11, 2018—as if the claims potentially
22 had merit. See Shaw v. County of San Diego, No. 06cv2680-MMA (POR), 2009 WL 10672078, 23 at *2 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 27, 2009) (“Defendants certainly had the opportunity at any time during the 24 litigation to file a motion for summary judgment, much earlier than the last date prior to the filing
25 deadline in March 2009. A review of the case’s procedural history and docket entries
26 demonstrates that Defendants litigated this case as if Plaintiff’s claims potentially had merit.”).
27 Moreover, the City’s argument that plaintiffs’ claims were obviously meritless at the close of 28 discovery is belied by the extensive summary judgment briefing in this case, including its request

1 for a two-week extension of time to “adequately and fully reply to Plaintiffs’ opposition papers.”
2 (See Doc. 50 at ¶ 8.)

3 Finally, there is no indication that plaintiffs brought their claims in bad faith. The City
4 disputes any relevance of plaintiffs’ subjective intent, noting that the Ninth Circuit has found that 5 a prevailing defendant may be awarded fees where the action, “even though not brought in
6 subjective bad faith, is frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation.” Soffer v. City of Costa
7 Mesa, 798 F.2d 361, 364 (9th Cir. 1986) (emphasis added) (citation and quotation marks
8 omitted); see also Watson Const. Co. v. City of Gainesville, 256 Fed. App’x 304, 305–06 (11th
9 Cir. 2007) (“The standard is objective: an action may be deemed frivolous ‘even though not 10 brought in subjective bad faith.’”) (quoting Christiansburg, 434 U.S. at 421). At the same time,
11 however, the Supreme Court has noted that “if a plaintiff is found to have brought or continued
12 such a claim in bad faith, there will be an even stronger basis for charging him with the attorney’s
13 fees incurred by the defense.” Christiansburg, 434 U.S. at 422. Accordingly, although a 14 plaintiff’s good faith does not preclude a finding of frivolousness, whether or not the claim was 15 brought in bad faith may factor into the court’s determination of the appropriateness of awarding
16 attorneys’ fees to a prevailing defendant. At the very least, this case lacks the “even stronger 17 basis,” id., for awarding attorneys’ fees to defendant, because there is no evidence, nor even a
18 contention by the City, that plaintiffs pursued their Monell claims in bad faith.

19 In short, the court concludes that this is not an exceptional case where the award of 20 attorneys’ fees to a prevailing defendant are warranted. See Barry v. Fowler, 902 F.2d 770, 773
21 (9th Cir. 1990) (“Attorneys’ fees in civil rights cases should only be awarded to a defendant in 22 exceptional circumstances.”) (citation omitted). Accordingly, defendant City of Clovis’ motion
23 for attorneys’ fees (Doc. No. 74) is denied.

24 IT IS SO ORDERED.
