Plaintiff,

v.

IGOR KOZLOV, ALBATROSS EXPRESS,
LLC, and UNICK, LLC,

Defendants.

Case No. 8:10-CV-03191

A final pretrial conference was held on the 20th day of October, 2014. Appearing for the parties as counsel were Herbert J. Friedman and George Moyer for Plaintiff Igor Kozlov; James Bocott for Plaintiff Andrei Tchikobava; Rene Lapierre for Defendant Albatross Express, LLC, Igor Kozlov, and UNICK and for Counter-Claimant Albatross Express, James D. Garriott for Defendant/Intervenor/Subrogee Albatross Express, and John Shultz, Ryan Karaim and Steve Olson for Defendants/Defendant to Counterclaim Associated Wholesale Grocers and Pamela Scott, Personal Representative for the Estate of Michael Scott, deceased.

(A) Exhibits.

See Kozlov, Tchikobava, and Albatross's Joint Exhibit List and AWG's Exhibit List, both of which are attached hereto.

(B) Uncontroverted Facts. The parties have agreed that the following may be accepted as established facts for purposes of this case only:

1. This case arises out of a motor-vehicle accident that occurred on August 9, 2010, on Interstate-80, near mile marker 378, in Seward County, Nebraska.
2. Igor Kozlov was an employee of Albatross working within the scope of his employment at the time of the accident.
3. Andrei Tchikobava was an employee of Albatross working within the scope of his employment at the time of the accident.
4. Michael Scott was an employee of Associated Wholesale Grocers working in the scope of his employment at the time of the accident.
5. The accident involved two semis, both of which were traveling westbound on Interstate-80.
6. One of the semis was owned by Albatross Express and driven by Igor Kozlov. This semi was pulling a trailer owned by Albatross.
7. Andrei Tchikobava was a passenger in the Albatross semi.
8. The other semi was owned by Associated Wholesale Grocers and was driven by Michael Scott. This semi was pulling a trailer owned by Associated Wholesale Grocers.
9. The accident occurred at approximately 1:00 a.m. on August 9, 2010.
10. Both semis were westbound on Interstate-80 when the semi owned by Associated Wholesale Grocers and operated by Scott collided into the rear of the semi owned by Albatross and operated by Kozlov.
11. Michael Scott was killed in the accident.

12. Igor Kozlov is 63 years old.
13. Andrei Tchikobava is 62 years old.

(C) Controverted and Unresolved Issues. The issues remaining to be determined and unresolved matters for the court's attention are:

1. Kozlov, Tchikobova, and Albatross allege Scott was negligent in the operation of the AWG semi, causing the accident, in one or more of the following particulars:
 - a. Traveling at a speed in excess of that which was reasonable and proper under the circumstances that then and there existed, failure to keep a proper lookout, failing to keep the vehicle under reasonable control and being able to stop within the range of vision of Scott, and failing to give an accurate history to medical providers, including to his DOT certification physician.

Defendant AWG objects to the inclusion of these allegations in this pretrial order because the allegations were not contained in Kozlov's original complaint or Albatross' counterclaim, and the court denied motions to amend the Complaint and counterclaim.

2. Kozlov Tchikobova and Albatross allege AWG was negligent in allowing a person it knew or should have known was not qualified to drive a commercial motor vehicle to operate one of its trucks at the time and place of the accident.

Defendant AWG objects to the inclusion of these allegations in this pretrial order because the allegations were not contained in Kozlov's original complaint or Albatross' counterclaim, and the court denied motions to amend the Complaint and counterclaim.

3. AWG and Pamela Scott allege that Kozlov and Albatross Express were both negligent and that their negligence caused the accident in one or more of the following particulars:
 - a. Kozlov failed to drive at highway speeds, and drove at a dangerously slow speed and/or failed to have the lights operating on his trailer;
 - b. Kozlov failed to maintain the minimum speed on the highway in violation of Nebraska statute section 60-6,193;

- c. Kozlov and Andre Tchikobava failed to operate the tractor trailer's lights during the evening hours in violation of Nebraska statute section 60-6,219; and failed to properly inspect the trailer in violation of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations;
- d. Kozlov operated the commercial motor vehicle even though he was not qualified to drive a commercial motor vehicle in violation of 49 C.F.R. §391.11;
- e. Kozlov operated the commercial motor vehicle while too ill or fatigued to drive safely in violation of 49 C.F.R. §391.3.
- f. Albatross Express was negligent in hiring plaintiff Igor Kozlov even though Albatross knew, or should have known, that plaintiff Igor Kozlov had inadequate experience, training, knowledge, and skill to operate the subject tractor trailer safely;
- g. Albatross Express and Andre Tchikobava were negligent in entrusting the tractor-trailer to plaintiff Igor Kozlov, even though Albatross knew, or should have known, that plaintiff Igor Kozlov had inadequate experience, training, knowledge, and skill to operate the vehicle in a safe manner;
- h. Albatross Express and Andre Tchikobava were negligent in failing to adequately train, instruct, supervise, and monitor plaintiff Igor Kozlov regarding the safe operation of the tractor and trailer.
- i. Albatross Express violated 49 C.F.R. §390, which pertains to the safe operation of a motor carrier, the training, supervision, and duties of motor carriers and their employees, and to aiding and abetting violations of the rules and regulations;
- j. Albatross Express violated 49 C.F.R. §390.3(e)(1), which required Albatross to be knowledgeable of and comply with all regulations applicable and requires it to instruct every driver and employee with regard to all applicable regulations;
- k. Albatross Express violated 49 C.F.R. §391.11, which prohibits a person from driving a commercial motor vehicle unless he is qualified to drive a commercial motor vehicle; and
- l. Albatross Express violated 49 C.F.R. §392.3, which prohibits the operation of a commercial motor vehicle when the operator is too ill or fatigued to drive safely.

Bio-Mechanics R&D:

Performed human cadaver Bio-Mechanics R&D at Wayne State University's Bio-Mechanics lab with General Motors Research Labs. These tests included cadaver knee impact tests to determine the force threshold required to fracture the human knee upon impact with the instrument panel. Head/neck flexion/extension strength (torque) v. hyperextension (angle) tests and thoracic dynamic impact tests to determine injury threshold and human tolerance to blunt trauma impact scenarios. The basis for this cooperative research was to further the design and bio-fidelity of the Hybrid III Crash Test Dummy (Adult 50th% male, 5th% female and child ATD's) used in motor vehicle impact accidents reconstruction/evaluation.

Designed and manufactured Hybrid III crash test surrogates to emulate these cadaver test results. Designed an industry first (patent pending, 1975) the General Motors/DOT Part 572 Bio-Mechanical Hybrid III Cervical Spine, and was a design and development Project Engineer on the Hybrid II and III anthropomorphic human surrogate (ATD) at General Motor's, Safety Research & Development Lab, Milford, Mi. for the DOT/NHTSA.

The development of the bio-fidelity (human likeness) of the Hybrid III ATD included research into the realism of the ATD head, designed an industry first cervical spine, chest, abdomen, lumbar spine, pelvis and femur load and G load measurements. He conducted NHTSA mandated (Part 572) ATD qualification component tests for the above subsystems. He also designed laboratory experiments, test equipment, transducers/instrumentation (for measurement) and test protocol for these tests. This work included Head Drop, Neck flexion and hyperextension, thoracic ballistic pendulum, sternum deformation, patella/knee and femur load cell ballistic pendulum impact tests/development.

Conducted hundreds of Automobile accident full scale, HYGE sled tests and vehicle subsystem tests, at General Motors' Safety research and Development Laboratory and for National Highway Traffic and Safety Administration in Washington. These tests were designed to evaluate passenger kinematics, injury severity, Bio-Mechanical human response to automotive crashes/survivability, vehicle restraints and crashworthiness.

Developed FMVSS 208 Occupant Injury Criteria for NHTSA automobile crash testing program. Most of this work had to do with the, designed an industry first development of the bio-fidelity of the Hybrid III's cervical and designed thoracic spine, head, and femur/knee. Developed and wrote FMVSS/Part 572 Anthropomorphic Dummy qualification tests and procedures for NHTSA and the DOT in Washington.

These test procedures had to do with the concurrent development of the Bio-Mechanical Cervical Spine for the Hybrid III ATD. He devised and designed an industry first cervical spine/head flexion and hyperextension test hardware, test protocol and test deceleration time history/profile using aluminum hex cell honey comb as energy management materials.

He conducted, as a student, real time EMG research of neuropathy and myopathy patients at University of Michigan Hospital. Conducted psycho-motor skill test in underwater environment, (hyperbaric chamber), at University of Michigan.

As a consultant to the Motorcycle Industry he designed a Bio-Mechanical seat for motorcycles to reduce lumbar spine injuries from high vertical G/forces under severe customer service/use. This seat was designed with a polymer based rising rate/stiffness foam seat pan. The foam was specifically chosen to reduce highrise time short duration impact acceleration (G's) related forces from superior/inferior impact/seat slap. These forces heretofore have been the result of poor seat Bio-Mechanics and poor vehicle suspension design technologies. Motorcycle Suspension design, research & development is mentioned below.

Product Design and Manufacturing:

Systems Engineer working on General Motors prototype and production IMPACT Electric Vehicle Program at GM's Tech Center in Warren, Mi. and AeroVironment in Monrovia, Ca. He assisted in the design of the production GM Impact electric car by defining the technology used in the preproduction/prototype Impact vehicle which we designed, manufactured, developed and tested at AeroVironment. His systems engineering design effort included such technologies as the Impact's Motor, Motor Cooling, Batteries and associated crashworthiness, Suspension, Transmission, Brakes, Chassis and related Composite materials, the Air Conditioning system, CHIMSEL (Holographic rear brake lights).

The Impact mass properties/management was also a significant design feature as it directly relates to vehicle range and handling dynamics. The benefit of weight management to the EVP is a systematized, traceable, verifiable and controllable process for the optimization of the vehicle's weight and subsequent improvement in range (for every 38 lbs in vehicle weight saved the vehicle's range is extended by about 1% or 1 mile/100).

The weight and moments of inertia (measurement of an object's resistance to rotational acceleration) are determined analytically from drawings using formulas or from the mass properties program found in most CAD software or experimentally using mass measurement equipment in the lab with prototype parts. Clearly from a schedule standpoint the analytical approach is preferred. The magnitude of weight and mass properties can be discovered in software prior to engineering drawing release dates or before parts are made.

The advantages of a weight and mass properties program are many. Most importantly, it will reduce the vehicle's weight and improve its range/economy, it will optimize the c.g. location and also reduce the vehicle's roll, pitch and yaw inertia, reduce polar moments of inertia and reduce the roll over potential/dependence on chassis fixes that are required after production. See article January 2010 Motocross Action magazine, page 168 "The Gyroscopic Effect of the YZ450F's Tilted Cylinder".

Design Project Manager/Scientist (1989 to 1992) on a future electronic 5-7 speed Automatic Transmissions at the GM Tech Center's Advanced Engineering Staff, in Warren, Michigan. He was a Project Manager and resident X2F Clutch to Clutch 5-7 speed prototype automatic transmission engineer at Advanced Engineering Staff in GM's Tech Center. His job was to instruct/train GM engineers and executives on the project management advantages of Systems Engineering and how it could be applied to the GM's vehicle subsystems. He was the Hughes Aircraft's Steering Committee representative/manager on the X2F transmission program. This project/committee included representatives from Hydramatic Division, GM Research, Advanced Product Engineering, and Advanced Engineering Staff.

These spacecraft included top secret military vehicles, commercial satellites such as the graphite composite antenna on Aussat, Anik-D and Galileo probe to the planet of Jupiter.

Design and Development Engineer of Ford's fuel systems/Digital Electronic Fuel Injection for Ford Motor Co.'s 5.0L V-8 and 3.8L V-6 engines. He worked at Engine Engineering in Dearborn, Mi. developing, designing and field testing prototype electronic fuel injection fuel systems. These throttle body & direct intake manifold/port injection systems were developed for V-6&8 class engines. Designed hydraulic systems for Ford Diversified Products in Troy, Michigan.

He also designed, in the context of automotive systems engineering, subsystem performance metrics for quantification of vehicle/transmission shift quality using real time digital signal processing, statistical analysis of engine accelerometer and power spectral density data. Transmission shift quality metrics are based on data collected from fieldtesting of GM's 4L60E automatic transmission. Specifically the vehicles (1994 B&D Cars) are instrumented with accelerometers and strain gages to measure and record the vehicle's response to transmission shifts. The acceleration and axle torque time histories are further analyzed by Hughes' advanced signal processing techniques learned from years of experience in Radar detection, e.g. FFT, PSD and Wigner-Ville analysis techniques.

Perturbations on the accelerometer/torque time histories were correlated with specific transmission components and features. The emphasis of analysis techniques and computer dynamic modeling will be to create a prioritized list of transmission components and control variables that correlate to perceptible shift anomalies.

This and other performance metrics, such as engine Idle, adaptive noise monitoring and engine combustion detonation, were used as design performance standards in GM's Vehicle Technical Specification for all cars and truck.

Adaptive Noise Monitoring equipment on GM race cars, e.g. Indy and GTP cars. We (EDSG) developed a data telemetry system (Oscar) for Buick's Indy car effort. The object of the technology would be to monitor the acoustic, temperature and/or vibration signatures, from a prioritized failure mode list, such as wheel bearings, engine bearings and pistons, CV joints, differential gears and brakes. The data would then be telemetered (JASON software) to the pits where it would be real time analyzed. The data compared, real time, to a look up table of go/no-go routines and appropriate warnings of incipient failure/service recommendations made. This technology could be developed and later used in GM Dealership Service Departments throughout the country as a diagnostic aid for customer driven complaints.

Designed a prototype V-8, 5.7 L Mid-Engine concept sports car while at General Motors Proving Ground, Milford, Mi. This design included a mid mounted small block 5.7 L Corvette engine with remote trans axle for Roll, Pitch and vehicle Yaw optimization and vehicle handling/control. The chassis was a unibody sports car design with two seating capacity, 180 degree exhaust headers/pipes, front mounted aluminum radiators and liberal use of composite plastic materials for weight reduction and subsequent performance optimization. The total vehicle weight was scheduled to be 2300 lbs. The car was designed to compete in the Ferrari class vehicle category.

Curriculum Vitae for Peter M.W. Dill of Dill Engineering & Associates

These designs included engine, transmission, suspension, intake and exhaust system, chassis system, brake design, tire, fuel system and safety fuel tank systems design and fabrication, e.g. aluminum, steel, fiberglass and HDPE (plastic) fuel tanks w/fuel cell foam, flexible fuel cells and bladders. He is also consultant to the World and International Karting Federation on safe fuel systems, fuel tanks and fuel tank location/crashworthiness for racing cars.

Designed an industry first method of quantifying measurement error and measuring natural gas flow in major international gas transmission lines. The process used electronic turbine and orifice flow metering in a pulsating (flow and pressure) environment. It also included telephone line data transmission and interrogation from remote sights to the gas companies headquarters in San Francisco, Ca.

Testing:

Work at the GM Proving Grounds included full scale, HyGe sled, static crusher and vehicle components tests using air bags and seat belts. Developed energy absorbing instrument panels and other passive restraints. Defined high energy (HYGE) Sled pulses for surrogate/dummy occupant testing.

Conducted field accident investigations of General Motor's Motors Insurance Corporation (MIC) files & reconstructed these accident configurations in the laboratory using anthropomorphic dummies & full vehicle instrumentation. The purpose of these full scale tests was to evaluate the impact severity of actual field accidents in the laboratory using exemplar cars. By doing so we were able to determine scientifically by measuring electronically the actual speed and relative velocity vectors of the colliding vehicles and measure/evaluate the occupant impact severity in these crash scenarios. This truly scientific real world technique enabled us to to evaluate overall vehicle crashworthiness, fuel system integrity, restraint system performance, vehicle structural robustness and cost of repair estimates, etc. for the accident recreations we researched. These crash test would also be used to further research in the laboratory in the context of FMVSS 208, 216, 301 etc. type crash tests.

Vehicle handling and dynamics track and skid pad testing is available for the analysis and evaluation of Roll Over propensity (e.g. sport utility vehicles), Brake failure evaluation, Vehicle Handling, Ride, Chassis Stiffness, Shock and Spring rate evaluations, Fuel Tank and Exhaust system design, fabrication and testing and Visibility studies.

Performed automotive occupant injury/survivability evaluation of frontal, rear end, roll over and lateral full scale vehicle crash/impact tests. Researched the development of advanced technology vehicle, safety devices, such as air bags, seat belts, composite materials and foam materials for crash energy management. These tests included testing of prototype and production Sodium Azide and compressed Nitrogen gas air bags and velocity and G sensitive lap/shoulder and lap belts, friendly interior design to mitigate head, chest, abdominal (submarining) and femur injuries from interior vehicle contact in the above accident scenarios.

Conducted rear impact accident simulation and tests for major LA /county traffic accident/injury cases. Research included HYGE sled and static testing of automotive seat back/head restraint design and seat performance during rear end collisions at Auto Safety Engineering in Los Angeles, Ca.

Curriculum Vitae for Peter M.W. Dill of Dill Engineering & Associates

The purpose of these tests was to document/evaluate the strength and crashworthiness of various manufactures seat and seat track designs as it would relate to dynamic structural failure of these components in a real world vehicle crash. The test results would then be compared to the Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards.

Position: Corporal - Traffic Homicide Investigator

Supervisor: Captain Bob Miller
Phone Number: 1-800-226-6031

Duties: Promoted by the Department to the position of Traffic Homicide Investigator in July 1990. I was responsible for the complete reconstruction and investigation of any fatal or serious injury accidents that occurred on the highways of the State of Florida. I have conducted over 150 major traffic accident reconstructions' that resulted in the death of another person. The investigation parameters encompassed any contributing factors initiating from the pre-crash to the post-crash phase, as well as sworn witness interviews. The investigation was then submitted to the State Attorney for review with a recommendation of appropriate legal actions. During the course of my employment, I instructed at the Florida Highway Patrol Academy in the area of traffic crash investigation techniques and acted as a field training officer for newly promoted traffic homicide investigators.
