VIII. Equal Protection of Laws, p. 981.

I. In General.

Racial discrimination—Public schools—Decrees.—Racial discrimination in public schools unconstitutional; all contrary laws must yield; cases remanded to District Courts for formulation of decrees to effectuate decision. Brown v. Board of Education, 294.

II. Federal-State Relations.

Supremacy clause—State taxation—Federal obligations.—Ohio property tax assessed against mutual savings bank and federal savings and loan association, measured without deduction for federal obligations owned, void. Society for Savings v. Bowers, 143.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW—Continued.III. Self-Incrimination.

1. Nature of privilege—Liberal construction.—Constitutional privilege against self-incrimination must be liberally construed. Quinn v. United States, 155.

2. Contempt of Congress—Invoking privilege—Refusal to answer—Intent.—Witness before congressional committee adequately invoked privilege against self-incrimination; insufficient proof of deliberate refusal to answer. Quinn v. United States, 155; Emspak v. United States, 190; Bart v. United States, 219.

3. Contempt of Congress—Refusal to answer—Incrimatory questions.—Questions concerning membership in Communist Party and Communist-front organizations, and concerning associates, as within privilege against self-incrimination. Quinn v. United States, 155; Emspak v. United States, 190.

4. Waiver of privilege.—Privilege against self-incrimination held not waived. Emspak v. United States, 190.

5. State immunity statute—Waiver of immunity.—Conviction of contempt for refusal to testify before New York grand jury valid, in view of state immunity statute, irrespective of validity of waiver of immunity. Regan v. New York, 58.

IV. Ex Post Facto Clause.

Scope of prohibition—Deportation.—Ex post facto clause of Constitution not applicable to deportation proceeding. Marcello v. Bonds, 302.

V. Commerce.

1. Federal regulation—Hawaiian exporter.—Operations of Hawaiian agricultural company, which exported virtually its entire output for sale in United States, subject to regulation by Congress under Commerce Clause. Maneja v. Waialua Agricultural Co., 254.

2. State regulation—Interstate commerce—Natural gas.—State may not fix minimum price to be paid for natural gas, after production and gathering has ended, by a company which transports the gas for resale in interstate commerce; such sale and transportation subject to regulation by Federal Power Commission exclusively. Natural Gas Pipeline Co. v. Panoma Corp., 44.

VI. Full Faith and Credit.

Workmen's compensation—Damages.—Judgment for damages in Arkansas, where injury occurred, did not deny full faith and credit to Missouri Workmen's Compensation Act, when there had been no final award under that Act. Carroll v. Lanza, 408.

VII. Due Process of Law.

1. Racial discrimination—Public schools—District of Columbia.—Racial discrimination in District of Columbia public schools denied due process; all contrary law must yield; case remanded to District Court for formulation of decree to effectuate decision. Bolling v. Sharpe, 294.

2. Self-incrimination—State immunity statute—Waiver of immunity.—Conviction of contempt for refusal to testify before New York grand jury valid, in view of state immunity statute, irrespective of validity of waiver of immunity. Regan v. New York, 58.

3. Contempt of court—Trial by same judge.—Conviction of grand jury witness for contempt by same state court judge who had acted as Michigan one-man grand jury invalid, though after open hearing. In re Murchison, 133.

4. Deportation—Hearing—Independence of hearing officer.—Fact that special inquiry officer was subject to supervision and control of officials in Immigration Service charged with investigative and prosecutive functions did not vitiate deportation proceeding. Marcello v. Bonds, 302.

VIII. Equal Protection of Laws.

Racial discrimination—Public schools—Decrees.—Racial discrimination in public schools unconstitutional; all contrary laws must yield; cases remanded to District Courts for formulation of decrees to effectuate decision. Brown v. Board of Education, 294.

I. Supreme Court.

1. Review of state courts—Certiorari—Question which could not arise again.—Judgment affirming decision of state court vacated and writ of certiorari dismissed as improvidently granted where same constitutional question could not arise again; requirement of "special and important reasons" for granting certiorari. Rice v. Sioux City Memorial Park Cemetery, Inc., 70.

JURISDICTION—Continued.

2. Review of state courts—Federal right—Time to raise question.—Case in which Georgia courts denied extraordinary motion for new trial based on claim of unconstitutional discrimination against Negroes in selection of jury panel remanded for reconsideration, though State Supreme Court held federal question was raised too late. Williams v. Georgia, 375.

3. Review of state courts—Federal right—Adequate state ground.—It appearing that the decision of the state court might have rested on adequate state ground that a claim of federal constitutional right had not been properly presented, the writ of certiorari is dismissed as improvidently granted. Ellis v. Dixon, 458.

4. Review of state courts—Scope of review—Effect of state statute.—This Court not bound by state court's conclusion that state tax was imposed on depositors rather than on banks. Society for Savings v. Bowers, 143.

II. District Courts.

Injunction—Mandamus—Pending decision in labor dispute.—Injury anticipated by railroad too speculative to warrant injunction or mandamus against National Railroad Adjustment Board prior to decision by Board on merits of labor dispute. Whitehouse v. Illinois Central R. Co., 366.
