

ENTIRE FROM END OF OCTOBER 1975
THROUGH JANUARY 1976

Case Decisions in Federal

No. 74-982. United States v. [Name]
1975, 1976, under the Court's Rule 47

No. 74-983. United States v. [Name]

---

---

REPORTER'S NOTE

The next page is purposely numbered 801. The numbers between 458 and 801 were intentionally omitted, in order to make it possible to publish the orders with permanent page numbers, thus making the official citations available upon publication of the preliminary prints of the United States Reports.

No. 74-984. United States v. [Name]

---

---

No. 74-985. United States v. [Name]

No. 74-986. United States v. [Name]
1975, 1976, under the Court's Rule 47

No. 74-987. United States v. [Name]
1975, 1976, under the Court's Rule 47

No. 74-988. United States v. [Name]
1975, 1976, under the Court's Rule 47

to receive a report from a committee appointed for that purpose. The committee reported that the proposed amendments were of great importance, and that they should be adopted. The Congress then passed a resolution that the amendments should be sent to the States for their consideration. The amendments were then sent to the States, and they were adopted by a majority of the States. The amendments were then sent to the President for his signature. The President signed the amendments, and they became law.

Whether after due consideration the States would accept this view or not, it is a matter of no political consequence. The amendments were adopted by a majority of the States, and they were then sent to the President for his signature. The President signed the amendments, and they became law.

The next step in the process was to send the amendments to the States for their consideration. The amendments were then sent to the States, and they were adopted by a majority of the States. The amendments were then sent to the President for his signature. The President signed the amendments, and they became law.

---

The amendments were adopted by a majority of the States, and they were then sent to the President for his signature. The President signed the amendments, and they became law.