read to support taxing opposing party's attorney's fees against counsel who unreasonably extend court proceedings, by defining "costs" therein as including attorney's fees according to civil rights statutes which allow prevailing party to recover such fees as part of costs of litigation. Roadway Express, Inc. v. Yellen, p. 352.

BOUNDARIES. See also Special Masters.

Dispute between States—Acquiescence in boundary.—Special Master in original action properly invoked doctrine of acquiescence in concluding that boundary between California and Nevada is that located by 1872 and 1892 federally funded surveys, since both States acquiesced in such boundary lines from time they were drawn even though an earlier joint state-commissioned survey had been adopted by both States by statute. *California v. CIVIL RIGHTS ACT OF 1964. See also Attorney's Fees.

1. Employment discrimination—State proceedings—Award of attorney's fees in federal action.—Sections 706 (f) and (k) of Title VII of Act authorize a federal-court employment discrimination action to recover an award of attorney's fees for work done by prevailing complainant in state administrative and judicial proceedings to which complainant was referred by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission pursuant to Title VII, and no special circumstances exist in instant case that would justify denial of a fee award. New York Gaslight Club, Inc. v. Carey, p. 54.

2. Unlawful employment practice—"Filing" charge with EEOC—Time limitations.—A literal interpretation must be given to Act's provisions stating that in a State which has a law prohibiting unlawful employment practices, no charge may be "filed" with Equal Employment Opportunity Commission before 60 days after state administrative proceedings have been commenced, unless such proceedings have been terminated earlier, but that a charge must be "filed" with EEOC within 300 days after alleged unlawful practice occurred or within 30 days after complainant receives notice of termination of state proceedings, whichever is earlier; thus, respondent's charge was not timely since it was not "filed" with EEOC until 351 days after alleged unlawful practice, where even though EEOC received respondent's letter charging employment discrimination 291 days after alleged unlawful practice, such letter was referred to appropriate state agency and could not be considered as "filed" with EEOC until 60 days thereafter. *Mohasco Corp. v. I. Commerce Clause.

1. Restrictions on ownership of investment advisory services—Validity of state statute.—A state statute prohibiting out-of-state banks, bank holding companies, and trust companies from owning or controlling a business within State that sells investment advisory services, directly burdens interstate commerce in violation of Commerce Clause's implicit limitation on state power, and provisions of Bank Holding Company Act which prohibit bank holding companies from acquiring banking subsidiaries in other States without local authorization, and which reserve to States a general power to enact regulations applicable to bank holding companies, do not authorize a State to prohibit out-of-state holding companies from acquiring local investment subsidiaries. Lewis v. BT Investment Managers, Inc., p. 27.

2. State-operated cement plant—Restricting sales to residents.—South Dakota's policy confining sale of cement produced in state-operated plant to state residents does not violate Commerce Clause. Reeves, Inc. v. Stake, p. 429.

II. Double Jeopardy.

Conviction of traffic offense—Subsequent manslaughter prosecution.—Double Jeopardy Clause does not prohibit Illinois from prosecuting for involuntary manslaughter driver of car involved in a fatal accident who previously was convicted for failing to reduce speed to avoid accident which resulted in victim's death, if under Illinois law manslaughter by automobile does not always entail proof of a failure to reduce speed and if State in manslaughter prosecution does not rely on a failure to reduce speed as reckless act necessary to prove manslaughter. Illinois v. Vitale, p. 410.

III. Due Process.

1. Accused's postarrest statements—State's use for impeachment.—Cross-examination of respondent at his state murder trial as to why he told jury on direct examination a different story about stealing murder victim's car than he told police after arrest and after receiving Miranda warnings did not violate due process, since rule prohibiting impeachment on basis of a defendant's silence following Miranda warnings does not apply to cross-examination that merely inquires into prior inconsistent statements. Anderson v. Charles, p. 404.

2. Corporate income taxes—Validity of state apportionment formula.—Due Process Clause of Fourteenth Amendment did not prevent Wisconsin, in determining state income taxes, from applying its statutory apportionment formula to total income of vertically integrated petroleum company doing business in several States, including company's income derived from extraction of oil and gas outside Wisconsin, notwithstanding company's use of a separate functional accounting system reflecting its income derived only from its marketing operations in Wisconsin, since such operations were integral parts of company's unitary business; nor did Commerce Clause require Wisconsin to allocate all income derived from company's exploration and production function to situs State rather than include such income in apportionment formula. Exxon Corp. v. Wisconsin Dept. of Revenue, p. 207.

3. Death sentence—Consideration of lesser included offense.—A death sentence may not constitutionally be imposed after a jury verdict of guilt of a capital offense where jury was not permitted to consider a verdict of guilt of a lesser included offense, since denying jury option of convicting of a lesser included offense, in addition to options of convicting of capital offense or acquitting defendant, denies defendant full benefit of reasonable-doubt standard. Beck v. Alabama, p. 625.

4. Decertification of nursing home for government assistance—Patients' right to hearing.—Patients at nursing home which provided care at government expense under Medicare and Medicaid provider agreements had no such interest in receiving benefits for care in such home that entitled them, as a matter of constitutional law, to a hearing before home was decertified as a qualified nursing home by Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and state agency. O'Bannon v. Town Court Nursing Center, p. 773.

5. Fair trial—Defendant's prearrest silence—Impeachment.—State's use of prearrest silence to impeach a criminal defendant's credibility after he testifies in his own defense does not deny him fundamental fairness guaranteed by Fourteenth Amendment. Jenkins v. Anderson, p. 231.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW—Continued.

6. State conviction—Sentence.—Petitioner was deprived of due process where (1) jury, upon state conviction, imposed a 40-year sentence pursuant to instructions to do so under an Oklahoma statute mandating such a sentence for a twice previously convicted felon, (2) such statute was subsequently declared unconstitutional by state appellate court in another case, (3) thereafter that court nevertheless held that petitioner was not prejudiced because his sentence was within range of punishment that could have been imposed in any event, but (4) if petitioner's jury had been correctly instructed it could have imposed any sentence of not less than 10 years. Hicks v. Oklahoma, p. 343.

IV. Eminent Domain.

Land use—Validity of zoning ordinances.—City's zoning ordinances, adopted after appellants had acquired unimproved land for residential development, which ordinances imposed certain density restrictions on land, do not on their face take appellants' property without just compensation in violation of Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, but instead constitute proper exercises of city's police power to protect its residents from ill effects of urbanization. Agins v. Tiburon, p. 255.

V. Equal Protection of the Laws.

Prohibition against residential picketing—Validity of statute.—An Illinois statute which prohibits picketing of residences but exempts peaceful picketing of a place of employment involved in a labor dispute violates Equal Protection Clause of Fourteenth Amendment since it makes an impermissible distinction between peaceful labor picketing and other peaceful picketing. Carey v. Brown, p. 455.

VI. Freedom of Speech.

1. Electric utilities—Ban on advertising.—New York Public Service Commission's regulation completely banning electric utilities from advertising to promote use of electricity violates First and Fourteenth Amendments. Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. v. Public Service Comm'n, p. 557.

2. Public utilities—Ban on public policy bill inserts.—New York Public Service Commission's order prohibiting inclusion by public utility companies in monthly bills of inserts discussing controversial issues of public policy is invalid as infringing freedom of speech protected by First and Fourteenth Amendments. Consolidated Edison Co. v. Public Service Comm'n, p. 530.

3. Shopping center—Soliciting signatures for petitions.—California's constitutional provisions, as construed to permit individuals reasonably to exercise free speech and petition rights in privately owned shopping center's courtyard by soliciting for signatures from passersby for petitions, do not violate shopping center owner's free speech or property rights under First, Fifth, and Fourteenth Amendments. PruneYard Shopping Center v. Robins, p. 74.

VII. Privilege Against Self-Incrimination.

Prearrest silence—Impeachment.—Fifth Amendment is not violated by State's use of prearrest silence to impeach a criminal defendant's credibility after he testifies in his own defense. Jenkins v. Anderson, p. 231.

VIII. Right to Counsel.

Incriminating statements—Paid Government informer.—Respondent's Sixth Amendment right to assistance of counsel was violated by admission at his federal criminal trial of incriminating statements made by him, while in jail pending trial, to another prisoner who was a paid Government informer, and respondent, who was unaware that informer was acting for Government, cannot be held to have waived his right to assistance of counsel. United States v. Henry, p. 264.

IX. Right to Jury Trial.

Six-person jury—Invalidity of nonunanimous verdict—Retroactivity of decision.—Louisiana Supreme Court's judgment affirming petitioner's felony conviction and concluding that rule of Burch v. Louisiana, 441 U. S. 130—which held that provisions of Louisiana's Constitution and statutes that sanctioned conviction of a nonpetty offense by a non-unanimous jury of six violated an accused's right to trial by jury under Sixth and Fourteenth Amendments to Federal Constitution—should not be applied retroactively to cases tried by juries empaneled prior to date of that decision, is reversed, and case is remanded. Brown v. Louisiana, p. 323.

X. Searches and Seizures.

1. Illegal seizure from third party—Defendant's standing to suppress evidence.—In a prosecution for falsifying a federal income tax return, defendant lacked Fourth Amendment standing to suppress documents illegally seized from a bank officer by an illegal search of his briefcase, and supervisory power of federal courts does not authorize a court to suppress otherwise admissible evidence on ground that it was seized unlawfully from a third party not before court. United States v. Payner, p. 727.

2. Obscene films—Warrantless viewing.—A Court of Appeals' judgments affirming petitioners' convictions of federal obscenity charges relating to interstate transportation of movie films are reversed, where, after films had been mistakenly delivered to a third party, FBI agents viewed films without attempting to obtain a warrant or to contact consignor or consignee of films. Walter v. United States, p. 649.

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY ACT.

Disclosure of information furnished by manufacturers.—Section 6 (b) (1) of Act, which prescribes procedure whereby Consumer Product Safety Commission must notify manufacturer before making public disclosure of consumer-product information obtained from manufacturer and must afford manufacturer an opportunity to submit comments regarding information, governs disclosures of records by Commission pursuant to requests under Freedom of Information Act, not just disclosures affirmatively undertaken by Commission. *Consumer Product Safety Comm'n v. Aiders and abettors—Effect of acquittal of alleged perpetrator.—A defendant accused of aiding and abetting in commission of a federal offense may properly be convicted despite prior acquittal of alleged actual perpetrator of offense; thus, even though Internal Revenue Service agent was acquitted of certain charges of accepting unlawful compensation, petitioner was properly convicted under 18 U. S. C. § 2 for aiding and abetting agent in commission of such offenses. Standefer v. United States, p. 10.

on bargaining unit employees' work, not on work of other employees who may be doing same or similar work, such as truckers and freight consolidators performing off-pier loading and unloading of containers, and relationship between work as it existed before innovation and as agreement proposed to preserve it must be examined. NLRB v. Longshoremen, p. 490.

2. Illegal secondary picketing.—Secondary picketing by a union representing the striking employees of a title insurance company at title companies that sold struck insurance company's policies, urging customers to support strike by canceling their policies, violated § 8 (b) (4) (ii) (B) of Act as constituting secondary product picketing that reasonably could be expected to threaten neutral parties with ruin or substantial loss. *NLRB v. 1. Motor vehicle and trailer taxes—Indian-owned vehicles.—Washington's motor vehicle and mobile home, camper, and trailer taxes—assessed for privilege of using such vehicles in State—cannot properly be imposed upon vehicles owned by Indian tribes or their members and used both on and off reservations. Washington v. Confederated Tribes, p. 134.

2. State cigarette and sales taxes—Stamp and recordkeeping requirements—Indian reservations.—Washington's imposition of its cigarette and sales taxes on on-reservation sales by Indian retailers to non-Indians, its requirement that tribal smokeshops affix tax stamps to cigarette packages before sales to non-Indians, and its imposition of recordkeeping requirements on tribes as to tax-exempt sales are valid even though tribes have power to also impose cigarette taxes on nontribal purchases, and State's tax-enforcement interest is sufficient to justify its seizure of unstamped cigarettes as contraband. Washington v. Confederated Tribes, p. 134.
