CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Expressing the sense of the Congress that there should be established a National Sarcoidosis Awareness Day, and for other purposes.

Whereas sarcoidosis is an autoimmune systemic disease with no known cause or cure that can affect any part of the body;

Whereas sarcoidosis affects between 20 and 50 of every 100,000 individuals in the United States;

Whereas most victims of sarcoidosis range in age between 20 and 40 years, with African Americans affected at least 10 times more often than other ethnic groups in the United States;

Whereas between 10 to 20 percent of individuals stricken with sarcoidosis eventually develop serious disabling conditions caused by damage to vital organs, such as the lungs, heart, and central nervous system;

Whereas sarcoidosis is an enigma in the realm of medicine requiring extensive and ongoing study and research to develop an effective treatment and eventually a cure;

Whereas in the United States, individuals with sarcoidosis and their family members are seeking treatment and support services to assist in controlling the effects of sarcoidosis;

Whereas grassroots support groups and nonprofit organizations are forming across the United States to encourage public awareness of sarcoidosis;

Whereas the establishment of a National Sarcoidosis Awareness Day on September 24, 2002, would encourage public education on sarcoidosis and support research for better treatment options and a cure;

Whereas the Federal Government has a responsibility to lead a nationwide effort to find a cure for sarcoidosis; and

Whereas the Federal Government should make research into the causes of sarcoidosis a greater priority and provide the public with more information about potential treatments for individuals with this life-threatening ailment:
