A BILL

To amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide incentives for employer-provided employee housing assistance, and for other purposes.

1       Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2       tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3       SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4       This Act may be cited as the “Housing America’s 5       Workforce Act”.

6       SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

7       (a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

1           (1) Resurgent housing markets are pricing out
2           low- and moderate-income families and are pro-
3           ducing few lower-cost units.

4           (2) In many markets, housing costs have far 5           outgrown the rate of inflation and the gap between 6           wages and housing costs is widening, pushing afford-
7           able housing beyond the reach of an increasing num-
8           ber of working families.

9           (3) Despite the lowest mortgage rates in our 10          Nation's history, millions of working families still 11          find it extremely difficult to rent or purchase a 12          home. Many workers who fill jobs that provide the 13          backbone of our communities—teachers, firefighters, 14          and police officers—often cannot afford to live in the 15          communities in which they serve.

16          (4) The United States Department of Housing
17          and Urban Development (HUD) considers housing
18          affordable when a family spends no more than 30
19          percent of its monthly income on rent and utilities.
20          Entry-level wage earners with annual incomes of up 21          to $30,000 spending no more than 30 percent of 22          their income on rent can only afford to pay up to 23          $750 for rent. In the high job-growth areas, such 24          rents are not readily available.

1           (5) According to a study by the Center for 2           Housing Policy in Washington, DC, the latest data
3           available shows that in 2003, approximately 5 mil-
4           lion families paid more than half of their income for 5           housing or lived in dilapidated conditions, or both,
6           despite the fact they were working full time jobs.
7           Moreover, the number of working families with crit-
8           ical housing problems has increased 67 percent be-9           tween 1997 and 2003.

10          (6) Affordable housing is the key to creating 11          and sustaining healthy, economically vibrant commu-
12          nities.

13          (7) The lack of affordable housing across the 14          United States has been shown to cause or contribute 15          to labor shortages.

16          (8) Under employer-assisted housing (EAH)
17          programs employers provide much needed housing
18          assistance to their employees.

19          (9) EAH programs are innovative local solu-
20          tions that have increased affordable housing oppor-
21          tunities for thousands of working families across 22          America while benefitting the economy.

23          (10) According to findings of the Rutgers Uni-
24          versity American Affordable Housing Institute, em-
25          ployer-assisted housing increases productivity by re-

1        ducing commuting time as well as saves money on 2        recruitment and retention.

3            (11) The future growth of EAH programs will 4        remain dependent upon increasing individual em-
5        ployer knowledge and implementation of these pro-
6        grams.

7            (12) EAH programs will not solve the Nation's 8        housing problems but such programs do seek to ad-
9        dress the challenge from a new perspective and allow 10       the private sector to play a direct role in promoting 11       housing affordability. Additionally, EAH programs
12       can help to promote redevelopment and reinvestment
13       in distressed communities.

14       (b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are as fol-
15       lows:

16            (1) To expand affordable housing opportunities
17        to low- and moderate-income working individuals
18        and families.

19            (2) To encourage employers, counties, and mu-
20        nicipalities to invest in employer-assisted housing 21        programs.
