

Irish-American men and women who have helped make this country great.

The Irish have been immigrating to the United States since the early part of the nineteenth century. In that time, they have made many contributions to this country. They have distinguished themselves at every level of American society. As Irish-Americans have built their businesses, so have they contributed to the economic prosperity of this Nation. As they have grown politically, they have contributed to government on the local, State, and national levels. Their devotion to family and friends demonstrates that much can be accomplished when people work together in harmony.

At home, Irish-Americans have worked hard to protect all of us from crime and fire. They have put their lives on the line to help ensure the safety of their fellow citizens. The long, proud tradition of Irish police officers and firemen scarcely needs to be mentioned. However, the Irish have not only been good neighbors at home, they have also put their lives on the line when they have fought to defend this Nation against our foes in every major conflict over the last 200 years.

Reverend Kennedy is part of this great Irish-American tradition. He has dedicated his life to helping others. He is the former youth director of the Archdiocesan CYP/Youth Ministries, and is currently the pastor of the Church of Good St. Anne. He is an exemplary community leader and an advocate for our youth. Through his involvement in the community, Reverend Kennedy has reached out to countless people and has made a difference in their lives.

His parishioners greatly admire Reverend Kennedy for his leadership. He has played a vital role in the physical rehabilitation of his church. In addition, his efforts have brought new life to the parish. I am truly proud to have him as a resident of Hudson County.

As we celebrate St. Patrick's Day, let us remember all of those Irish-American men and women who have made a difference in the United States. This is a day for us to acknowledge their achievements and feel proud to have them in the United States. This holiday is an excellent opportunity to pay tribute to Irish-Americans; past and present.

OCEAN SHIPPING INDUSTRY CHANGES NEEDED

HON. JAMES A. TRAFICANT, JR.

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 3, 1995

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, the Subcommittee on Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation, upon which I serve as the ranking Democrat, will soon begin consideration of changes to the Shipping Act of 1984 and the future role of the Federal Maritime Commission in the ocean shipping industry. As the subcommittee and, eventually, the full Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, move forward on these issues, I would like you and our colleagues to know what I believe needs to come out of the legislative process.

First, I believe the functions of the Federal Maritime Commission need to be maintained, particularly with regard to protecting our ocean carrier industry and shippers against unfair and anticompetitive trade practices of foreign governments and carriers. In fact, this should become more of a focus and a higher priority for the commission. And given the public's general call for smaller and more efficient government, the commission should take steps to downsize and rightsize its operations, just as we expect all Government agencies and departments to do.

Second, I believe the hearings held in February by the subcommittee indicated that important modifications can be made to the Shipping Act of 1984 that would provide a much greater degree of flexibility in the business relationships between shippers and ocean carriers. Right now, conferences of ocean carriers with broad antitrust immunity restrict a number of types of transactions and relationships in the ocean shipping business. For instance, service contracts, which are long-term large volume arrangements between carriers and shippers, should not be restricted or prohibited by the carrier conferences or their members. Also, carriers that want to offer a rate to a shipper that is different than that of the carrier conference should be able to do so on a much quicker basis.

These kinds of reforms at the Federal Maritime Commission and in the Shipping Act will bring significant improvements to our trading relationships around the globe. The relationships between the shipping public and the ocean carrier industry would also be beneficially changed so that U.S. industry generally would be in a more competitive posture in the world marketplace.

I look forward to working with the leadership and members of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee to develop legislation to accomplish these ends.

TEXAS COUPLE NAMED FOSTER PARENTS OF THE YEAR

HON. RALPH M. HALL

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 3, 1995

Mr. HALL of Texas. Mr. Speaker, it is a privilege for me to pay tribute to two outstanding citizens who visited the Capitol this week from the Fourth District of Texas. They are Joe and Pattie Laroche of Denison, who were recently named by the Child Welfare League as Foster Parents of the Year for the Southern States.

The Laroches have been licensed foster parents for more than 5 years. During that time they have cared for more than 30 children, ranging from newborns to those up to 12 years of age. They have three children of their own—Sarah, Bethany, and Christina, two of which—Christina and Bethany—they adopted. Children who have been under the care of the Laroches have stayed with them anywhere from 1 night to 5 months. The longest stay for a child has been 2 years.

The Laroches were previously honored as Grayson County Foster Parents of the Year, by the Texas Department of Human Services and as the State Foster Parents of the Year by the Texas Council of Child Welfare Boards. They were recommended for the awards by Gwen Henderson, Foster Home Developer for the Texas Department of Human Services for Grayson County.

The Laroches described the recognition as humbling and said that being foster parents is a learning experience that has great rewards. They recognize the need for more foster parents but realize that many people are fearful of trying.

Being a foster parent to a child is a special calling that deserves our respect and our gratitude. It requires a generous and selfless spirit, and often much patience and understanding. Good foster parents like the Laroches have a lasting impact on the lives of foster children, who like all children, need affection and attention and need to feel a sense of well-being.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to pay tribute today to Joe and Patti Laroche and to all those who serve as foster parents across America. These foster parents devote their lives to help make life better for our children in need. I am particularly proud to have the Laroches as my constituents and wish them much success as they continue to serve foster children in Grayson County. I admire their dedication and commitment to this cause and salute their good work.

TRIBUTE TO ELLSWORTH AIR FORCE BASE ON SUCCESS OF DA- KOTA CHALLENGE

HON. TIM JOHNSON

Friday, March 3, 1995

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Speaker. I rise today to give high praise to the men and women of Ellsworth Air Force Base who participated in the congressionally mandated B-1B bomber readiness test appropriately named "Dakota Challenge '94." The test was conducted from June 1-November 30 of last year, and during most of the test the 28th Bomb Wing at Ellsworth flew training missions at an accelerated peacetime rate. During the final month of the assessment, the 28th Bomb Wing deployed a squadron to Roswell Industrial Air Center, NM to simulate flying from an austere location at wartime sortie rates. Earlier this week, the Air Force Operational Test and Evaluation Center issued its final report on Dakota Challenge and the report reveals that the B-1B bombers exceeded all test expectations. As a long-time supporter of the B-1B, I am pleased with this outcome and incredibly proud that the men and women of Ellsworth can take some credit for the impressive results.

Throughout the 6 months of the test, the men and women of the 28th Bomb Wing faced the challenges and demands of the assessment with ardent determination. The commitment and top notch performance of the men and women at Ellsworth Air Force ensured that the B-1B bomber exceeded all of its performance goals during Dakota Challenge. I am hopeful that this impressive performance will resolve long-standing disagreements over the B-1B's capabilities and help secure the future of the B-1B bomber which Secretary of the Air Force Widnall has called the backbone of the bomber fleet.

The outcome of the test is a rock-solid testimonial to the B-1B's capabilities and I am proud of the men and women of the 28th

Bomb Wing who ensured the unquestionable success of the test. I commend all of the men and women at Ellsworth who made Dakota Challenge a success through their commitment and discipline.

TRIBUTE TO JOSEPH E. BERGERON

HON. ANNA G. ESHOO

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 3, 1995

Ms. ESHOO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Joseph E. Bergeron, an outstanding citizen and devoted public servant, on the occasion of his retirement from the San Mateo County Planning Commission.

Mr. Bergeron has given invaluable service to the people of San Mateo County for 13 years as a planning commissioner, including three terms as commission chair. His unparalleled leadership and consensus-building skills were critical to seeing the county through some of its most difficult land use decisions. While Mr. Bergeron has devoted untold hours to the work of the commission, he has also made time to serve our community as a member of the board of directors of the Center for Civic Education, the San Mateo County Suicide Prevention Association, and the San Mateo County Heart Association. He has actively participated in the Italian American Federation, serving as its President from 1980–1982 and being named its 1992 Man of the Year, the PTA, and the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, where he was a counselor and merit badge advisor.

Mr. Bergeron is also recognized throughout the State of California for his outstanding service to the State bar. He has been a champion of the legal profession since his graduation from the prestigious Boalt Hall School of Law at the University of California, Berkeley in 1968.

He was a member of the California State Bar board of governors from 1991–1994, serving as its vice president in 1994 and working to strengthen the legal profession as a member of the Commission on Judicial Nominees Evaluation, as well as the Committees on the Environment and Administration of Justice. He has given exemplary service to the legal community as a judge pro-tem and arbitrator for the Superior and Municipal Courts of San Mateo County, as an instructor of business law at San Mateo County Community College, and as a lecturer for the Continuing Education of the Bar and at numerous trial lawyer seminars. Mr. Bergeron has used his tireless energy to make great contributions to local legal organizations, including the Legal Aid Society, the County Bar Association, the Barristers Club, and the Trial Lawyers Association. In 1982, the California Trial Lawyers Association, on whose board he also served, recognized Joe Bergeron as its Outstanding Trial Lawyer Chapter President.

Mr. Speaker, Joe Bergeron has been a shining light in San Mateo County throughout his long history of service to the public and the legal community. I've been privileged to work closely with him and I'm proud to call him my friend. I ask my colleagues to join me in saluting Joe Bergeron as he retires from the San Mateo County Planning Commission.

IN HONOR OF MAEVE McDERMOTT,
GRAND MARSHALL OF THE 1995
ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARADE

HON. ROBERT MENENDEZ

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 3, 1995

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Sister Maeva McDermott, grand marshall of this year's St. Patrick's Day Parade in Jersey City. Sister McDermott is among the many Irish-American men and women who have helped make this country great.

The Irish have been immigrating to the United States since the early part of the 19th century. In that time, they have made many contributions to this country. They have distinguished themselves at every level of American society. As Irish-Americans have built their businesses, so have they contributed to the economic prosperity of this Nation. As they have grown politically, they have contributed to government on the local, State, and national levels. Their devotion to family and friends demonstrates that much can be accomplished when people work together in harmony.

At home, Irish-Americans have worked hard to protect all of us from crime and fire. They have put their lives on the line to help ensure the safety of their fellow citizens. The long, proud tradition of Irish police officers and firemen scarcely needs to be mentioned. However, the Irish have not only been good neighbors at home, they have also put their lives on the line when they have fought to defend this Nation against our foes in every major conflict over the last 200 years.

Sister Maeva McDermott is part of this great Irish-American tradition. Upon graduating high school, she joined the convent and went on to teach in the St. Patrick and St. Michael Elementary Schools. Since 1978, she has been co-principal of St. Patrick School and Assumption/All Saints School. She was also very instrumental in helping a number of Irish immigrants relocate to this country.

Sister McDermott has dedicated her life to helping the young people of Jersey City. She realizes that our youth need love and guidance. She has given both freely over the years. She is an exemplary human being.

As we celebrate St. Patrick's Day, let us remember all of those Irish-American men and women who have made a difference in the United States. This is a day for us to acknowledge their achievements and feel proud to have them in the United States. This holiday is an excellent opportunity to pay tribute to Irish-Americans; past and present.

HONORING BUD O'BRIEN

HON. SAM FARR

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 3, 1995

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker, Bud O'Brien was the kind of newspaperman—not journalist, mind you, newspaperman—who has become all but extinct. He got into the business not long after the end of World War II, when a way with words, combined with a feeling for people and real life, was considered as good as, if not better than, a college degree.

After attending Adams State University in Alamosa, CO, Bud learned the newspaper business, both the good and the bad, firsthand from such smalltown editors as Harley Holden of the Loveland, CO, Daily Herald, Chap Wentworth of the Dunsuir News, and Paul Bodenhamer of the Redding-Record Searchlight.

By the time he arrived at the Register-Pajaronian in 1962, to be its wire editor and educational reporter, he was an accomplished and highly regarded professional. For three decades, as an editor and reporter, his substantial contributions helped the people of Watsonville enjoy the benefits of a first-class smalltown newspaper.

His best work, which may be less directly visible to the public, came in the last 10 years, when he served as city editor and managing editor. His eye for talent brought a succession of fine people to the Pajaronian newsroom; his knowledge of the business and generous counsel helped scores of young reporters blossom to their full potential; and his rigorously reasoned and elegantly written editorials made a bracing and formidable contribution to the public debate.

He was a man who loved his craft; who brought out the best in those he worked for; and who stood unflinchingly for what he believed to be right. His retirement is well-earned, but both the people of Watsonville and the newspaper business are worse off for it.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION
