TRIBUTE TO THE SANTA CLARA COUNTY LEGAL AID SOCIETY ADVOCATES FOR JUSTICE HONOREES

HON. ZOE LOFGREN

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 23, 1995

Ms. LOFGREN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the five honorees who will be receiving awards tonight, March 23, on the occasion of the 35th anniversary of the Legal Aid Society of Santa Clara County.

The honorees will include the Rotary Club of San Jose, the law firm of Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich & Rosati, Santa Clara law professor Eric Wright, and deputy district attorney Rolanda Pierre-Dixon. Plaintiffs cocounsel Morrison & Forester will be receiving the prestigious W. Robert Morgan Legal Services Award for donating its services to school desegregation suit against San Jose Unified School District.

President of the board of the Legal Aid Society, Susan L. Sutton said, "Our mission is to be the catalyst for community—we want to ensure that the right thing happens on behalf of our client community without regard to the client's ability to pay. We understand that in some segments of the country that's an idea that has gone out of fashion. But it's still a notion of some currency here in San Jose, good people of this community need to be recognized for their contributions. That is why we created our Advocates for Justice Program."

The Legal Aid Society of Santa Clara County provides legal advice and representation for the indigent community in civil matters including family law, custody, visitation, support, and domestic violence, government benefits, health access advocacy, consumer rights, landlord-tenant law, fair housing, home financing and foreclosure issues, individuals rights and immigration, offers family law and housing self-help clinics, and mediation assistance in landlord-tenant matters.

The following honorees were selected for their community contributions:

Rotary Club of San Jose. This 435 member volunteer organization participates in a broad spectrum of community activities. The club is honored by LASSCC for its works in conjunction with the San Jose Housing Authority, building the 102 unit Marrone Garden complex off Branham Lane in San Jose.

Jim San Sebastian chaired the Rotary committee that had the mission to promote a moderate income senior citizen housing complex in San Jose, for which the club donated personal, professional, and financial assistance beginning in 1988. The project opened in September 1994, and since that time the club members continue to provide assistance to the residents. The Rotary Club's financial contributions totaling $100,000 stacked a library, bought a piano, and provided art work for the project of one bedroom apartments that are available for seniors. The Rotary members' contribution of time was priceless.

Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich & Rosati. For its pro bono and philanthropic aid to the community, particularly for the efforts of Larry Sonsini in setting the tone of the largest private law firms in the county. The work of Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich & Rosati in the Silicon Valley has resulted in jobs for local residents of all ages, backgrounds, and abilities as various high technology clients have prospered. LASSCC believes a growing economy offers more access to the community's mainstream of its client base. That alone would be basis for an Advocates for Justice Award. But Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich, & Rosati has contributed generously to charitable causes with attorneys time and their money.

Prof. Eric Wright. Professor Wright has brought a number of agencies together in creating the East San Jose Community Law Center. Professor Wright sought and obtained two separate grants in 1993 to establish a low-income law office in East San Jose. Starting on a shoe-string budget the law center represented day laborers on their wage and hour claims at the outset.

After receiving a grant from the Legal Services Corporation and from the U.S. Department of Education, the center branched further into employment law and immigration law services. Professor Wright is the unpaid center director and has added a community law practice class to the Santa Clara University Law School curriculums well as a street law class involving students in teaching law to middle school and high school students in low income areas of San Jose.

Deputy District Attorney Rolanda Pierre Dixon. Ms. Pierre-Dixon's job requires her to prosecute domestic violence crimes. It doesn't require her to give more than eight speeches a month on that issue to schools and community groups. She is recognized as the Advocate for Justice for her tireless voluntarism on domestic violence issues and her work with community legal groups, including serving on the board of LASSCC. She is past president of the South Bay Black Lawyers, the chair of the Santa Clara County Bar Association and committee on minority access to the Santa Clara County Bar Association.

Morrison & Foerster. The winner of the W. Robert Morgan Legal Services Award is Morrison & Foerster. Their activities cover a full range of public interest work from staffing of legal services clinics and counseling over 140 nonprofit organizations, to handling high impact litigation. The areas of greatest effort during the past year were assisting children in poverty, civil rights and civil liberties cases, representing immigrants, handling issues of housing and homelessness, and AIDS related matters.

W. Robert Morrison is a founder and benefactor of LASSCC where personal and professional activities exemplify the highest possible commitment to community service.

Morgan & Foerster attorneys spent over 65,000 hours on pro bono work in 1993, and average of 123 hours per lawyer. Among other accomplishments, the firm won a $1 million civil rights jury verdict for Latin women who were strip-searched after they were arrested while attending a school board meeting; obtained HMO coverage of life-saving home nursing care for critically ill infants; won an order safeguarding a Chinese citizen brought into a U.S. court to give testimony coerced with threats of execution; and sought writs of habeas corpus for persons under death sentence in four States.

All of these distinguished recipients should be commended on their extraordinary work in the service of others.

IN MEMORY OF EDWARD ROBERTS—WORLD LEADER FOR THE DISABLED

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 23, 1995

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, Edward Roberts, a highly acclaimed activist for the rights of persons with disabilities and a personal friend, died March 14 of cardiac arrest at his home in Berkeley, CA.

Mr. Roberts was a tireless fighter for the rights of the disabled, even though he himself was severely disabled. At the age of 14, Edward Roberts became paralyzed from the neck down as a result of polio. Although this paralysis would dramatically change his life, Mr. Roberts found the courage to not only exist, but to excel. He became infuriated when a counselor informed him he would never work because of his disability. Ironically, Mr. Roberts later became the supervisor of that same counselor.

A driving force in Edward Roberts life was his love of a challenge. Being able to move only one finger, Mr. Roberts was one of the first disabled individuals to attend the University of California at Berkeley. While attending college, he and a group of his fellow classmates organized a counseling program for persons with disabilities. This innovative program was named "Rolling Quads".

After graduation, Mr. Roberts continued his fight to enhance the lives of those who had disabilities. In 1972, he cofounded the Center for Independent Living. This program won acclaim for the incredible work it accomplished and for the fact that it was the first organization run by and for persons with disabilities. This program was an inspiration to people around the Nation. It spawned 400 similar institutions throughout the United States.

In 1975, Gov. Jerry Brown appointed Edward Roberts to head the State Department of Rehabilitation. He utilized the organization's 2,500 employees and its $140 million budget to implement programs that promoted self-reliance for those with disabilities. Mr. Roberts ran this organization until 1983, at which time he founded the World Institute on Disability [WID]. This think tank is involved in creating and monitoring programs that help individuals with disabilities.

Over his 56 years, Edward Roberts positively impacted a countless number of lives. Deborah Kaplan, the president of the WID Program and a disability rights lawyer, said "There are literally thousands of people whose lives have been influenced by Ed." Through his leadership skills as well as his intense drive to overcome discrimination, Mr. Roberts was a great role model for those with and without disabilities. Friends as well as colleagues will mourn this immense loss.

LIHEAP

HON. JACK QUINN

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 23, 1995

Mr. QUINN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak to an issue of utmost importance to my district in western New York.

Mr. Speaker, I applaud congressional efforts to trim Federal spending and reduce our deficit. We are making some bold and difficult decisions. The rescissions bill takes many steps in the right direction.

It is an injustice, however, to eliminate programs—which unlike the Small Business Administration's Tree Planting Program—people depend upon to meet their basic needs.

I am referring to the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program or LIHEAP. I know this might not be a big concern to citizens in Florida or Arizona—but to those who live in areas like Buffalo, NY, it can be a matter of life or death.

LIHEAP provides fuel assistance to disabled, working poor, and low-income senior citizens who cannot meet their own total energy needs; 55 percent of households receiving assistance have at least one child under age 18 and 43 percent include senior citizens.

Some argue that LIHEAP was conceived in a time of energy crisis and that is no longer needed. We must remember, however, that energy is still not affordable to everyone.

LIHEAP recipients have an average income of $8,257 per year—without some assistance their heat could be cut off; 18 percent of their incomes are spent on energy needs.

LIHEAP is a vital program which is certainly not pork or luxurious Federal spending.

I am very worried about the families and seniors from my district and districts across the Nation who may be unable to properly heat their homes next winter. I hope that the good and bad aspects of eliminating the LIHEAP Program will be more properly addressed during the appropriations process.
