DRUG LEGALIZATION FICTION

HON. GERALD B.H. SOLOMON

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 28, 1995

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, President Clinton, in his State of the Union Address, criticized Hollywood for the increased level of violence in film. Yet once again, the President was noticeably silent on the drug issue.

In the latest dangerous nonsense from Hollywood, the movie "Pulp Fiction," the character played by John Travolta exclaims how wonderful his recent trip to the Netherlands was, primarily because of their drug legalization policies.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to submit into the RECORD some crime and drug statistics, provided by K.F. Gunning, M.D., the president of the Dutch National Committee on Drug Prevention, for the years since the Netherlands implemented their legalization programs in the early 1980's.

1988–1992 cannabis use among pupils increased 100 percent; 1984–1992 use increased by 250 percent; shootings up 40 percent; car thefts up 62 percent; hold-ups up 69 percent.

Addict Rate in the Netherlands: From 1919–1993, there was a 30-percent rise in registered cannabis addicts. The total number of addicts registered with the Consultation Bureau for Alcohol and Drug Problems has risen 22 percent since 1988 to 54,000 addicts in 1993, of which 25,300 were new addicts.

Organized crime groups: 1988(3), 1991(59), 1993(93).

Mr. Speaker, the test has been conducted and the results are in from the Netherlands. And despite all the misinformation about the consequences of dangerous drug use being put out by the Partnership for Responsible Drug Information, the Drug Policy Foundation, and our friends in Hollywood, the legalization of drugs should never become a serious policy option.

ROBERT A. DEMPSTER

HON. BILL EMERSON

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 28, 1995

Mr. EMERSON. Mr. Speaker, Robert A. Dempster was buried yesterday in Sikeston, MO, where he had lived most of his wonderful life. He died last Friday at age 82 after a long illness. Not many in this Chamber knew Robert; but he was my friend, and I cannot let go his passing without sharing a thought or several thoughts about this remarkable citizen who sought no fame, but deserved it; who made a fortune that to him was relevant only in how much he could do with it, not for himself, but to give away, to the benefit of universities and students, churches, hospitals and patients, and to other good causes in his community, region of the State, the State, and the country.

I shall ask permission to include newspaper articles about Robert that will reveal the depth and breadth of his life, his career, his caring, his compassion, and his commitment. But I want to take this moment to note in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, the closest thing we have to an official national diary, that it is Robert and people like Robert who give this country the inherent strength it has. Somehow, out there among us, is Robert with vision—the understanding of one's duty, the perspective to dream, and the ability to bring those dreams to reality, not for his personal aggrandizement, but for the benefit of all to share and enjoy in the finest, most uplifting and enduring sense.

Robert Dempster made a phenomenal mark in his 82 years. He will be long remembered by those whose life he touched, but also by countless others who will never have had the privilege of meeting him, but will be touched by the generosity of his spirit and his works.

I include a news article from the Cape Girardeau Southeast Missourian, March 26, a news article from the Standard-Democrat, Sikeston, MO, March 26, and an editorial from the Standard-Democrat, March 27.

I also include a special tribute, offered by the Southeast Missouri University Foundation.

SOUTHEAST BACKER ROBERT DEMPSTER DIES (By Mark Bliss)

SIKESTON, Mo.—Retired lawyer and civic leader Robert A. Dempster, one of Southeast Missouri State University's major benefactors, died Friday, March 24, 1995, at his home at the age of 82 after an extended illness.

Dempster was a devoted friend of the Cape Girardeau school. His wife, Lynn Dempster, is a member of the school's Board of Regents.

Over the past 15 years, he contributed nearly $2 million to the institution.

Dempster's contributions include $1 million toward construction of a business building, which will be named in his honor. Construction of the $15.8 million building is expected to begin in May and be completed by August 1996.

Visitation will be held today from 4 to 8 p.m. in Sikeston at the First United Methodist Church Dempster Chapel. Dempster contributed financially to the construction of the chapel in memory of his parents. The funeral will be Monday at 2 p.m. at the church. The Rev. Charles Buck will officiate, with burial in the Sikeston City Cemetery.

Dempster helped establish the Southeast Missouri University Foundation in 1983 and served as its first president. Over the years, the foundation has raised millions for the university.

"He was a wonderful man to us," university President Kala Stroup said Saturday.

Robert Foster, executive director of the foundation, mourned Dempster's death. "I lost a friend," he said.

Foster said Dempster was "the guiding genius behind the foundation."

Although not a graduate of the institution, Dempster devoted the last decade of his active life as an attorney and civic leader to promoting and supporting Southeast.

He was a good friend of Bill Stacy, the university's 12th president.

Dempster endowed scholarships for needy students, and funded the conversion of an apartment building into an academic building and construction of an auditorium for Crisp Hall of Nursing.

"We honor Robert A. Dempster for his vision, dedication and generosity, but first and foremost, we remember him as our friend," university officials said in a prepared statement.

Southeast wasn't the only school Dempster aided. He made numerous financial gifts to his alma mater, the University of Missouri, and particularly its law school. He served as a trustee for the law school.

He was appointed to the University of Missouri Board of Curators in 1978 by then-Gov. Joseph Teasdale and served a six-year term. He was chairman of the finance committee during his tenure on the board.

He was a member of the Board of Trustees of Scarritt College, a Methodist school in Nashville, Tenn.

He practiced law for more than 60 years, retiring in 1993 as managing partner of the Dempster, Barkett, McClellan and Edwards law firm. In 1994, he quit practicing law.

In 1993, he helped fund construction of the Missouri Delta Medical Center's rehabilitation complex, which bears his name.

Dempster was born April 8, 1912, in Ava, Ill., the son of George A. and Emma Dempster.

He moved to Sikeston with his parents in 1915. He attended Sikeston public schools, graduating in 1929.

He attended Central Methodist College in Fayette for two years and then transferred to the University of Missouri law school, graduating in 1934.

During his senior year in law school, he was elected city attorney for Sikeston.

In 1942, he became an officer in the Navy and spent 30 months on the island of Okinawa during World War II. He rose to the rank of lieutenant commander before leaving the Navy.

He resumed the practice of law in 1945 and served six years as Scott County's prosecuting attorney.

In 1960, he founded the Security National Bank of Sikeston. Mercantile Bank bought it in 1982, and he served as board chairman for the bank from 1960 to 1986.

He was a member of the First United Methodist Church, and served in a number of leadership positions. He also was involved in development of the Wesley United Methodist Church.

He was active in civic affairs. Over the years, he served on the chamber of commerce board and as president of the Sikeston Industrial Board.

Dempster served as an honorary colonel on the staff of two Missouri governors.

He and Beatrice Dobbins of Longmont, Colo., were married in 1943. She died in June 1973.

He and Lynn Matthews were married May 23, 1978.

Survivors include his wife, and three stepdaughters, Pam Waltrip of Sikeston, Paulette Mouchett of Jackson, Miss., and Vicki Burke of St. Louis.

Ponder Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

LONGTIME SIKESTON ATTORNEY, ROBERT DEMPSTER, DIES

SIKESTON, MO.—Sikeston attorney and prominent citizen Robert A. Dempster died Friday, March 24, 1995, in his home following an extended illness. He was 82.

Born in Ava, Ill., on April 8, 1912, son of the late George A. and Emma Dempster, he moved to Sikeston with his parents in 1915, where he lived for the remainder of his life.

A 1929 graduate of Sikeston Public Schools, Dempster attended Central Methodist College at Fayette for two years. He then transferred to the University of Missouri School of Law, where he graduated in 1934. During his senior year in the law school, he was elected city attorney for Sikeston, and upon graduation he returned to Sikeston and began his career as an attorney.

As an officer in the U.S. Navy, he spent 30 months on the island of Okinawa, Japan, in 1942. He retired as a lieutenant commander.

In 1943, he married Beatrice Dobbins of Longmont, Colo., and she preceded him in death in June 1973.

On May 23, 1978, he married Lynn Matthews Dempster and she survives.

He is also survived by three stepdaughters, Pam Waltrip of Sikeston, Paulette Mouchett of Jackson, Miss., and Vicki Burke of St. Louis.

Dempster resumed his law practice in 1945 and served as the Scott County prosecutor for six years. In early 1960, he founded, chartered and built the Security National Bank of Sikeston, for which he was chairman of the board until 1982, when the bank was purchased by Mercantile Bank of St. Louis. Following the purchase, he remained with Mercantile Bank for four years as chairman and president of the board.

In 1982, he assisted his friend Dr. Bill W. Stacy, then president of Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau, to organize the University Foundation and Copper Dome Society. He served as president of this foundation for two consecutive terms. He also endowed many scholarships at the university and donated the initial $1 million gift for the new Business Education Building, which will bear his name. Dempster was honored by the university by being named "Friend of the University" in recognition of his service to the university.

He was appointed to the University of Missouri Board of Curators in 1978 by Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale, where he served for six years. Dempster was the chairman of the Finance Committee during his tenure on the board. Numerous gifts were donated by Dempster to the University of Missouri, particularly the University of Missouri Law School, where he has served as a trustee. He also served on the executive committee of the University of Missouri Development Fund Board and was a trustee of the Jefferson Club. Dempster was selected as a charter member in the Law Society and received an honorary membership in the Order of the Coif for his contributions to the bar and the new Law School Building at the University of Missouri School of Law.

In April 1984, he was appointed a trustee with the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md. "His love for the Navy made this the most revered appointment in his long career," stated a family member.

Active in Sikeston's civic affairs, Dempster served on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, was president of the Sikeston Industrial Board, Kiwanis Club and Sikeston Boy Scouts of America, the American Cancer Society. He was also very active with the Young Democrats of America and had been an honorary colonel on the staff of two Missouri governors. He was known for his contributions to veterans organizations and was judge advocate of the local American Legion post.

In 1993, he was instrumental in the construction of the Robert A. Dempster Restart Physical Medicine Complex of Missouri Delta Medical Center. He also possessed an avid interest in education and was a member of the board of trustees of Scarritt College, a Methodist school located in Nashville, Tenn.

In 1993, he retired as managing partner of the Dempster, Barkett, McClellan and Edwards law firm, after nearly 60 years of practicing law.

A lifelong member of the First United Methodist Church, he served as a trustee, board member and lay leader, where he made a major contribution toward the construction and furnishing of the Dempster Memorial Chapel, in memory of his parents. He was also instrumental in the organization of the Wesley United Methodist Church.

Friends may call from 4-8 p.m. today at the Dempster Chapel. Services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Monday in the sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Charles E. Buck, pastor, officiating.

Burial will follow in Sikeston City Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be: Phil Barkett Jr., Spencer Edwards, Kevin Edwards, Matt Sikes, Fred Scherer, Tom Burke, Greg Colwick and Bill Waltrip.

Honorary pallbearers will be: Robert L. "Bob" Meyer, David Blanton, Judge Marshall Craig, P.J. "Pete" Ponder, Maurice Stauffer, Dr. Leo A. Bruce, Dr. Bill Shell, Dr. Max Heeb, Dempsey Gardner, Dr. Wendell Weathers, Don Agnew, Cline Carter, C.P. Black Jr., James M. Baird, the Rev. Tom Geers, Weber Gilmore, Terry Fitzgerald, Rick Adams, Michael Jensen, Dr. Bill W. Terry, Pat Murbach Dobson, Dr. Kala M. Stroup, John Mobley, Dr. Tony Poole and Joel Montgomery Jr.

Ponder Funeral Home of Sikeston is in charge of arrangements.

OUR VIEW: COMMUNITY BENEFITED FROM ROBERT DEMPSTER

You could spend an entire day recounting stories of Robert A. Dempster and still not scratch the surface. His life was one of accomplishment in law and business but, in the end, it was his generosity that will endure. Bob Dempster died Friday. Yet the stamp of his success and his compassion and concern for others will live forever. Not every community can boast a Bob Dempster. And Sikeston along with all of Southeast Missouri will benefit for generations from the legacy that remains.

If Bob Dempster had a chance to write his own obituary, we suspect it would concentrate on his military career. It was his years in the Navy and his later involvement with the Naval Academy that brought him the most pride. Dempster would have down played his millions of dollars in donations to higher education, his generosity toward the local hospital or his countless other financial assistance that he provided routinely. But as a community we cannot and will not forget that generosity.

Bob Dempster was quite simply a powerful man. He was respected by those in positions of great power who filed to his door for advice and counsel. He tool under his seasoned wing far too many to count. He had time for all.

He was proud to champion underdogs. In many ways, he considered himself an underdog as well. Yet through determination, hard work and a keen insight, he reached a plateau that few ever imagine. He liked to help others who displayed similar grit. He sought them out and prodded them on. That part of his personality can never be measured.

And Bob Dempster could spin a yarn. He would relive, with a special gleam in his eyes, the baseball exploits of his youth. He would tell of Sikeston's early days when only two lawyers called Sikeston home. With his faithful dog Judge by his side, he would speak candidly of those days. You could tell in a sense that he missed them.

He once had a young client injured in a car accident. He arranged to have the youngster "sworn in" as an honorary deputy sheriff. The smile from that young boy—a snaggletoothed wide smile that went from ear to ear—was the reward Dempster wanted. I'm not sure how the case turned out but on that day, that young boy was a winner. And there were others. Thousands of others.

Robert A. Dempster will be remembered not so much for who he was but for what he did. He left a mark on so many that his legacy will remain for generations to come. And if our time on this earth is gauged by what we leave behind, Bob Dempster left his handprint far and wide. He will be remembered.

ROBERT A. DEMPSTER: FRIEND OF THE UNIVERSITY

A MEMORIAL TRIBUTE FROM SOUTHEAST
MISSOURI STATE UNIVERSITY

The Southeast Missouri State University community mourns the passing of a great friend and benefactor, Robert A. Dempster. He is remembered with extraordinary affection and respect by those with whom he worked on behalf of the University and its students.

Although not a graduate of the institution, Robert A. Dempster devoted the last decade of his active life as an attorney and civic leader to promoting the welfare and building the excellence of Southeast Missouri State University, and to providing access to quality higher education for the young people of this region.

In 1983, Robert A. Dempster suggested the formation of a new organization, the Southeast Missouri University Foundation. His experience as a member of the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri, where he was active in the initiation of private fundraising efforts, proved invaluable to the Southeast Foundation at its inception.

As the first President of the Southeast Foundation, Robert A. Dempster issued a challenge which has been accepted by thousands of men and women during the past 12 years. "I became a part of the Foundation," Mr. Dempster wrote in 1984, "because of my deeply held feeling that substantial support from the private sector is necessary if Southeast Missouri State University is to continue to maintain the highest academic standards * * *. Our University must be given whatever support is necessary to continue its long tradition of excellence."

Robert A. Dempster was tireless in his activities on behalf of the University, and his generosity was truly legendary—including the endowment of scholarships for needy students, the donation of an auditorium for the Crisp Hall of Nursing, and providing gifts for two buildings, the current Robert A. Dempster Hall, and a splendid new facility for the University's College of Business which will be named in his honor.

We honor Robert A. Dempster for his vision, dedication, and generosity, but first and foremost he was our friend. To his widow, family and other friends, we extend heartfelt condolences.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY ACT OF 1995

SPEECH OF

HON. NANCY PELOSI

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 23, 1995

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 4) to restore the American family, reduce illegitimacy, control welfare spending and reduce welfare dependence:

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to oppose amendments which restrict the rights of legal immigrants to collect Government benefits, such as Medicaid, food stamps, and disability aid.
