

Both Coolidge and McGarity were recipients of the Nation's highest battlefield award, the Congressional Medal of Honor.

It is sometimes hard to believe that a half-century has passed since heroes like Enoch Stephenson, Charles Coolidge, Vernon McGarity, Hugh Mott—and so many others—left their homes and families to travel into hell.

Time, however, will never diminish their sacrifices and service to our Nation. For, quite simply, their legacy is nothing less than the freedom we enjoy today. And that is the most important legacy anyone can leave.●

IN HONOR OF SISTER HENRIETTA
HEBERT, SISTER WINIFRED
LEDOUX, AND SISTER STEPHEN LELEUX, SISTERS OF THE MOST HOLY SACRAMENT

● Mr. BREAUX. Mr. President, today I recognize three Sisters of the Most Holy Sacrament who have dedicated their lives to making the lives of others more rewarding both spiritually and through education.

Sister Henrietta Hebert, Sister Winifred LeDoux, and Sister Stephen Leleux have ministered primarily as educators to young women and men in my hometown of Crowley, in Acadia Parish where Crowley is located, and in south Louisiana.

On October 14, these Sisters celebrated with family and friends a mass of thanksgiving in Crowley. They celebrated and gave thanks with deep spiritual humility for one reason, that they have been able to serve others for so many years.

Sister Henrietta and Sister Winifred celebrated their Diamond Jubilee. Sister Stephen celebrated her Golden Jubilee.

As young women, these Sisters vowed solemnly to live a life of service to others. For many years they have fulfilled those vows faithfully as educators, both academic and spiritual. Today, they continue to serve through their deeply spiritual lives, through their prayers, through their example.

Their selflessness and humility stem from the deep faith which their families nurtured in them. That deep faith enabled them, as young women, to make personal and prayerful choices to serve others as Sisters of the Most Holy Sacrament.

Their dedicated service has blessed and benefited so many south Louisiana students through the academic subjects they taught and the spiritual values they instilled. In turn, the community has been blessed and has benefited as well.

I believe, Mr. President, that through their roles as dedicated Sisters, they actually have lead the community as well as served it. Their commitment, their values, and their spirituality have been models of leadership and service, especially for the many young women and men they have educated.

Though they have been community leaders, in their profound humility they would see themselves as only as servants. Though they have given so much to the community, in their profound humility they would never seek or expect anything except to continue their service.

Being from Crowley, I am one of those who was so fortunate to have been taught by Sister Henrietta. On this occasion I express gratitude with all those who have learned from her, from Sister Winifred and from Sister Stephen for all that they have taught and instilled in us.

For Sister Henrietta, Sister Winifred, and Sister Stephen my personal prayers, therefore, are for many more years of peace and joy in their service to others as Sisters of the Most Holy Sacrament. Our Nation and our State are truly better off for their service to so many.●

WORLD POPULATION AWARENESS
WEEK

● Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, next week, October 22, 1995, through October 28, 1995, has been declared as World Population Awareness Week. Over a decade ago, the United Nations estimated that by the end of this century there would be 65 countries unable to either grow sufficient food to enable their inhabitants to meet minimum nutrition levels or purchase beyond their borders sufficient food to reach these standards.

Recently, the World Food Program reported that there are already 88 low-income, food-deficit countries. With a full 4 years remaining in this century, the dire prediction made back in the mid-1980's already has exceeded by 23 countries.

Although a complete solution to the world hunger problem involves action on many, many fronts, I believe that part of the solution is to reduce global population growth. I do this with special pride over my own family's historic role in raising public awareness of population issues and their effect on the world's human condition and stability.

Last year the International Conference on Population and Development was held in Cairo to create a strategy for voluntarily reducing world population. The implementation of that strategy is the theme of World Population Awareness Week. I am proud to join Gov. Gaston Caperton of West Virginia and my fellow West Virginians in observing this week as a time to express the importance of addressing population trends. I ask that the text of the West Virginia Proclamation be printed in the RECORD designating October 22-28 as World Population Week.

PROCLAMATION BY GOV. GASTON CAPERTON

Whereas, the developing world is plagued by alarmingly high rates of maternal and infant mortality, environmental degradation, malnutrition and unemployment; and,

Whereas, without a reduction of population growth rates, the world's population will be subject to unprecedented economic and social hardship, hunger and political strife; and,

Whereas, world population is currently 5.7 billion and increasing by nearly 100 million per year, with virtually all of the growth added to the poorest countries and regions—those that can least afford to accommodate their current populations, much less massive infusions of human numbers; and,

Whereas, the annual increment to world population is projected to exceed 86 million through the year 2015, with three billion people—the equivalent of the entire world population as recently as 1960—reaching their reproductive years within the next generation; and,

Whereas, the environmental and economic impacts of this level of growth will almost certainly prevent inhabitants of poorer countries from improving their quality of life, and, at the same time, have deleterious repercussions for the standard of living in more affluent regions; and,

Whereas, environmental and economic problems caused by overpopulation will affect all nations of the world, including the United States;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved that I, Gaston Caperton, Governor of the State of West Virginia, do hereby proclaim October 22, 1995 through October 28, 1995 as: "World Population Awareness Week" in West Virginia and encourage all citizens to understand the importance of educating ourselves in order to help curb these trends and help eliminate poverty, illiteracy, unemployment, social disintegration and gender discrimination.●

● Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, every year the United States sends billions of dollars overseas for foreign aid and military operations trying to bring peace and prosperity to troubled regions around the world. Our help often comes too late and seldom alleviates the root of the dilemma.

Overcrowding and rapid population growth exacerbates many causes of conflict around the world, like ethnic tensions, economic disparity, and struggle over scarce resources. The population of our planet has ballooned rapidly from 2 billion in 1935 to almost 6 billion today, and will reach 8 billion by 2025. Ninety percent of this growth will occur in the most troubled regions of the Third World, increasing their already difficult tasks of peace and economic development.

Stable population growth could help these regions achieve their goals by improving economic conditions, lessening the stress on scarce resources, raising the quality of life, and facilitating economic development. Increasing the awareness of population growth focuses the efforts of our Government, and governments around the world, on finding solutions to this problem.

To focus attention on population expansion, the State of Wisconsin has declared October 22-28 World Population Awareness Week. I hope Wisconsin's effort to increase sensitivity on this issue will be joined by other State and local governments. World Population Awareness Week is the first step toward stable population growth and a better and more peaceful life for everyone on the planet.●

BILL READ FOR THE FIRST TIME—
S. 1328

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I understand that S. 1328, introduced earlier today by Senator HATCH, is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I ask for its first reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1328) to amend the commencement dates of certain temporary Federal judgeships.

Mr. DOLE. I now ask for its second reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. DOLE. I wish to object on behalf of the distinguished Democratic leader, Senator DASCHLE.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

The bill will be read the second time on the next legislative day.

ORDERS FOR TOMORROW

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it stand in adjournment until the hour of 12 noon on Wednesday, October 18; that, following the prayer, the Journal of proceedings be deemed approved to date, no resolutions come over under the rule, the call of the calendar be dispensed with, the morning hour be deemed to have expired, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and then there be a period for morning business until the hour of 2 p.m., with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 5 minutes each with the following exceptions: Senator THOMAS or designee, for 60 minutes, and Senator DASCHLE or designee, for 60 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I further ask unanimous consent that the cloture vote on the substitute amendment occur at 2 p.m., with the mandatory live quorum waived; further, that under the provisions of rule XXII, Members have until 1 o'clock to file second-degree amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, for the information of all Senators, there will be a third cloture vote at 2 o'clock on the Cuban sanctions bill. If cloture is invoked, the Senate will stay on that bill until disposed of. If cloture is not invoked, the Senate may be asked to return to any of the following items: NASA authorization; Amtrak authorization; Labor-HHS appropriations—we are trying to work out some agreement on that; State Department reorganization; and it is my hope—I know that the Senator from North Carolina, Senator HELMS, has prepared for several days to proceed on that matter—that the Senator from Massachusetts, Senator KERRY, will submit some offer to Senator HELMS so we can work out that matter, as we agreed to earlier; plus any available appropriations conference reports.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL TOMORROW

Mr. DOLE. If there is no other Senator seeking recognition, and no further business to come before the Senate, I now ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 6:19 p.m., adjourned until Wednesday, October 18, 1995, at 12 noon.
