

streets dangerous and taking away jobs and looking for a free ride, you might think that immigrant-bashing is a new invention. But the mindless immigrant-bashing we hear today from the Pete Wilsons and Pat Buchanans of America is as old as the Mayflower.

Politicians have always been ready to turn real fears and legitimate concerns about crime and health care and jobs into the imaginary belief that it is all the fault of those people—those immigrants, those suspect people who are somehow different from the rest of us.

Let me read you a quote. You guess who it's about. "It is hopeless to think of civilizing these new immigrants, or keeping them in order, except by the arm of the law." Sounds a lot like the speeches I hear on the floor of the House of Representatives. Or the rhetoric any where Pat Buchanan happens to be campaigning. But the quote is a little less recent. It's from the New York Times. In 1875. And they were writing about Italians.

Well, the immigrant bashers were wrong about Italians in 1875. And they are wrong about the immigrants to America today. Unfortunately, today's immigrant bashers are so busy closing their minds that they close their eyes to the reality of immigration and the contributions of immigrants. They don't see you. They don't see this swearing in. They don't see 1,000 people ready to work and sweat and toil to make their lives better and their families lives better. You are the reality of immigration today.

I wish the bashers and politicians and fear-mongers would come to our city, and look at the reality of your faces. Maybe then, instead of closing their minds, they could open their hearts. When friends of mine who don't know Chicago come to town, like to take them to one of the most vibrant, thriving, successful commercial strips in our city. Do I take them to State Street or Michigan Avenue? No, I take them to 26th Street, one of the most successful urban commercial strips in America.

An area rebuilt almost exclusively by immigrants from Mexico. Because of immigration, 26th Street is not another declining, nearly abandoned urban wasteland. It is an example of our city at its best. And look where we are today.

At Navy Pier, a historic reminder of a Chicago that has opened its streets and ports and neighborhoods to Swedes and Poles and Irish and Lithuanians and Italians and Germans and every person from every corner of the globe and because we opened our doors instead of closing our minds we live in the greatest city in the world. And now that great city has 1,000 more recruits who will open businesses and create jobs and build housing and work and sweat and contribute and stand on the shoulders of our immigrant brothers and sisters and lead Chicago into a new century.

I ask Mr. Buchanan and every person who wants to build a wall around our nation: Have you looked at the inner-cities being rebuilt by immigrants from Mexico? Have you visited the hospitals where doctors from Asia are healing our sick? Do you care about the new businesses and new jobs and new opportunities that are being created by newcomers to America from across the world?

In the past, America's answer has been: Yes we see, yes we care, yes we understand. And that must be our answer today. A recent study estimated that immigrants to our country are earning more than $240 billion per year. They are paying more than $90 billion in taxes. And they are collecting only five billion dollars in welfare benefits.

Almost 20 times more taxes paid than government benefits collected. Those are the facts of our immigrant community. I am honored and proud to serve a Congressional District that is filled with a diverse community of immigrants from throughout the world.

When I walk down Milwaukee Avenue, I still hear the languages of my neighbors from Mexico to Poland to Ukraine to Korea. Yet, no community is more American. More proud of our nation. This is the true story of the immigrant community.

I think the immigrant-bashing sweeping across our nation like a plague is a real threat to our future. Our country should remain strong and vibrant and confident. But we cannot do it if we turn our back on people who want to contribute.

What would Chicago look like today if we had closed our doors before the Irish arrived, or before the Germans arrived, before the Poles arrived? If we were to close our doors today, we will gain nothing, and lose something vital. We would become a broken city of missed opportunities. Of missed economic opportunities, the missed cultural opportunities, of missed opportunities to keep our city growing and thriving changing.

I see many faces here today that I have seen before. Your came to the workshops sponsored by the 4th Congressional District Citizenship Project. I'm very proud we were able to help you, yet I know that it was you who did the real work. You endured long lines and waits. You endured a backlog at the INS to have your application approved. Many of you studied hard for your test and worked to improve your English. I know it wasn't easy.

But the work of months will pay off today by beginning a lifetime of opportunity. Immigration is opportunity. All of you now have a greater opportunity for you to benefit from our nation. But America gets an even better deal. Our nation receives the opportunity to benefit from you.

As I speak on the floor of the House of Representatives this week, as people attack immigration and say we need fewer new American citizens, I will think of all of you today. And I will do my best to spread the word. The word of your dedication and commitment and what it means to our country. The word of how much our nation would lose if we stop having days just like today.

You've kept your end of the bargain by overcoming the obstacles and becoming citizens. I promise you, I'll do everything I can to make sure our government keeps their end of the deal.

Thank you again and congratulations to every one of you on your outstanding accomplishment.

CONGRATULATIONS TO LAWRENCEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TEAM

HON. GLENN POSHARD

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 29, 1996

Mr. POSHARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a special group of student-athletes from the 19th District of Illinois. The Lawrenceville High School basketball team recently completed their 1995-96 campaign by qualifying for the State tournament in Peoria. The Indians were knocked out in the elite eight, but even this loss could not tarnish such a stellar season. Highlighting their accomplishments is the fact that the team carries a 3.0-grade point average. I commend them on not only their title run, but their commitment to their studies and the excitement they brought to the community.

Lawrenceville is a senior dominated squad that has been together since middle school. As eight graders, this group won the Southern Illinois Class L State Tournament Championship with an undefeated mark of 24-0. Combined with an experienced crop of juniors and two underclassmen, it is easy to understand how the Indians competed with the best talent in the State. On the way to a 22-7 record, Lawrenceville won the Capital Classic and the North Egyptian Conference as well as regional, sectional, and super-sectional titles. Head coach Brian Stillwell and his assistants Lynn Gray, Jerry Scott, and David Heshner deserve praise for guiding this hard-working group through a long season. Significantly, Lawrenceville was the only high school in Illinois to have two sport teams qualify for their respective State tournaments, the wrestling team joining the cagers in this honor.

Mr. Speaker, high school sports teach our students many important lessons and are an excellent preparation for their future careers. In return, these fine players give back to their school and town with their uncompromising pursuit of success, both on the hardwood and in the classroom. They have done themselves proud, and I salute them. It is an honor to represent Lawrenceville in the U.S. Congress. The following are the team members: Curt Benson, Kevin Cochran, Mark Denison, Nate Ernst, Jason Goff, Ryan Gray, Stephen Muller, Matt Moorehead, Dusty Tredway, Gage Caudell, Matt Gardner, Jason Green, Josh Weger, Andy Denison, and Justin Wolfe. The managers are Josh Brown and Jared Smith.

HONORING THE LOWER MERION HIGH SCHOOL BOYS BASKETBALL TEAM

HON. JON D. FOX

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 29, 1996

Mr. FOX of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to a group of student athletes who scaled the mountain of athletic success while keeping their feet firmly planted in the soil of educational excellence.

Recently, the boys basketball team from Lower Merion High School captured the class AAAA championship by beating a fine team from Erie Cathedral Prep 48 to 43. After streaking through a phenomenal season with a 31-3 record, the Aces captured their first State title since 1943.

This athletic achievement is a testament to their exceptional teamwork, commitment to excellence and their remarkable drive to achieve the finest in athletics. The hard work and dedication of Coach Gregg Downer, his staff and the fine young men paid off as they achieved the ultimate success for a high school basketball team in Pennsylvania.

These young men are shining examples of the best and brightest in America. Among the team members is Kobe Bryant whose 33 point average per game and stellar abilities have made him the No. 1 high school basketball player in the Nation.

But this high school and the outstanding Lower Merion School District of which it is a part represent more than excellence in athletics. Six of the district's nine schools have received the national Blue Ribbon designation from the U.S. Department of Education. Lower Merion has a record number of National Merit Scholars and its students have just won their fifth consecutive State championship in the Academic Decathlon.

The achievements of the students and athletes of Lower Merion represent all that is good about our public education system. The school district and the students educated there are a monument to what can happen when local officials and parents work together to craft an educational and athletic program which provides a well-rounded background as these young men and women prepare for their adult lives.

Mr. Speaker, as the Representative who has been given the honor of serving the people of Lower Merion and the entire 13th Congressional District, I offer my congratulations to the student athletes of the Lower Merion Boys Basketball Team, their coaches, and families on the occasion of this great State championship. And I offer best wishes for a future I know has been forged in the fires of hard work, strengthened by the dedication to excellence, brightened by the light of potential and nourished by a caring community and family.

IN HONOR OF MS. LIDIA GIL-RAMOS FOR DISTINGUISHED AND DEDICATED SERVICE TO THE
SENIOR CITIZENS OF NORTH
HUDSON COUNTY

HON. ROBERT MENENDEZ

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 29, 1996

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Ms. Lidia Gil-Ramos, an outstanding individual who has distinguished herself by her selfless commitment to the senior citizens of Hudson County. Ms. Ramos will be honored at the 22d anniversary dinner of Tertulias de Antano, a senior citizen recreational program she founded.

Ms. Ramos emigrated from Cuba and arrived in Union City, NJ in 1965. She is a woman who seems to have been born for social work and community service. In Cuba, she taught primary school during the day and volunteered her nights teaching elderly farm workers who never had the opportunity to attend school. Upon receiving her master's degree from the University of Havana, she became director of a large nursing home in San Miguel de los Banos, Matanzas in central Cuba.

Once in the United States, she found employment as an income maintenance specialist for the Food Stamp Program in Jersey City and undertook further training in working with elderly citizens. Her service to seniors began in the Cuban refugee program of Union City. During her service, she witnessed the dejection and solitude that many Cuban seniors experienced in their new surroundings. Determined to address and to improve the social environment of the Cuban senior community, she founded the Tertulias de Antano recreational program on October 13, 1974.

Ms. Ramos devotes much of her time to coordinating the details of the program, which provides seniors with information on health care issues, English-language programs, and social events within the community. Today, not only do seniors in the Cuban-American community praise the program, but so do seniors from other Latin American countries now living in Hudson County. All this is due to the vision and enduring commitment of one woman dedicated to the overall happiness of the senior community.

Ms. Ramos' commitment to the senior citizens of Hudson County exemplifies the true meaning of compassion and community service. For her outstanding work and leadership, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring this wonderful individual. I am proud to have such a remarkable woman living and working within my district.

RECOGNIZING AARON MICHAEL EINBOND, 5TH PLACE WINNER OF
THE 55TH ANNUAL WESTING-
HOUSE SCIENCE TALENT SEARCH

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 29, 1996

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize an outstanding young man, Aaron Michael Einbond of New York, NY. Aaron, a senior attending Hunter College High School in Manhattan was chosen on Monday March 11, 1996, as the fifth place winner in the prestigious Westinghouse Science Awards.

Since 1942, the Westinghouse Science Talent Search has identified and encouraged high school seniors to pursue careers in science, mathematics, and engineering. The search is sponsored by Westinghouse Electronic Corp. through the Westinghouse Foundation in partnership with Science Service, a nonprofit organization.

Over the years, more than 113,000 students from all over the country have entered projects into this prestigious competition. This year, 735 high schools from all 50 States submitted entries to the Westinghouse Science Talent Search. Only 40 students may participate in the final round of judging and from that pool of 40 students, only 10 finalists are awarded scholarships.

Aaron's project explored a new protein domain through the use of protein sequence database searches. It resulted in the isolation of two human genes.

Aaron is not new to winning awards. He is a three time winner of the Manhattan Borough Science Fair competition and a multiple winner of various school science fairs. This talented young man is also an award winning composer and gifted musician who plays the clarinet. This fall, Aaron will enroll as a freshman at Harvard University where he will have the opportunity to pursue his two loves: music and science.

I congratulate Aaron on his accomplishment of being awarded a Westinghouse Science Award and I salute the Westinghouse Science Talent Search and all the winners for acknowledging the hard work of young people like Aaron.

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION
OF H.R. 3136, CONTRACT WITH AMERICAN ADVANCEMENT ACT OF 1996

SPEECH OF

HON. JENNIFER DUNN

OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 28, 1996

Ms. DUNN of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3136, the Contract With American Advancement Act. Over the past 15 months, Republicans have made truly historic efforts to change business as usual here in Washington, DC. Central to those efforts has been our drive to finally put our Nation on a credible path to a balanced budget.

Despite the fact that Republicans crafted the first balanced budget since 1969, we have learned that a supposedly revolutionary idea like balancing the budget takes two elections. Despite this setback, we have not given up the fight.

Republicans continue to believe that Washington spends too much, taxes too much, and that government is too big. That is why we are doing all we can to reduce spending, reduce taxes, and shrink the size of government.

While we may not be able to accomplish as much this year as we had hoped, we are dedicated to doing as much as we can—right now. That brings me to the measure before us today. While we continue to work to keep our promises to the American people for a balanced budget, we must not put the Nation at undue risk. This vote—to authorize the Government to borrow more money by increasing the Nation's debt limit—is not easy.

Congress has twice sent the President a bill that extends the Government's borrowing authority. President Clinton has vetoed both bills. Now Republicans again act to avoid default.

Our current debt limit stands at $4.9 trillion. And it is growing everyday. Someone, someday has to pay off this debt. I do not want to leave it to the next generation. We have a responsibility to our children, and to our children's children, to end this pattern of destructive out-of-control spending.

Mr. Chairman, $4.9 trillion is a lot of money. To put that figure into perspective I want to share just a few facts. If we were to pay all of the debt off today, a family of four would need to contribute over $72,000 as their share of the debt. A single person's bill would come to just $18,000.

Every week we continue to have this debt, that family's personal share of the debt rises by $89. Every month—$383. For most families, this is a monthly car payment which ends in 4 or 5 years. But this is not a car payment, it is our national debt. You keep giving, but you get nothing in return and you continue to pass the tab onto our children.

Included in this measure is what I believe to be one of the most important tools necessary to fix our irresponsible spending habits—the line-item veto. To demonstrate how important this tool is, I am willing to give the authority to a President of a different party. To those who say the President will use it for political purposes, I say nonsense. The President currently has veto authority. With line item authority he simply could remove the misguided pork barrel spending without killing the entire bill.
