SEC. 9. HAWAIIAN HOMES COMMISSION.

That, as required by section 4 of the Act entitled "An Act to provide for the admission of the State of Hawaii into the Union", approved March 18, 1959 (73 Stat. 4), the United States consents to the following amendments to the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act, 1920, adopted by the State of Hawaii in the manner required for State legislation:

(1) Act 339 of the Session Laws of Hawaii, 1993.

(2) Act 37 of the Session Laws of Hawaii, 1994.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] and the gentleman from American Samoa [Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY].

(Mr. GALLEGLY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, the Omnibus Insular Areas Act of 1996, H.R. 1332, includes a number of measures largely technical in nature affecting some of our U.S. territories as well as the native Hawaiians. These provisions have been developed based on hearings and consultations with leaders from the islands during the first and second sessions of the 104th Congress.

All are noncontroversial, and enjoy bipartisan support. The administration has testified in support of a majority of the provisions and have now indicated no opposition to certain measures which have been modified to address any major concerns.

Let me briefly explain the individual sections of the bill, which are listed in section 1. Sections 2, 3, and 4 affect the U.S. Virgin Islands. Section 2 would clarify that the physical absence of the Governor or Lieutenant Governor would not constitute a temporary absence which triggers a transfer of authority to the next administration official in the chain of command. Modern telecommunications enable the Governor and Lieutenant Governor to retain communication with the Virgin Islands from virtually anywhere in the United States or the world.

Section 3 will enable the Virgin Islands to issue parity bonds rather than priority bonds. This is consistent with the current practice with most State and local governments and will potentially save money for the Virgin Islands.

There is a bipartisan consensus of leaders in the Virgin Islands and Congress that a focused effort is needed to develop a plan which would assist the Virgin Islands in moving toward economic self-sufficiency. Section 4 would establish a commission appointed by the President, who would make recommendations to the Congress by mid-1998, when the commission would expire.

The Government of Guam and the Delegate from Guam have requested that Guam be given the power to conduct the election for delegate by separate ballot. The provision of section 5 will save Guam the costs of printing separate ballots for the election of one position.

Section 6 is a technical clarification providing for similar treatment of certain Federal insular funds received by any territory. Northern Mariana Islands special grant funding is considered to be local funds once received, and any funds received by a territory from this source would also be considered local upon receipt.

The American Memorial Park established in Saipan in the Northern Mariana Islands has become one of the premier monuments in the Western Pacific honoring the sacrifices of our Armed Forces during World War II. Over $3 million were spent to build a world-class memorial. This is befitting the honor due to our men and women who fought over the very ground upon which the memorial stands. The amendment in section 7 would insure that the continued operation of the American Memorial Park under the National Park Service rather than the local Marianas government.

Section 8 provides for a short-term commission to examine the near century-long relationship of American Samoa as a territory of the United States and the economic needs of the islands. The Delegate from American Samoa is the primary advocate for this action, and I concur with the need to review the territory's economic development potential.

The last section is largely ministerial in nature as current law provides for the Congress to give final approval to any proposed change of the Hawaii State Legislature to the Hawaiian Homes Commission. The two measures adopted by the Hawaii's legislative body do not result in any increased costs to the Federal Government, but both will be helpful to native Hawaiians. Grandchildren of a native Hawaiian leaseholder would be permitted to assume the remainder of the home lease should that individual die and the other will help in the area of disaster relief bonds.

I want to commend members on both sides of the aisle for their interest and support of the various issues affecting our territories. It is through bipartisanship that we have been able to forget a consensus on action necessary for the island and I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 1332, the Omnibus Areas Act of 1996.

Mr. Speaker, I really cannot over-emphasize the bipartisan effort that has gone into putting this together, not only with the ranking member, but all the other members of the subcommittee that I am very proud to serve with.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Guam [Mr. UNDERWOOD].

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 1332, the Omnibus Insular Areas Act of 1996. I would especially like to commend the chairman of the Subcommittee on Native American and Insular Affairs, the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY], and the ranking member of the subcommittee, my brother, the gentleman from the Pacific islands and American Samoa [Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA], for their hard work in putting this bill together.

I also commend the chairman of the committee, the gentleman from Alaska [Mr. YOUNG], and the ranking member, the gentleman from California [Mr. MILLER], for their continued commitment to addressing issues that are of vital importance to the insular areas.

Mr. Speaker, this omnibus bill has important provisions for the insular areas. It is, however, regrettable that the Subcommittee on Native American and Insular Affairs and the Committee on Resources were not able to complete the work on other provisions of interest to the insular areas, especially including the Guam Land Return Act, certainly of particular interest to the people of Guam.

The issue of returning excess Federal lands to the people of Guam is one that continues to command importance, and it is certainly important to the continual good relations that the Guam civilian community has with the military as we go into a new era of downsizing.

But this should not be the cause to impede the progress that we have made on many other issues that are included in this bill, including the authorization of the American Samoa Study Commission, a commission on the economic future of the Virgin Islands, and technical amendments that help to clarify certain Federal laws.

The Committee on Resources can look forward to the 105th Congress with a sense of where we left off in dealing with the other issues that were not included in this bill. I would again urge the committee to work with Guam to resolve the longstanding issue of the return of Federal excess lands to the people of Guam. This is an issue that has made significant progress in the past year, and it is indeed very unfortunate that at the latest possible moment the administration's opposition to the Guam Land Return Act, due in large measure to the uncompromising position of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, has made it very difficult to reach a final agreement on including this provision in the House omnibus bill.

Mr. Speaker, I remain optimistic that the Senate will be able to pass its own omnibus bill on similar topics which include the Guam Land Return Act. It is appropriate that as we end the 104th Congress with an Omnibus Insular Areas Act that it is in fact supported in a bipartisan manner, as alluded to by the chairman of the subcommittee. This is truly the only way to approach insular issues.

Our issues are not necessarily national in scope at times, are not Democratic or Republican issues, but they are issues which tug at the nature of what it means to have an American democracy and test our commitment to what it means to implement American democracy in those areas which fly the flag.

Territories have their own unique histories, and we are able to continue to make progress under the U.S. flag in a bipartisan way. That is really the only way that it can occur.

Again, I commend the Committee on Resources and the leadership in both the majority and minority for working in a bipartisan manner on behalf of the territories.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I certainly would like to commend the gentleman from Guam [Mr.

UNDERWOOD] for his profound statements on a very unfortunate situation, as he had related earlier, about the Guam excess lands and the problems that we had with the Fish and Wildlife Service. It is my earnest hope that we will continue to work with him, and as well with our good friend, the gentleman from the other side of the aisle, so that we can resolve this problem, and hopefully that we will be able to proceed at the earliest possible time in the next Congress.

Mr. Speaker, also, I want to commend and thank my good friend, the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY], the chairman of the subcommittee, for bringing this legislation to the floor for the consideration of the Members.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 1332, the Omnibus Insular Areas Act of 1996.

Mr. Speaker, this bill has been 2 years in the making and it has undergone substantial change during this time. While I support all the provisions in the bill, there are many more issues affecting the U.S. insular areas which need attention. Unfortunately, the time remaining in this Congress has necessitated the exclusion of several significant provisions, which I hope we can address early next year.

To assist the government of the U.S. Virgin Islands operate more efficiently, section 23 of this bill permits the Governor and Lieutenant Governor to retain the authority of their office while on official business outside of the Virgin Islands. Section 3 changes the priority of municipal bonds issued by the government of the Virgin Islands so that later issues of bonds will not necessarily have to carry a higher interest rate. A third provision will establish a commission to make recommendations on how the Virgin Islands might best develop its economy in light of changing trade and tourism patterns.

To assist the government of Guam to operate more efficiently, section 5 of H.R. 1332 permits the local government to combine the ballot for the Delegate's position with the ballots for other local elections, such as seats in the Guam legislature for Governor.

Under current Federal law, the ballot for the Delegate position must be separate from all other ballots. The government of Guam uses optical scanners to read voters' ballots, and there is considerable waste in time and paper in scanning full sheets of paper with only one mark on them. Although the title of the act being amended in section 5(a) includes both Guam and the Virgin Islands, I wish to make it clear that as drafted and at the request of the Delegate from the Virgin Islands, the provision in the bill changes the law only for Guam.

To assist the territorial governments to manage their financial assets more efficiently and to take better advantage of funding opportunities as they become available, section 6 of H.R. 1332 will permit territorial governments receiving funding pursuant to Public Law 94-241 to use those funds as local funds for matching requirements toward Federal grants. This problem most often occurs after a hurricane or typhoon has stricken a territory. In the aftermath of such a calamity, the territory quickly draws down its limited financial reserves, if it has any, and then is unable to obtain any FEMA emergency grants which require local matching funds because they have no unobligated funds to use as the match.

The Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands is the home of the American Memorial Park. The park was developed by the U.S. National Park Service and Public Law 95-348 authorized the Park Service to transfer the park to the government of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands. Circumstances have changed since that law was enacted, and today the Park Service and the government of the CNMI wish the Park Service to retain management of this park. Section 7 of H.R. 1332 repeals the authorization for the Park Service to transfer the park.

Section 9 of the bill amends the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act of 1920 in two ways. First, it will permit the lease of trust lands to grandchildren, so long as they have a 25-percent blood quantum requirement. The second amendment will establish a native Hawaiian hurricane relief fund.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, section 8 of this bill will establish a commission to study American Samoa's historical relationship with the United States, and to provide options available to the government to develop the local economy. I am including with this statement a copy of a letter signed by Chairman DON YOUNG, Chairman ELTON GALLEGLY, and myself in support of this provision.

The territory of American Samoa is the only unorganized, unincorporated territory of the United States. There is no single document which reflects the present unity of the territory. To make matters more confusing, there has been a running debate for decades over the intent of the Samoan traditional leaders or chiefs who signed the documents joining American Samoa and the United States into a political union. Whether the intent was to cede the land and people to the United States, or to enter into a bilateral treaty, which would, at some point, be subject to further negotiations, is not clear.

The Commission would document and report on exactly what took place 96 years ago when the eastern part of the Samoan island group became part of the United States, and what this bilateral relationship has developed into since 1900. The commission would also be directed to report on the various status options available to American Samoa. The Commission would be composed of five members, three of whom would be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, one by the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, and one by the President of the U.S. Senate.

I want to emphasize that unlike the sometimes contentious negotiations on political status in Guam and the always contentious discussions on political status in Puerto Rico, this proposal does not, and I want to say this again, this legislation does not establish a political status commission. The Commission will not have the authority to change American Samoa's political status. The Commission is modeled after the Commissions which studied native Hawaiian, native American, and Native Alaskan issues. These three commissions provided resource materials which have been of significant benefit to these groups and to those who are interested in the history of these issues.

The establishment of the American Samoa Commission has been a topic of discussion in American Samoa ever since I first proposed it several years ago. Some have questioned the need for a Federal commission, indicating that there is more than sufficient talent in American Samoa to convene a commission of this nature. In response, let me say that I agree that there are many individuals in Samoa with the knowledge and experience to make excellent members of the Commission I propose, and I hope that some of these individuals will sit on the Commission. The key, however, is having access to the resources of the Federal Government, such as the Library of Congress, and access to the records of the Federal departments and agencies, including the material contained in the National Archives. It is one through a Federal commission that we can ensure that these resources are made available.

American Samoa has been the subject of two Federal study commissions; one was established in 1929 and the other in 1960. Both of the commissions made substantive recommendations which have led to major improvements in American Samoa. The last report was 36 years ago, and it is time again that we had the benefit of this expertise and different perspective.

Mr. Speaker, this bill would not be before the House today without considerable effort and leadership on the parts of Chairman DON YOUNG, Chairman ELTON GALLEGLY, senior Democratic Member GEORGE MILLER, and their staffs. I appreciate the hard work of all these individuals and their willingness to work together for the benefit of the territories. I want to comment again also on the bipartisan manner Chairman GALLEGLY has managed the business of the Subcommittee on Native American and Insular Affairs. We have not agreed on every issue, but we have continued to work together and have passed many pieces of legislation which are or we expect to become public law.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 1332 includes a modest list of provision to help our territories. I ask my colleagues to support these insular areas in this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I include for the RECORD the following letter from the chairman of the subcommittee.

The letter referred to is as follows:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON RESOURCES,
Washington, DC, September 25, 1996.

Hon. FRANK H. MURKOWSKI,
U.S. Senator, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: We have been working for months on an omnibus territories bill which we would like to get through the House and the Senate before the 104th Congress adjourns. A copy of that legislation is enclosed.

As you can see, we have been making a good faith effort to include provisions which both houses have been working on during this Congress. It was brought to our attention this week, however, that there is opposition to Section 8 of the legislation which would provide for a commission to study American Samoa's 96-year relationship with the U.S. and the options available to improve the territory's future governmental and economic relationship with the United States.

The Commission for Samoa is similar to the federal study commissions we have established for the Native Americans, Native Alaskans and the Native Hawaiians. Additionally, the legislation has been pending in the House for four years, and it has the support of Samoa's Delegate, the Governor, and a majority of Samoa's residents.

We support all eight of the provisions in this bill, and ask for your support so that we can provide this assistance to the territories.

Sincerely,

DON YOUNG,
Chairman, Committee on Resources.

ELTON GALLEGLY,
Chairman, Subcommittee on Native American and Insular Affairs.
