DIVISION A—CONSOLIDATION OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS AGENCIES

TITLE I—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 101. SHORT TITLE.

This division may be cited as the "Foreign Affairs Agencies Consolidation Act of 1996".

SEC. 102. CONGRESSIONAL FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) With the end of the Cold War, the international challenges facing the United States have changed, but the fundamental national interests of the United States have not. The security, economic, and humanitarian interests of the United States require continued United States engagement in international affairs. The leading role of the United States in world affairs will be as important in the twenty-first century as it has been in the twentieth.

(2) The United States budget deficit requires that the foreign as well as the domestic programs and activities of the United States be carefully reviewed for potential savings. Wherever possible, foreign programs and activities must be streamlined, managed more efficiently, and adapted to the requirements of the post-Cold War era.

(3) In order to downsize the foreign programs and activities of the United States without jeopardizing United States interests, strong and effective leadership will be required. As the official principally responsible for the conduct of foreign policy, the Secretary of State must have the authority to allocate efficiently the resources within the international affairs budget. As a first step in the downsizing process, the proliferation of foreign affairs agencies that occurred during the Cold War must be reversed, and the functions of these agencies must be restored to the Secretary of State.

(4) A streamlined and reorganized foreign affairs structure under the strengthened leadership of the Secretary of State can more effectively promote the international interests of the United States in the next century than the existing structure.

SEC. 103. PURPOSES.

The purposes of this division are—

- (1) to consolidate and reinvent the foreign affairs agencies of the United States within the Department of State;
- (2) to assist congressional efforts to balance the Federal budget and reduce the Federal debt;
- (3) to provide for the reorganization of the Department of State to maximize the efficient use of resources, eliminate redundancy in functions, effect budget savings, and improve the management of the Department of State;
- (4) to ensure that the United States maintains adequate representation abroad within budgetary restraints;
- (5) to ensure that programs critical to the promotion of United States national interests be maintained;
- (6) to encourage United States foreign affairs agencies to maintain a high percentage of the best qualified, most competent United States citizens serving in the United States Government while downsizing significantly the total number of people employed by such agencies;

(7) to strengthen—

(A) the coordination of United States foreign policy; and

(B) the leading role of the Secretary of State in the formulation and articulation of United States foreign policy; and

(8) to abolish, not later than March 1, 1997, the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, the United States Information Agency, the United States International Development Cooperation Agency, and the Agency for International Development.

(3) On November 2, 1994, the Human Rights Committee, established under the Covenant to interpret the Covenant and to receive complaints of noncompliance, adopted General Comment No. 24 regarding reservations to the Covenant.

(4) In General Comment No. 24, the Human Rights Committee claimed for itself the power to judge the validity under international law of reservations to the Covenant, and in the purported exercise of this power asserted that reservations of the type included in the Senate resolution of ratification are invalid, and further asserted that invalid reservations will be read out of instruments of ratification, "in the sense that the Covenant will be operative for the reserving party without benefit of the reservation".

“(2) the funds have not been expended because of unforeseen circumstances, and those circumstances could not have been reasonably foreseen.

“(c) COMMENTS BY INSPECTOR GENERAL.—As soon as possible after the submission of a report pursuant to subsection (b), the Inspector General of the agency primarily responsible for administering part I of this Act shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees such comments as the Inspector General considers appropriate with regard to the determination described in that report.

SEC. 1617. LIMITATION ON ASSISTANCE TO COUNTRIES THAT RESTRICT THE TRANSPORT OR DELIVERY OF UNITED STATES HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The United States Federal budget deficit and spending constraints require the maximum efficiency in the usage of United States foreign assistance.

(2) The delivery of humanitarian assistance to people in need is consistent with the fundamental values of our Nation and is an important component of United States foreign policy.

(3) As a matter of principle and in furtherance of fiscal prudence, the United States should seek to promote the delivery of humanitarian assistance to people in need in a manner that is both timely and cost effective.

(4) Recipients of United States assistance should not hinder or delay the transport or delivery of United States humanitarian assistance to other countries.

(b) PROHIBITION ON ASSISTANCE.—Section 620 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2370), as amended by this Act, is further amended by inserting after subsection (v) (as added by this Act) the following new subsection:

TITLE XVII—CONGRESSIONAL STATEMENTS

SEC. 1701. THE LAOGAI SYSTEM OF POLITICAL PRISONS.

It is the sense of the Congress that the President should—

(1) publicly condemn the continued existence of the Chinese gulag, known as the Laogai, and call upon the Government of the People’s Republic of China to dismantle it and release all of its political prisoners; and

(2) instruct the appropriate diplomatic representatives of the United States to cause a resolution condemning the Laogai to be put before the United Nations Human Rights Commission and work for its passage.

SEC. 1702. DECLARATION OF CONGRESS REGARDING UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY TOWARD CHINA.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) According to the 1994 State Department Country Reports on Human Rights Practices, there continue to be “widespread and well-documented human rights abuses in China, in violation of internationally accepted norms . . . (including) arbitrary and lengthy incommunicado detention, torture, and mistreatment of prisoners. The regime continued severe restrictions on freedoms of speech, press assembly and association, and tightened controls on the exercise of these rights during 1994. Serious human rights abuses persisted in Tibet and other areas populated by ethnic minorities”.

(2) The President, in announcing his decision on Most Favored Nation trading status for China in May 1994 stated that, “China continues to commit very serious human rights abuses. Even as we engage the Chinese on military, political, and economic issues, we intend to stay engaged with those in China who suffer from human rights abuses. The United States must remain a champion of their liberties”.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Congress that the President should take the following actions:

(1) Decline the invitation to visit China until and unless there is dramatic overall progress on human rights in China and Tibet and communicate to the Government of China that such a visit cannot take place without such progress. Indications of overall progress would include the release of hundreds of political, religious, and labor activists; an agreement to allow unhindered confidential access to prisoners by international humanitarian agencies; enactment of major legal reforms such as an end to all restrictions on the exercise of freedom of religion, revocation of the 1993 state security law, and the abolition of all so-called “counter-revolutionary” crimes; an end to forced abortion, forced sterilization, and the provision by government facilities of human fetal remains for consumption as food; and a decision to allow unrestricted access to Tibet by foreign media and international human rights monitors.

(2) Seek to develop an agreement on a multilateral strategy to promote human rights in China. Such an agreement should include efforts to encourage greater cooperation by the Government of China with the human rights rapporteurs and working groups of the United Nations Human Rights Commission, as well as bilateral and multilateral initiatives to secure the unconditional release of imprisoned peaceful pro-democracy advocates such as Wei Jingsheng.

(3) Extend an invitation to the Dalai Lama to visit Washington, District of Columbia, in 1996.

(c) UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY TOWARD CHINA.—It shall be the policy of the United States Government to continue to promote internationally recognized human rights and worker rights in China and Tibet. The President shall submit the following reports on the formulation and implementation of United States human rights policy toward China and the results of that policy to the appropriate congressional committees:

(1) Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the President shall report on the status of the “new United States Human Rights Policy for China” announced by the President on May 26, 1994, including an assessment of the implementation and effectiveness of the policy in bringing about human rights improvements in China and Tibet, with reference to the following specific initiatives announced on that date:

(A) High-level dialogue on human rights.

(B) Voluntary principles in the area of human rights for United States businesses operating in China.

(C) Increased contact with and support for groups and individuals in China promoting law reform and human rights.

(D) Increased exchanges to support human rights law reform in China.

(E) The practice of all United States officials who visit China to meet with the broadest possible spectrum of Chinese citizens.

(F) Increased efforts to press United States views on human rights in China at the United Nations, the United Nations Human Rights Commission, and other international organizations.

(G) A plan of international actions to address Tibet’s human rights problems and to promote substantive discussions between the Dalai Lama and the Chinese Government.

(H) An information strategy for promoting human rights by expanding Chinese and Tibetan language broadcasts on the Voice of America and establishing Radio Free Asia.

(1) Encouraging the Chinese Government to permit international human rights groups to operate in and visit China.

The report required by this paragraph shall also assess the progress, if any, of the People's Republic of China toward ending forced abortion, forced sterilization, and other coercive population control practices.

(2) Not later than 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the President shall report on the status of Chinese Government compliance with United States laws prohibiting the importation into the United States of forced labor products, including (but not limited to) a complete assessment and report on the implementation of the Memorandum of Understanding signed by the United States and China in 1992. The report shall include (but not be limited to) the following:

(A) All efforts made by the United States Customs Service from 1992 until the date of the report to investigate forced labor exports and to conduct unannounced unrestricted inspections of suspected forced labor sites in China, and the extent to which Chinese authorities cooperated with such investigations.

(B) Recommendations of what further steps might be taken to enhance United States effectiveness in prohibiting forced labor exports to the United States from China.

SEC. 1703. UNITED STATES RELATIONS WITH THE FORMER YUGOSLAV REPUBLIC OF MACEDONIA (FYROM).

It is the sense of the Congress that the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia (FYROM) should be eligible for all United States foreign assistance programs, including programs of the Export-Import Bank and the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, if the government continues to respect the rights of all ethnic minorities.

SEC. 1704. DISPLACED PERSONS.

It is the sense of the Congress that of the amounts made available to the United Nations Development Program (and United Nations Development Program-Administered Funds), at least $20,000,000 for fiscal year 1996 and $20,000,000 for fiscal year 1997 should be available for programs and services conducted in cooperation with the International Organization for Migration, the International Committee for the Red Cross, and nongovernmental organizations, for persons who are displaced within their countries of nationality.

SEC. 1705. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON BORDER CROSSING FEES.

It is the sense of the Congress that the United States Government should not impose or collect a border crossing fee along its borders with Canada and Mexico.

SEC. 1706. INTER-AMERICAN ORGANIZATIONS.

Taking into consideration the long-term commitment by the United States to the affairs of this Hemisphere and the need to build further upon the linkages between the United States and its neighbors, the Secretary of State, in allocating the level of resources for international organizations, should make every effort to pay the full United States assessed funding levels for the Organization of American States and the Pan American Health Organization so that these two entities, which are uniquely dependent on United States contributions, have adequate resources to contribute effectively to United States foreign policy initiatives.

SEC. 1707. ESCALATING COSTS FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACEKEEPING ACTIVITIES.

It is the sense of the Congress that the executive branch should cease obligating the United States to pay for international peacekeeping operations in excess of funds specifically authorized and appropriated for this purpose.

SEC. 1708. VISIT OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA ON TAIWAN.

It is the sense of the Congress that the President of the Republic of China on Taiwan should be admitted to the United States for a visit in 1996 with all appropriate courtesies.

SEC. 1709. REPUBLIC OF CHINA ON TAIWAN'S PARTICIPATION IN GATT AND WTO.

It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) the United States should separate the Republic of China on Taiwan's application for membership in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the World Trade Organization (WTO) from the People's Republic of China's application for membership in such organizations;

(2) the United States should support the Republic of China on Taiwan's earliest membership in the GATT and the WTO if it meets full and legitimate membership criteria, including the elimination of inappropriate tariff levels and nontariff barriers;

(3) the United States should support the membership of the People's Republic of China in the GATT and the WTO only if a sound bilateral commercial agreement is reached between the United States and the People's Republic of China, and that the People's Republic of China makes significant progress in making its economic system compatible with GATT and WTO principles; and

(4) the People's Republic of China's application for membership in the GATT and the WTO should be reviewed strictly in accordance with the rules, guidelines, principles, precedents, and practices of the GATT and the WTO.

SEC. 1710. INDUSTRIAL PARK FOR GAZA OR THE WEST BANK.

(a) SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) the United States should take prompt, visible action before the coming elections in Gaza and Jericho that promises hope and jobs to Palestinians;

(2) the rapid development of an industrial park in Gaza or the West Bank, closely coordinated with private sector investors, will provide a clear sign of opportunity resulting from peace with Israel;

(3) the decision to site the industrial park should give special consideration to the extremely difficult economic conditions in Gaza and the West Bank;

(4) the President should appoint a special coordinator to coordinate the rapid development of an industrial park in Gaza or the West Bank and to begin the recruitment of United States investors; and

(5) the Secretary of State should direct a short-term review and implementation of United States assistance plans to assist in speeding the flow of goods and services between Israel and Gaza and the West Bank while increasing security among those areas.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the President shall prepare and transmit to the Congress a report detailing the following:

(1) All actions taken by the President to establish an industrial park in Gaza or the West Bank.

(2) Funds planned for expenditure to develop such industrial park.

And the Senate agree to the same.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 1561) to authorize appropriations for the Department of State, the United States Information Agency, and related agencies, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The Senate amendment struck all of the House bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment that is a substitute for the House bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clerical changes.

DIVISION A

The House bill (sec. 101) provides a short title for this Division, the "Foreign Affairs Agencies Consolidation Act of 1995."

The Senate amendment (sec. 1001) provides a short title for this Division, the "Foreign Affairs Reinvention Act of 1995."

The conference substitute provides a short title for this Division, the "Foreign Affairs Agencies Consolidation Act of 1996."

Congressional findings

The House bill (sec. 102) sets forth congressional findings that the United States must remain engaged in international affairs; that the U.S. budget deficit requires streamlining of government programs and activities, including foreign programs and activities; and that, as part of the downsizing of the international affairs budget, the proliferation of foreign affairs agencies that occurred during the Cold War must be reversed and the leadership of the Secretary of State strengthened.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

The House bill (sec. 103) states that the purposes of the Division are to consolidate and reinvent the foreign affairs agencies of the United States within the Department of State; provide for the reorganization of the Department of State; strengthen the coordination of U.S. foreign policy; and to abolish not later than March 1, 1997, the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), the United States Information Agency (USIA), the International Development Cooperation Agency, and the Agency for International Development (AID).

The Senate amendment (sec. 1002) states that the purposes of the Division are, inter alia, to reorganize and reinvent the foreign affairs agencies of the United States within the Department of State, to assist in congressional efforts to balance the Federal budget, to ensure that the United States maintains adequate representation abroad within budgetary constraints, and to encourage United States foreign affairs agencies to maintain a high percentage of the best qualified United States Government employees while downsizing significantly the total number of employees of such agencies.

The conference substitute (sec. 103) contains a combination of the purposes set forth in the House bill and the Senate amendment.

Section 221 shall take effect on the date of enactment.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1207) provides that this title and the amendments made by this title shall take effect in the event that the President does not transmit to Congress within six months of the date of enactment a reorganization plan meeting the objectives of section 1501(a)(2) of the Senate bill.

The conference substitute (sec. 201) is similar to the House bill.

References in title

The House bill (sec. 202) states that, except as otherwise provided, the references in this title to provisions of law shall be considered references to the Arms Control and Disarmament Act.

The conference substitute contains no comparable provision.

Abolition of United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency

The House bill (sec. 211) abolishes ACDA.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1201(a)) is similar to the House bill.

The conference substitute (sec. 211) is identical to the House bill.

Transfer of functions to Secretary of State

The House bill (sec. 212) transfers to the Secretary of State all functions of the Director of ACDA and of ACDA.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 212) is identical to the House bill.

Reorganization plan

The House bill (sec. 221) provides that, not later than March 1, 1996, the President, in consultation with the Secretary of State and the Director of ACDA, shall submit a reorganization plan to the appropriate committees of Congress. The plan is to provide for the abolition of ACDA; the transfer of ACDA's functions and personnel to the Department of State; and the consolidation, reorganization, and streamlining of the Department of State upon the transfer in order to carry out the transferred functions. The plan is to identify the functions of ACDA that are to be transferred; the personnel and positions of ACDA and the Department that are to be transferred, separated, or eliminated; specify the consolidations and reorganizations within the Department that will be required; specify the funds available to ACDA that will be transferred; specify the proposed allocations within the Department of unexpended funds that are to be transferred from ACDA; and specify the proposed disposition of the property, facilities, contracts, records, and other assets and liabilities of ACDA.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1603) provides that, in the event that the President does not transmit to Congress within six months of the date of enactment a reorganization plan meeting the objectives of section 1501(a)(2) of the Senate amendment, the President shall, in consultation with the Secretary of State, transmit a reorganization plan with respect to ACDA to the appropriate committees of Congress. The plan is to provide for substantially the same matters as the plan submitted under the House bill. A plan transmitted under this section shall become effective after 90 calendar days of continuous session of Congress, unless Congress enacts a joint resolution disapproving the plan. The Senate amendment further requires a reduction in employees and in funds available for salaries and expenses in the event that a plan transmitted under this section takes effect.

The conference substitute (sec. 601) is similar to the House bill, except that the plan is to be submitted not later than October 1, 1996. In addition, the requirement for submission of the plan shall not apply if the President exercises the waiver authority of section 602 of the conference substitute with respect to ACDA. A plan submitted pursuant to this section may be modified by the President on the basis of consultations with the appropriate congressional committees. A plan submitted pursuant to this section shall become effective on the earlier of March 1, 1997, or such date as the President shall determine to be appropriate and announce by notice published in the Federal Register.

The Committee notes that ACDA's single-mission focus has permitted the agency to develop over the years unique expertise and experience among its personnel in arms control matters. The Department of State has needed to develop similar expertise within the Bureau of Political-Military Affairs and elsewhere. However, the personnel system of the Department, which emphasizes the development of broad expertise among the Department's employees so as to equip them to effectively carry out the Department's many missions, has necessarily limited the Department's ability to match the training and experience in arms control matters that is found within ACDA.

The Committee believes that it would be detrimental to the interests of the United States for the expertise and experience of ACDA personnel to be lost as a result of the consolidation of ACDA with the Department of State. Accordingly, the Committee would expect any reorganization plan applicable to ACDA submitted pursuant to section 601 of the conference substitute to be designed, to the maximum extent feasible, to ensure that the unique expertise and experience of ACDA personnel is not lost to the United States Government as a result of the consolidation.

Principal officers

The House bill (sec. 222) amends the State Department Basic Authorities Act to establish the new position within the Department of State of Coordinator for Arms Control and Disarmament, with the rank and status of Ambassador-at-Large. The Coordinator heads the Bureau of Arms Control and Disarmament and reports directly to the Secretary of State. In addition, an amendment to the National Security Act of 1947 provides that the Coordinator shall serve as a statutory advisor to the National Security Council.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 213) is substantially identical to the House bill.

References

The House bill (sec. 244) provides that any reference in any statute or other official document or proceeding to the Director of ACDA shall be deemed to refer to the Secretary of State, and any reference to ACDA shall be deemed to refer to the Department of State.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1206) is virtually identical.

The conference substitute (sec. 221) is identical to the House bill.

The plan is to identify the functions of USIA that are to be transferred; the personnel and positions of USIA and the Department that are to be transferred, separated, or eliminated; specify the consolidations and reorganizations within the Department that will be required; specify the funds available to USIA that will be transferred; specify the proposed allocations within the Department of unexpended funds that are to be transferred from USIA; and specify the proposed disposition of the property, facilities, contracts, records, and other assets and liabilities of USIA.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1604) provides that, in the event that the President does not transmit to Congress within six months of the date of enactment a reorganization plan meeting the objectives of section 1501(a)(2) of the Senate amendment, the President shall, in consultation with the Secretary of State, transmit a reorganization plan with respect to USIA to the appropriate committees of Congress. The plan is to provide for substantially the same matters as the plan submitted under the House bill. A plan transmitted under this section shall become effective after 90 calendar days of continuous session of Congress, unless Congress enacts a joint resolution disapproving the plan. The Senate amendment further requires a reduction in employees and in funds available for salaries and expenses in the event that a plan transmitted under this section takes effect.

The conference substitute (sec. 601) is similar to the House bill, except that the plan is to be submitted not later than October 1, 1996. In addition, the requirement for submission of the plan shall not apply if the President exercises the waiver authority of section 602 of the conference substitute with respect to USIA. A plan submitted pursuant to this section may be modified by the President on the basis of consultations with the appropriate congressional committees. A plan submitted pursuant to this section shall become effective on the earlier of March 1, 1997, or such date as the President shall determine to be appropriate and announce by notice published in the Federal Register.

The plan is to provide for the abolition of AID; the transfer of AID's functions and personnel to the Department of State; and the consolidation, reorganization, and streamlining of the Department of State upon the transfer in order to carry out the transferred functions. The plan is to identify the functions of AID that are to be transferred; the personnel and positions of AID and the Department that are to be transferred, separated, or eliminated; specify the consolidations and reorganizations within the Department that will be required; specify the funds available to AID that will be transferred; specify the proposed allocations within the Department of unexpended funds that are to be transferred from AID; and specify the proposed disposition of the property, facilities, contracts, records, and other assets and liabilities of AID.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1605) provides that, in the event that the President does not transmit to Congress within six months of the date of enactment a reorganization plan meeting the objectives of section 1501(a)(2) of the Senate amendment, the President shall, in consultation with the Secretary of State, transmit a reorganization plan with respect to AID to the appropriate committees of Congress. The plan is to provide for substantially the same matters as the plan submitted under the House bill. A plan transmitted under this section shall become effective after 90 calendar days

TITLE V—TRANSITION

Reorganization of the Department of State and the Independent Foreign Affairs Agencies

The Senate amendment (sec. 1501) provides that if the President does not submit to Congress a reorganization plan meeting specified objectives within six months of the date of enactment, ACDA, USIA, and AID are to be abolished in accordance with titles II, III, and IV of this Division. If the President in fact submits such a plan in a timely fashion, titles II, III, and IV do not come into effect. The specified objectives of such a reorganization plan include the streamlining and reorganization of the foreign affairs agencies, and the achievement of $1.7 billion in savings over five years calculated from an FY 1995 baseline. Not more than 30 percent of the savings is to be realized from reductions in program levels, and not more than 15 percent may come from the administrative expenses of the Department of State. A reorganization plan transmitted pursuant to this section shall take effect after 90 calendar days of continuous session of Congress, unless Congress enacts a joint resolution disapproving the plan.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 602) permits the President to waive the applicability of two of the following three titles of this Division: titles II, III, and IV. In order to exercise this waiver, the President must include a certification to the Congress in the reorganization plan that is required by section 601 to be submitted to Congress no later than October 1, 1996. In this certification, the President must affirm that the reorganization plan he has submitted pursuant to section 601 will achieve savings of $1.7 billion in budget authority over the four-year period of 1996-1999, with not more than 30 percent of the savings realized from reductions in program levels. The President must also certify that the plan conforms to the authorization levels for agency operating expenses for the years 1996-1999 set forth in Division B. Inasmuch as the authorization levels for agency operating expenses for those years dictate approximately $1.3 billion in savings from the 1995 level, and the remaining $500 million of the required $1.7 billion in savings can come from program cuts, the first two elements of the President's certification are intended to be complementary. Finally, the President must certify that preservation of any agency that otherwise would be abolished is important to the national interest of the United States.

Reorganization authority

The House bill (sec. 501) authorizes the Secretary of State to allocate or reallocate functions transferred to the Department among the officers of the Department, and to establish, consolidate, alter, or discontinue organizational entities within the Department as necessary to carry out any reorganization under this Division. This authority does not extend to the abolition of organizational entities or offices established by law, or to the alteration of any delegation of functions required by law. A reorganization plan prepared pursuant to this Division may not have the effect of creating a new department or agency, continuing functions beyond the period authorized by law, authorizing the exercise of functions not otherwise authorized by law, or increasing the term of an office beyond that provided by law. Any such reorganization plan shall provide for a twenty-percent reduction applicable to each of the first two fiscal years after implementation of such plan in the total level of expenditures for the functions transferred to the Department of State from the amounts appropriated for such transferred functions for fiscal year 1995.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1606) specifies requirements and limitations applicable to reorganization plans transmitted pursuant to this Division.

The conference substitute (sec. 611) is similar to the House bill, but omits the requirement that a reorganization plan transmitted pursuant to this Division provide for a twenty-percent reduction in expenditures following the transfer of functions to the Department of State.

Transfer and allocation of appropriations and personnel

The House bill (sec. 502) provides that personnel, assets, liabilities, contracts, property, records, and unexpended appropriations balances of abolished agencies shall be transferred to the Secretary of State. Unexpended and unobligated funds that are so transferred shall be used only for the purposes for which they were originally authorized and appropriated. When an agency is abolished, the limit on the number of members of the foreign service that may be employed by that agency shall be added to the limit for the Department of State.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1612) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 612) is identical to the House bill.

Incidental transfers

The House bill (sec. 503) provides that the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, in consultation with the Secretary of State, is authorized to make such incidental dispositions of personnel, assets, liabilities, contracts, property, records, and unexpended balances of appropriations as may be necessary to carry out this Division.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 613) is identical to the House bill.

Effect on personnel

The House bill (sec. 504) provides that personnel holding Executive Schedule positions who are transferred to the Department of State shall continue to be compensated at a rate not less than that of their previous position. Positions whose incumbents are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, the functions of which are transferred, shall terminate upon the transfer. Employees in the career Senior Executive Service transferred pursuant to any title of this Division shall be placed a position at the Department of State comparable to the position previously held by the employee. Transferring employees shall be provided reasonable notice of new positions and assignments prior to their transfer pursuant to any title of this Division. Foreign service personnel transferred to the Department of State pursuant to any title of this Division shall be eligible for any assignment open to foreign service personnel within the Department for which they are qualified.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1611) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 614) is based on the House bill.

Savings provisions

The House bill (sec. 505) provides that all orders, rules, regulations, agreements, contracts, and other administrative actions of the agencies abolished under this Division shall remain in effect according to their terms. Pending proceedings shall not be affected by the transfer of functions of the abolished agencies to the Department of State.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1619) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 616) is identical to the House bill.

Property and facilities

The House bill (sec. 506) provides that the Secretary of State shall review the property and facilities transferred to the Department to determine whether they are required by the Department.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1614) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 617) is based on the House bill.

Authority of Secretary to facilitate transition

The House bill (sec. 507) authorizes the Secretary of State to utilize the services of employees and the funds of the agencies that are to be abolished pursuant to this Division in order to facilitate the transfer of functions to the Department.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1621) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 618) is based on the House bill.

Recommendations for additional conforming amendments

The House bill (sec. 508) urges the President to submit recommendations for additional technical and conforming amendments to reflect the changes made by this Division.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1622) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 619) is based on the House bill.

Final report

The House bill (sec. 509) provides that, not later than October 1, 1998, the President, in consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury and the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a final accounting of the finances of the abolished agencies.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1623) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 620) is based on the House bill.

Transfer of function

The House bill (sec. 510) provides that any determination as to whether a transfer of function carried out under this Division constitutes a transfer of function for purposes of subchapter I of chapter 35 of title 5 of the United States Code shall be made without regard to whether the function transferred is identical to functions already performed by the receiving agency.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 621) is identical to the House bill.

Severability

The House bill (sec. 511) provides that if any provision of this Division is held invalid, the remainder of the Division shall not be affected.

The Senate bill (sec. 1620) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 622) is identical to the House bill.

Amendments or modification to reorganization plans

The Senate amendment (sec. 1607) permits the President to submit to Congress amendments to reorganization plans previously submitted pursuant to this Division.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 601(d)) permits the President to modify or revise a reorganization plan transmitted to the Congress.

Procedures for congressional consideration of reorganization plans

The Senate amendment (sec. 1608) establishes procedures for expedited congressional consideration of a reorganization plan transmitted pursuant to this Division. Under these procedures, if a joint resolution were enacted disapproving a reorganization plan, that plan would not take effect.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill. The committee of conference concluded that expedited procedures for congressional resolutions to disapprove reorganization plans are unnecessary for two reasons. First, the timetable under section 601 for submission by the President to Congress of a reorganization plan ensures that Congress will have ample time to consider and comment on the plan. The committee of conference is confident that the President will not seek to implement any portions of a reorganization plan that are strongly opposed by the committees of jurisdiction. Second, no provision of this Division is intended to render inapplicable to a reorganization pursuant to this Division the existing requirements for notice to Congress of program changes. The availability of the reprogramming procedures will, in the judgment of the committee of conference, provide ample insurance against ill-advised reorganization decisions. The mechanism provided by section 601(d) of the conference substitute, which permits the President to modify a reorganization plan after its submission and before its implementation, is intended to enable the President to respond to congressional comments on such plans and congressional holds placed on reprogramming notifications submitted in connection with such plans.

Transition fund

The Senate amendment (sec. 1609) establishes a transition fund to assist in meeting costs associated with reorganization pursuant to this Division.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 615) is similar to the Senate amendment.

Voluntary separation incentives

The Senate amendment (sec. 1610) authorizes the payment of voluntary separation incentives to employees of the foreign affairs agencies in order to avoid or minimize the need for involuntary separations.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

Effect on contracts and grants

The Senate amendment (sec. 1618) imposes significant restrictions on the ability of ACDA, USIA, and AID to enter new contracts, extend existing contracts, or make grants that will extend past the date of abolition of the agency.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

TITLE VI—REORGANIZATION OF UNITED STATES EXPORT PROMOTION AND TRADE ACTIVITIES

Plan for reorganization of United States export promotion and trade activities

The House bill (sec. 601) provides that the Trade Policy Coordinating Committee shall submit a report to the Committee on International Relations of the House and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate not later than March 1, 1996, detailing what steps are being taken and what steps should be taken to improve accessibility and coordination among the trade promotion agencies of the U.S. Government. The report shall identify such matters as the function and budget of all U.S. Government agencies with some responsibility for trade promotion, the amount of exports directly generated by each such agency, and areas where greater interoperability and efficiencies could be achieved. The report shall include a plan to reorganize the trade and export promotion agencies, with any necessary legislative changes, in order to more efficiently promote trade and reduce costs.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the Senate amendment.

FOREIGN RELATIONS AUTHORIZATIONS

TITLE XI—AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS

Of the House bill sections included in the final conference report, the House bill authorizes a total of $6,716,742,000 for fiscal year 1996 and $6,157,431,000 for fiscal year 1997, for the Department of State, AID, USIA and ACDA.

Of the Senate amendment sections included in the final conference report, the Senate amendment authorizes a total of $6,301,796,000 for fiscal year 1996 and $5,970,429,000 for fiscal year 1997.

The conference substitute authorizes a total of $6,524,131,000 for fiscal year 1996 and $ 6,518,385,000 for fiscal year 1997. The conference substitute incorporates the following sub-authorizations:

(1) $11,900,000 for fiscal year 1997 for administrative expenses of the bureau charged with carrying out refugee programs.

(2) $80,000,000 for each fiscal year for refugees resettling in Israel.

(3) $1,500,000 for each fiscal year for Burmese refugees.

While this bill includes four year authorizations for certain operating accounts of the foreign affairs agencies, this conference report in most respects is a two-year authorization bill. The authorizing Committees plan to pass another authorization bill for fiscal years 1998 and 1999.

The committee of conference do not intend that any provision in this bill could be used as an authorization of foreign assistance in the meaning of Section 518(a) of P.L. 104-107, the Foreign Operations Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 1996.

Merged accounts. The conference substitute authorizes the merger of the Inspector General of the Department of State and the Inspector General of the U.S. Information Agency. This merger should be completed in fiscal year 1996 and accordingly, the conference substitute merges the two separate authorization of appropriations under the Inspector General for the Department of State.

Exchange programs. The committee of conference did not include soft earmarks as in previous years for South Pacific Exchanges, East Timorese exchanges, Cambodian scholarships, and Tibetan exchanges. However, the committee of conference lists these programs under the category of "Other Exchanges" and recommends that funds be allocated to support each of these specific exchange programs. The inclusion of these programs under "Other Programs" should not be construed as an indication of a diminution in support for these programs, or a justification for funding levels disproportionately lower than the House-passed authorizations.

South Pacific exchanges. The committee of conference recognizes the unique and important function fulfilled by the South Pacific Exchange program. It is a relatively small program funded at $900,000 in the fiscal years 1994 and 1995, which promotes better understanding with the people of a region that has not always been given the attention it deserves in the implementation of U.S. foreign policy.

Fulbright. The committee of conference believes that USIA should require open competitions for the Administration of the Fulbright program and other scholar exchange programs. Such competitions encourage cost savings and remove unnecessary bureaucratization of scholar recruitment, selection, and placement.

Section 1101(2)(b) requires that $11.9 million in fiscal year 1997 authorized for salaries and expenses must be available for the salaries and expenses of the bureau that administers Refugee and Migration Assistance. This restores, effective in fiscal year 1997, a provision of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1994 and 1995 (P.L. 103-236).

The House bill (sec. 1101 (1)) authorized $5 million for visa processing outside the countries of origin of persons who would have a credible fear of persecution in such countries. The committee of conference agreed to drop this limitation in deference to a suggestion by the Department of State that $5 million may be more than the amount necessary to process such applications.

The committee of conference notes that a number of persons who have been determined to be currently eligible to apply for immigrant visas have been displaced and uprooted from their homes as a result of war, violent civil disturbance or systematic abuse of human rights in their native countries. The committee of conference expects that the Department will process the immigrant visa applications of such persons in the country in which they are physically present so long as they expect to remain in that country for the period required to process those applications. Processing of such displaced applicants outside their native lands is in accordance with the original intent of the framers of 8 U.S.C. §1152, who took "cognizance of the unprecedented number of persons who have been uprooted and dislocated during World War II or due to events subsequent thereto. The amendment is designed to alleviate hardship which might be caused by a rigid requirement that visa applications "shall be filed only with the consular officer in whose district the applicant shall have established his residence." H.R. Rep. No. 1365, 2d Sess. (1952), reprinted in 1952 U.S.C.C.A.N. 1663, 1708-09. The conferees share the view that a requirement that a displaced person return to his or her country of origin in such circumstances would constitute an undue burden on the issuance of his or her immigrant visa. In this connection, the conferees note that the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit has recently held that the State Department's refusal to process the immigrant visa applications of Vietnamese asylum seekers in Hong Kong violates the provision of 8 U.S.C. §1152(a) that "[n]o person shall * * * be discriminated against in the issuance of an immigrant visa because of his * * * nationality." Legal Assistance for Vietnamese Asylum-Seekers v. United States Department of State, 45 F.3d 469 (D.C. Cir. 1995).

UNDP Activities in Burma. The House bill (sec 2102(a)(2)(I)) provides that any United States voluntary contribution to the United Nations Development Program (UNDP) would be limited in each fiscal year to $70 million, minus the amount UNDP has announced that it plans to spend on programs and activities in or for Burma ($18,200,000 for fiscal year 1996 and $25,480,000 for fiscal year 1997), unless UNDP discontinued all of its activities in and for Burma.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1102 (e)) is similar to the House provision, except that the limitation for fiscal year 1997 is identical to the limitation in fiscal year 1996. Also, the limitation in each fiscal year may be waived if the President certifies that all UNDP programs and activities in and for Burma are focused on the needs of the poor; are undertaken only through private voluntary organizations independent of the State Law and Order Restoration Council (SLORC); provide no benefit to the SLORC; and are supported by the democratic leadership of Burma.

Section 431 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1994 and 1995 provided that $27.6 million of the funds made available for UNDP for FY 1995 would be available only in certain strictly defined circumstances. The Department of State, acting on behalf of the President, released the $27.6 million pursuant to a certification that UNDP had met the statutory test of having "initiated no new programs and no new funding for existing programs" in and for Burma since the 1993 meeting of the UNDP Governing Council. The Memorandum of Justification accompanying the certification stated that UNDP had not initiated or approved any new programs "beyond those contemplated in the June 1993 [UNDP] Governing Council decision." The language of section 431, however, made no reference to projects "contemplated" in the 1993 decision. Rather, it required a finding of no new programs or funding "since the [1993] meeting." The Memorandum also seemed to interpret section 431 as prohibiting release of the money only if UNDP had initiated or funded new "types" of projects.

The present provision is intended to clarify and give effect to the purpose of the fiscal 1995 limitation.

Refugees and migration. Section 1104(a)(4) authorizes funds for fiscal year 1996 for admission and resettlement of certain Southeast Asian refugees who are in the high-risk categories identified by the "Lautenberg Amendment". These categories include those who served with U.S. forces in Vietnam or were in the former government of South Vietnam, or are considered to be religious refugees, or who are members of the Hmong ethnic minority from Laos.

Subsection (b) prohibits expenditures on programs involving repatriation to Vietnam, Laos, or Cambodia unless the remaining asylum seekers have been or will be interviewed by U.S. immigration officers, and unless resettlement offers have been or will be made to those found to be refugees under U.S. immigration standards under current law. The House-passed provision was modified in conference to make it clear that the refugee status interviews can, under certain circumstances, be held in the asylum seeker's country of origin. The committee of conference expects that interviews in the country of origin would take place only if diligent efforts to secure permission from first asylum countries for interviews in such countries had proved unavailing, and that arrangements would be made to ensure the safety of returnees pending the completion of the interview and resettlement process.

The committee of conference notes that the authorization of $1.5 million for each fiscal year for humanitarian assistance for persons displaced by civil conflict in Burma is directed at both those displaced within Burma and those persons now outside of Burma. During the past year, the refugee population along the Thai/Burma border has increased from approximately 77,000 to over 93,000, representing one of the largest influxes in any period since relief efforts began in 1984. Due primarily to the attack on Manerplaw, the headquarters of the Karen National Union and the seat of the exiled democracy movement, which occurred in early 1995, this increase illustrates the uncertainty of the current situation.

On the one hand, SLORC has negotiated, or is in the process of negotiating, cease-fire agreements with nearly all the ethnic groups. A large portion of the Mon refugee population has repatriated over the past few months. On the other hand, the situation on the ground does not seem to have improved. Attacks on the Karen and Karenni go on today despite cease-fire agreements and negotiations. New refugees continue to arrive with reports of human rights abuses, forced labor and relocation and hundreds of thousands remain displaced within Burma.

In this unstable and unpredictable climate, humanitarian assistance to the over 93,000 along the border remains critical. Whether people stay in Thailand or go back to Burma they will be in need of support. Assistance in the form of food, health services and education should continue to be made available to refugees and displaced inside Burma and along the border. Further, funds should be provided to NGOs operating in the border areas in order to conduct assessments of the project planning and management capacity of the ethnic leadership and to develop and implement capacity-building and vocational training courses for appropriate refugee community members. Funds should also be made available for the subsistence and education of Burmese students in Thailand, regardless of their place of residence.

Broadcasting. Section 1106(4)(B) of the conference substitute is designed to ensure that U.S. non-military international broadcasting resources are deployed where they are most needed. In recent years, for instance, the broadcasts to Iran carried out by the Voice of America Farsi Service have declined, despite the continued prohibition within Iran of objective news and the free expression of opinions. In contrast, broadcasting services to countries that do enjoy wide and diverse sources of news and opinion, such as the Voice of America broadcasts into Ethiopia, may have outlived their usefulness and should be considered for elimination.

AUTHORITIES AND ACTIVITIES

Department of State Rewards Program

The House bill (sec. 2201) rewrites the Department of State rewards program to update this important tool used for capturing fugitives abroad in cases of terrorism and narcotics related offenses.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1201) is similar to the House bill but deletes the use of fees collected from issuing machine readable visas as a possible source of funds to pay rewards. It suggests that foreign assets frozen in the U.S. and controlled by the Department of Treasury could be used as an additional means by which to fund the rewards program.

Buying power maintenance account

The House bill (sec. 2203) permits the transfer of expired, unobligated balances into no-year Buying Power Maintenance Account, subject to compliance with congressional reprogramming requirements. The Department maintains that paragraph (D), which makes such transfers subject to advance appropriations, is unnecessary and has made the transfer authority unworkable. Striking paragraph (D) enables the Department to transfer expiring balances with greater flexibility.

The Senate amendment (sec. 125) is virtually identical except for drafting differences.

The conference substitute (sec. 1202) is the same as the House provision.

Expenses relating to certain international claims and proceedings

The House bill (sec. 2204) allows the Department to accept, in certain cases, reimbursement from private sector claimants for tribunal expenses, salaries, and other ordinary expenses.

The Senate amendment (sec. 130) is virtually identical.

The conference substitute (sec. 1203) is the same as the House provision.

Consolidation of U.S. diplomatic missions and consular posts

The House bill (sec. 2205) requires the Secretary of State to prepare a world wide plan for the consolidation on a regional or area wide basis of U.S. missions and consular posts abroad.

The Senate amendment (sec. 1103) is similar but it also includes expedited procedures for Congressional disapproval of the Secretary's plan to consolidate diplomatic posts abroad.

The conference substitute omits the House and Senate provisions.

Denial of passports to noncustodial parents subject to State arrest warrants in cases of nonpayment of child support.

The House bill (sec. 2206) allows the Secretary to refuse to issue a passport, or to revoke, restrict or limit a passport in any case in which the Secretary of State determines, or is informed by a competent authority, that the applicant or passport holder is a noncustodial parent who is the subject of an outstanding arrest for non payment of child support.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1204) is identical to the House provision.

Capital investment fund

The House bill (sec. 2207) amends section 135 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1994 and 1995 (22 U.S.C. 2684a) to allow the Capital Investment Fund to be used for the procurement and upgrade of information technology and other related capital investments for the Department of State and to ensure the efficient management, coordination, operation, and utilization of such resources. This amendment would allow the Department to pay for upgrades of existing systems and purchase hardware or software to ensure interoperability of State Department information systems. This amendment also provides that the amounts deposited into the Fund will remain available until expended and that such amounts will be available for the purposes defined in this section.

Section 135(e) is amended to eliminate as duplicative the requirement that subjects money in the Fund to Congressional reprogramming requirements before it is obligated. The Department will follow reprogramming procedures when it proposes to transfer monies into the Fund and will explain potential uses of the Fund in its Congressional Presentation Documents.

The Senate amendment (sec. 126) is similar but is drafted differently.

The conference substitute (sec. 1206) is identical to the Senate provision.

Efficiency in procurement

The House bill (sec. 2208) allows US agencies operating overseas to participate in existing contracts rather than being required to let new contracts for services.

The Senate amendment (sec. 129) is similar.

The conference substitute (sec. 1208) is identical to the House provision.

Training

The House bill (sec. 2209) allows the Department of State to provide training for employees of U.S. companies operating overseas on a reimbursable basis. In addition, this section allows the Department to provide foreign language training, on a reimbursable basis to Members, officials and employees of the U.S. Congress.

The Senate amendment (sec. 151) is similar but allows for training of non-executive branch staff members on a reimbursable, space available basis.

The conference substitute (sec. 1205) is identical to the Senate provision.

Lease-purchase agreements

The Senate amendment (sec. 121) provides that when the Department of State enters into lease-purchase agreements involving property in foreign countries pursuant to section 1 of the Foreign Service Buildings Act (22 U.S.C. 292), budget authority should be assessed on an annual basis over the period of the lease in an amount equal to the annual lease payments.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1207) is identical to the Senate provision.

U.S. Embassy building in Berlin, Germany

The Senate amendment (sec. 122) expresses a sense of Congress that the Secretary of State should utilize the U.S. government property in the vicinity of the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin, Germany, as a site to build the U.S. embassy.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

Fees for commercial services

The Senate amendment (sec. 123) allows fees collected for commercial services provided to businesses to remain available for obligation until expended. This authority will ensure the Department does not lose funds collected late in a fiscal year and that are not obligated by the end of that year. This authority is subject to the availability of appropriations.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1208) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Reporting requirements

The Senate amendment (sec. 124) amends a reporting requirement and repeals one reporting requirement.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1209) retains subsection (a) to require the Secretary of State to provide a report on all leases entered into for the acquisition of real property to be submitted within 30 days after the end of each fiscal year rather than after the end of each quarter of the fiscal year. Subsection (b), the repeal of the reporting requirement under 503(b) of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act (P.L. 95-426), was enacted in P.L. 104-66 and therefore dropped in the substitute.

Administrative expenses

The Senate amendment (sec. 127) allows funds to be available directly to other personnel assigned to bureaus charged with carrying out the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

Fee for use of diplomatic reception rooms

The Senate amendment (sec. 128) authorizes the Secretary of State to charge a fee for use of the Department of State diplomatic reception rooms. Such fees are deposited as an offsetting collection to recover the costs of such use and should remain available for obligation until expended. This authority is subject to the availability of appropriations.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1210) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Diplomatic Telecommunications Service

The Senate amendment (sec. 131) amends section 507 of the Department of State and Related Agencies Appropriations Act (P.L. 103-317) to require the Secretary to provide funding for the Diplomatic Telecommunications Service to sustain current levels of support services for each succeeding fiscal year. This amendment further prohibits any reprogramming or transfers from such amounts in future years, and specifies the current and future makeup of the Diplomatic Telecommunications Service Program Office Board.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1215) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Diplomatic Telecommunications Service Program Office

The Senate amendment (sec. 132) designates the officials that will comprise the Diplomatic Telecommunications Service Policy Board, the management structure, and sets forth the responsibilities of the officials on the Board.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill. The committee of conference notes that the provision was determined not to be necessary given that the agencies have made progress toward establishing the management, leadership and objectives of this interagency Board. Furthermore, the respective committees intend to continue oversight over this important activity and urge cooperation and not competition in designing the future communications systems for U.S. international facilities.

International center reserve funds

The Senate amendment (sec. 133) amends current law to allow the Secretary of State to accrue and retain the interest collected on the International Chancery Center reserve account to be used to pay for maintenance and security costs, subject to the availability of appropriated funds.

The House bill contains no comparable amendment.

The conference substitute (sec. 1211) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Joint funds under agreements for cooperation in environmental, scientific, cultural and related areas

The Senate amendment (sec. 134) authorizes the use of interest on funds held under bilateral agreements for scientific, cultural and technical cooperation to pay the administrative and programmatic expenses of the funds, subject to appropriations.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1212) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Antibribery study

The Senate amendment (sec. 136) requires the Secretary of State, in consultation with other government officials, to develop proposals to combat bribery in international business transactions.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

Budget Act compliance

The Senate amendment (sec. 137) makes the authorities in Senate sections 121, 123, 125, 128, 130, 133, 134, 148, 161, and 163 subject appropriations.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill. The "subject to appropriations" language was added to each of the Senate sections listed in the Senate amendment.

Fees for machine readable visas

The Senate amendment (sec. 163) authorizes the collection and retention of fees not to exceed $150 million for each of the fiscal years 1996, 1997, 1998, and 1999.

The House bill (sec. 2231) authorizes collection and retention of not more than $250 million in fiscal years 1996 and 1997 to recover the costs of the border security program. It also permits all countries to be subject to the fee.

The conference substitute (sec. 1231) authorizes the collection and retention of not more than $150 million for each fiscal 1996 and 1997 for the border security program as defined in the House provision.

Fingerprint check requirement

The House bill (sec. 2232) modifies the fingerprint requirement for immigrant visa applicants established in Sec. 505 of P.L. 103-317. The revision requires the fingerprinting only of individuals 16 years or older who have at some time been in the U.S. and have been determined to have a criminal history.

The Senate amendment contained no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1232) is similar to the House bill with drafting changes. This provision is intended to modify the current program to be more cost effective and efficient by targeting those that would likely have a criminal record in the U.S. The committee of conference continues to have strong concerns about the cost-benefit of the pilot program.

Use of passport processing fees for enhanced passport services

The House bill (sec. 2233) requires 10% of funds generated by the expedited passport fee be dedicated exclusively to enhance passport services for U.S. citizens, improve efficiency of the issuing process, improve the secure nature of the document, investigate passport fraud, and deter entry into the U.S. by criminal elements.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1233) is identical to the House bill.

Consular officers

The Senate amendment (sec. 165) permits U.S. citizen employees abroad who are not consular officers to perform additional consular functions, including the issuance of certificates of birth abroad, the authentication of foreign documents, the administration of nationality provisions in Title III of the Immigration and Nationality Act, and the administration of oaths for patent purposes.

Section 127 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1994 and 1995, as amended by section (1)(mm)(2) of P.L. 103-415, authorized the Secretary of State to designate U.S. citizen employees abroad, other than consular officers, to perform notarial and passport services, thereby permitting more effective use of both consular officers and non-consular officer employees abroad and creating the opportunity to improve service to the public in the face of consular officer staffing shortfalls. This provision will further improve the efficiency of consular operations abroad.

The House bill (sec. 2234) is virtually identical.

The conference substitute (sec. 1234) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Fee for diversity immigrant lottery

The Senate amendment (sec. 161) allows the Secretary of State to collect and retain a fee to be paid by each immigrant issued a visa under the diversity lottery program. Fees are available for obligation until expended, and the authority is subject to the availability of appropriations.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1235) is similar to the Senate amendment with a change made at the Administration's request to clarify that all those who apply for immigrant visas based on the diversity lottery selection pay a fee.

Fee for execution of passport applications

The Senate amendment (sec. 162) permits the Secretary of State to authorize the U.S. Postal Service to retain passport execution fees directly rather than being sent through the Department of State to the U.S. Treasury. This will save the Department of State (and the Postal Service) significant resources required by the reconciliation procedures connected with multiple transfer of these funds.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1236) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Children adopted abroad

The Senate amendment (sec. 164) expedites the processing of an adoption of a foreign child by replacing in the Immigration and Nationality Act the "legitimate/illegitimate" distinction with "wedlock/out of wedlock."

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill. The committee of conference notes this provision was passed in P.L. 104-51.

Exclusion from the United States for membership in a terrorist organization

The Senate amendment (sec. 166) amends the Immigration and Nationality Act to deny a U.S. visa to a member of a terrorist organization or who actively supports or advocates terrorist activity. A terrorist organization is defined as an organization that engages in or has engaged in terrorist activity as determined by the Attorney General in consultation with the Department of State.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1237) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Incitement as a Basis for Exclusion from the United States

The Senate amendment (sec. 167) amends the Immigration and Nationality Act by adding a new ground for exclusion for those who have advocated terrorism, incited targeted racial vilification, or advocated the death or destruction of U.S. citizens, or U.S. government officials, or the overthrow of the U.S. government.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1239) is similar to the Senate amendment but has been clarified to ensure that it comports with its purpose. The Senate provision would have required the exclusion of non-U.S. citizens wishing to enter the U.S. who have advocated terrorism or engaged in related practices. Non-citizens seeking admission to the U.S. have been held not to enjoy the full measure of constitutional protection afforded citizens and others who are lawfully present in the U.S. Nevertheless, in an effort to accommodate concerns about the potential scope of the Senate provision, it has been narrowed to comport with U.S. Supreme Court cases construing the First Amendment.

Visit of the President of the Republic of China on Taiwan

The Senate Amendment (sec. 168) states that the President of the Republic of China on Taiwan shall be admitted to the U.S. for a visit in 1995 with all appropriate courtesies.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1708) expresses the sense of Congress that the President of the Republic of China on Taiwan should be admitted to the U.S. for a visit in 1996 with all appropriate courtesies.

Terrorist Lookout Committees

The Senate amendment (sec. 169) codifies existing embassy visa terrorist lookout committees created under the "Visas Viper Program". The provision establishes the Deputy Chief of Mission as the chair of the committee and requires representatives of the embassy's political section, law enforcement and intelligence agencies to be members of the committee. The purpose of the committee is to overcome the serious deficiencies in the current system to preclude known terrorists from gaining visas for entry into the U.S. Certification procedures and reporting requirements are established.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1238) eliminates the certification requirements and reduces the reporting requirements to two.

Within 90 days of enactment, the Secretary of State is required to report to Congress on the status of establishing the committees at posts around the world. The second report, due in April 1997, will evaluate the success of the program and the extent of interagency cooperation.

Sense of Congress on Border Crossing Fees

The Senate amendment (sec. 170) expresses a sense of Congress that the U.S. should not impose a border crossing fee along the Mexican or Canadian border.

The House bill had no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1705) retains the sense of Congress provision.

(a) FINDINGS—The committee of conference finds that—

(1) in the budget of the United States for fiscal year 1996 that was submitted to Congress, the President proposed to impose and collect a border crossing fee for individuals and vehicles entering the United States;

(2) both the Canadian and Mexican governments have expressed opposition to the imposition and collection of such a fee and have raised the possibility of imposing retaliatory border crossing fees of their own;

(3) the imposition and collection of such a fee would have adverse effects on tourism and commerce that depend on travel across the borders of the United States;

(4) the imposition and collection of such a fee would have such effects without addressing illegal immigration in a meaningful way;

(5) on February 22, 1995, the President modified his proposal making the imposition of the new fees voluntary on United States border States (but tied the availability of Federal funds to improve border crossing infrastructure on their willingness to impose such fees); and

(6) on May 4, 1995, the President further modified the border crossing fee proposal in immigration control legislation he submitted to Congress setting a $1.50 per car and $.75 per pedestrian fee structure.

U.S. Emergency Refugee and Migration Assistance Fund

The House bill (sec. 2251) amends the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act (P.L. 87-510) to specify Congressional notification requirements for use of funds under the Act. This provision requires a 15-day notification to Congress of the drawdown of funds from the Emergency Refugee and Migration Account. A waiver of this notification is permitted under emergency situations.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the Senate amendment. The committee of conference remains concerned about the Department of State's lack of consultation on the use of these funds. We strongly encourage the Department to use the emergency funds for the intended purpose and use alternative sources of funding when available.

Persecution for resistance to coercive population control methods

The House bill (sec. 2252) provides that forced abortion, forced sterilization or persecution for resistance to such measures are "persecution on account of political opinion" within the meaning of the refugee definition of the Immigration and Nationality Act. It is intended to overrule administrative law decisions holding that subjection to such measures is not ordinarily persecution on account of a political opinion. This section reinstates the interpretation of the law that was reversed by an Immigration and Naturalization Service order on August 5, 1994.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1255) is identical to the House bill.

Report to Congress concerning Cuban emigration policies

The House bill (sec. 2253) requires periodic reports on the Cuban government's methods of enforcing its 1994 and 1995 anti-immigration agreements with the U.S. on treatment of persons returned to Cuba under the 1995 agreement and on the methods used by the U.S. to monitor such treatment.

The Senate amendment (sec. 611) is identical.

The conference substitute (sec. 1251) is identical to the House bill.

U.S. policy regarding the involuntary return of refugees

The House bill (sec. 2254) provides that no funds authorized by this Act be used for the involuntary return of any person to a country in which he or she has a well-founded fear of persecution.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1256) states that no funds authorized for refugee and migration assistance be used for the involuntary return of any person to a country in which he or she has a well-founded fear of persecution. It would not prohibit funding for the return of people who had been found to be non-refugees by any process genuinely calculated to detect a well-founded fear of persecution.

Extension of certain adjudication provisions

The House bill (sec. 2255) extends the "Lautenberg Amendment" which identifies certain high-risk refugee categories and provides that applicants in these categories are presumed to be refugees if they assert both a fear of persecution and a credible basis for their fear of persecution. This standard is somewhat more generous than the general "well-founded fear" status. The high-risk categories include nationals or residents of an independent state of the former Soviet Union or Estonia, Latvia, or Lithuania who are Jews or evangelical Christians, as well as certain Southeast Asians. (See the discussion of section 2104 of the House bill, above.) The provision would also extend until Oct. 1, 1997 the Attorney General's ability to adjust the status of aliens who are nationals of an independent state of the former Soviet Union, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Vietnam, Laos, or Cambodia and were granted parole into the US after August 14, 1988, to the status of aliens lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1252) is identical to the House bill.

Vietnam POW/MIA Asylum Program

The House bill (sec. 2256) gives the Attorney General the authority to grant asylum to a national of Vietnam, Cambodia, or Laos if he presents a live American POW/MIA.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the Senate amendment.

Korea POW/MIA Asylum Program

The House bill (sec. 2257) gives the Attorney General the authority to grant asylum to a national of North Korea, South Korea, or China if he presents a live American POW/MIA.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the Senate amendment.

Coordinator for counterterrorism

The House bill (sec. 2301) makes permanent the office of the Coordinator for Counterterrorism and retains a reporting line directly to the Secretary of State.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1301) is identical to the House bill, except that subsection (D) is deleted.

Special Envoy for Tibet

The House bill (sec. 2302) requires the establishment of a special envoy to Tibet within the State Department. The Special Envoy is authorized to promote substantive negotiations between the Dalai Lama or his representatives and senior members of the Chinese government.

Through this special envoy, the U.S. demonstrates its continued support for His Holiness the Dalai Lama in his quest for a peaceful resolution to the situation in Tibet through negotiations with the Chinese government.

The Senate amendment (sec. 608) is virtually identical.

The conference substitute (sec. 1303) permits the Secretary to establish a Special Envoy to Tibet. Following are committee of conference findings on this issue.

FINDINGS.—(1) The Government of the People's Republic of China withholds meaningful participation in the government of Tibet from Tibetans and has failed to abide by its own constitutional guarantee of autonomy for Tibetans.

(2) The Government of the People's Republic of China is responsible for the destruction of much of Tibet's cultural and religious heritage since 1959 and continues to threaten the survival of Tibetan culture and religion.

(3) The Government of the People's Republic of China, through direct and indirect incentives, has established discriminatory development programs which have resulted in an overwhelming flow of Chinese immigrants into Tibet, including those areas incorporated into the Chinese provinces of Sichuan, Yunnan, Gansu, and Qinghai in recent years, and have excluded Tibetans from participation in important policy decisions, further threatening traditional Tibetan life.

(4) The Government of the People's Republic of China denies Tibetans their fundamental human rights, as reported in the Department of State's Country Reports on Human Rights Practices for 1995.

(5) The President and the Congress have determined that the promotion of human rights in Tibet and the protection of Tibet's religion and culture are important elements in United States-China relations and have urged senior members of the Government of the People's Republic of China to enter into substantive negotiations on these matters with Dalai Lama or his representative.

(6) The Dalai Lama has repeatedly stated his willingness to begin substantive negotiations without preconditions.

(7) The Government of the People's Republic of China has failed to respond in a good faith manner by reciprocating a willingness to begin negotiations without preconditions, and no substantive negotiations have begun.

Responsibilities of bureau charged with migration and refugee assistance

The House bill (sec. 2303) establishes a Coordinator for Human Rights and Refugees within the Office of the Secretary of State. It also establishes a statutory bureau of Refugee and Migration Assistance.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1304) is designed to ensure that the bureau with responsibility for refugee and migration assistance be independent of the bureau charged with the substantially unrelated responsibility for population policy. The Department may, of course, still maintain a population office in another bureau as it did prior to 1993.

Elimination of statutory establishment of certain positions of the Department of State.

The House bill (sec. 2304) eliminates the statutory requirements for the Assistant Secretary for South Asia, the Assistant Secretary for Oceans, Environment, and Science, and the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Burdensharing.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1305) is identical to the House bill.

Establishment of an Assistant Secretary of State for Human Resources

The House bill (sec. 2305) establishes an Assistant Secretary for Human Resources and requires that the position be occupied by a professional in the field of personnel and human resources management.

The Senate amendment has no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1306) requires that either the head or the next most senior person of the bureau or office within the Department of State with responsibility for human resources and personnel policies shall have substantial professional qualifications in the field of human resources. This is a modification of the suggestion in the "State Team" For the Future, Personnel Commission Report of October 1992, that strongly recommended that the Department establish an Assistant Secretary for Human Resources with proper qualifications.

Authority of the Permanent Representative to the United Nations

The House bill (sec. 2306) clarifies that the U.S. Permanent Representative to the United Nations shall be subject to the direction of the Secretary of State.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1302) is identical to the House bill.

Authorized strength of the Foreign Service

The House bill (sec. 2351) imposes limits on the number of members of the Foreign Service authorized to be employed in fiscal years 1996 and 1997 as follows: for the Department of State not more than 9,000 in fiscal year 1996 and 8,800 in fiscal year 1997, of whom not more than 720 in fiscal year 1996 and 680 in fiscal year 1997 shall be members of the Senior Foreign Service; for the United States Information Agency (USIA) not more than 1,150 in fiscal year 1996 and 1,100 for fiscal year 1997, of whom not more than 165 in fiscal year 1996 and 160 in fiscal year 1997 shall be members of the Senior Foreign Service; and for the Agency for International Development (AID) not more than 1,800 members of the Foreign Service in fiscal years 1996 and 1,775 for fiscal year 1997, of whom not more than 240 in fiscal year 1996 and 230 in fiscal year 1997 shall be members of the Senior Foreign Service.

The Senate amendment (sec. 141) contains a similar provision with overall lower numbers.

The conference substitute (sec. 1351) sets the end strength levels as follows: for the Department of State not more than 9,000 in fiscal year 1996 and 8,800 in fiscal year 1997, of whom not more than 660 in fiscal year 1996 and 660 in fiscal year 1997 shall be members of the Senior Foreign Service; for the United States Information Agency (USIA) not more than 1,150 in fiscal year 1996 and 1,100 for fiscal year 1997, of whom not more than 160 in fiscal year 1996 and 160 in fiscal year 1997 shall be members of the Senior Foreign Service; and for the Agency for International Development (AID) not more than 1,800 members of the Foreign Service in fiscal years 1996 and 1,775 for fiscal year 1997, of whom not more than 225 in fiscal year 1996 and 225 in fiscal year 1997 shall be members of the Senior Foreign Service.

The committee of conference notes that this provision was included pursuant to a recommendation of the Commission on the Foreign Service Personnel System (the "Thomas Commission"), the establishment of which was mandated by the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1988 and 1989.

Repeal of authority for Senior Foreign Service performance pay

The House bill (sec. 2352) repeals section 405 of the Foreign Service Act that provides for payment of performance pay.

The Senate amendment (sec. 145) requires that Foreign Service Officers commissioned by the President receive in all instances their regular salaries based on rank and service.

It also amends section 405 to allow recognition by the President even if funds are not available to pay for such an award. It requires the Secretary of State to develop and implement a plan to identify officers who are ranked by promotion boards in the bottom 5% of their class for two years and recommend that separation from the Foreign Service. In addition, it amends the Foreign Service Act to establish a single Foreign Service under the direction of the Director General of the Foreign Service. Agencies using the Foreign Service Act must conform with common standards set by the Director General.

The conference substitute (sec. 1357) omits the provision relating to a single Foreign Service. The section on expedited separation out is amended in line with the Administration's suggestions to provide that separation be recommended for members of the Foreign Service ranked by promotion boards in the bottom 5% of their class for any two of the five preceding years.

Recovery of costs of health care services

The House bill (sec. 2353) authorizes the Department of State to recover and retain the costs incurred by the Department of health care services provided to eligible employees and their families. The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

Limitation on management assignments

The Senate bill (sec. 146) amends current law dealing with the movement of Foreign Service personnel between certain American Foreign Service Association positions and management jobs. This narrows the definition of "management official" by exempting Chiefs of Mission and their deputies, administrative and personnel officers abroad and other individuals not involved in labor-management relations.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1353) is identical to the Senate amendment.

The conference substitute (sec. 1408) is similar to the House bill. It is designed to ensure that exchange programs are effective in promoting a commitment to human rights, freedom, and democracy. In addition to helping future leaders get to know the U.S., it is hoped that these programs will also be a source of information about the situation in the named countries, and will signal to the rulers of those countries that in order to obtain American training for their promising students, they will have to accept the risk that American notions of democracy and open government will be brought home.

Educational and cultural exchange and scholarships for Tibetans and Burmese

The House bill (sec. 2405) requires USIA to provide 30 scholarships for Tibetans and 15 scholarships for Burmese. It also requires USIA to establish exchange programs for Tibetans and Burmese.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1410) is identical to the House bill. Having been impoverished by the corrupt mismanagement of a military dictatorship that has ruled the country since 1962, Burma needs educators, engineers, entrepreneurs, environmental and public health specialists—professionals in virtually all fields. It is anticipated that the great majority of Burmese who are now in exile would gladly return home if and when conditions in Burma have changed for the better. The scholarships provide a way to prepare these individuals to play a future role in rebuilding their country.

This exchange program also targets exiled Tibetans living in India and Nepal. Thirty percent of the program's costs are met by private organizations. In accepting the scholarship, all of the Tibetans agree to return to India or Nepal to work toward improving the conditions and future opportunities for their fellow refugees.

The conferees expect that in considering applications for employment, contracts, and similar arrangements in the establishment and operation of Radio Free Asia, USIA will give strong preference to those which will allow Radio Free Asia to (1) take advantage of the expertise of political and religious dissidents and pro-democracy and human rights activists from within the countries to whom broadcasting is directed, including exiles from these countries; and (2) take advantage of contracts and similar arrangements with existing broadcast facilities so as to provide immediate broadcast coverage with low overhead.

Human Rights Committee established by the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, or to respond to certain inquiries from the Committee. This restriction will cease to apply when the President certifies to the Congress that the Human Rights Committee has revoked its General Comment No. 24 and expressly recognized the validity as a matter of international law of the reservations, understanding, and declarations contained in the U.S. instrument of ratification of the Covenant.

The committee of conference agreed to delay the effective date of the restriction for two years in order to afford the Human Rights Committee up to one year to reconsider and revoke its General Comment No. 24. If by the end of this one-year period the Human Rights Committee has not revoked General Comment No. 24 and expressly recognized the validity as a matter of international law of the reservations, understanding, and declarations contained in the U.S. instrument of ratification, the committee of conference expects the United States to provide notice in accordance with Article 56 of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties of its intention to withdraw from the Covenant effective twelve months from the date of such notice. Adherence to this procedure will ensure that the United States remains in compliance with its international legal obligations as understood by the United States while at the same time insisting upon the primacy of the U.S. Constitution.

Withholding begins in FY 97 and each subsequent year. The House bill also requires further withholdings unless U.N. procurement reforms are implemented. These include the withholding of 10% of the amount of funds available for U.S. assessed contributions for the regular U.N. budget unless the President certifies that there is timely notice of contract awards or opportunities over $100,000. The Senate amendment (sec. 205) amends the U.N. Participation Act of 1945 directing the President to certify, to Congress that the U.N. has fully achieved the management reforms in the House bill. As part of this effort, the U.S. Ambassador should seek to employ the concept that a greater proportionate share of the burden of a peacekeeping operations should fall on the host government and other nearby states. It also limits the use of appropriated funds for peacekeeping to no more than 25% of the total assessed cost of an operation, regardless of any penalties or interest charges the U.N. may levy on the U.S. One intent of this provision is to discourage the U.N. from any attempt to charge member states, including the U.S., a late charge or fee for past-due assessments, as some have recommended.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1524) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Escalating costs for international peacekeeping

The Senate amendment (sec. 218) is a sense of Congress that the Executive branch should stop obligating funds for peacekeeping operations in excess of authorized and appropriated funds.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1707) reiterates the sense of Congress provision.

(a) Findings.—The Congress finds that—

(1) in fiscal year 1989 the United States provided $29,000,000 to the United Nations for assessed United States contributions for international peacekeeping activities, compared to $485,000,000 paid for combined as-essed contributions for all other international organizations, including the United Nations, all United Nations specialized agencies and the Organization for American States and all other pan American international organizations;

(2) in fiscal year 1994 United States assessed contributions to the United Nations for international peacekeeping activities had grown to $1,072,000,000, compared to $860,000,000 for combined assessed contributions for all other international organizations;

(3) for fiscal year 1995 the President requested a $672,000,000 United Nations peacekeeping supplemental appropriation which, if approved, would have been a direct increase in the Federal budget deficit and would have brought fiscal year 1995 total appropriations for assessed contributions for United Nations peacekeeping activities to $1,025,000,000;

(4) for fiscal year 1995 the President also requested supplemental appropriations of $1,900,000,000 to cover the Department of Defense's unbudgeted costs for humanitarian and peacekeeping missions in Haiti, Kuwait and Bosnia, which are in addition to regular United States assessed contributions to the United Nations for peacekeeping activities; and

(5) for fiscal year 1996 the President requested $445,000,000 for assessed contributions to the United Nations for international peacekeeping activities, a funding level most observers believe to be a significant understatement of actual peacekeeping obligations the Administration has committed the United States to support and which, if accurate, would lead to the third year in a row in which the Administration requests supplemental appropriations for assessed contributions to international peacekeeping in excess of $600,000,000 outside of the regular budget process.

Peacekeeping definition

The Senate amendment (sec. 219) amends the U.N. Participation Act of 1945 by adding a definition of peacekeeping activities.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

Taiwan Relations Act

The House bill (sec. 2601) amends the Taiwan Relations Act to add a new subsection (d) to section 3 of the Act. This new subsection reasserts the primacy of sections 3(a) and 3(b) of the Taiwan Relations Act with regard to U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. Sections 3(a) and 3(b) provide in pertinent part that "the U.S. will make available to Taiwan such defense articles and defense services in such quantity as may be necessary to enable Taiwan to maintain a sufficient self-defense capability", and that "[t]he President and the Congress shall determine the nature and quantity of such defense articles and services based solely upon their judgment of the needs of Taiwan."

The Senate amendment (sec. 605) is virtually identical.

The conference substitute (sec. 1601) amends the Taiwan Relations Act to add a new subsection (d) to section 3 of the Act. This new subsection reasserts the primacy of sections 3(a) and 3(b) of the Taiwan Relations Act with regard to United States arms sales to Taiwan. Sections 3(a) and 3(b) provide in pertinent part that "the United States will make available to Taiwan such defense articles and defense services in such quantity as may be necessary to enable Taiwan to maintain a sufficient self-defense capability", and that "[t]he President and the Congress shall determine the nature of quantity of such defense articles and services based solely upon their judgement of the needs of Taiwan."

Subsequent to the enactment of the Taiwan Relations Act, and without the approval of the Congress, the Executive branch issued a "Joint Communiqué of the United States and China" on August 17, 1982, which purported to commit the United States "to reduce gradually its sales of arms to Taiwan, leading over a period of time to a final solution." Insofar as this policy statement is inconsistent with sections 3(a) and 3(b) of the Act, it is contrary to law and cannot be the policy of the United States. The new section 3(d) of the Act is intended to underscore this fact.

The new section 3(d) of the Act does not change United States law; it reaffirms it. It merely states that the Taiwan Relations Act, a law passed by the Congress, has primacy over a policy statement issued by the Executive branch. Any policy statement which, contrary to sections 3(a) and 3(b) of the Act, does not take into account Taiwan's defense needs or the role of the Congress and the President in determining such needs is invalid as a matter of law.

Reports to Congress on aspects of implementation of the General Framework Agreement

The House bill (sec. 2602) is a sense of Congress that the President should bring to justice persons responsible for genocide, war crimes, and other serious violations of international human rights law committed in the territory of the former Yugoslavia since 1991.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable amendment.

The conference substitute (sec. 1611) merges two House provisions, sec. 2602 Bosnia Genocide Act and sec. 2702 Territorial Integrity of Bosnia and Herzegovina. This revised section provides for periodic reports from the President on the military aspects of implementation of the Dayton Agreement, including the conduct of United States Armed Forces deployed in Bosnia-Herzegovina as part of Operation Joint Endeavor and the costs associated with their participation as well as plan for the timely withdrawal of U.S. military personnel. In addition, the President would report on progress in implementing civilian aspects of the Agreement including: preparations for elections to be supervised by the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE); steps taken to uphold the right of refugees and displaced persons to return home safely and regain lost property, or to obtain just compensation (or, where return would be unsafe and/or unjust, to be resettled elsewhere); progress in international humanitarian and reconstruction efforts; and cooperation with the ongoing work of the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia to investigate and prosecute war criminals, as well as efforts of the OSCE and other international and non-governmental organizations to protect and promote human rights. In addition, the section would require regular reporting on efforts by the United States and others to address the plight of the ethnic Albanian majority in Kosovo and steps to establish a USIA office in Pristina.

USIA Office in Pristina: Kosovo's ethnic Albanian majority has been, and continues to be, the subject of brutal repression involving harassment, detention, and intimidation including beatings by police. Nearly half of the region's Albanian work-force was summarily fired in 1990 and replaced by Serbian workers. Albanian cultural identity remains under siege. The suppression of free media continues. Kosovar Albanians have felt increasingly isolated, particularly since OSCE observers were expelled from the region in 1993. A USIA office in Pristina will help to ease the current dire situation by disseminating information about the United States; promoting discussions on human rights, democracy, rule of law, and conflict resolution; facilitating U.S. private sector involvement in educational and cultural activities in Kosovo; and advising the U.S. Government with respect to public opinion in Kosovo. Opening an office in Pristina will send a strong signal to the Albanian population of Kosovo that they have not been forgotten. The conferees have been informed that plans for such an office are underway. The reporting requirement is designed to ensure that they are implemented as soon as possible.

Territorial Integrity. The Dayton Peace Agreement on Bosnia-Herzegovina commits the signatories to "conduct their relations in accordance with the principles set forth in the United Nations Charter, as well as the Helsinki Final Act and other documents of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe" (OSCE), including the principle of territorial integrity. The House-passed bill, which was adopted prior to the Dayton accords, included specific language on territorial integrity in recognition of the centrality of this principle to the conflict in Bosnia and the implications of its violation in the former Yugoslavia and beyond. For nearly four years the people of Bosnia-Herzegovina fought, at significant disadvantage, to preserve their country in the face of armed aggression and genocide. The widespread illegal use of armed force in Bosnia-Herzegovina, including the targeting of unarmed civilian populations, has had devastating consequences for the people of that country. Against that backdrop, any moves to recognize the incorporation of any of the territory of Bosnia-Herzegovina into the territory of any neighboring state or the creation of any new state or states within the borders of Bosnia-Herzegovina would violate the principle of territorial integrity as reflected in the Charter and the Final Act. The conferees note the importance attached to this fundamental principle in Article I of the Dayton Agreement and will closely monitor implementation of this provision by all parties to the accord.

Bosnia and Herzegovina Self-Defense Fund

The House bill (sec. 2607) provided for terminating the U.S. arms embargo against the government of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 2610) substantially revises this provision. Sec. 2610 (a) of the Conference Report provides the President with the authority to enter an agreement with other eligible countries to establish a fund to assist in the self defense of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The fund may be known as the "Multilateral Bosnia and Herzegovina Self Defense Fund." The United States contribution to this fund will be pursuant to the defense articles and services provided for in section 540 of the Foreign Operations and, Export Financing and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 1996 (Public Law 104-107). In order to maximize the amount of equipment provided under this authority, it is the intention of the Conference Committee that, as the Administration utilizes the referenced authority for the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the price of transferred equipment shall not exceed the lowest level at which the same or similar equipment has been transferred to any other country under any other U.S. government program.

The Conference Committee notes that credible reports indicate that Iranian nationals remain in Bosnia and Herzegovina in violation of the Dayton General Framework Agreement to end the war in the former Yugoslavia. The Committee encourages the Administration to use its continued efforts to arm and train the forces of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina as leverage to ensure full compliance with the expulsion of all disallowed Iranian nationals. The Committee further notes that the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina should curtail all military and intelligence relations with the Government of Iran.

Section 2610(b) identifies the purpose of the Fund as a means to coordinate the procurement of military equipment and training for transfer to the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina for the exercise of its right to self-defense under Article 51 of the United Nations Charter and to enable the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina to protect its population and territory.

Section 2610(c) requires United States leadership of the Fund. This provision is consistent with the text of a December 12, 1995 letter from President Clinton to the Honorable Robert Dole, Republican Leader of the Senate, in which the President wrote: "... the United States will take a leadership role in coordinating an international effort to ensure that the Bosnian Federation receives the assistance necessary to achieve an adequate military balance when IFOR leaves.

This subsection directs the Fund to provide procedures for administering donations of military equipment and training, and requires written assurance from the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina that such donations will not be used to take reprisals against civilians.

Section 2610(d) requires the President to prepare and transmit to Congress a detailed report on the Administration's plan to assist the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina to provide for its own defense.

Section 2610(e) provides definitions for relevant terms in this section.

Section 2610(f) states unambiguously that nothing in this section shall be interpreted as authorization for deployment of United States forces in the territory of Bosnia and Herzegovina for any purpose, including training, support, or delivery of military equipment.

Annex 1 of the Dayton General Framework Agreement to end the war in the former Yugoslavia addresses the military aspects of the peace settlement, including the establishment of a NATO-led multinational force called the Implementation Force (IFOR). This annex also continues the cessation of hostilities agreement (as previously agreed by the warring parties on October 5, 1995), details a process for the separation of belligerent forces within 30 days of signing, establishes a process for notification by the parties of the type and location of military equipment within their control, and outlines the mission of the IFOR.

Annex 1 includes a second part establishing confidence building measures between the parties and laying out a process to create a military balance through arms reductions. In the event that negotiations do not achieve arms reductions, the agreement establishes a process to create military parity based on a maximum ratio of heavy weaponry (as defined in the agreement) of 5:2:2 for Serbia, Croatia and Bosnia respectively (the Bosnian ratio is to be split 2:1 between the Federation and Republic of Srpska, respectively). The baseline for creating this ratio would be the total amount of heavy weapons held by Serbia after a mandatory twenty-five percent reduction.

The Conference Committee views the arms reduction provisions of the Agreement to be a positive feature. The Committee is concerned, however, that the Agreement contains little detail on how the arms reductions would be implemented, nor is there any mention in the Agreement of a plan for arming or training the Bosnian government forces should that be determined as a preferable option. Regardless of whether arms control measures are implemented successfully in the former Yugoslavia, the Conference Committee considers the creation of a military balance between the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and its potential adversaries through the provision of military assistance to the Federation as a fundamental step in creating the conditions for the successful withdrawal of United States forces, serving as part of the Implementation Force (IFOR) in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The United Nations arms embargo imposed upon the former Yugoslavia in September 1991, and extended without action in the United Nations Security Council to the sovereign nation of Bosnia and Herzegovina in April 1992, served to enforce an imbalance in forces between the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina and its adversaries in the former Yugoslavia. This imbalance led to disproportionate losses of civilians and soldiers in Bosnia, and prevented the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina from exercising its fundamental right of self-defense as provided for in Article 51 of the United Nations Charter.

It is the view of the Conference Committee that the improved military capabilities of the Bosnian government forces was a factor in creating a measure of military stability—and an environment for negotiations—which led to signing of the Dayton Agreement. The improvement in the military capabilities of the Bosnian government forces is, however, still insufficient to effectively deter further aggression. By creating a real military balance in the region it is the view of the Committee that the environment in which negotiations took place can be further enhanced to become an environment in which a stable peace can occur between the warring parties in the former Yugoslavia. The Conference Committee is particularly emphatic in its support of this initiative because the creation of such an environment is also a critical element of the Clinton Administration's pledge to remove United States forces from Bosnia and Herzegovina by the end of 1996.

United States-North Korea Agreed Framework

The House bill (sec. 2641) summarizes the findings of Congress regarding the salient features of the Agreed Framework and its inadequacies in regard to specific Congressional concerns.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1607) merges House bill sections 2641, 2642, 2643, 2644, and 2645 into one provision. The conference substitute expresses the sense of Congress regarding the minimum conditions for participation in the Agreed Framework, and lays out conditions under which additional progress may occur in U.S.-North Korean bilateral relations. Areas where progress is expected before upgrading bilateral relations include: 1) dialogue in North-South dialogue; 2) progress implementation of the North-South Joint declaration on Denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula; 3) reduction in the number of North Korean military forces along the Demilitarized Zone; and, 4) prohibiting deployment of North Korean ballistic missiles and weapons of mass destruction. At the Senate's request, a fifth and sixth category of expected progress on the part of the North Koreans. These included cooperation on the recovery of remains of American MIAs, and confirmation that North Korea has ceased its support of international terrorism.

The conference substitute seeks to ensure that any assistance provided to North Korea or the Korean Peninsula Energy Development Organization (KEDO), regardless of the agency or account from which they are derived will be provided in accordance with the reprogramming notification procedures contained in section 634A of the Foreign Assistance Act.

U.S. policy concerning the dictatorship in Burma

The House bill, (sec. 2651) is a sense of Congress that the U.N. Security Council should impose an international arms embargo on Burma, affirm human rights, and reduce U.N. organizations' presence in Burma, except to the UNDCP.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the Senate amendment.

U.S. policy with respect to the involuntary return of persons subjected to torture

The House bill (secs. 2661, 2662) prohibits the use of funds for the involuntary return of any person to a place in which he/she is in serious danger of torture. A definition of torture is included.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1256) prohibits the use of funds authorized by this Act, or funds authorized for emergency refugee and migration assistance, to be used for the involuntary return of any person to a country in which he or she is in serious danger of being subjected to torture. The provision will partly implement the international obligations of the United States under the Convention Against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman, and Degrading Treatment or Punishment.

Inter American organizations

The House bill (sec. 2701) states that the Secretary of State should take into account the long-term commitment of the U.S. to the affairs of the Western Hemisphere in setting funding levels for Inter-American organizations.

The Senate amendment (sec. 304) is virtually identical.

The Laogai system of political prisons

The House bill (sec. 2703) expresses a sense of Congress that the President should condemn the continued existence of the Laogai and calls upon the Government of China to dismantle it.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1701) expresses the sense of Congress as contained in the House bill.

(a) FINDINGS—The committee of conference makes the following findings:

(1) The Chinese gulag, known as the Laogai, was created as a primary means of political repression and control when the Communists assumed power in China in 1949.

(2) The Laogai has caused millions of people to suffer grave human rights abuses over the past 46 years, including countless deaths.

(3) The Laogai continues to be used to incarcerate unknown numbers of ordinary citizens for political reasons, including workers, students, intellectuals, religious believers, and Tibetans.

(4) So-called "thought reform" is a standard practice of Laogai officials, and reports of torture are routinely received by human rights organizations from Laogai prisoners and survivors.

(5) Negotiations about unfettered access to Laogai prisoners between the Chinese Government and the International Red Cross have ceased.

(6) The Laogai is in reality a huge system of forced labor camps in which political and penal criminals are slave laborers producing an array of products for export throughout the world, including the United States.

(7) The Chinese Government continues to maintain, as part of its official propaganda and in defiance of significant evidence to the contrary gathered by many human rights organizations, that the Laogai is a prison system like any other in the world.

(8) Testimony delivered before the Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights of the Committee on International Relations of the House of Representatives has documented human rights abuses in the Laogai which continue to this day.

(9) The American people have repeatedly expressed their abhorrence of forced labor camps for persons convicted of political crimes, whether they be operated by the Nazis, Soviet Communists, or any other political ideology.

Use of funds to further normalize relations with Vietnam

The House bill (sec. 2704) expresses a sense of Congress that funds should not be obligated to further normalize relations with Vietnam until the government of Vietnam holds free elections, respects human rights and accounts for remaining POW/MIA cases.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1214) provides that none of the funds authorized to be appropriated under this Act may be obligated or expended for costs incurred for opening or operating any U.S. diplomatic or consular post in Vietnam that was not operating on July 11, 1995, for expanding any U.S. diplomatic or consular post in Vietnam that was not operating on July 11, 1995, or increasing the total number of personnel assigned to the U.S. diplomatic or consular posts in Vietnam above the levels existing on July 11, 1995 unless 60 days prior to the obligation of funds, the President certifies to Congress that based upon all information available to the U.S. government that the Government of Vietnam is fully cooperating in four areas of POW/MIA investigations and research. This substitute is consistent with the provision contained in the Commerce, Justice, State and Related Agencies Appropriations bill for Fiscal Year 1996.

Declaration of Congress regarding U.S. Government human rights policy toward China

The House bill (sec. 2705) expresses a sense of Congress that the People's Republic of China continues to violate human rights, and requires within 90 days, reports on the President's successes with his China human rights policy and the status of coercive population control programs and on prison labor conditions.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the Senate amendment. The Committee of Conference still considers this provision to be important.

(a) FINDINGS—The committee of conference finds the following:

(1) Russian troops advanced into Chechnya on December 10, 1994, and were met with strong resistance from Chechen rebels who have now moved to the Caucasus mountains where they are engaging in what even the most optimistic Russian military officers predict will be a drawn-out guerrilla war.

(2) The cost of the Chechen battle is estimated to cost the Government of Russia at least $2,000,000,000 and could exacerbate the budget deficit of the Government of Russia.

(3) The United States has approved over $2,400,000,000 in loan guarantees through the Export-Import Bank of the United States and the Overseas Private Investment Corporation.

(4) The United States has provided Russia with significant direct assistance to promote a free market economy, support democracy, meet humanitarian needs, and dismantle nuclear weapons.

(b) DECLARATION OF POLICY—The committee of conference declares the following:

(1) United States investment in Russia has been significant in promoting democracy and stabilizing the economy of Russia and this progress could be imperiled by Russia's continued war in Chechnya.

(2) The inability to negotiate an end to this crisis and the resulting economic implications could adversely affect the ability of Russia to fulfill its commitments to the International Monetary Fund, the Export-Import Bank of the United States, and the Overseas Private Investment Corporation.

(3) In further contacts with President Yeltsin, it is imperative that President Clinton repeat his call for an immediate end to the war in Chechnya.

Statutory construction

The Senate amendment (sec. 502) clarifies that the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency cannot authorize policies which would interfere with the acquisition, possession or use of firearms by an individual for the purpose of personal defense, sport, education or training.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1605) is identical to the Senate amendment.

Payments of Iraq claims

The Senate amendment (sec. 603) requires the Secretary of the Treasury to approve all applications for licenses that meet the criteria of section 575.510 of title 31, Code of Federal Regulations, even though such applications may have failed to meet the requirement that the letter of credit be issued or confirmed by a U.S. bank or that the letter of credit reimbursement be confirmed by a U.S. bank. Licenses pursuant to this section shall be issued within 30 days of the date of enactment of this Act.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1614) vests in the President all blocked non-diplomatic accounts or assets of the Government of Iraq and would direct the President to liquidate such accounts not later than 30 days after enactment.

Upon the vesting of these accounts, the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to establish in the Treasury an Iraq Claims Fund for payment of private claims or U.S. Government claims. The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission of the United States is authorized to determine the validity and amounts of private claims and certify to the Treasury the awards made in favor of each private claim.

Not later than two years after the date of enactment, the Secretary shall make payment out of the Fund on certified private claims according to the proportions which the total amount of certified private claims bear to the total amount in the Fund that is available for distribution at the time payments are made. After payments have been made in full on private claims out of the Fund, any funds remaining can be made to satisfy U.S. Government claims against the Government of Iraq.

The President is directed to determine the validity of government claims which the Secretary of State has determined are outside the jurisdiction of the United Nations Commission. To the extent that there are enough funds available to satisfy these claims, the President is authorized and requested to enter into a settlement with the Government of Iraq providing payment for these claims.

The conference substitute embraces the pre-existing procedures of the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission to ensure uniformity of process with previous claim adjudications such as Iran and Vietnam.

Paying private claims first out of blocked Iraqi assets recognizes that many U.S. companies cannot wait over six years to receive the proceeds from their legitimate commercial transactions. When the President freezes assets of hostile foreign countries, U.S. exporters and businesses should not be forced to shoulder a disproportionate burden of the costs.

Private American claimants cannot readily negotiate with the Government of Iraq for satisfaction of their claims. This legislation does nothing to prohibit the United States Government from fully collecting on the American taxpayer claims through continued negotiations with the Government of Iraq or with the United Nations Compensation Commission.

Reports regarding Hong Kong

The Senate Amendment (sec. 604) amends the Hong Kong Policy Act of 1992 (22 U.S.C. 5731) to extend the requirement in the Hong Kong Policy Act for the Secretary of State to transmit a report on conditions in Hong Kong of interest to the U.S. by March 31, 1995 and every year thereafter.

The provision requires this report to detail information on the status of and other developments affecting: implementation of the Sino-British Joint Declaration on the Question of Hong Kong, including the Basic Law and its consistency with the Joint Declaration; the openness and fairness of the election of the chief executive and the executive's accountability to the legislature; the treatment of political parties; the independence of the judiciary and its ability to exercise the power of final judgement over Hong Kong law; and the Bill of Rights.

The conference substitute (sec. 1604) is identical to the Senate amendment except the reporting date is changed to six months after enactment.

Report on firms engaged in export of dual-use items

The Senate amendment (sec. 613) requires the Secretary of State to issue a report every 180 days until 1998 discussing measures taken to prevent future lapses in the screening process and to coordinate government agencies involved in exports.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute is identical to the House bill.

Housing Guarantee Program

The House bill (sec. 3251 & 3252) provides close-down funding for the Housing Investment Guarantee Program in accordance with GAO's recommendation. Loan losses and management problems have plagued this program. Sec. 3252, prohibits the issuance of any new guarantees under the HIG program after the date of enactment of this bill. Existing guarantees which have not been applied to loans are cancelled upon enactment of the bill.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1111) includes the two above-referenced House provisions that would terminate the AID Housing Guarantee Program and impose new penalties to forestall defaults on existing guarantees and increase collection on bad loans. Under these sections, no new guarantees would be issued. Existing guarantees which have not been used would be cancelled, except in South Africa. Borrowers which fall into arrears on a guaranteed loan will have AID assistance suspended until the borrower becomes current on the guaranteed loan, whereupon assistance is restored.

These provisions address the findings by the General Accounting Office that the U.S. has paid $542 million to cover the failure of 23 foreign governments to make payments on guaranteed loans and that another $600 million will have to be paid out to cover future defaults on the existing $2.7 billion in outstanding guarantees. That is a total projected loss of $1 billion, or 40 percent. Further, the GAO found that of the $542 million in claims paid, the U.S. government has failed to recover $409 million from the borrowers who failed to make payments on guaranteed loans.

Deobligation of certain AID funds

The House bill (sec. 3286) requires the deobligation of certain categories of economic assistance funds which have remained unexpended for more than three years after being appropriated. Deobligated funds are returned to the Treasury.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1616) is identical to the House provision which would de-obligate certain AID funds left over from prior years which have remained unspent. Under the provision, AID funds remaining unspent after 3 fiscal years would be de-obligated and returned to the Treasury. Exceptions are incorporated for funds devoted to long-term construction projects and projects delayed due to unforeseen circumstances.

This provision addresses a long-standing recommendation by the General Accounting Office that the AID "pipeline" be curtailed. In 1991 when GAO first made its recommendation, AID had $8.8 billion in funds left over from prior years. At the end of FY 1995, 5 years later, the amount was $8.5 billion, of which approximately $1 billion dated back more than 3 years. GAO found that although AID has authority to re-program funds when priorities change, AID has made very little use of this administrative flexibility. GAO further found that leaving AID funds unspent for many years leads to waste.

Limitation on assistance to countries that restrict the transport or delivery of United States humanitarian assistance

The House bill (sec. 3418) prohibits assistance to any country that impedes or prohibits the transport or delivery of U.S. humanitarian assistance. The ban on U.S. aid to countries impeding delivery of U.S. humanitarian aid to third countries would be waived if the President issued Congress a waiver stating the continued aid would be in the U.S. national security interest.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1617) is identical to the House bill.

Industrial park for Gaza or the West Bank

The conference substitute (sec. 1710) requires the President to report to the appropriate Congressional Committees not later than 180 days after enactment of this bill detailing all actions taken by the U.S. government to establish an industrial park in Gaza or the West Bank and identifying all U.S. government funds intended for the development of such an industrial park.

The Congress finds that (1) extremists in Hamas and Islamic Jihad who reject the gains made since the signing of the Declaration of Principles have used terrorist tactics to force the closing of the territories; (2) these terrorists acts have exacerbated existing problems in Gaza is now experiencing staggering unemployment nearing fifty percent, increasing chaos and a downward spiral of dashed hopes and deepening poverty; (3) Israel's legitimate security concerns necessitate creative new methods of ensuring continued economic opportunity for the Palestinians; and (4) the development of industrial parks along the border between Gaza, the West Bank and Israel sponsored by individual nations provides an important means of providing both development for Palestinians while maintaining border security.

International Fund for Ireland

The House bill (sec. 3204) provided a funding cap from Economic Support Funds of $29.6 million in FY 1996 and $19.6 million in FY 1997 for the U.S. contribution to the International Fund for Ireland (IFI). The amounts made available are authorized to remain available until expended.

The House section also amended the Anglo-Irish Agreement Support Act of 1986 (P.L. 99-415) to require that U.S. contributions "shall" be used in a manner that effectively increases employment opportunities in communities with rates of unemployment "significantly" higher than the local or urban average of unemployment in Northern Ireland (defined as the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Derry, Down, Tyrone, and Fermanagh).

Under this section funding could be provided by the IFI only if individuals or entities receiving such funds are in compliance with the "principles of economic justice." The principles of economic justice are defined as the "MacBride Principles" as modified, include:

(1) Increasing the representation of individuals, from underrepresented religious groups in the workforce, including managerial, supervisory, administrative, clerical, and technical jobs,

(2) Providing adequate security for the protection of minority employees at the workplace,

(3) Banning provocative sectarian or political emblems from the workplace,

(4) Providing that all job openings be advertised publicly and providing that special recruitment efforts be made to attract applicants from underrepresented religious groups,

(5) Providing that layoff, recall and termination procedures do not favor a particular religious group,

(6) Abolishing job reservations, apprenticeship restrictions and differential employment criteria which discriminate on the basis of religion,

(7) Providing for the development of training programs that will prepare substantial numbers of minority employees for skilled jobs, including the expansion of existing programs and the creation of new programs to train, upgrade and improve the skills of minority employees,

(8) Establishing procedures to assess, identify and actively recruit minority employees with the potential for further advancement, and

(9) Proving for the appointment of a senior management staff member to be responsible for the employment efforts of the entity and, within a reasonable period of time, the implementation of the principles described above.

The Senate amendment contains no comparable provision.

The conference substitute (sec. 1615) reduces the funding cap from $29.6 million to $19.6 million for fiscal year 1996. The committee of conference also inserted "should" for "shall" in the Anglo-Irish Agreement Act amendment to provide the Administration with more discretion in implementing this section. The term significantly was determined to be redundant and was deleted from the referenced areas of high unemployment.

The section also includes the principles of economic justice to insure that these principles should be applied by those individuals or entities who receive any portion of the U.S. contribution to the International Fund for Ireland.

In addition a new provision was added to insure nothing shall require quotas or reverse discrimination, which is consistent with the intent and purpose of the MacBride principles.

Republic of China Taiwan participation in GATT and WTO

The committee of conference (sec. 1709) agreed to this provision (sec. 2709) expressing

PEACE AND SECURITY IN TAIWAN MUST BE MAINTAINED

(Mr. FUNDERBURK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. FUNDERBURK. Mr. Speaker, the absence of effective American leadership in East Asia is a major contributing factor to the current heightened crisis in the Taiwan Strait. For the past 25 years our relationship with the Communist People's Republic of China has been contingent upon a peaceful resolution of the Taiwan issue. Before the United States Congress enacted the Taiwan Relations Act, the executive branch of all administrations, from Nixon to the present, committed to the peaceful resolution on the future of Taiwan.

The current crisis in the Taiwan Straits seriously jeopardizes this understanding and the condition of the diplomatic relations between the United States and the People's Republic of China. We must send an unambiguous message to Beijing that the United States will not stand by idly while the future of Taiwan is threatened. To this end the United States must stand ready to defend Taiwan against any resort of force or other forms of coercion that would jeopardize Taiwan's security.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members are recognized for 5 minutes each.

COMMENDING PRESIDENT CLINTON FOR SUSPENDING USE OF RACE- AND GENDER-BASED SET-ASIDES IN AWARDING OF FEDERAL CONTRACTS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Connecticut [Mr. FRANKS] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FRANKS of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I commend President Clinton for suspending the use of race- and gender-based set-asides for the awarding of Federal contracts. These preferences are the most onerous aspect of affirmative action.

Last year I fought hard with an amendment to the defense appropriations bill to accomplish this same objective. However, that was not possible.

In October, President Clinton reviewed and quietly ended that practice for defense contracts. But today's broader executive branch decision marks the true beginning of the end for race- and gender-based set-asides.

Mr. Speaker, like all Americans, I want my children, Azia, Jessica, and Gary, Jr., to have an equal opportunity to succeed in this great country of ours. I want to them to know that, when selected, they are not just the best black person for the job, but that they are the best person for the job.

It has to be the goal of this Nation to have more blacks, Hispanics, Asians, and women of all hues on the playing field of economic opportunity and growth. We want to see more bids on Government contracts for minorities and women, not fewer than the handful received today. That will truly enhance the likelihood of more Government contracts going to minorities and women.

Mr. Speaker, outreach programs are essential. They are critical. Cabinet members and other high-level Federal officials must be held accountable for their outreach efforts. Once again, the Government should seek as many bids for minorities and women as possible, but once the bids are opened in the small business category, low bids should prevail regardless of one's gender or one's race.

I thank the President for his actions.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS DO NOT HAVE TO SPEND TAXPAYER DOLLARS JUST BECAUSE THEY HAVE A TAXPAYER-FUNDED EXPENSE ALLOWANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the previous order of the House, the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. BROWDER] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BROWDER. Mr. Speaker, today is, for me, personally, one of my finest moments on the floor of Congress since my 1989 special election.

Today, I become the founder, president, and only member of my self-declared "Million Dollar Turnback Club."

Just yesterday, I received notice from the Committee on House Oversight that the unspent balance from my representational allowance for 1995 is $198,990.30.

These 1995 savings, or unspent allowance, bring my total turnback to $1.2 million since I entered Congress in 1989.

As many people know, congressional offices are allowed approximately $838,000 a year for office expenses, staff, and postage. The amount when I first came to Congress was about $500,000. So, my total turnback amount means that I saved, or did not spend, about a
