

Walter Reuther, who remained in office during the purge, also remained a marked man.

In April 1938 two gun-wielding anti-union thugs forced their way into Sophie Reuther's 25th birthday party at Walter Reuther's Detroit apartment (a delivery of Chinese food had been expected) and began pistol whipping her brother-in-law until a guest scrambled out a second-story window and began shouting for the police.

When the police, widely assumed to be in the pay of the auto makers, began a perfunctory investigation and asked Mrs. Reuther to describe the thugs, she did not miss a beat. "They looked very much like you," she said.

In 1951, after an attempt on Mr. Reuther's life, the family including three children, moved to Paris, where he spent three years as the Congress of Industrial Organization's European director.

They moved to Washington in 1954, when Walter Reuther took over as U.A.W. president and Victor became his special assistant and director of international affairs.

Although Mrs. Reuther held no official union position after 1937, she remained very much a union woman, so much so that when her husband, who she believed had been neglecting his domestic duties, returned from one of his frequent trips he found a list of her demands written large in rug shampoo on the living room carpet.

Known as a woman who recognized no limitation on what she could do, Mrs. Reuther obtained a fine arts degree from George Washington University at the age of 55 in 1968 and was a Robert F. Kennedy delegate to the Democratic National Convention that year.

It was during an official union visit to India that year that Mrs. Reuther left her husband with the enduring image of her humanity. At a mine near Calcutta, he recalled, a miner's widow, an untouchable, approached his wife, bent down and kissed her shoe.

Then, in a breach of caste protocol, "my Sophie reached down and lifted the women up and embraced her." Mr. Reuther recalled. "The women were shocked. The men were shocked."

"That was my Shopie," he said. "She felt a kinship with the suffering of all people."

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Reuther is survived by a daughter, Carole Hill of Cowden, Ill.; two sons, Eric, of Washington, and John, of Moscow; a brother, Edward Bezuska of Warren, Mich, and six grandchildren.

GETTING GOVERNMENT OFF THE BACKS OF AMERICANS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. FOLEY] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FOLEY. Mr. Speaker, I certainly appreciate the opportunity, and we are glad to be back in our Nation's Capital, and obviously it is tax week. April 15 has come and gone, and the American public has obviously hopefully filled out all of their appropriate papers. But it gives us cause to look at Government and talk about how we are trying to make a difference here in Washington, trying to get Government to look at itself and reflect on what its true mission is, to look at all levels of spending, to look at all that we do in trying to determine what is the most appropriate role for the Federal Government, what would be best reserved for the States, what would we expect from our leaders.

I am particularly pleased that the National Taxpayers Union released its report on Congress. The National Taxpayers Union released its ratings from the 1995 session of Congress, the first of the 104th. I was proud to note 78 Members of this body scored an A rating. I was particularly delighted in the fact that 33 Members of the freshman class were A rated this year.

In their release, the National Taxpayers Union suggested that Members did not only talk about reduction of spending in their districts, they emphasized it here on the floor of this Chamber. They showed by their deeds and by their actions their commitment to reducing the size and scope of Federal Government.

Yes, we need to make priorities. Yes, we need to seek the direction that this Nation hopes to accomplish. But, by these ratings, we have clearly indicated, at least this Member personally, that we are prepared to make the tough votes, to bring us in balance in our Nation.

We are spending in excess of $200 billion a year that we do not have. We have a $5 trillion national debt. It is costing us $300 billion in interest payments on the debt alone to service that debt. Even in the year 2002 when we fully balance the treasury and we do not have more going out than we have coming in, we will still have in excess at that point of $6 trillion in debt.

Now, when you are spending $300 billion alone this fiscal year on interest payments, no principle reduction, you are clearly spending that $200 billion, and you are spending in excess $100 billion further in reducing the debt. Without that $300 billion you would have a surplus revenue to the treasury of over $100 billion.

So part of the significant concern is reducing the debt, ratcheting it down, much like an individual does on a 30-year mortgage. They start paying down the debt, small incremental principle reductions, in order to bring down that devastating debt burden on our Nation.

If the Members would think of $300 billion of free flow cash that could be used to enhance programs, actually you would have $100 billion, but you take that toward education, pre-K programs, Head Start, things vitally important to getting our Nation's youth up and running so they enter first grade with reading and writing skills, basic skills, in order to become productive.

I talked a little bit about what we tried to do in the crime areas in this Nation. It is time we stop coddling the criminals. I was entirely depressed the other day when I read the story about the gentleman from Texas who had committed sexual offenses against minors, who was being released from prison, and readily acknowledged that he would commit the crimes again. In our society we suggest that he be released and we put a monitoring bracelet on him.

Here is a man that indicates he is going to perpetrate crimes against children, he may kill his next victim, and our Nation releases him. The penal system in Texas releases him because they claim they cannot hold him any longer. The mere utterance of the fact that he threatened bodily injury on another human being I think should have proven beyond a reasonable doubt that he should have been held in custody.

If we are going to get tough on crime, we are having to get tough on sentences like this, where they are releasing perpetrators of serious felonies against children out into our society. We are not going to prove to the young people of America that crime does not pay, if in fact they witness daily people being released by judges, released by prisons, serving half the time allocated by the judge, serving 25 percent of the allocable time.

We tried to mandate we will not provide prison funds for States if they do not require serving 80 percent of sentences. We come up with gimmicks like "three strikes and you're out." What is wrong with the first strike? Why do we need baseball metaphors to feel safe in our homes? Why not put them away the first time.

When kids bring knives and guns to school, do not suspend them from campus. Do not send them home into the communities with guns and knives so they can rob homes while we are working. Put them in a boot camp. No marine wants to go back to basic training. Once they have completed it, they never want to return to basic training.

The same could be held for our young juvenile offenders. If in fact they commit these types of crimes, put them in a boot camp and make them serve a sentence so they will not commit a crime again or will think twice about it.

We can make a difference in America in this Congress. We can get tougher on criminals. We can balance the budget and save the Nation from fiscal collapse. But we must act now in the week of IRS' big gulp. Let us get the taxes reduced and Government off our backs.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE THOMAS JAMES PETTEWAY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Connecticut [Mr. FRANKS] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FRANKS of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, Thomas James Petteway was a civic leader who was needed at his time, but he was also a civic leader who was truly ahead of his time. And for all of us who knew and loved him, Tom will be missed by us all the time.

For his sisters and brothers, in-laws, nieces, and nephews and the many cousins, especially those that make up the branch of the Petteway family, now led by my mother Jenary Petteway Franks, we all loved Tom Petteway.

But Tom was easy to love. Family came first with Tom, And he loved his family.

He as a likable person. He was a good, decent individual.

Anything Tom Petteway did, he did it well, And he did a lot. He served his country in the Army during WWII with distinction. He later presided over an area veterans club. He was an active member of the community.

Tom was an active member of the Republican Party. Back when Tom registered to vote most blacks registered with the Republican Party. Unlike many, Tom stayed with the Republican Party over the years.

I remember white old timers in the Republican Party telling me stories about Tom Petteway.

I remember blacks, like Kay Wyrick, telling me about the Black Republican Club in which Tom headed at one time.

Whites and blacks talked of Tom with sincere affection and admiration. But who could not remember his distinctive voice. Tom was a proud, articulate, well-educated man whose mere presence was felt by all whenever he appeared in a room.

Tom served the city of Waterbury in an official capacity as a member of the Welfare Board.

He served as president of the Waterbury Chapter of the NAACP during one of the most contentious civil rights periods.

Without any doubt Tom Petteway distinguished himself as one of Waterbury's leading black civic leaders.

Tom Petteway was a pioneer. Tom Petteway was ahead of his time.

It was easier for my generation of black leaders because of people like Tom Petteway.

That is why people from my generation need to pause and thank people like Tom Petteway for blazing the trail for us.

And, I do that again today.

When I was starting out in Republican politics back in the early eighties, it seemed as though Tom was always at the big events.

He offered me a great deal of encouragement and he also gave me little tips from time to time, like for example: He said you may go to a meeting but what you may not realize is that there may have been a meeting before the real meeting in which you were not invited.

It was not long before I too found that to be true.

When the big Republican events turned out to be events for me, Tom was always there to offer his support. He was not feeling well all the time but he was always there.

As a Congressman I frequently made it my point to stop by the West Haven Veterans Hospital to see my cousin Tom. And, he was well known there too.

Tom Petteway was a leader in this time. Tom Petteway was ahead of his time.

But for those who knew Tom, we are grateful that he lived during our time.

REMEMBERING SECRETARY RON BROWN AND THOSE WHO PER- ISHED WITH HIM

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WISE] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. WISE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to remember still, as we are all still feeling, those who were on the plane with Secretary Ron Brown. It was a loss that this country feels now and is going to feel for quite a long time.

In West Virginia we feel this deeply, the loss of the Government personnel, the military personnel, the private sector personnel. In addition to Secretary Brown we lost William Morton of Huntington who was buried Saturday in Huntington, who was long time involved in so many things that made this country great: political campaigns and working with Secretary Brown in a number of capacities.

He grew up and graduated, went to Huntington High School and went on to make his mark in so many different areas. I give thanks for his life and that of Ron Brown's. With Secretary Brown he was a man of composure, a man of pragmatism, a man of obvious intelligence, and a compassionate man.

So many stories that each of us has about Secretary Ron Brown. I remember one. He visited Martinsburg, WV, at my request somewhere around 2 years ago. We had a celebration, he was kicking off a compressed natural gas vehicle caravan. We had bands out there, and there were two little children that were making presentations.

I still remember that Secretary Brown was there surrounded, by Members of Congress and the State leadership and the city leadership and the county leadership, and everybody's in a suit looking very official, and these two little girls. One of the little girls was making a presentation in the microphone, and of course she was dressed in her Sunday best, and she was a little awed by all of this and she had trouble with a couple of her words. Secretary Brown nodded very patiently, went over and leaned over and said take your time. Just take your time. She smiled and finished like a champ.

Secretary Brown was, we liked to kid him, he was a property owner in West Virginia owning property in the Canaan Valley. But I think what he will be remembered for, so much he will be remembered because more people are working today in this country because of Ron Brown. There are more opportunities for people today in this country because of Ron Brown. There are more jobs that have been created in this country today because of Ron Brown. There are more trade opportunities here and abroad because of Ron Brown.

The Commerce Department, which has been a traditional backwater for many years, is a thriving vibrant department today because of Ron Brown. In so many areas we see his hand and we are going to miss that guiding hand.

The testimony of Ron Brown, well, there are so many testimonies, but I know one. As well as being a member of the Democratic Party, he is the one who put us back on track. He took a demoralized party and turned it, in just a few short years, to one that won the Presidency for the first time in 12 years. A tribute to Ron Brown is how many of us, how many people who came in contact with him called him friend.

I was at a meeting in Missouri this week, Republicans and Democrats alike, as well as foreign parliamentarians, and Ron Brown's name came up. And all of us stopped and every one of us had a story to tell about Ron Brown. Every one of us wanted to tell that story. Every one of us knew him as friends. Ron Brown was our friend. He was a friend of America's and we miss him. We miss him, very, very much.

THE RICKY RAY HEMOPHILIA RELIEF FUND ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. GOSS] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, a majority of the House now agrees that we should provide compassionate assistance to the 8,000 victims of hemophilia-associated aids. The Ricky Ray Hemophilia Relief Fund Act—which establishes a compensation program for the victims of this tragedy—now carries 219 bipartisan cosponsors. I introduced the Ricky Ray Bill—which is named for a constituent who was 15 when he died of hemophilia-associated Aids in 1992. We started with two dozen sponsors.

But each week for the past year the support for this measure has grown thanks to the awesome grassroots participation of the victims of hemophilia-
