

the statute, recommends the change contained in S. 531, and I urge a favorable vote.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, as the gentleman from California has indicated, many cases that come before the circuit court involved a 3-judge pane. Those decisions will frequently include a senior or retired judge as a member of the panel. If the case goes to the full circuit court, the senior judge that took part in that decision can continue considering that case in the full court.

□ 1415

The circuits have split as to what happened when a judge changes from regular status to senior status during the trial and the circuits are split. This bill just merely says that, if he takes senior status while the case is still pending, he can continue to consider the case. This bill has unanimous support from the Committee on the Judiciary, and I urge support of the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD] that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 531.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on S. 531, the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

NATIONAL FILM PRESERVATION ACT OF 1996

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 1734) to reauthorize the National Film Preservation Board, and for other purposes, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD] and the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. SCOTT] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD].

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 1734, the National Film Preservation Act of 1996, as amended.

This bill authorizes an existing program first established in 1988, that developed a national strategy to deal with the problem of preserving film for educational and historical purposes. The purpose of H.R. 1734 is to reauthorize a program that is saving films which, but for preservation efforts, will be lost forever. Film is currently celebrating its bittersweet 100th anniversary. The seminal study on the film preservation problem which we authorized in the 1992 act documented that for films produced before 1950, over 50 percent no longer survive; and, of films made before 1920, fewer than 10 percent still exist. More recent films face no less danger—from color fading, vinegar syndrome, and a host of other colorfully named but equally destructive maladies. The 1992 authorization ended last month. Without the reauthorization provided by H.R. 1734 and the support and intervention of the Federal Government, many of the remaining materials will be irretrievably lost.

In 1988, Congress created the National Film Preservation Board within the Library of Congress which recognized the importance and fragile nature of our film heritage. In the 1992 reauthorization, the program was redefined with a mission to identify the technical and policy problems related to preserving film in this country, and to coordinate the development of a public and private sector plan to address the problems so identified.

The 1992 legislation created a methodical two-step program, coordinated by the Librarian of Congress and the Film Board. The first step was the completion in 1993 of a comprehensive study conducted under the auspices of the Library of Congress to take a snapshot of the film preservation problem in the United States. Public hearings and public witnesses from Government and private entities including film studios, independent film producers, creative artists, educators and other users of film materials described the technical and policy problems that must be addressed to save film from disintegration and to make them more readily available to the public. Following the study was the development in 1994 of a second document known as "the national plan" to fix the problem via a public/private partnership with very realistic and specific implementation steps.

Both public documents were very well received and in fact, other countries are modeling their film preservation efforts on our methodology. Implementation of the plan is now underway. H.R. 1734 will authorize the continued implementation of the national plan by the Librarian of Congress, since that authorization expired in June.

The materials that are the focus of H.R. 1734 are not the Hollywood films but films which are vital for educational, rather than commercial reasons, and which will not survive without public intervention. Examples of such films include documentaries and newsreels, independent films, animation and short subjects, silent films, films by and/or documenting minority or ethnic groups, films of historical, educational or regional importance, and films that are no longer under copyright protection. These films are held and maintained by public and nonprofit archives, State and local historical societies, university and public libraries and similar institutions in all 50 States.

Our bill, crafted with bipartisan support, will help save our film heritage, with a very minimal amount of Federal spending, that is, $250,000 per year, which is the current authorized rate, increasing moderately after fiscal year 1999. Title I will continue the work of the coordinating body within the Library of Congress, the National Film Preservation Board, to enable the continued implementation of the national plan developed by the 1992 act. H.R. 1734 picks up the work already completed by the Library of Congress and the National Film Preservation Board and takes it to the next logical step by partnering the private sector with the public sector, creating a 501(c) organization known as the National Film Preservation Foundation. The Foundation (title II) is modeled on similar entities created by Congress and will give grants to archives and libraries that are preserving films.

The libraries and archives with film collections must spend $10,000 to $100,000 or more per film to preserve, restore, catalog and/or store the materials properly. The Foundation needs to raise a considerable sum of private money from within and outside the film community. Examples of the diversity of institutions with such films holdings that will be eligible for Foundation grants include: the George Eastman House, the Library of Congress, the Museum of Modern Art, UCLA Film and Television Archive, the National Center for Jewish Film, Anthology Film Archives, Pacific Film Archives, Northeast Historic Film, the Oregon Historical Society, the Japanese American National Museum, the Black Film Center at Indiana University, and many similar institutions large and small, including for example, those supporting and promoting film preservation, such as the American Film Institute. All of these entities are in full support of H.R. 1734.

H.R. 1734 fulfills the Government's role in film preservation of facilitator or coordinator of the work already being done in hundreds of archives, libraries, laboratories, and film studios nationwide and to add some public funds where needed. Via the Foundation the Government will provide the seed money to raise private funds to save the so-called orphan films. It will enable information about technology to be more readily shared, and to coordinate lab efforts and solve storage problems. The Government will not spend its money on Hollywood feature films but will encourage the studios to continue to share information and coordinate efforts with the archives and independent filmmakers and others.

I wish to thank the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Courts and Intellectual Property, Mrs. SCHROEDER, for her work on H.R. 1734. I also wish to thank my colleagues who cosponsored this legislation, Mr. COBLE, Mr. BONO, and Mr. CONYERS, and my colleague on the Committee on House Oversight, Mr. THOMAS, for working with Judiciary to craft a responsible bill in these lean financial times that will allow this important work to continue. I would also like to commend the Librarian and his staff, especially Steve Leggett, and the Film Board for the work they have done to date.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the passage of H.R. 1734.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 1734. This bill takes two critical steps toward preserving America's very rich but threatened heritage of culturally, historically, and aesthetically significant films.

The first is the reauthorization of the National Film Preservation Board. Congress established this board in 1988 tasking it with the annual selection of 25, "culturally, historically or aesthetically significant," films to the National Film Registry and the development of labeling guidelines for films that have been "materially altered."

In 1992, when Congress reauthorized the board, our focus was on film preservation. The labeling guideline provision was dropped in the 1992 reauthorization because it had proved to be too contentious and problematic with little likelihood of consensus among the interested stakeholders.

Two significant accomplishments result from this 1992 reauthorization act. First, the 1-year study completed in 1993 persuasively demonstrated that the American film heritage was at risk. It found that fewer than 20 percent of the feature films from the 1920's survive in complete form. For features from the 1910's, the survival rate falls to about 10 percent. Only about half of the films made before 1950 survive. The study found that many lost American films can only be found in foreign archives. This study accomplished the important step of assessing the nature and scope of the threat to our film heritage.

The second major achievement was the development of a national consensus plan for film preservation, representing 6 months of negotiations and consensus building among archivists, educators, film makers, and film industry executives.

Today, by reauthorizing the Film Preservation Board for 7 years, we can ensure that these efforts to preserve our historical and cultural film heritage will continue. By creating a new federally chartered nonprofit foundation, the National Film Preservation Foundation, this bill creates an important new mechanism to further these efforts.

These two provisions will increase film availability for educational and public exhibition. They will spur the development of public-private partnerships to restore key films, share preservation information and repatriate lost American films that are now found only in foreign archives. The foundation will be able to raise money for the preservation of newsreels, documentaries, independent and avant garde films, socially significant amateur footage, regional historical films and other features of cultural and historical importance that otherwise could not survive.

All of this is done with an extremely modest authorization level. The film board is kept at $250,000, and the foundation authorized for no funds until the fiscal year 2000 when an annual ceiling of $250,000 takes effect. While Hollywood films have the commercial value which will ensure their preservation, the same cannot be said for much of our film heritage, which nonetheless has enormous cultural and historical significance.

It is for these latter works, the public domain or educational films, historical footage, documentaries, and other films that this bill is so vitally important.

Let me mention one example of a film now available to the American public because of the efforts of the Film Preservation Board. A film entitled "Within Our Gates," the oldest film directed by an African-American, was selected and preserved by the film board. It was a film that very few people had seen because so few copies were available.

A copy of this important but essential lost work, a 1920 film directed by Oscar Micheaux, was found in the Spanish film archives as a result of the preservation board efforts. The Library of Congress has been able to release this film on video and make it widely available to the public. But for the existence of the film board, this important bit of African-American cultural heritage would be languishing, unseen in the Spanish film archives.

H.R. 1734 uses creative and collaborative approaches to ensure that America's rich film heritage is preserved for future generations. I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. HOKE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 3435, the Lobbying Disclosure Technical Amendments Act of 1996 addresses several technical issues which have been raised during the initial months of implementation of the Lobbying Disclosure Act of 1995. The amendments made by the bill will strengthen what is already widely viewed as a significant and successful law.

The Lobbying Disclosure Act of 1995 was the first substantive reform in the
