THE ELIOT LOUNGE

• Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I rise today to offer a tribute to one of Boston's most celebrated local institutions—which is soon to be no more—and to the man who has done so much to make that place the very special corner of town that it is.

To running enthusiasts across the Nation, the Eliot Lounge is well known as the unofficial headquarters of the Boston Marathon—a congenial watering hole where the world's elite runners rub elbows, and perhaps down a beer or two, with weekend joggers and others even less athletically inclined. But anyone who has ever dropped by the corner of Massachusetts and Commonwealth Avenues knows that the Eliot is far more than just a runner's tavern.

The Eliot is a gathering place, and a welcoming haven, for men and women from all different backgrounds and walks of life: stockbrokers and steam fitters, journalists and office clerks, teachers and police officers and even the occasional politician have all found a warm welcome there. It is a place where old-fashioned hospitality and camaraderie still endure, a place where strangers become old friends with just a few easy words—a neighborhood bar, it's been said, for people who don't necessarily live in the neighborhood.

For the better part of two decades now, the camaraderie and good fellowship of the Eliot Lounge have been personified by one man: Tommy Leonard. From his post behind the bar, T.L. has dispensed wit and wisdom to all corners—always brimming with enthusiasm and good cheer, and always eager to help the first-time visitor to Boston learn all the extraordinary charms of our most extraordinary city.

As devoted distance runner and founder of the renowned Falmouth Road Race, it was Mr. Leonard who first introduced the running community to the charms of the Eliot Lounge. But even more important, it is Tommy Leonard who embodies the tremendous generosity of spirit that has long characterized the special place.

Just as he proudly served his country years ago in the U.S. Marine Corps, Mr. Leonard continues to serve the people of Boston in countless different ways. Over the years T.L. has organized charity drives for scores of worthy causes; whether money was needed to replace a beloved children's statue stolen from the Boston Public Garden, to set up a scholarship fund for the children of a slain police officer, or to meet the medical bills of a badly injured former marathon star, Mr. Leonard has always been at the forefront of those looking to help.

Tommy Leonard is the first to point out that he has not been alone in these endeavors. Indeed, the entire staff of the Eliot Lounge deserves tremendous credit for their years of charitable work—as does Eddie Doyle, another legendary Boston publican who is Mr. Leonard's frequent partner in good deeds.

But over the years it has been Tommy Leonard who has, time and again, provided the inspiration and the energy needed to get the job done: to turn well-intentioned wishes into concrete deeds. To prove that the volunteer spirit is still alive and well in America today. To harness the generosity and good will of an entire community and, together, to make a real difference in the lives of others.

Some who know him say that if Tommy Leonard had only devoted his boundless energy and his promotional genius to making money for himself, he would be a rich man today. But, Mr. President, others who know him—myself included—look at the joy that he has brought to so many others, and we know that Tommy Leonard is already wealthy in the ways that really matter.

But now, Mr. President, after all these years, there will soon be no more Eliot Lounge for Tommy Leonard to call home. The congenial little tavern that has seen so many famous faces and so much good cheer will be closing its doors by the end of this month.

Before that happens, Mr. President, I want to take this opportunity to salute Tommy Leonard, and his colleagues on the staff of the Eliot Lounge, for all the generosity they have shown and all the good works they have so cheerfully performed over the years. I applaud them, I wish them Godspeed, and I also remind them:

As T.L. so often observes, "It's a Wonderful Life." And it is even more so, T.L. and colleagues, because of all that you have done.●

TRIBUTE TO SARAH SCHOFIELD AND ERIN MITCHELL, NEW HAMPSHIRE STUDENTS WHO ARE RECIPIENTS OF THE PRUDENTIAL SPIRIT OF COMMUNITY AWARDS

• Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise before you today to congratulate two young New Hampshire students for their outstanding work on behalf of their community. Sarah Schofield of Gilbert H. Hood Middle School in Derry, NH, and Erin Mitchell of Londonderry High School in Londonderry, NH have both been honored with the Prudential Spirit of Community Awards. In recognition of their hard work and dedication to their communities, Sarah and Erin will both receive a silver medallion, $1,000, and a trip to Washington, DC.

The Prudential Spirit of Community Awards honors students who best exemplify community spirit by their self-initiated volunteer work. The awards are sponsored by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America in partnership with the National Association of Secondary School Principals. The program recognizes deserving students in local schools, identifies the best examples of community service, and culminates in naming America's top 10 youth volunteers of the year. For the 1996 awards, the program drew applications from more than 7,000 young people across the Nation. Both Sarah and Erin should be very proud of this distinguished recognition.

Sarah Schofield was recognized for her participation in a Christmas event at a local nursing home. Along with several of her peers from her church's Sunday school, Sarah went to a nursing home with gift baskets and sang Christmas carols for the residents. Due to the great success of the group's first effort at the nursing home, several other trips were planned after the Christmas event.

Erin Mitchell was recognized for creating a Girl's Group, to match girls from her scouting troop with girls who have disabilities. All the girls gather together regularly for theater trips, bowling, camping, and a variety of other activities. Erin's program allows the families of the disabled girls to know that their daughters are making new friends. Erin's inspiration for developing the group came from her experience of working with the Special Olympics.

I am extremely proud to congratulate both Sarah Schofield and Erin

Mitchell for exemplifying the leadership and willingness to act on the behalf of others in their New Hampshire communities. Both students have made a tremendous difference in the lives of other people. Congratulations to them on their hard work and distinguished recognition. They are an inspiration to the youth of America.●

AMBASSADOR TO CROATIA PETER GALBRAITH

● Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, during much of my time in the Senate I was fortunate to serve on the Foreign Relations Committee. With our responsibility to approve the nominations of ambassadors and others, I had the opportunity to meet so many of the fine men and women who serve our Nation overseas. One of those outstanding public servants is Peter Galbraith.

I got to know Peter when I came to the Foreign Relations Committee in 1985 and he was a staff member. I was grateful for the diligent, thoughtful, and excellent staff work he provided. In 1993, I was pleased to vote to approve his nomination as the first-ever U.S. Ambassador to Croatia, a position he currently holds.

There has been a certain amount of controversy surrounding Ambassador Galbraith in the last year. This summer he was called to testify before Congress on his involvement relating to third-party transfers of arms to the Muslims in Bosnia. While Ambassador Galbraith has faced criticism from several corners, it seems to me that he was doing the job that ambassadors are supposed to do, and that is carry out the policies set forth by the President and his administration.

Peter has at times been disparaged as an activist. If this label is applied to someone who wants to change things for the better, then Peter should be proud of that characterization. As a staffer on the Foreign Relations Committee, he was known as a tireless campaigner for human rights. The story of his trip to Iraqi Kurdistan after the gulf war is well known. He helped bring attention to the plight of the Kurds and rescued key documents before they could fall into the hands of Saddam Hussein's regime. Benazir Bhutto, now Prime Minister of Pakistan, credited Peter with helping attain her release from prison. And in another famous incident, he achieved in helping Senator PAT MOYNIHAN—a strong advocate for the Bosnian Muslims—get into Sarajevo in 1992 to survey the besieged city. This event may have aggravated some United States military officials at the time, but it helped increase the Senate's understanding of what was going on in Bosnia.

Now, as the first envoy to Croatia, a nation only 5 years old, Ambassador Galbraith has had the responsibility to develop the new relationship between our two countries. His service has occurred during an extremely trying and tragic period in the Balkans. Such a job is not easy, and it is understandable to see how one could get stuck between a rock and a hard place. These circumstances call for strong and able, even aggressive, diplomats, and Ambassador Galbraith has been just that.●

ORDERS FOR TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1996

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, with the consent of both sides, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it stand in adjournment until the hour of 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, September 17; further, that immediately following the prayer, the Journal of proceedings be deemed approved to date, the morning hour be deemed to have expired, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and the Senate then begin consideration of the conference report to accompany H.R. 3816, the energy and water appropriations bill, with the reading of the report waived; further, that debate from 9:30 to 11 be equally divided with 45 minutes under the control of Senator DOMENICI, 15 minutes under the control of Senator JOHNSTON, 15 minutes under the control of Senator LEVIN, and 15 minutes under the control of Senator SIMON on the conference report.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GORTON. I further ask unanimous consent that at the hour of 11 a.m., the Senate resume consideration of the Interior appropriations bill, with the time between 11 and 12:30 equally divided in the usual form prior to a motion to table. I also ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in recess between the hours of 12:30 and 2:15 for the weekly policy conferences to meet.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GORTON. I further ask unanimous consent that at the hour of 2:15 on Tuesday there be 20 minutes remaining prior to a motion to table the Bumpers amendment to be equally divided, to be followed by a vote on or in relation to the Bumpers amendment to the Interior appropriations bill, to be followed immediately by a vote on the adoption of the energy and water appropriations conference report.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. GORTON. For the information of all Senators, under the previous order, tomorrow morning the Senate will be debating the energy and water appropriations conference report. Following that debate, at 11 a.m., the Senate will resume the Interior appropriations bill debate and the pending Bumpers amendment on grazing.

As a reminder to all Members, at approximately 2:35 tomorrow, there will be two consecutive rollcall votes on those issues. Senators should expect additional votes throughout the day on Tuesday and may also turn to any other items cleared for action.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 9:30 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I now ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order.
