

children. However, as noted above, evidence now exists to suggest that adult education, and particularly literacy education for present and potential parents, should occupy a central position in all governments' educational planning. Four interrelated reasons for nations to support greater investments in adult education are summarized below.

1. Better Educated Adults Are More Productive for Society. Supervisors in six manufacturing companies near Chicago reported that adult literacy programs made improvements in job training, job performance, promotability of participants, and productivity, such as scrap reduction, reduced paperwork, and less wastage. Other research found that more literate workers who actually use their literacy skills at work may increase their productivity as much as ten to fifteen percent. Adult literacy education improves work today, reforming schools for children takes decades.

2. Better Educated Adults Provide Better Communities for Learning. At AC Rochester, a supplier of components for General Motors automobile manufacturing in New York State, management, labor union members, and educators got together, and provided adult literacy programs for employees. This helped increase the local tax base for community services by bringing in several new contracts, including a billion dollar contract with Russia.

3. Better Educated Adults Demand and Get Better Schooling for Children. Wider Opportunities for Women in Washington, DC, found that mothers in women's literacy programs spent more time with their children talking about school, helping them with their homework, taking them to the library, and reading to them. They also said they spent more time going to and helping with school activities, they talked more with teachers about their children's education, their children attended school more, showed improvements in their school grades, test scores, and reading.

4. Better Educated Adults Produce Better Educated Children. Better educated parents send children to school better prepared to learn, with higher levels of language skills, and knowledge about books, pencils, and other literacy tools needed for school and life. Better educated mothers have healthier babies, smaller families, children better prepared to start school, and children who stay in school and learn more.

MAKE EVERY ADULT BASIC EDUCATION CLASS A FAMILY LITERACY CLASS

The San Diego Consortium for Workforce Education and Lifelong Learning (CWELL) operates an Action Research Center (ARC) in the San Diego Community College District, Continuing Education Division. In 1994, the ARC initiated research orchestrated around the theme, "make every adult basic education class a family literacy class." The research included the publication of a simple rating scale in one issue of the Community Exchange, the newspaper that the ARC publishes to disseminate R&D information into the ARC community.

The rating scale asks adults to rate how frequently they perform various parenting activities such as reading to their children, taking them to the library, helping with homework and so forth. A tabulation of responses from 131 adults in five different adult basic education and English as a Second Language (ESL) programs indicated that adults vary greatly in how often they engage in these kinds of activities that can help transfer literacy to their children. These data provide a baseline for comparing parenting activities before the ARC introduces activities to "make every adult education class a family literacy class."

With sound evaluation of these programs, it should be possible to demonstrate that "double duty dollars" can be obtained through the intergenerational transfer of literacy that takes place in adult basic skills education programs. Governments and other sponsors of education programs should know that they can obtain multiplier effects for their investments in adult basic education. They should know that by investing in the education of adults, they can improve the education of children.●

ARAFAT MUST STIFLE EXTREMISTS

● Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, all of us have been stunned by the suicidal missions of extremist in Israel.

And it is the hope of most people around the world, as well as in the Middle East, that the extremists should not prevail and scuttle the peace process.

I was particularly pleased to read in the Chicago Tribune as well as the New York Times, the letter of Ray Hanania, President of the Palestinian American Congress, which I ask to be printed in the RECORD. Mr. Hanania is calling on Yasser Arafat to crack down on the extremists.

People of good will of every persuasion should join in this endeavor.

The article follows:

[From the Chicago Tribune]

ARAFAT MUST STIFLE EXTREMISTS

(By Ray Hanania)

CHICAGO.—The Israelis are right about one thing: It is the responsibility of Yasser Arafat, president of the Palestinian Authority, to crack down on extremists who are based in the territories that he controls.

It is not an easy decision to make, but it is one that Arafat must make if the Middle East peace process is to succeed and Palestinians are to have their own state.

Arafat must come to grips with the responsibilities of Democratic leadership. This is no longer a revolution in which internal criticism is hushed for the sake of survival.

While he must learn to tolerate criticism and not jail Palestinian journalists who attack his policies, so too must he learn to be more forceful with those who challenge the foundation of Palestinian democracy.

Palestine is democratic. And Arafat's election is founded on democracy. Democracy requires that leaders no longer need to seek unanimity to justify their actions. Quite the contrary, democracy allows leaders to do what they could not do before—make decisions with the slimmest of majorities.

Realizing that he can never make everyone, especially the extremists, happy with any decision he makes is a necessity if he and the Palestinian people are to survive as a nation.

It is a realization he has yet to come to grips with. And when he does, he will discover that the vast majority of Palestinians support a crackdown but fear public expression of this view. The extremists have and will use violence against their own people to justify their means and achieve their goals. Our leaders need courage to change this.

In the United States, the Palestinian-American community has spoken loudly, favoring the peace process. While we, as a community, may not totally agree with every detail, the principle of pursuing a peaceful resolution of the Israel-Palestine question is now a mandate for our people.

Arafat cannot make the mistake of believing that he can walk between the moderates and those who advocate violence. The extremists that he must silence are the very same people who, if given the chance, would silence Palestinian democracy and destroy any hopes of establishing a democratic Palestinian state.●

VALLEY HAVEN SCHOOL 20TH ANNIVERSARY HIKE/BIKE/RUN

● Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I wish to take a moment and bring to my colleagues' attention the 20th anniversary of the Valley Haven School Hike/Bike/Run. The Valley Haven School, located in Valley, AL, is a school for mentally retarded and multiple handicapped citizens of all ages. Started 37 years ago by volunteers, the school is now professionally staffed and currently offers skilled training to 95 students ranging in age from 3 months to 60 years.

Mr. President, local moneys of $100,000 must be raised each year to meet operating expenses and match State and Federal grants. The primary source of these funds is the annual Hike/Bike/Run, which consists of a 5 or 10 mile walk, an 11 or 22 mile bike ride, a skate-a-thon, a 1, 3.1, or 6.2 mile run, a 5 mile bike ride for children, and the Trike Trek for preschoolers.

Each participant in the Hike/Bike/Run obtains pledges for their participation, and all proceeds go directly to Valley Haven to support the education and training for handicapped students. In 1995, this 1 day fundraiser involved over 1,000 participants and 8,000 pledging sponsors. The event generated over $100,000 in pledges to support the work of the school.

Mr. President, I would like to congratulate and commend Valley Haven and the entire Valley community for displaying such strong support and concern for these special students. This year's Hike/Bike/Run will be held on Saturday, May 4, and I know that the community will once again unite to support this wonderful program and help Valley Haven School help its students.●

LITHUANIAN INDEPENDENCE

● Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I rise to honor the 78th anniversary of Lithuania's independence in 1918. This should be a time for remembrance and renewal. It evokes memories of great sadness and also great joy. The long night of Soviet domination and occupation has given way to a new beginning for the Lithuanian people. It is heartening to the world to see that Lithuania's strong and vibrant culture has survived the many years of Soviet control.

Lithuania showed its commitment to joining the free world when it was the first country from the former Soviet Union to formally join the Partnership for Peace in 1994. The faith and courage of the Lithuanian people and the undying efforts and support for Lithuanian independence of Lithuanian-Americans has the respect and admiration of peace-loving people throughout the world. I know that my Senate colleagues join me in honoring Lithuania's independence.
