

even though very few union members earn wages low enough to be affected by this increase. They did so because they honor work and care about the well-being of every American—not just their members. Chris Owens worked with all of these groups to help educate the public and the Congress.

Finally, on my own staff, Sarah Fox devoted her phenomenal energy to this bill for a year before leaving to join the National Labor Relations Board. And Ross Eisenbrey, a congressional fellow detailed from the Department of Labor, worked very hard over the last 16 months to help us accomplish this 22 percent pay increase for millions of Americans.

I thank the majority leader for his help and assistance and courtesy on these issues, as on others.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

Mr. THURMOND. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate immediately proceed to executive session to consider the following nominations on the Executive Calendar: Calendar Nos. 687 through 709, 711 through 715 and all nominations placed on the Secretary's desk in the Air Force, Army, Marine Corps, and Navy.

I further ask unanimous consent that the nominations be confirmed, the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table, the President be immediately notified of the Senate's action, and that the Senate then return to legislative session.

NOMINATION OF ADM. JAY L. JOHNSON

Mr. WARNER. On that list, Mr. President, appears the name of Admiral Johnson, who will take over as Chief of Naval Operations, succeeding Admiral Boorda, a man for whom all of us had the highest respect, a man in whom the Navy, from the lowest ranking enlisted sailors to the top flag officers, had confidence. In the wake of the tragedy concerning Admiral Boorda, it will be a challenge for Admiral Johnson to lead the Navy. But having gotten to know him, having talked to many, many naval officers who know him, both active and retired, I can say that he is regarded as the man best qualified in the U.S. Navy today to assume this role of leadership at this time in the Navy's history.

Mr. President, I would like to read from a letter forwarded to me by a former Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Trost. Admiral Trost once served with me in the Department of the Navy. He was my naval aide. He writes as follows: "Admiral Johnson enjoys the confidence of his fellow flag officers who see him as the team leader who will lead them in successfully meeting the challenges which face our Navy now and in the future. He is the officer deemed best-suited to lead our superb Navy onward into the 21st century."

May the new Chief have "fair winds and following seas."

I yield the floor, Mr. President.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I do not support the nomination of Admiral Johnson for the top uniformed position in the Navy, Chief of Naval Operations. I take this position because I believe that the stormy seas that the Navy has experienced in recent years call for the selection of Navy leaders who can serve as an inspiration not only in their warfighting specialties and military prowess, but who also demonstrate a solid commitment to the avoidance of the slightest appearance of conflict of interest.

In this case, Admiral Johnson received substantial sums of money, over $175,000 over the last 6 years, to serve on the board of an insurance company, USAA, which caters to military officers. I know that his acceptance of this position was legitimate, and was entirely legal. I do not know how much
