

During that first term, I was able to convince minority leader Bob Michel to join with us and to help us kick off what would be a tremendous decade of success for the men and women who every day risk their lives. I was not, however, able to convince Speaker Wright to join.

I gave a speech out at the National Fire Academy, and one of the attendees there was a man by the name of Mason Lankford from Texas. Mason came up to me after that meeting and said, "You need the Speaker to be involved?" And I said yes, and within a week Mason had convinced his good friend, Speaker Jim Wright, to support our efforts. Jim became a very aggressive supporter of the fire service during the rest of his tenure as the Speaker of this body.

Mason Lankford, over the past 9 years, Mr. Speaker, as a representative of the Texas Fire Service, past president of their State association, past active member of the Fort Worth Fire Department, known throughout Fort Worth and the Arlington area as someone who was always willing to give of himself, was doing what he liked best yesterday, Mr. Speaker. He was addressing the members of the Texas Fire Service in Galveston.

He had been introduced by his good friend, Chief Willie Wiscow of the Galveston Fire Department, and following Mason's brief comments, unfortunately, he passed away.

Mason will be remembered, Mr. Speaker, by the 1.2 million men and women across this country who every day risk their lives, for having helped create a new awareness of fire and life safety issues in this Congress. It was Mason Lankford who over the past 9 years helped convince over 400 Members of Congress to join our efforts to provide more awareness and more support for these brave men and women.

Mason attended each of our nine dinners here in Washington, where he helped organize those events, annually raising between $400,000 and $500,000 to provide staff support for the issues important to firefighters and emergency medical personnel across the country.

Day in and day out Mason Lankford was there helping those who he knew best, those men and women who he worked with in Texas and throughout this country in both the paid and the volunteer fire and EMS services.

We are going to miss Mason, Mr. Speaker, and I rise tonight to pay tribute to him. I know all of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle wish Mason's family well through these very difficult times. And I know that all of us will join in remembering Mason for the outstanding contribution that he made to society, that he made to mankind.

The services for Mason will be Thursday at 2 p.m. At the First Methodist Church in Arlington, TX, and I ask all of my colleagues, Mr. Speaker, to join together and extend our condolences and best wishes to Mason's wife, Lynn, and his children Joe and Nancy, who are following in Mason's footsteps.

Again, Mr. Speaker, it is a tragic loss. We are all going to miss Mason, but Mason certainly has completed an outstanding effort on behalf of those firefighters in this country who are better off, who are better equipped, who are better trained and who are better served because of his efforts, not just over the past 9 years but even before that as an active member of the largest group of unsung heroes in this country, our domestic defenders, our fire and EMS personnel.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Washington [Mrs. LINDA SMITH] is recognized for 5 minutes.

THE PRIVATE CALENDAR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. SENSENBRENNER] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to set forth some of the history behind, as well as describe the workings of the Private Calendar. I hope this might be of some value to the Members of this House, especially our newer colleagues.

Of the five House Calendars, the Private Calendar is the one to which all private bills are referred. Private bills deal with specific individuals, corporations, institutions, and so forth, as distinguished from public bills which deal with classes only.

Of the 108 laws approved by the First Congress, only 5 were private laws. But their number quickly grew as the wars of the new Republic produced veterans and veterans' widows seeking pensions and as more citizens came to have private claims and demands against the Federal Government. The 49th Congress, 1885 to 1887, the first Congress for which complete workload and output data is available—passed 1,031 private laws, as compared with 434 public laws. At the turn of the century the 56th Congress passed 1,498 private laws and 443 public laws—a better than 3 to 1 ratio.

Private bills were referred to the Committee on the Whole House as far back as 1820, and a calendar of private bills was established in 1839. These bills were initially brought before the House by special orders, but the 62d Congress changed this procedure by its rule XXIV, clause 6 which provided for the consideration of the Private Calendar in lieu of special orders. This rule was amended in 1932, and then adopted in its present form on March 22, 1935.

A determined effort to reduce the private bill workload of the Congress was made in the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946. Section 131 of that act banned the introduction or the consideration of four types of private bills: first, those authorizing the payment of money for pensions; second, for personal or property damages for which suit may be brought under the Federal tort claims procedure; third, those authorizing the construction of a bridge across a navigable stream, or fourth, those authorizing the correction of a military or naval record.

This ban afforded some temporary relief but was soon offset by the rising postwar and cold war flood for private immigration bills. The 82d Congress passed 1,023 private laws, as compared with 594 public laws. The 88th Congress passed 360 private laws compared with 666 public laws.

Under rule XXIV, clause 6, the Private Calendar is called the first and third Tuesday of each month. The consideration of the Private Calendar bills on the first Tuesday is mandatory unless dispensed with by a two-thirds vote. On the third Tuesday, however, recognition for consideration of the Private Calendar is within the discretion of the Speaker and does not take precedence over other privileged business in the House.

On the first Tuesday of each month, after disposition of business on the Speaker's table for reference only, the Speaker directs the call of the Private Calendar. If a bill called is objected to by two or more Members, it is automatically recommitted to the committee reporting it. No reservation of objection is entertained. Bills unobjected to are considered in the House in the Committee of the Whole.

On the third Tuesday of each month, the same procedure is followed with the exception that omnibus bills embodying bills previously rejected have preference and are in order regardless of objection.

Such omnibus bills are read by paragraph, and no amendments are entertained except to strike out or reduce amounts or provide limitations. Matters so stricken out shall not be again included in an omnibus bill during that session. Debate is limited to motions allowable under the rule and does not admit motions to strike out the last word or reservation of objections. The rules prohibit the Speaker from recognizing Members for statements or for requests for unanimous consent for debate. Omnibus bills so passed are thereupon resolved in their component bills, which are engrossed separately and disposed of as if passed separately.

Private Calendar bills unfinished on one Tuesday go over to the next Tuesday on which such bills are in order and are considered before the call of bills subsequently on the calendar. Omnibus bills follows the same procedure and go over to the next Tuesday on which that class of business is again in order. When the previous question is ordered on a Private Calendar bill, the bill comes up for disposition on the next legislative day.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to describe to the newer Members the Official Objectors system the House has established to deal with the great volume of private bills.

The majority leader and the minority leader each appoint three Members to serve as Private Calendar Objectors during a Congress. The Objectors are on the floor ready to object to any private bill which they feel is objectionable for any reason. Seated near them to provide technical assistance are the majority and minority legislative clerks.

Should any Member have a doubt or questions about a particular private bill, he or she can get assistance from objectors, their clerks, or from the Member who introduced the bill.

The great volume of private bills and the desire to have an opportunity to study them carefully before they are called on the Private Calendar has caused the six objectors to agree upon certain ground rules. The rules limit consideration of bills placed on the Private Calendar only shortly before the calendar is called. This agreement adopted on June 17, 1997, the Members of the Majority Private Calendar Objectors Committee have agreed that during the 105th Congress, they will consider only those bills which have been on the Private Calendar for a period of 7 days, excluding the day the bill is reported and the day the calendar is called. Reports must be available to the Objectors for 3 calendar days.

It is agreed that the majority and minority clerks will not submit to the Objectors any bills which do not meet this requirement.

This policy will be strictly enforced except during the closing days of a session when the House rules are suspended.

This agreement was entered into by: The gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. SENSENBRENNER], the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. COBLE], the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. GOODLATTE], the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. BOUCHER], and the gentlelady from Connecticut [Ms. DELAURO].

I feel confident that I speak from my colleagues when I request all Members to enable us to give the necessary advance consideration to private bills by not asking that we depart from the above agreement unless absolutely necessary.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. KINGSTON] is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. KINGSTON addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

VOLUNTEER SUMMIT FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FOX] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FOX of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise to address the House tonight to inform my colleagues of a very exciting opportunity taking place in my district, the 13th District of Pennsylvania. We are going to be hosting the Montgomery County Promise, which is an extension of the President's summit.

As my colleagues may know, the President's summit took place in April, and here in my district we are going to be having a followup summit September 19 and 20 at the Fort Washington Expo Center at Fort Washington, PA.

This should be an exciting opportunity for all civic, governmental, educators, clergy, everyone from all walks of life to participate in by gathering the top public and private sector volunteer activists to focus our already exciting and active volunteer base in Montgomery County, to focus in on the most important issues facing us for the next decade.

I joined today in announcing this with some very important people from Montgomery County who will be at the forefront in making sure the plans for this event take place in a very professional way and, most important, involve our youth in making a lasting difference in their lives.

Dr. Norah Peters of Beaver College, of Pennsylvania, in Glenside, who is an expert in the field of voluntarism and has conducted extensive research on the subject for the past 15 years. She joins Betty Landman, the President of the university, in working with us on this important event.

We also have Louise Elkins, from the Volunteer Center from southeast Pennsylvania, and Mary Mackie, the director of community services for the United Way of southeastern Pennsylvania.

We were also joined by Clarence Rader, who has been very active as the leading light in the Business/Industry School and Partnership program, and has been very active in the business circles of Montgomery County in Pennsylvania.

Richard Byler from the Community Action Development Commission, Major Carl Carvill of the Salvation Army, Joanna Smith of the Association of Retarded Citizens of Montgomery County, Linda Millison of the Retired Senior Volunteer program, Bertha Johnson and Cathie Randall from Head Start.

All these individuals have worked together for our mission to promote improved collaboration among community-based organizations, schools, corporations, the media, communities of faith, and government to make Montgomery County a better place for our youth.

The enthusiasm we have in moving forward these goals cannot be emphasized enough. The goal is by the end of the year 2000 that thousands of more young people will have access to all five fundamental resources that will maximize their success: First, an ongoing relationship with a caring adult; safe places and structured activities; a healthy start; marketable skills; and opportunities to give back to the community.

Among the cosponsors already committed to this important function are the Montgomery County Chamber of Commerce, the Lutheran Brotherhood, the Indian Creek Foundation, the Foster Grandparent program and numerous hospitals. Those interested in serving can contact us through the Montgomery County Promise, P.O. Box 26, Norristown, PA, 19404, or contact the office at 610-275-4460.

I should point out that our major goal is not only to have more people volunteer but to have more of our youth take an active voice in congressional activities, governmental activities and community activities, and to establish permanent mentoring programs in the various professions and businesses throughout our State.

And also develop for the first time under one roof where all the volunteer groups, over 600 volunteer groups and 800 nonprofits, can meet for the first time in an opportunity to exchange ideas, to have forums, to have our keynote speakers, and to have demonstration programs where we will show within the community just how much spirit and enthusiasm we have to make sure our youth have the chance to become the leaders they want to be to achieve vocationally, educationally and in every way possible the kind of life where they can be all they can be.

We look forward to an exciting event, and we hope that other Members of the House will do similar in the sense that they will have their own follow-through summits based on the President's summit we had in Philadelphia.

THE REPUBLICAN TAX CUT PLAN AND THE BUDGET BILL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 7, 1997, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE] is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, tonight I would like to talk about two issues which I believe are related. First is the analysis, if you will, of the Republican tax cut plan, which I believe mainly benefits the wealthy and how the Democratic alternative is much better for the average family, the average middle-income family in this country; all of this, of course, in the context of the budget bill and the efforts we are now making in committee and eventually on the floor next week to work out a budget bill and the tax cuts that are a part of that budget bill.

Second, following up on what I spoke about earlier today during morning hour, what happened with regard to Medicare in the matter of MSA's, or medical savings accounts, being incorporated in the Medicare Program as part of this budget package to the detriment I believe of the Medicare Program and, at the same time, the Republican leadership's failure to provide funding for low-income people who currently receive Medicaid funding to pay for their Medicare part B premium. All of this is in the overall context of the budget bill.

As my colleagues know, when we passed the budget resolution about a week or two ago, it was pretty much a bipartisan vote. I voted for the budget resolution because I am very concerned that we need to balance the budget, we need to be concerned about spending and we certainly, at the same time, need to provide some tax cuts or tax breaks to the average American. And so, as a whole, the budget resolution seemed to make sense.

However, what happens is that after the budget resolution passes, both the House and the Senate and eventually the President have to get together on an implementation bill, if you will, that will show where spending takes place, where tax cuts take place, what kinds of changes are going to take
