

Operations, Export Financing and Related Programs of the Committee on Appropriations and the whole House because I think we must be concerned about how countries treat their citizens if we are doling out the public's money every year. The American people need to know that the maternal mortality rate is extremely high, due in part to food taboos for pregnant women, early marriage, and birth complications related to female genital mutilation. For example, I am particularly interested and concerned about Ethiopia's treatment toward women. It is true that clitoridectomies are typically performed 7 days after birth and excision of the labia and the infibulation are the most dangerous and extreme.

Again I would like to urge the Congress to monitor the human rights record of Ethiopia as it relates to obligating funds for fiscal years 1998 and 1999, and I think collectively we can improve all conditions in Africa and particularly improve conditions in Ethiopia.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the chairman, the ranking member and all the staff here this evening for their indulgence. I would like to engage the chairman in a colloquy on two issues.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank first of all the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN] and the subcommittee for its recommendations with respect to international agricultural assistance. This Member is pleased that the committee report recommends continued support for a number of collaborative research support programs and calls for increased support for the agricultural development assistance in USAID's budget. However this Member would request that the chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee enter into a colloquy to further clarify this matter.

Mr. Chairman, the committee report specifically mentions support for six collaborative research support programs. Certainly all of the CRSP programs make major contributions in helping agrarian-based nations develop their economies and increase their readiness for private investment through their contributions in human resource development, education, training, health and nutrition and in improving the human capital capacity of agricultural research and development institutions.

Mr. Chairman, in addition to the six CRSPs specifically mentioned in the committee report, is it also the committee's intention to support the sorghum millet CRSP and the integrated pest management CRSP in their efforts to promote sustainable agricultural practices in the developing world?

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BEREUTER. I yield to the gentleman from Alabama.

Mr. CALLAHAN. The response is yes, it is our intention.

Mr. BEREUTER. I thank the gentleman very much. I want to thank the gentleman for his clarification.

On the second matter, Mr. Chairman, I would like to comment on the report of the distinguished Commission on International Trade Development and Cooperation which calls for a funding level of at least $500 million for international agriculture and rural development programs in the USAID appropriation for fiscal year 1998. It seems like a reasonable goal to me, given the importance of the programs to the development of future markets for our U.S. farmers and the need to reverse the decline in these programs at USAID in recent years.

Does the gentleman agree that there has been a relative decline in funds for this important program and that a target of $500 million or a relevant percentage increase in funding would be appropriate over the next several years?

Mr. CALLAHAN. Yes, I do agree that agricultural decline has been too much and that we should work together to establish an appropriate goal consistent with other priorities.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Chairman, that is all I can ask. I do appreciate the distinguished gentleman for his cooperation on this effort and for his effort tonight in general.

□ 2300

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I am sure you will be pleased to hear that we are going to rise.

We thank our entire staff for their patience and their understanding and cooperation that we have received, and I move that the Committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore [Mr. PEASE] having assumed the chair, Mr. THORNBERRY, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union, reported that that Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 2159), making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

EXTENDING ORDER OF THE HOUSE OF MAY 7, 1997, THROUGH SEPTEMBER 10, 1997

Mr. FOX of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the order of the House of May 7, 1997, as extended on July 15, 1997, be further extended through Wednesday, September 10, 1997.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

THE LAST TIME THERE WAS A BALANCED FEDERAL BUDGET

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Connecticut [Mr. SHAYS] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SHAYS. Mr. Speaker, I want to kind of catch my breath and to say to you after the budget agreement was passed in this Chamber I went back to my office, and on the back of my chair was this statement. It was from any staff, and I would like to read it.

It said:

The last time there was a balanced federal budget only four members of your staff were alive. You and your wife Betsy were teaching in the Peace Corps in the Fiji Islands. Your press secretary still had training wheels. Your chief of staff was drinking out of a bottle. Your scheduler had just graduated from high school. Your assistant manager was still using a typewriter. Half a million people were enjoying Woodstock, and John Kasich was probably one them. Richard Nixon was President. Neil Armstrong became the first man to walk on the moon. The Academy Award winner was Midnight Cowboy. The song of the year was Jesus Is Coming Soon. And Newt was getting his Ph.D. We have a lot to look forward to, and we will all benefit from the good work of this House.

Mr. Speaker, this was a momentous day for so many people, and I just want to thank all the staffs throughout this Congress working here in this Chamber, the staffs that work for Members' personal offices, the staffs that work on all our committees for the tremendous work they have done year in and year out to help us get to this day.

TRIBUTE TO TERESA B. STAERK

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FOX] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FOX of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise tonight to salute a young lady from my district Teresa Staerk who was a very special person and for me a role model. She died suddenly and tragically at 41 this past Saturday. She had great courage and strength. Her honesty and forthright manner were a model for others, her loyalty and generosity, her skill and desire to overcome her own disability to reach out to others in need. She was wheelchair bound, but she did not think of herself as having a disability. She worked for those who were disabled, and she was the pioneer in Pennsylvania for making sure that we had opportunities for transportation and mass transit for those who were in wheelchairs permanently. She worked on making sure that at our train stations we had ramps, that we had bridge plates to get individuals from the ramp into the train. She worked to make sure that our transit systems had chair lifts for especially equipped buses so those who wanted to maintain their mobility and independence could do so. She testified to our State capital in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania to make sure that she was a strong voice for others who could not speak or were not as committed or did not really have the will that she had. She was a very special person. Then she came to Washington to do the same thing, to speak out on transit opportunities for the disabled.

She helped everyone, and she really was a trailblazer. Not only did she work to improve mass transit and to help inspire those who have some disabilities, but overcome them like she has, but she worked to organize our Toys for Tots program at our marine base. She worked to help support the Rosalyn Boys and Girls Club in our home county. She also worked to support the Girls and Boy Scouts programs.

She took every stumbling block that life gave her and turned into a stepping stone to help her community but not to help herself. She had a thirst of life that was unquenchable, and she accomplished more in her short 41 years than most people do that are lucky enough to live twice as long.

So I am hoping that those who hear about Terry Staerk and those who have the opportunity to meet her and who will later hopefully read about her life who want to be like her, a cross between Eleanor Roosevelt and Mother Theresa, who had a compassion and a vision, someone who was as selfless as can be and only was happy when we kept on trying.

She did not understand the word no. She used to say to people what part of no do you not understand because she knew that things that were difficult just took longer but never gave up.

So am hoping that her indomitable spirit, which is in the great historic dreams of America, will be lived on by others.

Her mother said at the funeral last night:

Teresa lived her life day by day, moment by moment. For her each day, each moment, was rich and full despite the obstacles she encountered. This was due not only to her own determination, courage and zest for life, but also to you, those of her family friends. She was a vibrant, beautiful woman who was like the wind, free to travel, to learn and to see all that there is to see, and for her dreams that were unfulfilled, I hope that we can continue her dream.

I yield to the gentleman from Connecticut.

Mr. SHAYS. I appreciate the gentleman yielding. Just as I finished my statement on something my staff had written about what was life was like 20 years ago, the staff member said I just returned last night from visiting the wall where there are over 50,000 American soldiers who lost their life in Vietnam, and I could have added that 20 years ago we had soldiers in Vietnam who answered their country's call when the last time we had a balanced budget, and a number of those men who were sent to Vietnam never came back to see the day we have today where we are once again going to have a balance budget, and I thank the gentleman for allowing me that opportunity.

Mr. FOX of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the comments of the very sensitive from the Congressman from Connecticut because we would not have the opportunity to be here in Congress to serve in a great privilege as it is if those people who had not fought in Vietnam and in other wars for this country to give us the right to serve here in peace. So to each of them I salute them and join the gentleman from Connecticut [Mr. SHAYS] in that additional tribute which is very fitting for today and this historic setting.
