

to enact, on a bipartisan basis, meaningful campaign finance reform to clean up a system which has gotten completely out of control and which undermines both the operation and reputation of our entire national government. I think President Carter and Vice President Mondale would certainly agree, and I commend their observations to my colleagues.●

TRIBUTE TO RICHARD LETTS

● Mr. ABRAHAM. Mr. President, I rise today to honor one of Lansing, MI's most outstanding citizens who recently passed away, Richard Letts. Because of his tremendous commitment and involvement in many organizations throughout the community, Mr. Letts became affectionately known as Mr. Lansing.

Mr. Letts' life, even while fighting a battle against cancer, was a tribute to the human spirit. Whether as a champion athlete, a 27-year career as Lansing's human relations director or a community leader in volunteer organizations such as Boy Scouts, United Way, Old Newsboys, United Negro College Fund, Boys and Girls Club, Urban League, and Lions Club just to name a few, Richard Letts was a dominating figure in Lansing's landscape. Yet even as he struggled with his health, the people of Lansing gave tributes, proclamations, speeches, and parades to a man who so often became the comforter, as people came to comfort him.

Olivia Letts, Richard's wife of 46 years, has said, "People don't change who they are when they become ill." Indeed, Mr. Letts refused to quit. His message in his life, and our future: Race should not matter, color should not matter, all people matter. Richard Letts mattered to Lansing and all of Michigan. The loss of his presence will be mourned, but the mark his life left on Lansing is permanent.●

POSITION ON CLOTURE VOTES ON H.R. 2646 AND DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION CONFERENCE REPORT

● Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I was not present for the cloture votes on October 31, 1997. I would like to record my position, had I been present for the votes.

Had I been present for the cloture vote on H.R. 2646, the Education Savings Act for Public and Private Schools, I would have opposed cloture. In addition to the many serious public policy implications raised by this legislation, as a member of the Senate Finance Committee I have serious concerns about the virtually unprecedented manner in which it was brought to the floor. After H.R. 2646 was approved by the House it was sent directly to the desk, where it was pulled from and sent to the floor—completely bypassing the Finance Committee where virtually all tax legislation is reviewed.

The lack of review is particularly distressing given the budget implications of H.R. 2646—it would increase spending by $4 billion over 10 years. It is both shortsighted and unwise to make major modifications in the Tax Code without review by the committee of jurisdiction and without first asking a simple question: Are these IRA's our highest priority for educational funding? To my way of thinking, that question has not been addressed.

When this bill was immediately considered under a cloture strategy, all ability to make any changes in this policy were blocked. That is simply unacceptable. This legislation should be considered under a less restricted approach. In keeping with the customary Senate approach we should conduct a thorough debate with ample opportunity for amendments. Anything less should be rejected.

I should also note my absence for the cloture vote on the Defense authorization conference report. Cloture was invoked in an overwhelming vote. Had I been present, I too would have cast my vote in favor of cloture.

Mr. President, there are many demands made on the time of a Senator. Few are as important or as rewarding as being a part of the life of our school children. And on last Friday, when presented with a choice between keeping important commitments to Montana students or procedural votes in the Senate, I faced a difficult decision. And while I take my responsibilities here in Washington very seriously, I decided that I needed to be with these Montana students on this occasion. And in this particular instance my votes would not have affected the ultimate outcome of either vote.●

TRIBUTE TO DANIEL URBAN KILEY

● Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to Daniel Urban Kiley of Charlotte, VT, recipient of a 1997 National Medal of Arts. The National Medal of Arts is our Nation's highest honor in the arts, recognizing individuals and organizations who have made outstanding contributions to the excellence, growth, support and availability of the arts in the United States. Mr. Kiley is the first landscape architect to be honored with this prestigious award.

Mr. Kiley, 84, has been called "the most celebrated landscape architect of this century". His many works include the setting for Dulles International Airport, the grounds for the Gateway Arch in St. Louis, the interior and exterior landscapes for the East Wing of the National Gallery of Art, and the Navy Pier in Chicago. Yet, despite his work all over the world, Mr. Kiley has stayed in close touch with the people and landscapes of Vermont. His work can be seen at Twin Farms Inn in Barnard, VT, the Lake Champlain Basin Region, and even at my own farm in Shrewsbury.

Daniel Kiley's works have been likened to "a walk through nature," reflecting his central tenet that designs should grow out of a landscape, not be forced upon it. His designs have been sought out by the leading modern architects and his unique vision celebrated and taught throughout the world.

In addition to his long career as a landscape architect, Mr. Kiley served as an Army Captain in World War II. He was selected by President Truman and General Eisenhower to find a site to try the Nazi War criminals, and his selection of Nuremberg as the site as well as his courtroom design earned him the Decorated Legion of Merit.

Once again, I rise to honor Mr. Kiley's many contributions and accomplishments, far too numerous to list today. As a Vermonter, and as one of the millions of Americans who have enjoyed Daniel Kiley's designs, I extend my most heartfelt congratulations on his receiving the National Medal of Arts, and I wish him many more years of continued success.●

CONGRATULATIONS TO MEAGAN CORLIN AND ALIA SZOPA

● Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate two outstanding youths, Meagan Corlin and Alia Szopa, who are the 1997 honorees from New Hampshire for the Prudential Spirit of Community Awards. These awards, sponsored by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America in partnership with the National Association of Secondary School Principals, honor outstanding, self-initiated community service by young people in middle and high school grades.

The Prudential Spirit of Community Awards, the country's largest youth recognition program based solely on community service, were created in 1995 following a nationwide survey of high school students. The survey indicated that while 95 percent of teenagers believe community volunteer work is important, a large proportion don't know how to get involved and lack role models that could inspire them to seek out volunteer opportunities. As a former high school teacher, I am well aware of the importance of empowering students with volunteer opportunities.

Meagan and Alia have both created innovative community service programs to serve various needs in their respective communities.

Meagan Corlin, from Strafford School in Center Strafford, NH, created a reading program called Story-time on the Road to share her love of books with others. She uses her title as Miss New Hampshire Pre-Teen to promote her program to day care centers, libraries, elderly housing facilities, and homeless shelters. Each week, she and several of her schoolmates travel to these various locations in order to read stories to children or to the elderly.

Alia Szopa, from Central High School in Manchester, NH, created a dance program called Legato for pre-teen girls with developmental disabilities. Her program works in conjunction with the Moore Center, an agency serving the disabled, to provide training for dance instructors who will teach the children at the center. One hour each week, from November to June, Szopa and five other instructors teach basic dance to five students.

School honorees are judged by State selection committees, which name the top middle-level and high school volunteer in each State. These State-level honorees receive a silver medallion, $1,000 and a trip to Washington, DC with a parent or guardian, for several days of national recognition events in May. Also, in May, America's top 10 youth volunteers for 1998 are chosen from the State-level honorees by a blue-ribbon national selection panel. These 10 national honorees will be announced at a special ceremony at the National Press Club in Washington, where they each will receive an additional $5,000, a gold medallion and a crystal trophy for his or her school.

Meagan and Alia have made significant contributions to their communities and to the State of New Hampshire. Not only have they served their community selflessly, but they have also served as inspirational role models to other students. Volunteerism strengthens community life as well as enhances the lives of people. I applaud Meagan and Alia's dedication and innovation in creating programs to serve the needs of citizens in their community. Without these young leaders, our country would be lost. It takes a special person to make a difference in someone's life. Meagan and Alia are indeed special and treasures to their school, the State of New Hampshire and to our country. ●

THE VETERANS' CEMETERY PROTECTION ACT OF 1997

Mr. THURMOND. Mr. President, next week, November 11, our Nation will observe Veterans Day. Commemorative services will be held throughout the Nation on that day. I expect services will be held at Arlington Cemetery and other national cemeteries, where thousands of war dead are buried.

As I mentioned in a statement last May, prior to Memorial Day, Mr. President, not all activities at our national cemeteries have honored our Nation's veterans. There have been, unfortunately, instances of vandalism and theft at our national cemeteries. While many of these incidents are minor, many attacks on national cemeteries are serious. The Department of Justice reports that between January 1, 1995, and May 31, 1997, there were 21 reports of vandalism or crime at national cemeteries, where the estimated damage was over $1,000. The total loss to our national cemeteries from these incidents is more than $98,000. In addition, more than 56 incidents were reported, with damage less than $1,000, during that same time period. These incidents caused another $15,000 in losses to the Government.

The harm resulting from attacks on our national cemeteries, however, is more than economic loss. Such criminal activity is an assault on the honor of our veterans, particularly those who made the supreme sacrifice in defense of our Nation. It is an attack on the heritage and values for which our veterans fought. Such conduct is unconscionable and deserves a strong response.

The time has come to demand a stop to this type of insulting behavior and punish it when it occurs. That is why I introduced S. 813, the Veterans' Cemetery Protection Act of 1997. This bill imposes criminal penalties for vandalism and theft at national cemeteries operated by the VA, the Department of Defense, and the Department of Interior.

Specifically, this bill authorizes the U.S. Sentencing Commission to review and amend the Federal sentencing guidelines to provide an appropriate sentencing enhancement for any offense against the property of a national cemetery.

I am delighted that Senators MCCAIN, INHOFE, INOUE, D'AMATO, and SESSIONS have joined as cosponsors. I thank all Senators for their support on final passage. I particularly appreciate the support from the Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs, the Senate Judiciary Committee, the Department of Justice, and the U.S. Sentencing Commission. I look forward to passage of this measure by the other body, so this bill can be on the President's desk by Veterans Day.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent I be permitted to speak for 12 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

THE PERFORMANCE OF TREASURY IG VALERIE LAU

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise today to inform my colleagues about an instance of failed leadership in protecting the taxpayers' money, and in executing the law enforcement functions of our Government. It's a story full of irony, of abuse of power, of a breakdown in the people's trust.

Last Friday, and again today, hearings were held by the Governmental Affairs Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. The chairman of that subcommittee is Senator SUSAN COLLINS of Maine. The subject was the performance and conduct of the Treasury Department's inspector general, Valerie Lau, and her staff.

During Friday's hearing, we learned that Ms. Lau personally let two illegal contracts, including one to a long time associate, Mr. Frank Sato. IG Lau violated procurement laws and regulations in the sole-source procurement of the two consulting contracts. The judgment that these two contracts were illegal was not made by members of the subcommittee. It was made by the independent, nonpartisan General Accounting Office.

The GAO also found that IG Lau violated the standards of ethical conduct. This is because she failed to disclose her personal and professional relationship with Mr. Sato.

Today, at the subcommittee's second hearing, we heard more. We learned that IG Lau and her staff provided false and/or inaccurate testimony to Congress and congressional investigators. We learned of the destruction of a document. The document was destroyed, in my view, as part of a cover-up. It was to hide the fact that a potentially criminal investigation had been launched—without merit—of two agents of the U.S. Secret Service. It was in retaliation for their testimony before Congress in the FBI Filegate matter. Again, that is my own judgment.

The IG and her staff, as well as other Treasury officials, had told my staff as well as officials of the Secret Service that a potentially criminal case had been opened. Then, the IG and her staff denied having told us that, and maintained that such a case was never opened. The record now shows that those statements were false. There was, in fact, such an investigation of the two agents.

Also today, we learned that the IG presides over an agency that has become totally demoralized. It's clearly because of failed leadership at the top. Wrongful and questionable activity can be assigned to virtually the entire upper level of the IG's office. The troops below are suffering from bad morale. The office of the Treasury IG has been severely crippled.

The irony in all this is that an inspector general's job is to detect these very violations in others. An IG is not supposed to commit them.

One of the illegal contracts that the IG let, grew from $85,000 to $345,000. That's called contract nourishment. There's not much to show for it. Except 1,000 rulers, Mr. President. The rulers are 6 inches in length. They're made of flexible plastic. They have the inspector general's mission, vision, and values statement printed on them to remind employees of who they are and what they do.

Mr. President, I take the amount of rulers purchased—1,000—and divide that into the cost of the contract—$345,000—and I come up with a value per ruler of $345.

That's right, Mr. President. The $345 ruler.

Mr. President, this is not the first time in my experience that the Government bought ordinary products at extraordinary prices. I recall coming to this floor in 1983. I had with me a small steel washer that was a spare part for an Air Force airplane. The price of that washer was $364. It was worth only about a quarter.

The Pentagon, at the time, defended the cost of the washer. First of all, it
