

CHIPPEWA CREE TRIBE OF THE ROCKY BOY'S RESERVATION INDIAN RESERVED WATER RIGHTS SETTLEMENT AND WATER SUPPLY ENHANCEMENT ACT OF 1999

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the Senate bill (S. 438) to provide for the settlement of the water rights claims of the Chippewa Cree Tribe of the Rocky Boy's Reservation, and for other purposes, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alaska?

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, if the gentleman would take a moment to explain the bill.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield to the gentleman from Alaska.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, last month the House passed H.R. 795, the Rocky Boy's Water Rights Settlement Act. Today we have before us S. 438, a companion bill to H.R. 795. The only difference between these bills is a small change regarding the treatment of tribal water rights off reservation. This change has been agreed upon by all parties involved in the legislation. The Rocky Boy's Water Rights Settlement Act process has been important for a number of reasons. I congratulate the gentleman from Montana (Mr. Hill). In the State of Montana, the tribe has spent a good deal of time working on the issues in a constructive fashion, taking steps to minimize the impact on other affected water users.

Furthermore, there has been minimal emphasis on some of the outmoded basis that calculate in Federal reserve Indian water right claims. This process has allowed the parties to look to newer, more flexible negotiations that find the solutions which provide tribes with real opportunities without making demands that may destroy the economic livelihood of existing water users.

In addition, this process has brought new solutions, introduced private sector expertise into the tribe's efforts to utilize the water supplies once the settlement is authorized.

By approaching these water rights settlements in more creative ways, Congress and the Federal Government can narrow the divergent expectations of the parties as they enter negotiations and attempt to correct problems that have existed for decades. It is important for Congress to modernize the process and basis for settling these claims. It is taking far too long to arrive at a settlement. Often tribes receive water and money under circumstances that do not ultimately help them realize the benefits of a broader economy.

It is the intention of this settlement to help the tribe reach this goal of self-determination, and I urge my colleagues to support the legislation.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, last month, the House passed H.R. 795, the Rocky Boys Water Rights Settlement Act. Today we have before us S. 438, a companion bill to H.R. 795. The only difference between these two bills is a small change regarding the treatment of tribal water rights off reservation. This change has been agreed upon by all the parties involved in the legislation.

The Rocky Boys water right settlement process has been important for a number of reasons. Congressman HILL, the State of Montana and the Tribe have spent a good deal of time working through the issues in a constructive fashion, taking steps to minimize the impact on other affected water users.

Furthermore, there has been minimal emphasis on some of the outmoded bases for calculating Federal reserved Indian water right claims. This process has allowed the parties to look to newer, more flexible negotiations that find solutions which provide tribes with real opportunities without making demands that may destroy the economic livelihood of existing water users. Additionally, this process has brought new solutions and introduced private sector expertise into the tribes efforts to utilize these water supplies once the settlement is authorized.

By approaching these Indian water right settlements in more creative ways, Congress and the Federal Government can narrow the divergent expectations of the parties as they enter negotiations and attempt to correct problems that have existed for decades. It is important for Congress to modernize the process and bases for settling these claims. It is taking far too long to arrive at a settlement. Often tribes receive water and money under circumstances that do not ultimately help them realize the benefits of the broader economy. It is the intention that this settlement will help the tribe reach their goal of self-determination.

I urge my colleagues to support the legislation.

Mr. HILL of Montana. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of S. 438, the Chippewa Cree Tribe Water Rights Settlement Act, introduced by Senator CONRAD BURNS.

I am the sponsor of the House companion to this bill which passed the House on October 18th. I thank Subcommittee Chairman JOHN DOOLITTLE and his staff Bob Faber and Josh Johnson for their tireless efforts to work with all parties involved to move this important piece of legislation.

This is truly a historic day. This bill is the culmination of many years of technical and legal work and many years of negotiations involving the Chippewa Cree Tribe, the State of Montana, and representatives of the United States Departments of the Interior and Justice.

The bill will ratify a settlement quantifying the water rights of the Tribe and providing for their development in a manner that will help the Chippewa Cree Nation while helping their neighbors, local communities, farmers and ranchers.

It provides Federal funds construction of water supply facilities and for Tribal economic development, and defines the Federal Government's role in implementing the settlement.

This Settlement bill has the full support of the Tribe, the State of Montana, the Department of Justice and the Department of the Interior, the Administration, and the water users who farm and ranch on streams shared with the Reservation.

The bill will effectuate a settlement that is a textbook example of how State, Tribal, and Federal governments can work together to resolve differences in a way that meets the concerns of all.

It is also a settlement that reflects the effectiveness of Tribal and non-Tribal water users in working together in good will and good faith with respect for each other's needs and concerns.

It is not an overstatement to say that the Chippewa Cree Tribe of the Rocky Boys Reservation Indian Reserved Water Rights Settlement Act is a historic agreement. This is truly a great occasion for all of those who have worked so hard to get us to this point.

I again want to thank Chairman DOOLITTLE, Chairman YOUNG, and the House leadership for scheduling this bill today. I also want to thank Congressman KILDEE for his cosponsorship and help in moving this bill forward.

I urge the adoption of S. 438.

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that the House will today consider S. 438, a bill that would implement the settlement of the water rights of the Chippewa Cree Tribe of Montana. I am a cosponsor of a similar bill passed by the House earlier this year. This bill marks the 16th Indian water settlement presented to Congress in 10 years. I recall a time when in the late 1980s and early 1990s Congress regularly sanctioned and implemented state/tribal water agreements. I am encouraged by the resolution (No. 98-029) from the National Governors' Association endorsing the policy of negotiating Indian water rights settlements.

During a recent hearing before the Water and Power Subcommittee, Representative RICK HILL, sponsor of the bill, described this settlement as a textbook example of how state and tribal governments can work together with off-reservation local ranchers and farmers to resolve their differences. I concur with that characterization of this bill. I want to commend the state of Montana and the Tribe for working almost 15 years to reach an agreement. It is my understanding that the parties went sub-basin by sub-basin and even farm by farm until they had resolved the concerns of all affected parties. I also want to commend the Interior and Justice Departments—particularly Interior's Acting Deputy Secretary, David Hayes—for the role he and his colleagues played in reaching this accord.

One of the things I have learned over the years is that we must defer to the wishes of the states and tribes that bring these settlements to us. We all will have a tendency to want to micro-manage legislation of this nature and contend that it is precedential one way or another way, but history has proved that that is really not the case. A settlement in Montana may have little to do with the status of negotiations in New Mexico. While instream flows for fishery habitat may be vital to a tribe in the Pacific Northwest, it may have little application in Arizona. I say this because I have heard that certain members of the Senate who are not from Montana are examining this bill to determine if it is consistent with the laws of their state. Mr. Speaker, if a negotiated settlement in a given state had to be consistent with the laws and policies of every one of the other 49 states, or even just the western states, we would never have another Indian water rights settlement. So again, I hope we can agree that the individual States, Tribes and the Federal government must be given great deference in negotiating settlements that are consistent with the laws and policies of the given State and Tribe and which do not violate federal law.

Finally, I say to my colleagues that we and the Administration must follow up and ensure that funds are made available to implement the Chippewa Cree/Montana settlement. We must do so in a manner that does not take funds away from basic ongoing tribal programs. We must reexamine the idea of creating a permanent settlement fund for these types of State/Tribal agreements that is comparable to the Justice Department's settlement fund and which is not scored against the BIA's allocations. Again, my congratulations to the Chippewa Cree Tribe of the Rocky Boy's Reservation, to the state of Montana and to the members of the Federal Negotiating Team that helped bring this to fruition.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alaska?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 438

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, SECTION. 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Chippewa Cree Tribe of The Rocky Boy's Reservation Indian Reserved Water Rights Settlement and Water Supply Enhancement Act of 1999".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) in fulfillment of its trust responsibility to Indian tribes and to promote tribal sovereignty and economic self-sufficiency, it is the policy of the United States to settle the water rights claims of the tribes without lengthy and costly litigation;

(2) the Rocky Boy's Reservation was established as a homeland for the Chippewa Cree Tribe;

(3) adequate water for the Chippewa Cree Tribe of the Rocky Boy's Reservation is important to a permanent, sustainable, and sovereign homeland for the Tribe and its members;

(4) the sovereignty of the Chippewa Cree Tribe and the economy of the Reservation depend on the development of the water resources of the Reservation;

(5) the planning, design, and construction of the facilities needed to utilize water supplies effectively are necessary to the development of a viable Reservation economy and to implementation of the Chippewa Cree-Montana Water Rights Compact;

(6) the Rocky Boy's Reservation is located in a water-short area of Montana and it is appropriate that the Act provide funding for the development of additional water supplies, including domestic water, to meet the needs of the Chippewa Cree Tribe;

(7) proceedings to determine the full extent of the water rights of the Chippewa Cree Tribe are currently pending before the Montana Water Court as a part of In the Matter of the Adjudication of All Rights to the Use of Water, Both Surface and Underground, within the State of Montana;

(8) recognizing that final resolution of the general stream adjudication will take many years and entail great expense to all parties, prolong uncertainty as to the availability of water supplies, and seriously impair the long-term economic planning and development of all parties, the Chippewa Cree Tribe and the State of Montana entered into the Compact on April 14, 1997; and

(9) the allocation of water resources from the Tiber Reservoir to the Chippewa Cree Tribe under this Act is uniquely suited to the geographic, social, and economic characteristics of the area and situation involved.

SEC. 3. PURPOSES.

The purposes of this Act are as follows:

(1) To achieve a fair, equitable, and final settlement of all claims to water rights in the State of Montana for—

(A) the Chippewa Cree Tribe; and

(B) the United States for the benefit of the Chippewa Cree Tribe.

(2) To approve, ratify, and confirm, as modified in this Act, the Chippewa Cree-Montana Water Rights Compact entered into by the Chippewa Cree Tribe of the Rocky Boy's Reservation and the State of Montana on April 14, 1997, and to provide funding and other authorization necessary for the implementation of the Compact.

(3) To authorize the Secretary of the Interior to execute and implement the Compact referred to in paragraph (2) and to take such other actions as are necessary to implement the Compact in a manner consistent with this Act.

(4) To authorize Federal feasibility studies designed to identify and analyze potential mechanisms to enhance, through conservation or otherwise, water supplies in North Central Montana, including mechanisms to import domestic water supplies for the future growth of the Rocky Boy's Indian Reservation.

(5) To authorize certain projects on the Rocky Boy's Indian Reservation, Montana, in order to implement the Compact.

(6) To authorize certain modifications to the purposes and operation of the Bureau of Reclamation's Tiber Dam and Lake Elwell on the Marias River in Montana in order to provide the Tribe with an allocation of water from Tiber Reservoir.

(7) To authorize the appropriation of funds necessary for the implementation of the Compact.
