S. 706. A bill to create a National Museum of Women's History Advisory Committee; to the Committee on Rules and Administration.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF WOMEN'S HISTORY

• Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, in honor of Women's History Month, today I am introducing legislation to create an Advisory Committee for the National Museum of Women's History. I am pleased to be joined by 17 of my colleagues: Senators HUTCHISON, MURRAY, MIKULSKI, BOXER, COLLINS, ROCKEFELLER, REID, BIDEN, AKAKA, KERRY (MA), ASHCROFT, DODD, DURBIN, TORRICELLI, INOUE, LIEBERMAN, and SARBANES.

For far too long, women have contributed to history, but have largely been forgotten in our history books, in our monuments, and in our museums. It is long past time that the roles women have played be removed from the shadows of indifference and given a place where they can shine.

The bill we are introducing today will create a 26 member Advisory Committee to look at the following three issues and report back to Congress concerning (1) identification of a site for the museum in the District of Columbia; (2) development of a business plan to allow the creation and maintenance of the museum to be done solely with private contributions and 3) assistance with the collection and program of the museum.

It is important to note that this bill does not commit Congress to spending any money for this museum. The Committee's report will tell us the feasibility of funding the museum privately. And I believe that the Museum's Board has shown that they have the ability to do just that.

The concept for the National Museum of Women's History (NMWH) was created back in 1996. Since that time, the Board of Directors, lead by President Karen Staser, has worked tirelessly to build support and interest for this project. And judging by the fact that they have raised more than $10.5 million for the project, lent their support to the moving of the Suffragette statue from the crypt to the Rotunda, and raised $85,000 for that effort, I'd say they are well on their way to success.

They have also spent a lot of time answering the question "why do we need a women's museum when we have the SMITHsonian." The first answer to that comes from Edith Mayo, Curator Emeritus of the Smithsonian National Museum of American History, who notes that since 1963 only two exhibits—two—were dedicated to the role of women in history.

The fact is, in the story of America's success, the chapter on women's contributions has largely been left on the editing room floor. Here's what I mean: Many of us know that women fought and got the vote in 1920, with the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution. But how many know that Wyoming gave women the right to vote in 1869, 51 years earlier, and that by 1900 Utah, Colorado and Idaho had granted women the right to vote? Or that the suffragette movement took 72 years to meet its goal? And few know that the women of Utah sewed dresses made from silk for the Suffragettes on their cross country tour.

History is filled with other little known but significant milestones: like the first woman elected to the United States Senate was Hattie Wyatt Caraway from Louisiana in 1932. That Margaret Chase Smith, from my home state of Maine, was the first woman elected to the US Senate in her own right in 1948, and in 1962 became the first women to run for the US Presidency in the primaries of a major political party. Or that the first female cabinet member was Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor for FDR.

How many people know that Margaret Reha Seddon was the first US woman to achieve the full rank of astronaut, and flew her first space mission aboard the Space Shuttle "Discovery" in 1985, twenty three years after the distinguished former Senator from the State of Ohio, John Glenn completed his historic first flight in space?

And I can guarantee you more people know the last person to hit over .400 in baseball—Ted Williams—than can name the first woman elected to Congress—Jeannette Rankin of Montana, who was elected in 1916, four years before ratification of the 19th Amendment gave women the right to vote.

Hardly household names. But they should be. And with a place to showcase their accomplishments, perhaps one day they will take their rightful place beside America's greatest minds, visionary leaders, and groundbreaking figures. But until then, we have a long way to go.

Whatever period of history you chose—women played a role. Sybil Ludington, a 16-year-old, rode through parts of New York and Connecticut in April of 1777 to warn that the Redcoats were coming. Sacajawea, the Shoshone Indian guide, helped escort Lewis and Clark on their 8000 mile expedition. Rosa Parks, Jo Ann Robinson and Myrlie Evers played important roles in the civil rights movement in the 50's and 60's. And as we move into the 21st century, the role of women—who now make up 52 percent of the population—will continue to be integral to the future success of this country.

In fact the real question about the building of a women's museum is not so much where it will be built—although that remains to be explored. And it's not even who will pay for it—as I've said, it will be done entirely with private funds. The real question when it comes to a museum dedicated to women's history is, where will they put it all!

I would argue that we have a solemn responsibility to teach our children, and ourselves, about our rich past—and that includes the myriad contributions of women, in all fields and every endeavor. These women can serve as role models and inspire our youth. They can teach us about our past and guide us into our future. They can even prompt young women to consider a career in public service—as Senator Smith of Maine did for me.

Instead, today in America, more young women probably know the names of the latest super models than the names of the female members of this Administration's Cabinet. That is why we need a National Museum of Women's History, that is why I am proud to sponsor this legislation, and that is why I hope that my colleagues will join us in supporting the creation of this Advisory Committee as a first step toward writing the forgotten chapters of the history of our nation. •

By Mr. DEWINE (for himself, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, Mr. CHAFEE, Ms. LANDRIE, Mr. LEVIN, Mr. KERRY, and Mr. KERREY):

S. 708. A bill to improve the administrative efficiency and effectiveness of the Nation's abuse and neglect courts and the quality and availability of training for judges, attorneys, and volunteers working in such courts, and for other purposes consistent with the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

THE STRENGTHENING ABUSE AND NEGLECT COURTS ACT OF 1999

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Strengthening Abuse and Neglect Courts Act of 1999, a bill to improve the administrative efficiency and effectiveness of the juvenile and family courts, as well as the quality and availability of training for judges, attorneys and guardian ad litem. I am joined in this introduction by Senator ROCKEFELLER, and I thank him for all of his hard work on behalf of abused and neglected children and I look forward to working with him as we move forward with this legislation.

I have been involved with children's issues for over two decades, not just as the father of eight, but also as a local county elected official. I know the kinds of problems that exist at the ground level, and I think it's very important that we work together to address them.

This is especially true today, as opposed to a couple of years ago, because the child welfare agencies and the courts have an important new task—the implementation of the Adoption and Safe Families Act.

Almost one and a half years ago, Congress passed this historic piece of legislation, which was designed to encourage safe and permanent family placements for abused and neglected children—and to decrease the amount of time that a child spends in the foster care system. With this law, we make it clear that the health and safety of the child must come first when making any decision for a child in the abuse and neglect system. This law shortens the time line for children in foster care. Specifically, the law requires initiation of proceedings to terminate parental rights for any child who has been in the foster care system for 15 of the last 22 months.

These timelines are very important. Foster care was meant to be a temporary solution—but for too many children foster care has become a way of life. However, the institution of these timelines has created additional pressure on an already overburdened court system.

To give you an idea of the burden that already exists, consider this: When the Family Court was established in New York in 1962, it reviewed 96,000 cases the first year. By 1997, the case load had increased to 670,000 cases.

A September 1997 report by the Fund for Modern Courts found that Family Court judges were overburdened and forced to provide, quote, “assembly line justice”—because they only had a few minutes to review each case. The report found that in Brooklyn, cases receive an average of 4 minutes before a judge on a first appearance and little more than 11 minutes on subsequent appearances. The report concluded that, quote: “It is easy to understand how a tragedy can result from decisions made based on so little actual time in court.” End of quote.

And that’s not the only problem in the system. In Cuyahoga County, Ohio, the juvenile court identified 3,000 cases that were open, but inactive. In most of these cases, the child had been charged with a minor crime, but never had his or her case scheduled for trial. But more than 100 of these cases involved children who remained in foster care for months or even years, despite the fact that a judge had ordered them to be returned home to their parents.

Another problem faced in Cuyahoga County, and in many other places, is the missing file. Until recently, the court had no central clerk’s file, so there was no way of tracking the location of a particular file. If the file could not be found on the day of a hearing or review, it would result in a postponement, adding months to a child’s stay in foster care. It is undisputed that children need permanency as quickly as possible. It is simply unconscionable that children should be trapped in foster care by a Dickensian nightmare of paperwork.

And you also have to wonder where the lawyers, case workers and guardians for these children were—and what they were doing as these cases dragged on for months or even years longer than necessary. It is a symptom of the overburdened child welfare system and the lack of resources available for everyone involved—the child welfare agencies, the attorneys, the guardians, the courts. It’s not their fault, but it’s not tolerable either.

We, collectively—as public servants, and as a society—must do better.

Some abuse and neglect courts have already found innovative ways to eliminate their backlog of cases and move children toward permanency. One example is in Hamilton County, Ohio, where the Juvenile Court, under the leadership of Judge David Grossmann, has instituted a system that successfully has reduced the amount of time a child spends in care. Hamilton County added hearing officers so that more time could be spent on each case—leading to better quality decision making and reduced case loads. The court also developed a computer tracking system so that the judge could have essential information on each case at his or her fingertips, and the “missing file” would no longer be a bar to permanency.

The state of Connecticut has also created an innovative way of dealing with the backlog of cases in its child welfare system. The Child Protection Session is a court dedicated to settling the most difficult abuse and neglect cases—contested cases of abuse and neglect and termination of parental rights proceedings. Connecticut has recognized that these types of cases need to be handled expeditiously, and as a result of the special session, these cases are now being handled in months, rather than years, to the benefit of all the children involved.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) recently reported to Congress the results of its review of juvenile and family courts performance in achieving permanence for children. GAO identified three elements that are essential to successful court reform.

(1) Judicial leadership and collaboration among the child welfare participants.

(2) Timely information regarding the court’s operations and processing of cases; and

(3) Sufficient financial resources to initiate and sustain reform.

The Strengthening Abuse and Neglect Courts Act of 1999 incorporates all of these elements. The bill provides competitive grants to courts to create computerized case tracking systems and to encourage the replication and implementation of successful systems in other courts. The bill also provides grants to courts to reduce pending backlogs of abuse and neglect cases so that courts are able to comply with the time lines established in the Adoption and Safe Families Act.

The bill also includes a provision to allow judges, attorneys and court personnel to qualify for training under Title IV-E’s existing training provisions. Finally, the bill includes a provision that would expand the CASA program to underserved and urban areas so that more children are able to benefit from its services.

When Congress passed the Adoption and Safe Families Act, I said that the bill is a good start, but that Congress will have to do more to make sure that every child has the opportunity to live in a safe, stable, loving and permanent home. One of the essential ingredients in this process is an efficiently operating court system. After all, that’s where a lot of delays occur. As well-intentioned as the strict time lines of the Adoption and Safe Families Act are, mandatory filing dates won’t be enough to promote permanency if the court docket is too clogged to move the cases through the system. We need to provide assistance to the courts so that administrative efficiency and effectiveness are improved and the goals of the Adoption and Safe Families Act will be more readily achieved. I encourage my colleagues to support this legislation and I am committed to pushing for its timely consideration.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a copy of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Strengthening Abuse and Neglect Courts Act of 1999”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) Under both Federal and State law, the courts play a crucial and essential role in the Nation’s child welfare system and in ensuring safety, stability, and permanence for abused and neglected children under the supervision of that system.

(2) The Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 (Public Law 105-89; 111 Stat. 2115) establishes explicitly for the first time in Federal law that a child’s health and safety must be the paramount consideration when any decision is made regarding a child in the Nation’s child welfare system.

(3) The Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 promotes stability and permanence for abused and neglected children by requiring timely decision-making in proceedings to determine whether children can safely return to their families or whether they should be moved into safe and stable adoptive homes or other permanent family arrangements outside the foster care system.

(4) To avoid unnecessary and lengthy stays in the foster care system, the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 specifically requires, among other things, that States move to terminate the parental rights of the parents of those children who have been in foster care for 15 of the last 22 months.

(5) While essential to protect children and to carry out the general purposes of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997, the accelerated timelines for the termination of parental rights and the other requirements imposed under that Act increase the pressure on the Nation’s already overburdened abuse and neglect courts.

(6) The administrative efficiency and effectiveness of the Nation's abuse and neglect courts would be substantially improved by the acquisition and implementation of computerized case-tracking systems to identify and eliminate existing backlogs, to move abuse and neglect caseloads forward in a timely manner, and to move children into safe and stable families. Such systems could also be used to evaluate the effectiveness of such courts in meeting the purposes of the amendments made by, and provisions of, the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997.

(7) The administrative efficiency and effectiveness of the Nation's abuse and neglect courts would also be improved by the identification and implementation of projects designed to eliminate the backlog of abuse and neglect cases, including the temporary hiring of additional judges, extension of court hours, and other projects designed to reduce existing caseloads.

(8) The administrative efficiency and effectiveness of the Nation's abuse and neglect courts would be further strengthened by improving the quality and availability of training for judges, court personnel, agency attorneys, guardians ad litem, volunteers who participate in court-appointed special advocate (CASA) programs, and attorneys who represent the children and the parents of children in abuse and neglect proceedings.

(9) While recognizing that abuse and neglect courts in this country are already committed to the quality administration of justice, the performance of such courts would be even further enhanced by the development of models and educational opportunities that reinforce court projects that have already been developed, including models for case-flow procedures, case management, representation of children, automated interagency interfaces, and "best practices" standards.

(10) Judges, magistrates, commissioners, and other judicial officers play a central and vital role in ensuring that proceedings in our Nation's abuse and neglect courts are run efficiently and effectively. The performance of those individuals in such courts can only be further enhanced by training, seminars, and an ongoing opportunity to exchange ideas with their peers.

(11) Volunteers who participate in court-appointed special advocate (CASA) programs play a vital role as the eyes and ears of abuse and neglect courts in proceedings conducted by, or under the supervision of, such courts and also bring increased public scrutiny of the abuse and neglect court system. The Nation's abuse and neglect courts would benefit from an expansion of this program to currently underserved communities.

(12) Improved computerized case-tracking systems, comprehensive training, and development of, and education on, model abuse and neglect court systems, particularly with respect to underserved areas, would significantly further the purposes of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 by reducing the average length of an abused and neglected child's stay in foster care, improving the quality of decision-making and court services provided to children and families, and increasing the number of adoptions.

• Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I rise today to join Mr. DEWINE in his introduction of the Strengthening Abuse and Neglect Courts Act. I would like to thank Mr. DEWINE for his leadership on behalf of vulnerable children, including our bipartisan work on this legislation. Work on this legislation is based on the bipartisan work of the Senate coalition that supported the 1997 Adoption and Safe Families Act.

A unique bipartisan coalition formed in 1997 worked hard to forge consensus on the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997. This law, for the first time ever, establishes that a child’s health and safety must be paramount when any decisions are made regarding children in the abuse and neglect system. The law was the most sweeping and comprehensive piece of child welfare legislation passed in over a decade. It promotes safety, stability and permanence for all abused and neglected children and requires timely decision-making in all proceedings to determine whether children can safely return home, or whether they should be moved to permanent, adoptive homes. More specifically, the law requires a State to move to terminate the parental rights of any parent whose child has been in foster care for 15 out of the last 22 months.

Throughout the process of developing the Adoption Act we heard about the vital role the Nation's abuse and neglect courts play in achieving the goals of safety and permanence for children. We also heard that these courts were seriously overburdened and challenged by insufficient resources. Now, nearly a year and a half after the passage of the law, courts are struggling to meet the guidelines. Judges and child welfare professionals in my state of West Virginia tell me that the law is helping move children through the system more quickly, that the accelerated timelines are, indeed, essential for the protection of children, and that the effect of this is that the courts are becoming even more overburdened. We are hearing this same type of feedback from other judges and child advocates around the country.

These courts—and the judges, lawyers and other court personnel—make some of the most difficult and important decisions made by any members of the judiciary. Adjudications of abuse and neglect, terminations of parental rights, approval of adoptions, and life-changing determinations require the appropriate level of information, thoughtfulness and care. Judges throughout the country, like West Virginia's Chief Justice Margaret Workman, are committed to the fair and efficient administration of justice in these cases. In 1987, just over 2 million children, nationally, were reported or neglected. By 1997, this number had swelled to well over 3 million children. During this period, my own state of West Virginia experienced a 100% increase in child abuse cases. These staggering increases in child abuse have placed an unconscionable burden on these courts.

Working within their own communities, judges, attorneys, volunteers from the Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) programs and others have found creative and effective new ways to eliminate their caseload backlogs and move children more efficiently and safely through the court system. In West Virginia, Judge Workman and others have developed a comprehensive plan to increase the accountability and efficient administration of abuse and neglect cases. In Cincinnati, Ohio, Judge Grossman's abuse and neglect courts have implemented state-of-the-art computer tracking systems which help them smooth the legal paths of children in foster care.

Even when courts have the dedication and initiative to implement these innovative reforms, they simply cannot do it without sufficient resources. The purpose of the Strengthening Abuse and Neglect Courts Act is to help remove the burdens on an ever greater number of courts by increasing both their efficiency and their effectiveness. The bill provides much needed resources and allows state and local communities the flexibility to develop their own solutions to administrative problems and caseload backlogs. In January of this year, the General Accounting Office released a report conducted at the request of Ways and Means Subcommittee on Human Resources Chairman SHAW, which concluded that there are three essential ingredients for successful court reform, all of which are incorporated in this Act. There are four ways this bill will help abuse and neglect courts better serve children and families.

The bill first provides a program of grants to states and local courts for the implementation of computerized case-tracking systems, similar to the one Judge Grossman created in Ohio. Through the establishment of such systems, courts are able to more easily track how long a child spends in foster care and the status of their cases. When courts have such "user-friendly" access to vital case information children truly benefit—they move more quickly through foster care and on to adoptive homes or other permanent placements. This grant program will enable state and local courts to design similar computer systems, to replicate models that have proven successful in other jurisdictions and to receive technical assistance as they implement their new programs.

A second important provision of the bill is the grant program that provides State and local courts the resources they need to eliminate the backlog of abuse and neglect cases. Throughout the discussions on the Adoption and Safe Families Act, we heard from dozens of judges and advocates who said that far and away the biggest problem facing their courts was the overwhelming backlog of these cases. Without creative ways to eliminate these backlogs, and with the tightened timeframes we created with the new law, the judges emphasized that children's cases will simply not move through the court system in a timely manner. Each court may have their own effective approach to eliminating such backlogs. For some, hiring additional staff may be necessary. For others, creating a "Night Court" or "Saturday Court" to hear these cases would work. Still others may need to restructure duties of court personnel. This bill will provide grants to those court projects that are designed to result in the effective and rapid elimination of current backlogs to smooth the way for more efficient courts in the future.

The Strengthening Abuse and Neglect Courts Act also recognizes that judges, attorneys, court personnel, law enforcement representatives, guardians-ad-litem and all others who participate in abuse and neglect proceedings can benefit from continuing education opportunities, improved training and the development of models for effective practice in these settings. The Act, therefore, extends federal reimbursement for training that is currently provided to agency case-workers to judges, attorneys and key court personnel who must make decision effecting the lives and future of vulnerable children. In addition to this basic, necessary training for court personnel, we hope it will also foster between cooperation between child welfare agencies and court personnel that is imperative to make system work to ensure the health and safety of children.

Finally, the bill provides for an expansion of the successful CASA—Court Appointed Special Advocates—volunteer program. This superb volunteer program has demonstrated its ability to improve outcomes for abused and neglected children. CASA are volunteers specially trained to speak for the best interests of children who have been abused or neglected. There are over 710 CASA programs nationwide, whose volunteers represented nearly 200,000 children last year alone. Recently, the Department of Justice recognized CASA as an "Exemplary Program". CASA has been operating in West Virginia since 1991 with programs currently serving children in 13 of our counties. Of course, there is more work to be done so that children in all 55 West Virginia counties, and all underserved areas throughout the country can benefit from the services of these trained and dedicated volunteers. In fact, despite CASA's phenomenal volunteer commitment and national praise by courts, and community leaders, 70% of the children in foster care are still without CASA representation. This bill will begin to address this gap by providing a $5 million grant to expand its programs into under-served areas and to improve its ability to recruit, train and supervise volunteers.

When we talk about how to help abused and neglected children in this country, our abuse and neglect courts are too often left out of the discussion. With the numbers of abused and neglected children rising dramatically—in West Virginia alone child abuse reports have doubled—from 13,000 in 1986 to over 26,000 in 1996—we need to include every system in our efforts to make a difference. The courts play a crucial role and I am confident that the Strengthening Abuse and Neglect Courts Act will be a valuable step in making our courts stronger, more efficient and more able to effectively address the needs of our Nation's most vulnerable children. I ask that my colleagues join us in this important effort.

I ask that a fact sheet about the bill be printed in the RECORD.

The material follows:

FACT SHEET—STRENGTHENING ABUSE AND NEGLECT ACT OF 1999

A bill to improve the administrative efficiency and effectiveness of the Nation's abuse and neglect courts and the quality and availability of training for judges, attorneys, and volunteers working in such courts, and for other purposes consistent with the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997.

SECTION 1, 3, & 3: TITLE, FINDINGS, AND DEFINITIONS

SECTION 4: GRANTS TO COURTS FOR COMPUTER AUTOMATION AND CASE TRACKING SYSTEMS

A program to provide competitive state and local grants to abuse and neglect courts to create computerized case tracking systems, and to encourage the replication and implementation of successful systems in other court systems. Grant will be awarded based on eligibility criteria designed to encourage applications from both state and local courts, and a balance of urban and rural courts. Guidelines will also ensure that successful models can be disseminated to other courts. Applicants will need to include evaluation plans as part of the grant request.

Grant program is $10 million, with a 25% state matching requirement, but a hardship exemption.

SECTION 5: GRANTS TO REDUCE BACKLOGS OF ABUSE AND NEGLECT CASES

A program to provide grants to court systems to reduce pending backlogs of abuse and neglect cases so that courts are able to comply with the time frames established in the Adoption and Safe Families Act. Competitive grants will be awarded to court systems to reduce backlogs by using night court sessions, hiring additional personnel to manage reduce caseloads, or other innovative strategies.

Grant program is $10 million, and courts can use funding for up to 3 years.

SECTION 6: TRAINING FOR JUDGES AND COURT PERSONNEL

A provision to allow judges, attorneys, and court personnel to qualify for training under Title IV-E's existing training provisions, which is a federal-state matching program set at 75%-25%.

CBO to score provision.

SECTION 7: STATE STANDARDS FOR AGENCY ATTORNEYS

A single start up grant of $5 million in 2000.

By Mr. MURKOWSKI (for himself and Mr. DASCHLE):

S. 709. A bill to amend the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 to establish and sustain viable rural and remote communities, and to provide affordable housing and community development assistance to rural areas with excessively high rates of outmigration and low per capital income levels; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

THE RURAL AND REMOTE COMMUNITY FAIRNESS ACT

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, today I rise to introduce the Rural and Remote Community Fairness Act. This Act will lead to a brighter future for rural and remote communities by establishing three new programs that will address the unique economic and environmental challenges faced by small communities in rural and remote areas across this country. I am pleased that this legislation is co-sponsored by the Minority Leader, Senator DASCHLE.

The bill authorizes up to $100 million a year in grant aid from 2000 through 2006 for any communities across the nation with populations of less than 10,000 which face electric rates in excess of 150 percent of the national average retail price. The money can go for electricity system improvements, energy efficiency and weatherization efforts, water and sanitation improvements or work to solve leaking fuel storage tanks.

The bill also amends the Rural Electrification Act to authorize Rural and Remote Electrification Grants of an additional $20 million a year to the same communities. The grants can be used to increase energy efficiency, lower electricity rates or provide for the modernization of electric facilities.

The bill also establishes a new program providing rural recovery community development block grants. This will provide for the development and maintenance of viable rural areas through the provision of affordable housing and community development assistance for rural areas with excessively high rates of outmigration and low per capita income levels.

This nation has well-established programs for community development grants. The majority of these programs were established to help resolve the very real problems found in this Nation's urban areas. However, our most rural and remote communities experience different, but equally real, problems that are not addressed by existing law. Not only are these communities generally ineligible for the existing programs, their unique challenges, while sometimes similar to those experienced by urban areas, require a different focus and approach.

The biggest single economic problem facing small communities is the expense of establishing a modern infrastructure. These costs, which are always substantial, are exacerbated in remote and rural areas. The existence of this infrastructure, including efficient housing, electricity, bulk fuel storage, waste water and water service, is a necessity for the health and welfare of our children, the development of a prosperous economy and minimizing environmental problems.

There is a real cost in human misery and to the health and welfare of everyone, especially our children and our elderly from poor or polluted water or bad housing or an inefficient power system. Hepatitis B infections in rural Alaska are five times more common than in urban Alaska. We just have to do better if we are to bring our rural communities into the 21 Century.

The experience of many of Alaskans is a perfect example. Most small communities or villages in Alaska are not interconnected to an electricity grid, and rely upon diesel generators for their electricity. Often, the fuel can only be delivered by barge or airplane, and is stored in tanks. These tanks are expensive to maintain, and in many cases, must be completely replaced to prevent leakage of fuel into the environment. While the economic and environmental savings clearly justify the construction of new facilities, these communities simply don't have the ability to raise enough capital to make the necessary investments.

As a result, these communities are forced to bear an oppressive economic and environmental burden that can be eased with a relatively small investment on the part of the Federal government. I can give you some examples: in Manley Hot Springs, Alaska, the citizens pay almost 70 cents per kilowatt hour for electricity. In Igiugig, Kokhanok, Akiachak Native Community, and Middle Kuskokwim, consumers all pay over 50 cents per kilowatt hour for electricity. The national average is around 7 cents per kilowatt hour.

Further, in Alaska, for example, many rural villages still lack modern water and sewer sanitation systems taken for granted in all other areas of America. According to a Federal Field Working Group, 190 of the state's villages have "unsafe" sanitation systems, 135 villages still using "honey buckets" for waste disposal. Only 31 villages have a fully safe, piped water system; 71 villages having only one central water source.

These are not only an Alaskan problem. The highest electricity rates in America are paid by a small community in Missouri, and communities in Maine, as well as islands in Rhode Island and New York will likely qualify for this program. Providing safe drinking water and adequate waste treatment facilities is a problem for very small communities all across this land.

What will this Act do to address these problems? First, the Act authorizes $100 million per year for the years 2000-2006 for block grants to communities of under 10,000 inhabitants who pay more than 150% of the national average retail price for electricity.

The grants will be allocated by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development among eligible communities proportionate to cost of electricity in the community, as compared to the National average. The communities may use the grants only for the following eligible activities:

Low-cost weatherization of homes and other buildings;

Construction and repair of electrical generation, transmission, distribution, and related facilities;

Construction, remediation and repair of bulk fuel storage facilities;

Facilities and training to reduce costs of maintaining and operating electrical generation, distribution, transmission, and related facilities;

Professional management and maintenance for electrical generation, distribution and transmission, and related facilities;

Investigation of the feasibility of alternate energy services;

Construction, operation, maintenance and repair of water and waste water services;

Acquisition and disposition of real property for eligible activities and facilities; and Development of an implementation plan, including administrative costs for eligible activities and facilities.

In addition this bill will amend the Rural Electrification Act of 1936 to authorize Rural and Remote Electrification Grants for $20 million per year for years 2000-2006 for grants to qualified borrowers under the Act that are in rural and remote communities who pay more than 150% of the national average retail price for electricity. These grants can be used to increase energy efficiency, lower electricity rates, or provide or modernize electric facilities.

This Act makes a significant step toward resolving the critical social, economic and environmental problems faced by our Nation's rural and remote communities. I encourage my colleagues to support this legislation.

For the information of the Senate and the public, the bill can also be obtained from the Internet at: <http://thomas.loc.gov>.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

"(7) The term 'average retail cost per kilowatt hour of electricity' has the same meaning as 'average revenue per kilowatthour of electricity' as defined by the Energy Information Administration.

"AUTHORIZATIONS

"SEC. 903. The Secretary is authorized to make grants to rural and remote communities to carry out activities in accordance with the provisions of this title. For purposes of assistance under section 906, there are authorized to be appropriated $100,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2000 through 2006.

"STATEMENT OF ACTIVITIES AND REVIEW

"SEC. 904. (a) Prior to the receipt in any fiscal year of a grant under section 906 by any rural and remote community, the grantee shall have prepared and submitted to the Secretary a final statement of rural and remote community development objectives and projected use of funds.

"(b) In order to permit public examination and appraisal of such statements, to enhance the public accountability of grantees, and to facilitate coordination of activities with different levels of government, the grantee shall in a timely manner—

"(1) furnish citizens information concerning the amount of funds available for rural and remote community development activities and the range of activities that may be undertaken;

"(2) publish a proposed statement in such manner to afford affected citizens an opportunity to examine its content and to submit comments on the proposed statement and on the community development performance of the grantee;

"(3) provide citizens with reasonable access to records regarding the past use of funds received under section 906 by the grantee; and

“ALLOCATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS

“SEC. 906. For each fiscal year, of the amount approved in an appropriation Act under section 903 for grants in any year, the Secretary shall distribute to each rural and remote community which has filed a final statement of rural and remote community development objectives and projected use of funds under section 904, an amount which shall be allocated among the rural and remote communities that filed a final statement of rural and remote community development objectives and projected use of funds under section 904 proportionate to the percentage that the average retail cost per kilowatt hour of electricity for all classes of consumers in the rural and remote community exceeds the national average retail cost per kilowatt hour for electricity for all consumers in the United States, as determined by data provided by the Department of Energy's Energy Information Administration. In allocating funds under this section, the Secretary shall give special consideration to those rural and remote communities that increase economies of scale through consolidation of services, affiliation and regionalization of eligible activities under this title.

“REMEDIES FOR NONCOMPLIANCE

“SEC. 907. The provisions of section 111 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 shall apply to assistance distributed under this title.”.

TITLE II—RURAL AND REMOTE COMMUNITY ELECTRIFICATION GRANTS

After section 313(b) of the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, add the following new subsection:

“(c) RURAL AND REMOTE COMMUNITY ELECTRIFICATION GRANTS.—The Secretary is authorized to provide grants to eligible borrowers under this Act for the purpose of increasing energy efficiency, lowering or stabilizing electric rates to end users, or providing or modernizing electric facilities in rural and remote communities that have an average retail cost per kilowatt hour of electricity that is equal to or greater than 150 percent of the average retail cost per kilowatt hour of electricity for all consumers in the United States, as determined by data provided by the Department of Energy's Energy Information Administration.

“(d) For purposes of subsection (c), there is authorized to be appropriated $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2000–2006.”.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, today I am introducing legislation to help address the economic malaise that has gripped certain rural and remote areas of our country and the problems arising from the high cost of developing and maintaining infrastructure in remote communities. The legislation will provide grants to rural communities suffering from out-migration and low per-capita income and will help ensure that remote communities are not unfairly penalized by the high cost of services, such as water, waste water, fuel and utility services. I want to thank my colleague from Alaska, Senator MURKOWSKI, for his work on this legislation. His contribution in addressing these problems is most welcome.

Rural areas of our Nation continue to experience vast fluctuations in their economic well-being due to their dependence on worldwide agricultural markets. The link between global economic forces and local economic conditions is nowhere as pronounced as it is in rural America. And yet, rural communities are often those least capable of weathering the severe periodic downturns that occur in global markets.

Statistics bear out these fluctuations in economic activity, but they fail to fully capture the human suffering that lies just beyond the numbers. Economic downturns lead to the migration away from farm-dependent, rural communities, further stifling economic opportunities for those left behind. The 1990 Census highlighted these migratory trends, and I anticipate that similar trends will be captured by the upcoming Census, as well.

In short, the bandwagon of prosperity that has carried many Americans along through the past decade has left many rural areas standing by the wayside. If this trend continues, more and more young people will be forced to leave the towns they grew up in for opportunities in urban areas. In towns like Webster, Sisseton, and White River, South Dakota, we are seeing farm families broken up, populations decline, and main street businesses close their doors. While there is no doubt that economic growth in our urban areas has benefited our Nation, the disparity of economic development between our rural and urban areas cannot be ignored. If nothing is done to address the economic challenges facing these areas, we will jeopardize the future of rural America.

That is why Senator MURKOWSKI and I are introducing legislation to provide the Nation's rural areas with the resources necessary to make critical investments in their future and, by doing so, to create economic opportunities that will help them sustain a valuable and important way of life. While Federal agencies, such as the United States Department of Agriculture's Office of Rural Development and the Economic Development Administration, provide assistance for rural development purposes, there are no Federal programs that provide a steady source of funding for rural areas most affected by severe out-migration and low per-capita income. For these areas, the process of economic development is often most arduous. The Rural and Remote Community Fairness Act of 1999 will provide the basic, long-term assistance necessary to aid the coordinated efforts of local community leaders as they begin economic recovery efforts to ensure a bright future for rural America.

Specifically, the Rural and Remote Community Fairness Act of 1999 will provide a minimum of $200,000 per year to counties and Indian tribes with (1) out-migration levels of one percent or more over a five-year period, (2) per-capita income levels that are below the national average, and (3) borders that are not adjacent to a metropolitan area. This legislation authorizes the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development to set aside $50 million in Community Development Block Grant funding for this purpose. The money, which is already included in the agency's budget, will be allocated on a formula basis to rural counties and Indian tribes suffering from out-migration and low-per capita income levels.

County and tribal governments will be able to use this federal funding to improve their industrial parks, purchase land for development, build affordable housing and create economic recovery strategies according to their needs. All of these important steps will help rural communities address their economic problems and plan for long-term growth and development.

In addition to addressing the problems of out-migration from low per-capita income areas, this legislation also focuses on the unique problems associated with those communities located in areas with high energy costs. Specifically, the legislation sets aside $100,000,000 for weatherization efforts, the construction of cost-efficient power facilities and fuel storage facilities, energy management programs, water and waste water facilities, the acquisition or disposition of real property for rural and remote development activities, and for the implementation of a comprehensive rural and remote development plan.

Mr. President, the Rural and Remote Community Fairness Act of 1999 holds great potential for revitalizing many of our nation's most neglected and vulnerable areas. I urge my colleagues to support its enactment this Congress.

By Mr. LOTT (for himself, Mr. COCHRAN, Mr. BREAUX, Mr. HUTCHINSON, Mr. THOMAS, Mr. CRAIG, and Mr. MURKOWSKI):

S. 710. A bill to authorize the feasibility study on the preservation of certain Civil War battlefields along the Vicksburg Campaign Trail; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

VICKSBURG CAMPAIGN TRAIL BATTLEFIELDS
PRESERVATION ACT OF 1999

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, on February 20, 1899, the 56th Congress took an important step toward preserving one of our nation's most significant historical resources when it established the Vicksburg National Military Park. The campaign and siege at Vicksburg, the "Gibraltar of the Confederacy," was a pivotal moment in American History. As the gateway to the Mississippi River, the region was of vital strategic importance to both the South and the North. For this reason, the Vicksburg engagement is heralded as one of the most brilliant offensive campaigns ever fought on U.S. soil.

Every year, the Vicksburg National Military Park plays host to over one million visitors who are able to take advantage of this national historic treasure. Like many other National Parks, Vicksburg contributes to the cultural, recreational, scenic, and economic vitality of the region.

As America celebrates the centennial anniversary of the Park's founding, it is important to recognize that a number of other campaign related sites throughout Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Tennessee, used by both the Union and Confederate Armies during the 1862 to 1863 Vicksburg conflict, are in desperate need of study, interpretation, management, and protection.

These are sites that have been listed as historically significant properties on both state and national registries. Unfortunately, many of these same sites, buildings, fortifications, earthworks, and other landmarks along the Vicksburg Campaign Trail route have been identified by the National Trust for Historic Preservation as being among the 11 most endangered historic places in America. The Mississippi Heritage Trust, based in Jackson, also named the Campaign Trail as one of its highest priorities and placed the Vicksburg Trail on its list of most threatened historic areas in the state.

Mr. President, that is why I am introducing legislation today to authorize the Park Service to conduct a feasibility study on the Vicksburg Campaign Trail. A study that will identify options for preserving some of our nation's most important Civil War battlefields and sites.

At the outbreak of the American Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln gathered his ranking civil and military leaders to develop a strategy for ending the war. While seated around a large table examining a map of the nation, Lincoln made a wide sweeping gesture with his hand, and then placed his finger on the map at Vicksburg. He said, "See what a lot of land these fellows hold of which Vicksburg is the key. The war can never be brought to a close until that key is in our pocket."

It was a crucial for the Federal government to regain control of the lower Mississippi River. The goal was to enable troops, supplies and commerce to flow unhindered from the Northwest. Taking the Gibraltar of the Confederacy would sever vital Southern supply routes, achieve a major objective of the Anaconda Plan, and effectively seal the doom of the Confederate capital in Richmond.

Even with Major General Ulysses S. Grant leading the charge, Vicksburg would prove a tough nut to crack. Its powerful Southern batteries were trained on the river and an 8 mile-long swath of earthworks guarded all land based approaches. The reinforced line consisted of nine major forts connected by trenches and rifle pits manned by a garrison of 30,000 troops and 172 mounted guns. These fortifications posed the greatest challenge to Union domination of the Mississippi River.

The campaign to capture Vicksburg, to "pocket the key" to Union victory, lasted 18 months and involved more than 100,000 soldiers. It was here that entire regiments of black soldiers wore the uniform of the United States Army for only the second time in American history. The battle of Vicksburg also involved a number of historic naval engagements between Union gunboats and Confederate warships.

After months of frustration and failure to capture the Confederate bastion, General Grant marched his force of over 45,000 men down the west side of the Mississippi River. With the assistance of the U.S. fleet, Union troops crossed the river below Vicksburg and swiftly moved deep into Mississippi. After five fierce battles, the state capital of Jackson was taken. The Union Army then turned west and marched along the rail line towards Vicksburg. Lt. Gen. John C. Pemberton led the defense of Vicksburg and held the Rebel line for some time. Pemberton refused to succumb to unconditional surrender even after 47 days of siege. He finally relinquished the city on July 4, 1863 after securing paroles for his resistance forces.

Mr. President, many historians consider the battle of Vicksburg to be the most decisive campaign of the Civil War. It was also the most complex combined operation ever undertaken by American armed forces prior to World War II. In fact, the Vicksburg Campaign is required study at the United States Military Academy, the Army War College, and the Commanding General Staff College. These are the men and women who will eventually lead our armed forces. Rather than just read about the conflict in textbooks, troops from military units throughout the country ride the battlefields to experience first hand the tactics of war.

At a time when the movie "Saving Private Ryan" is recognized for its true-to-life depiction of the battlefield on Omaha Beach, Normandy, France, our nation must continue to reflect on the hardships suffered here on our own soil. Those suffered by soldiers and civilians throughout the North and South.

The Vicksburg campaign is truly an example of the pathos of war here on America's shores. Brother fought against brother on opposite sides of the battle lines. In defense of ideals each held dear. During the siege, soldiers fed off the land while the civilian population lived underground to escape the constant bombardment of Union guns—enduring exposure, sickness, and little food. It was a military operation where tens of thousands of lives were lost.

Vicksburg is also an illustration of the healing and reunification that followed Reconstruction. Union and Confederate veterans joined forces to establish Vicksburg National Military Park. We owe these former combatants a debt of gratitude for their efforts. Not only for their distinguished bravery during the most trying of times, but also for the vital legacy they left us all.

Now it is our solemn duty to safeguard the memory of those who fought so dearly during the many battles that occurred to secure Vicksburg by studying the entire campaign trail. For its contribution to our understanding of the Civil War and for its continued influence on American history. This great contest encompassed a vast geographical region. Battle related sites are scattered throughout Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Tennessee. While some landmarks have been lost to age and neglect, it is not to late to protect the hundreds of remnants associated with the campaign that remain to tell the story.

Mr. President, the non-partisan measure offered today is also a key. The key to protecting our national heritage. This bill will begin a much needed process to protect the integrity of the many historic venues associated with the battle of Vicksburg that still exist. Literally hundreds of miles of roads, fields, and bayous were covered by Yankee and Rebel troops during this engagement. To truly understand and appreciate this historic conflict, it is important to look beyond the confines of the Vicksburg National Military Park as it exists today. The 106th Congress needs to build upon the legacy our forefathers left us by developing a comprehensive plan leading to the eventual preservation of the many endangered sites along the four state campaign trail. This Congress needs to authorize this much needed study—the second key. President Lincoln got the first key over one hundred years ago.

Now that 136 years have past, the current President needs the second key.

Without Congressional action, historians, soldiers, re-enactors, and tourists will forever lose direct access to the many at-risk landmarks and battlefields along the Vicksburg campaign route that have not yet disappeared. Sites, that while inexorably linked by time and honor, will simply vanish into the wind without the development of coordinated and comprehensive preservation strategies. Sites where the true experience of history will only be left to words.

Mr. President, I ask my colleagues to join with me in support of this non-partisan measure. Let us take this first and necessary step to protect our national heritage for those who have gone before us and for those yet to come.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

By Mr. MURKOWSKI (for himself and Mr. STEVENS):

S. 711. A bill to allow for the investment of joint Federal and State funds from the civil settlement of damages from the Exxon Valdez oil spill, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

CIVIL SETTLEMENT OF DAMAGES FROM THE "EXXON VALDEZ" OIL SPILL

• Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, we are ten years older, but are we ten years wiser since the Exxon Valdez oil spill?

With the anniversary of the Nation's worst oil spill occurring today, the question most asked by national media is how the environment and wildlife of Alaska has fared. In fact, just last week on a "60 minutes" story this exact question was asked. It was asked not only by the network doing the story, but by the Alaskans being interviewed.

What's particularly frustrating is that in many cases it is still not possible to give informed answers.

In the years since 11.3 million gallons of crude oil bubbled into the sea, the Exxon Valdez Oil Spill (EVOS) Trustees Council has had nearly $800 million of the eventual $900 million that Exxon will pay at their disposal to fund scientific studies. Those studies should have determined the health of marine life, wildlife and the ecosystem of Prince William Sound. But according to the latest summary of scientific studies, while it is possible to say that some species have or are recovering, it is not possible to give a full accounting.

According to a report from the council last month very little is known about the health of cutthroat trout, Dolly Varden, rockfish or Kittlitz's murrelets. And there is only slightly more information on the health of killer whales, pigeon guillemots, cormorants, and common loon, harbor seals and harlequin ducks.

While it is heartening that the Sound appears to be recovering sooner than many thought likely, and that herring and salmon stocks are recovering as are bald eagles and river otters, it is frustrating that more hard scientific data has not been gathered.

That is why, Mr. President, I rise to introduce legislation, on behalf of myself and Senator STEVENS, that will provide for more science to be done on the impacted spill area. The legislation I am introducing will allow for a higher rate of interest to be earned through outside investments of the settlement funds from the Exxon Valdez oil spill.

The legislation specifies that the interest on investments received under this new authority must be used to support marine research and economic restoration projects for the fishing industry and local fishermen. If the trustees choose to use this authority, an additional $20 million to $30 million could be generated for research and restoration between now and 2001.

The legislation further requires the trustees to present a report to Congress recommending a structure the trustees believe would be most effective and appropriate for the administration and expenditure of remaining funds and interest received. This provision is also consistent with comments from the public suggesting that an independent science-oriented board should control the process of funding science projects, rather than trustees who represent agencies that may be seeking project funding.

I, for one, believe the Council's priorities have been misplaced which has necessitated this legislation. They have been unwilling to admit that science does not yet provide many mitigation answers; instead, the spill trustees have decided to go on a land buying spree as an alternative.

This is a mistake, Mr. President.

In a State where 68 percent of all land is federally owned and where individuals own less than 1 percent of all property, the trustees have allocated $416 million of the initial $900 million court settlement just for land acquisitions. They have nearly completed the purchase of 647,000 acres in and around Prince William Sound and just recently voted to set aside an additional $55 million to fund acquisitions, literally, forever even though most of the land being bought was not directly affected by the spill.

Alaska Natives worked for decades to win the 1971 land settlement that gave them control of 44 million acres of Alaska. Now, in less than a quarter of a century, Natives have lost much of the land they had fought to gain—a good part of the Native lands in the region have been reacquired through the actions of the trustees. It is ironic, indeed, that the United States purchased Alaska for $7.2 million in 1867 and that 60 times more money already has been committed to buy back parts of it.

Back in 1994 when $600 million of the settlement was still uncommitted, I urged the trustees to commit the bulk of the settlement to a "permanent fund" that would provide a perpetual source of significant funding for research or mitigation projects. I also urged the trustees to utilize the expertise of the University of Alaska in undertaking those studies. I warned that if too much funding was allocated to land acquisition, or spent on marginal science, less money would be available to fund sound studies to shed light on the mysteries affecting commercial and sport fisheries and marine life and wildlife in the Sound.

In the intervening years we have seen General Accounting Office audits documenting that the trustees have paid on average 56 percent above government-appraised value for the lands it has acquired. We've seen a situation this year where the trustees paid nearly $80 million for lands on Kodiak Island, while the Department of the Interior set the value of those same lands at about one-third that amount when it came to funding revenue sharing payments to the Kodiak Island Borough.

While the trustees recently voted to place about $115 million of the settlement aside to provide interest to fund future scientific studies, I believe the earnings from all of the roughly $170 million still owed by Exxon should be devoted to pay for marine research and monitoring including applied fisheries research. I believe this approach will give us answers, not leave us guessing, about what is happening to the Sound and what we can do to improve the habitat of the region. The legislation we introduce today will begin to address this need.

Long after the Sound has healed its wounds, those lands bought by the trustees will be lost forever to economic activity and to the Native heritage. Nowhere could this be clearer than the example of one Native corporation that agreed to sell its lands with the intent to invest in a perpetual trust to help children go to school and provide solutions to other problems. Instead it was pressured to make a one time payment to each shareholder.

The longest-lasting legacy of the tragedy may be that some of the Natives find themselves like the Biblical Esau who sold his birthright to Jacob for a mess of pottage and bread. When the meal was gone so was his heritage. When that one-time payment has been spent, what will have been gained and what will pass on to their children?

Today, another tragedy is clear, we still do not have the answers to the effects of the spill, even though we had the wherewithal to have obtained them.

Mr. President, immediately following the spill, I sponsored a provision in the Oil Pollution Act of 1990, which was passed by Congress, to create Regional Citizens Advisory Councils, giving local residents the authority and the resources to improve all aspects of oil transport planning and cleanup. Patterned after a concept then in place at the Port of Sullom Voe in the North Sea's Shetland Islands, there is no question that the oversight and creativity that the councils engendered have done the most to make Alaska's oil transportation system the best in the world.

It is time for Congress to act again today, to ensure that we have the resources to obtain the best science available in understanding Prince William Sound. I believe this bill will allow us to do just that.●

• Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I join Senator MURKOWSKI in introducing this bill to allow greater interest to be earned on funds from the civil settlement between Exxon and the State of Alaska and the Federal Government resulting from the 1989 Exxon Valdez oil spill. This is another silver lining from the spill.

Under the civil settlement, Exxon has paid $900 million to the State of Alaska and Federal Government. The settlement established the Exxon Valdez Oil Spill Trustee Council to administer these funds. The Trustee Council is comprised of three Federal and three State representatives.

While I disagree with the Council's decisions to spend much of the funds to acquire land in Alaska, I was pleased by their decision on March 1, 1999 to dedicate $115 million for an endowment for marine research, monitoring, and restoration.

Our bill would allow the Council to invest these funds outside the court registry, where it would earn greater interest than under the court's authority. The bill is similar to the legislation we pursued during the 105th Congress. We are encouraged that the Trustee Council has directed its Executive Director to work with us on this measure, and we will keep an open mind when those discussions begin.

I also intend to explore whether we can merge the EVOS research endowment with the North Pacific Marine Research endowment I created last year with funds received by the Federal Government in the case involving Dinkum Sands oil lease revenue. The EVOS funds can only be used in the spill area, while the Dinkum Sands funds can be used for research relating to any of the marine waters off Alaska. Merging the two would maximize research benefits for Alaska and the Nation, and minimize potential duplication.

In 1997, we established the 19-member North Pacific Research Board to prepare the marine research plan for the Dinkum Sands funds. In 1998, however, during the first year of funding, we simplified the approach so that the University of Alaska has the responsibility for preparing the plan, and the plan must then be approved by the State of Alaska, the Department of the Interior, and the Department of Commerce. Our goal is to update the North Pacific Research Board so that the University will have the central role, but the other entities on the North Pacific Marine Research Board will also have an advisory role in the long term in setting the research priorities.

During our work on this, we will also see whether it is possible to merge the EVOS research endowment with the Dinkum Sands endowment. The bill that Senator MURKOWSKI and I are introducing is the critical piece of the puzzle that will allow greater interest to be earned on the EVOS marine research endowment whether or not we are ultimately able to merge the two.●

By Mr. LOTT (for himself, Mrs. HUTCHISON, Mr. BREAUX, and Mr. WYDEN):

S. 712. A bill to amend title 39, United States Code, to allow postal patrons to contribute to funding for highway-rail grade crossing safety through the voluntary purchase of certain specially issued United States postage stamps; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

THE "LOOK, LISTEN, AND LIVE STAMP ACT"

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, today I, along with Senators HUTCHISON, BREAUX, and WYDEN, introduce the "Look, Listen, and Live Stamp Act." This bill would authorize the U.S. Postal Service to establish a special-rate postage stamp to promote highway-rail grade crossing safety.

There are approximately 150,000 public crossings in America today, the majority of which are equipped with only passive warning devices. In 1998, there were 3,446 grade-crossing collisions involving motor vehicles resulting in 1,950 serious injuries and 422 deaths. A motorist is 40 times more likely to die in a crash involving a train than in a collision involving another motor vehicle. Most recently, this nation witnessed the horror of the Amtrak grade-crossing collision in Bourbonnais, Illinois last week.

Sadly, Mr. President, grade-crossing deaths are preventable. Unfortunately, the cost of separating or eliminating all of these crossings would run into the trillions of dollars, and even the cost of equipping every crossing with the most effective active warning devices would run into the billions of dollars. While the railroad industry and Federal, state, and local governments are slowly reducing the number of grade-crossings and improving others, the process will take decades to complete. Also, about half of all collisions at highway-rail grade crossings occur at crossings equipped with active warning systems in place: flashing lights, bells and gates.

To save lives now, we must intensify our efforts to educate our citizens on the hazards of, and proper method for, crossing a railroad track. The "Look, Listen, and Live Stamp Act" would promote this worthy cause in two ways. First, the stamp itself, and its display in post offices throughout America, would serve as a reminder to all to treat the crossing of a railroad track as a life or death situation. Second, it would provide an additional source of revenue to the Department of Transportation to fund Operation Lifesaver programs. Operation Lifesaver is non-profit, nationwide public education program dedicated to reducing collisions, injuries, and fatalities at intersections where America's roadways meet railways and along railroad rights-of-way. "Look, Listen, and Live" is an Operation Lifesaver slogan intended to remind motor vehicle drivers how to protect their lives when they approach a highway-rail grade crossing.

Mr. President, the bill would authorize the U.S. Postal Service to sell the stamp at up to 25 percent more than the cost of a first-class stamp, with the difference going to the Department of Transportation to provide additional Operation Lifesaver funding. U.S. Postal Service customers could choose to buy these special stamps, and thereby contribute to this worthy cause, or continue to purchase regular first-class stamps at the going rate. The choice would be theirs. Most importantly, the stamp will provide a constant reminder of the need to exercise caution in crossing railroad tracks. Public memory of the Bourbonnais, Illinois incident, and similar fatal collisions, will fade as media interest shifts to new topics. Operation Lifesaver's public awareness programs are an effort to change driver behavior, but additional reminders, such as this stamp, are required.

The lives lost by a driver's careless crossing of a railroad track are usually those in the motor vehicle, but many times include the passengers and crew members of the train. Even when the train crew survives, they are haunted by the memories of helplessly watching these needless deaths. This is a nationwide problem, but a March 22, 1999, USA Today article detailed the dangers of this problem in my home state of Mississippi. I want to dedicate this bill to the families of the victims of the Amtrak "City of New Orleans" collision in Bourbonnais last week, especially to the families of the five victims from Mississippi: June Bonnin and Jessica Tickle of Nesbit, Mississippi, Lacey Lipscomb and Rainey Lipscomb of Lake Cormorant, Mississippi, and Sheena Dowe of Jackson, Mississippi.

Mr. President, I ask my colleagues to join me in cosponsoring this bill.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Look, Listen, and Live Stamp Act".

SEC. 2. SPECIAL POSTAGE STAMPS TO BENEFIT HIGHWAY-RAIL GRADE CROSSING SAFETY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 4 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 414 the following:

§ 414a. Special postage stamps for highway-rail grade crossing safety

"(a) In order to afford the public a convenient way to contribute to funding for highway-rail grade crossing safety, the Postal Service shall establish a special rate of postage for first-class mail under this section.

(b) The rate of postage established under this section—

"(1) shall be equal to the regular first-class rate of postage, plus a differential of not to exceed 25 percent;

"(2) shall be set by the Governors in accordance with such procedures as the Governors shall by regulation prescribe (in lieu of the procedures under chapter 36); and

"(3) shall be offered as an alternative to the regular first-class rate of postage.

"(c) The use of the special rate of postage established under this section shall be voluntary on the part of postal patrons.

"(d)(1) Amounts becoming available for highway-rail grade crossing safety under this section shall be paid by the Postal Service to the Department of Transportation for Operation Lifesaver. Payments under this section shall be made under such arrangements as the Postal Service shall by mutual agreement with the Department of Transportation establish in order to carry out the purposes of this section, except that, under those arrangements, payments to the Department of Transportation shall be made at least twice a year.

"(2) For purposes of this section, the term 'amounts becoming available for highway-rail grade crossing safety under this section' means—

"(A) the total amounts received by the Postal Service that the Postal Service would not have received but for the enactment of this section, reduced by

"(B) an amount sufficient to cover reasonable costs incurred by the Postal Service in carrying out this section, including those attributable to the printing, sale, and distribution of stamps under this section, as determined by the Postal Service under regulations that it shall prescribe.

"(e) It is the sense of Congress that nothing in this section should—

"(1) directly or indirectly cause a net decrease in total funds received by the Department of Transportation for Operation Lifesaver below the level that would otherwise have been received but for the enactment of this section; or

"(2) affect regular first-class rates of postage or any other regular rates of postage.

"(f) Special postage stamps under this section shall be made available to the public beginning on such date as the Postal Service shall by regulation prescribe, but in no event later than 12 months after the date of the enactment of this section.

"(g) The Postmaster General shall include in each report rendered under section 2402 with respect to any period during any portion of which this section is in effect information, concerning the operation of this section, except that, at a minimum, each report shall include—

"(1) the total amount described in subsection (d)(2)(A) which was received by the Postal Service during the period covered by such report; and

"(2) of the amount under paragraph (1), how much (in the aggregate and by category) was required for the purposes described in subsection (d)(2)(B).

"(h) This section shall cease to be effective at the end of the 2-year period beginning on the date on which special postage stamps under this section are first made available to the public."

(b) REPORT BY THE COMPTROLLER GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES.—Not later than 3 months (but not earlier than 6 months) before the end of the 2-year period referred to in section 414a(h) of title 39, United States Code (as amended by subsection (a)), the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to Congress a report on the operation of such section. Such report shall include—

(1) an evaluation of the effectiveness and the appropriateness of the authority provided by such section as a means of fundraising; and

(2) a description of the monetary and other resources required of the Postal Service in carrying out such section.

(c) TECHNICAL AND CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) TABLE OF SECTIONS.—The table of sections for chapter 4 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by striking the item relating to section 414 and inserting the following:

“414. Special postage stamps for breast cancer research.”

“414a. Special postage stamps for highway-rail grade crossing safety.”

(2) SECTION HEADING.—The heading for section 414 of title 39, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:
