

urban planners and landscape architects of our time, Tom, sincerely believed, and practically applied, during his long tenure with the Parks Department, the concept that harmonious urban living demanded adequate opportunities for individuals to recreate. His pride and efforts in the development and maintenance of recreational outlets was formally recognized in 1974 when the Buffalo Recreation Society presented him with its Outstanding Service Award.

Finally, in spite of all his work on behalf of others, Tom utilized his unique talents and considerable energy to balance his outside activities with an extreme dedication to his own family. Therefore, it is with great pleasure and pride that I join Tom's family, especially his wife Mary (Hanratty), who passed away in 1999; his daughter Marilynn; his sons Mark J., John T., and Thomas E.; his grandchildren John, Alyson, Liam, Lauren, John A. (Jace), Molly; his great grandchildren Rachel, Bridget and great-great grandchild, Maria Christina; his former players, protégés, employees, friends, and a grateful city in giving special recognition for his induction into the W.N.Y. Hall of Fame and his immeasurable contributions to youth development in the Buffalo area.

Mr. Speaker, if the measure of a man's life is his positive influence on others, it can be said, without equivocation, that the legacy of Thomas J. Caulfield will continue for generations through the lives of those he mentored and touched.

WELCOMING TRADITIONS!

HON. TOM UDALL

OF NEW MEXICO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 17, 2000

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, I would like to bring to your attention the grand opening of Traditions! which is located in my district. Let me first start by thanking Michael Gallegos and James Long and the many others who have worked so hard to establish a shopping and cultural center that keeps alive the culture, traditions and heritage of New Mexico.

While New Mexico proudly proclaims itself as the State of many cultures—some call it a melting pot, others a mosaic—we all have at least one thing in common, and that is keeping together our strong connection to the history and traditions of our state. The heritage of those cultures is rich and proud, is very much alive here today, and one which should be cherished and passed on.

Traditions! has been boasted in various articles as most likely being the largest incubator program for start-up retail businesses my state has ever seen. Traditions! is one of the few multicultural centers in the country that showcases and preserves New Mexico's unique rich, and historical cultures.

This center will contain unique stores and shops that will showcase Indian and Hispanic Arts. Visitors find restaurants which reflect the culinary specialties of New Mexico—like posole, tortillas and green chile burgers. The center will serve as a gathering place where both residents and tourists can come to learn about the culture and traditions of New Mexico.

Native American, Spanish, Mexican, and Anglo cultures will all be featured during year round events and performances—such as exhibits, shows, and festivals.

The economic impact that the center will have is also impressive. More than a hundred jobs will be created, and over a thousand artists will be invited to showcase and sell their work.

That is why Traditions! is so relevant. For our future to be as promising as our past has been successful, we need to keep alive the cultural traditions, history, and heritage of our state. This center not only contributes to the economy of our state—it also helps to preserve our history and spirit.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH

HON. EARL POMEROY

OF NORTH DAKOTA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 17, 2000

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, during the month of October, people across the nation will don purple ribbons in support of National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. As an effort to increase public awareness of a problem that causes anguish to so many, residents in my home state of North Dakota, as well as across the nation, will participate in myriad events, such as candlelight vigils, "Take Back the Night" rallies, and other educational demonstrations.

Domestic violence is one of our nation's most prevalent, yet misunderstood, tragedies. The North Dakota Council on Abused Women's Services recently released statistics concerning domestic violence and sexual assault in 1999 that should alarm us all. Last year, 5,821 incidents of domestic violence were reported to crisis intervention centers in North Dakota. These incidents involved 3,597 new victims. Among the victims, 95% were women, 37% were under the age of 30, and 2% were under the age of 18.

The North Dakota Council on Abused Women's Services also reported that at least 4,750 children were directly impacted by domestic violence incidents in 1999. This does not include the large number of unreported cases. Withdrawal, low self-esteem, nightmares, self-blame and aggression against peers, family members and property are just a few of the emotional and behavioral disturbances that children who witness violence at home display. These effects stay with a child ultimately influencing their educational, professional and personal life.

While commemorating this month of awareness, I am proud to also mark the sixth anniversary of one of the most important stands Congress has ever taken against domestic violence: The Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). Through programs that bolster prosecution of sexual assault and domestic violence, increase victim services, and step up education and prevention activities, VAWA has gone far to protect individuals from sexual offenses and domestic abuse. I am pleased to announce that through a bipartisan effort H.R. 1248, the Violence Against Women Act of 1999, of which I was an original co-sponsor, passed in the House of Representatives. This legislation reauthorizes VAWA programs for five more years allowing a number of federal grant programs intended to care for those affected by these tragic crimes to continue.

Domestic violence will not end until the nation as a whole unites in saying "no more!" Each time one person learns of a domestic violence situation and decides to turn her head she is, in effect, approving of the situation and allowing it to continue. As members of society we must become proactive and take a stand against this horrific situation.

H.R. 5474 AMENDING TITLE 38 TO PROVIDE COMPENSATION FOR VETERANS DISABLED BY TREATMENT OR VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION

HON. PATSY T. MINK

OF HAWAII

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 17, 2000

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce an important piece of legislation. H.R. 5474 will allow veterans disabled by treatment or vocational rehabilitation to receive compensation from the day they were disabled while under VA care.

The occurrence of medical malpractice in which veterans are disabled while under Veterans Affairs' care is rare compared with the total number of veterans served every year. In 1997, the last year in which data was available, there were 826,846 inpatients treated and 32,640,000 outpatient visits at VA medical centers at a cost of $17.149 billion. There are 173 VA medical centers, more than 391 outpatient and outreach clinics, 131 nursing home care units and 39 domiciliaries.

Without this network of government run VA hospitals, clinics and nursing care units, many veterans would never receive the care available to them. However, it is clear that the care provided is not always of the highest quality. Worse than inadequate care are the instances in which veterans receive care that leaves them further disabled.

Since 1990, 9,597 administrative malpractice claims were filed by Veterans with VA and 2,134 were settled. The total amount paid in claims settled was nearly $1.73 million.

During the same time period, 2,064 veterans filed court claims against VA. 626 of these court claims were dismissed, the U.S. won 272, and plaintiffs won 129 court claims for a total of $65,858,110. 1,315 VA court claims were settled out of court by VA, in the amount of $253,464,632.

In 1958 Congress established Title 38, U.S.C. Sec. 1151, Benefits for Persons Disabled by Treatment or Vocational Rehabilitation. Along with Sec. 1151, Sec. 5110 of the same Title established the effective date of an award for disability incurred during treatment or vocational rehabilitation. These two sections ensured that veterans disabled by their treatment received compensation. This was the fair and right thing to do.

A close review of these sections reveals an inconsistency. While the U.S. Code allowed compensation for veterans disabled by treatment or vocational rehabilitation, it established an arbitrary cut off date of one year to deny individuals full compensation.

Individuals who are unable or not aware of this arbitrary application date for medical malpractice claims should not be denied full compensation for administrative reasons. Statutes of limitations like this are important for preserving the rights of individuals but the VA should be held to a different standard.

Veterans who prove that they were disabled while under the care of Veterans Affairs should be compensated from the day of their injury regardless of their date of application.

This bill will repeal U.S. Code Section 5110 which allows Veterans Affairs to avoid its responsibility to veterans it disables during treatment or vocational rehabilitation. H.R. 5474 also allows veterans who did not receive full and fair compensation from the date of their injury to receive this compensation upon enactment of this bill.

I urge my colleagues to end this unfair practice by cosponsoring H.R. 5474.

SECURE RURAL SCHOOLS AND COMMUNITY SELF-DETERMINATION ACT OF 2000

SPEECH OF

HON. LARRY COMBEST

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 10, 2000

Mr. COMBEST. Mr. Speaker, as the Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, which has primary jurisdiction over the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-determination Act of 2000 (H.R. 2389), I rise on behalf of myself and Mr. STENHOLM, the ranking member of the committee, to explain the intent behind a number of provisions in the bill and how we expect these provisions to be carried out. We will address these roughly in the order in which they appear in the bill.

Sections 101(a), 102(a), 102(b) and 102(c) of Title I provide how payments to states and allocations to the counties within those states should be calculated and made under this Act. The intent behind these provisions is to ensure that each county's elective share of a state's full payment amount be based, to the extent practicable, on the county's historic percentage of the 25% payments received by the state during the eligibility period. Thus, if over the course of the eligibility period a county received 10% of the aggregate payments made to the state, that county would be allocated 10% of the amount calculated for the state under section 101(a) if the county elected to receive its full payment amount.

It is understood that there will be exceptions to this general rule based on the individual circumstances of states and counties. Congress has been careful to delegate the determination of each county's portion of a state's full payment amount to the state to accommodate these exceptions. It is expected, however, that such exceptions will be relatively rare and the reasons for them compelling.

Title II of the bill establishes a significant new role for counties and local stakeholders in federal land management decision-making. It is essential to explain several provisions in this Title to ensure that it is carried out in a way that will meet the intended policy objectives.

The overarching intent of Title II is to foster local creativity and innovation with regard to the projects that participating counties and resource advisory committees propose to the Secretary. This necessarily requires the Secretary concerned to flexibly construe the provisions in this title. It is understood that not every project proposed by resource advisory committees will succeed. It is expected, however, that participating counties and resource advisory committees be given every opportunity, within the parameters of existing law, to make their ideas work.

Section 202 establishes a general limitation on the use of project funds to ensure that such funds are used on projects that meet "resource objectives consistent with the purposes of this Title." This provision is further explained by subsection 203(c), which states that projects submitted to the Secretary under this title "shall be consistent with section 2(b)." Thus, projects conducted under Title II are permissible provided they meet the objectives identified in section 2(b).

A similar dynamic exists between sections 204(f) and 203(c). Section 204(f) requires that 50% of all Title II project funds be used for road maintenance, decommissioning or obliteration or for the restoration of streams and watersheds. It is expected that these requirements be construed to include a broad range of projects that are consistent with the requirements of section 2(b), as provided by section 203(c). For example, a forest thinning project that meets the requirements of section 2(b) would also meet the requirements of section 204(f) if its purpose were to restore the vegetation within a watershed to a more fire-resistant state.

Section 203(a)(1) provides that resource advisory committees must submit project proposals to the Secretary concerned "not later than September 30 for fiscal year 2001 and each September 30 thereafter for each succeeding fiscal year through fiscal year 2006. This provision is reiterated in section 207(a). The relationship between the participating county and the resource advisory committee under these provisions is significant to the policy objectives that these provisions seek to achieve.

It is intended that the participating county and the resource advisory committee come to an agreement on the projects to be undertaken prior to submission of such projects to the Secretary concerned. It is for this reason that the date by which the county must elect whether to reserve project funds for Title II projects and the date by which the resource advisory committee must submit Title II project proposals to the Secretary concerned are identical.

It is expected that counties and resource advisory committees will come to an agreement on the projects that will be proposed to the Secretary concerned in advance of the September 30 deadline for each fiscal year. However, it is also understood that, in some cases, this deadline will not be met. It is for this reason that language has been included under section 207(b) allowing unobligated project funds from one fiscal year to be rolled over for use in the subsequent fiscal year. Thus, if agreement between the participating county and resource advisory committee is not reached by the conclusion of a fiscal year, the county may defer its election regarding the use of such funds to the subsequent fiscal year. A resource advisory committee may not, under any circumstance, propose a project to the Secretary concerned over the objection of the participating county.

Section 204(e)(3) establishes a pilot program for the implementation of projects involving merchantable material. The central concept tested in this pilot program, as identified in paragraph 3(A), is the use of separate contracts for the removal and sale of such material.

This provision purposely does not specify how merchantable material shall be handled or transported between removal and sale. This provides maximum flexibility to federal resource managers and private contractors to innovate in ways that will minimize costs and optimize efficiencies while meeting desirable resource management objectives. It is expected, for example, that federal managers will work with private contractors to develop creative ways to minimize transportation and other transactional costs associated with the contracts. It is also expected that implementation of the pilot program will not create market competition between the Secretary and the private sector in markets for the sale and use of merchantable materials.

It is intended that the Secretary concerned will implement this pilot program, to the extent practicable, on a voluntary basis. The Secretary should first include projects in the pilot that have been requested for inclusion by resource advisory committees. The Secretary concerned should not require a project to be included in the pilot program over the objection of a resource advisory committee or participating county if inclusion is not necessary to meet the percentage requirements of the pilot or if other projects that would not draw objections from resource advisory committees are available for inclusion.

The annual percentage requirements provided under paragraph 3(B) requires only that a fixed percentage of all projects involving merchantable material be included in the pilot program for a given fiscal year. This provision is purposefully silent on the size and cost of projects to be included in the pilot. It is intended that the Secretary will, to the extent practicable, limit the pilot program to projects that are smaller in scope in order to test the premises of the pilot with minimal impact on other projects involving merchantable material carried out under Title II.

Paragraph 3(E) authorizes the Secretary concerned to use funds from any appropriated account, not to exceed $1 million annually, to administer projects under the pilot program. It is intended that the Secretary use this authority only to the extent that it does not reduce or otherwise interfere with program delivery within the accounts from which such funds are taken.

Section 204(e)(3)(E) requires the Comptroller General to review the pilot program and report to Congress on its effectiveness. It is intended that such report will be the basis for determining whether the pilot program should continue. Should the Comptroller General find that the program is not performing efficiently, that it is creating market competition between the government and the private sector, that is hindering the successful planning or implementation of projects, or that it is deterring resource advisory committees from proposing projects involving merchantable material, it is expected that the program will be terminated.

Section 205 establishes resource advisory committees to assist counties in the selection and proposal of projects under Title II and Title III. Because the success of each advisory committee will depend largely on the cooperation of its members, it is expected that the Secretary will appoint to resource advisory committees only individuals who have a demonstrated ability to work collaboratively with
