

and daughter of former Governor Mike Sullivan. In fact, they are moving to Sheridan, Wyoming, where they will soon have their first child.

As a citizen of the West, Brian has chosen to tackle those issues that most often divide westerners—natural resources, energy, and the environment. Time and again, his ability to bring people together has demonstrated that the West need not be divided on these issues—that we can and must work together if we are to build a sustainable region with a society as inspiring as our landscape.

Let me mention a few examples of the significant solutions that Brian has helped forge over the last four years.

When Brian joined me in the spring of 1997, he had just helped broker a compromise among the White House, regional conservation organizations, and a large mining company, Battle Mountain Gold, that would conserve an area next to Cooke City, Montana, right on the doorstep of Yellowstone National Park. The proposed New World gold mine had been immensely controversial, with the project expected to generate millions of tons of acidic mine waste. Across the West, controversies such as this usually drag on endlessly, dividing communities and draining resources.

Brian had worked closely with all the actors while he was in the non-profit sector. His first task in my office was to help secure approval of this agreement in the Congress. In the end, Congress funded the public commitment and also agreed to invest funds to rehabilitate the Going-to-the-Sun Road to compensate local communities for lost economic opportunities.

What a great start to Brian's tenure here.

In 1997 and 1998, Brian helped me pass legislation to complete the final phase of the Gallatin II Land Exchange—one of the most complex and multifaceted land exchanges ever completed by the Forest Service. Brian worked tirelessly with all of the interests in this exchange—sportsmen, conservationists, the snowmobile community, the timber industry, local ranchers, and local homeowners. Ultimately, the Gallatin II Land Exchange became law. We secured a tremendous resource for our children and grandchildren. And every interest concerned supported the compromises that Brian helped forge.

In 1998, Brian helped me with legislation on another series of land exchanges near Helena, Montana, at the Canyon Ferry Reservoir. Working with the cabin owners and local sportsmen, Brian helped me create a novel arrangement that was supported by everyone involved.

These are just a few illustrations of the many significant contributions Brian Kuehl has made to me and to the people of Montana. I thank Brian for those contributions. I thank him for serving as role model for the younger staff in my office. I thank him for his service as a key advisor to me.

Albert Einstein once said, "Try not to become a man of success, but rather try to become a man of value." Well, Brian has demonstrated both success and value over the past four years. I wish the best for Brian, his wife Michelle, and their soon to be born child.●

RECOGNITION OF THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF COMMUNITY BANK

● Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I stand here today to recognize an institution that has remained a staple in Carmichaels and the Southwestern Corner of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the past one hundred years. Community Bank, N.A. has persevered through recessions, depressions, World Wars, other failed financial institutions, bank foreclosures, market chaos, and mergers and acquisitions without ever having to close its doors. Community Bank, N.A. remains a consistent financial force to its community by providing sound, uninterrupted service to its customers for one hundred years. I would like to warmly congratulate this financial institution for its solid judgement and thoughtful service to the people of Southwestern Pennsylvania. Community Bank is not only a reliable bank, but is a friendly neighbor and has truly contributed to the history and hometown atmosphere of Carmichaels and other communities in which the bank serves.

When The First National Bank of Carmichaels opened its doors for business on July 1, 1901, Frank Mitchener was elected president of the Board of Directors, and J. Ewing Baily was its first vice president. Stephen A. Burtner served as treasurer and the remainder of the original board was comprised of Samuel Bunting, Isaac B. Patterson, George W. Strawn, N.H. Biddle and Oscar Hartley. Mr. Dowlin drove a buckboard to the Farmer's and Drovers Bank in Waynesburg to get the cash for opening day. Forty-one original stockholders combined to give the bank a capital stock of $25,000.

Richard L. Baily, kin of one of the original founders, and former bank president and Chairman of the Board for over 70 years, is known in Southwestern Pennsylvania for his selfless service to the communities in which the bank serves. Baily tells the story of a lady who once came to the bank to borrow money to buy shoes so her children could go to school. Her husband was unemployed and they lived in a rented house, but she had heard the bank loaned money for worthwhile causes. "I didn't think I needed to review her assets, and I'm sure she would not [have understood] the term, collateral," Baily said. He loaned her the money, and the woman, like most other townsfolk, has remained loyal to the hometown bank that has been loyal to them, in good economic times and bad. The tradition of local loyalty and service continued through Charles R. Baily (son of Richard) whom also formerly served as a director and chairman of the bank's board. "Community bank is a local landmark that provides financial direction and services to our community friends and neighbors. Hometown commitment has been our bank's pledge for the past 100 years, and that's what it will continue to be," says Community Bank Chairman/CEO Ralph J. Sommers, Jr.

Known as Community Bank, N.A. since September 1987 (a change in name only to better reflect its larger community growth), the locally-owned and operated financial institution has had a consistent growth in assets, staff, geographic market area, and the numbers of civic and community organizations to which it has contributed.

Today, Community Bank, N.A. has some $220 million in assets, is publicly traded as CMYC, boasts 10 branches in Greene and Washington Counties, employs about 100 people in satisfying jobs, and contributes thousands of dollars and many people-hours to scores of local civic, charitable, and philanthropic organizations.

The bank's growth is largely attributed to sound management practices, investments in technology, and community commitment at every level. Local deposits remain in the communities the bank serves in an effort to better improve the economic vibrancy of local businesses and the quality of life of residents. Unquestionably, the bank's most valuable assets—its customers, employees, and shareholders—collectively play an integral role in the prosperity of the bank and the communities it serves. The pioneering spirit of that first group of founders in Carmichaels continues in those who have followed, with unparalleled customer service and a community commitment of an incalculable life expectancy.

From this amount of information, you can see what a huge role that Community Bank has played in the establishment of the economy and history in Greene and Washington Counties. They are not just a financial institution, but a reliable and friendly staple to the people of the area. I enthusiastically ask my colleagues to join me in commending Community Bank as they celebrate their Centennial.●

IN RECOGNITION OF CAROLE ANDERSON GRAVES

● Mr. TORRICELLI. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize Carole Anderson Graves, as she is honored by the Beta Alpha Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority in cooperation with the New Jersey Performing Arts Center during the 3rd Annual Kwanza Festival honoring the community elders of Newark, New Jersey.

Our cities and towns are constantly in need of individuals willing to give of themselves for the benefit of the community at-large. The individuals who fulfill this need are the volunteers and the public servants who improve the world around us in ways that often go unseen. It therefore fitting that from time to time we take a moment to recognize their efforts.

Carole Anderson Graves has an extensive record of service to the Newark community. Since 1995, she has served as the Essex County Register of Deeds and Mortgages. In that capacity, Mrs. Graves has overseen the recording, filing and preserving of all property transactions within the 22 municipalities of Essex County.

Mrs. Graves also has given great deal to the furtherance of education in the Newark area. For nine years, Mrs. Graves was employed as a Special Education teacher at the Dayton Street School and spent twenty-seven years as the full-time President of the Newark Teachers Union. She is also an adjunct professor/lecturer of Labor Relations at Essex County Community College and Rutgers Institute of Labor and Management Relations.

The city of Newark has been truly fortunate to have someone of the talents and dedication of Mrs. Graves within the community. It is an honor to be able to recognize her on this special occasion.●

IN MEMORY OF GREGORY W. MOYER

● Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to the life of a young man who passed away unexpectedly on Saturday, December 2, 2000. Gregory W. Moyer was the nephew of my friend and former staffer Pat Morrissey. Greg was a 15-year-old basketball player, honor student, and community volunteer from Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pennsylvania. He collapsed during a high school basketball game, victim of an undetected heart defect. At six-foot-three-inches and 220 pounds, his classmates knew him as a "gentle giant." Greg's Aunt Patricia says that, "He could read hearts, young and old alike. He knew what was important."

Pat, please know that our thoughts and prayers are with you and your family.●

RECOGNIZING DALLAS TONSAGER

● Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize Dallas Tonsager for his years of extraordinary public service as South Dakota's State Director of the United States Department of Agriculture's, USDA, Rural Development, RD, office. Dallas has been a tireless advocate on behalf of rural communities and area residents. His commitment and dedication to ensure the long-term viability of rural communities will continue to cultivate opportunities for rural growth and prosperity for many years to come. Dallas has earned the respect and friendship of those who know him in South Dakota, Washington, D.C. and around the country. On behalf of the citizens of South Dakota, it is my honor to express our sincere gratitude to Dallas Tonsager for his countless contributions and achievements.

In 1993, President Clinton asked Dallas to bring his talent, integrity, ingenuity, and initiative to federal service to help the Administration address the concerns of Rural America. Dallas accepted the challenge and was appointed director of the former South Dakota Farmers Home Administration by President Clinton. Currently he oversees approximately 80 employees across the state in several Rural Development offices. Prior to his USDA service, Dallas was a two-term South Dakota Farmers Union President, first elected in 1987. Dallas, his wife Sharon, and their family continue to actively participate in a diversified family farm partnership near Oldham, South Dakota. It is clear that from his roots on the family farm, to his service for South Dakota Farmers Union and USDA, Dallas has always had the perspective of the hard working, rural, South Dakota citizen close to his heart. Indeed, he is respected by his colleagues across the country and was presented with the "Hammer Award," by Vice-President GORE in 1995. In 1999, Dallas was recognized as one of two Outstanding Rural Development State Directors in the entire nation by USDA Rural Development Under Secretary Jill Long Thompson.

Rural Development takes a comprehensive approach towards economic development in rural areas, offering loans, grants, and other resources to rural citizens, communities, and Indian reservations. Dallas truly served as a partner in helping the people of rural South Dakota develop sustainable communities. He and his RD staff targeted financial and technical resources to areas of great need throughout the state in order to improve the quality of life. In his Rural Development tenure, Dallas has overseen the distribution of over $578 million in grants, loans and loan guarantees over the past six years in South Dakota. As such, the South Dakota RD office has been a central figure in the creation of many successful economic development projects in our state.

For instance, the South Dakota Rural Development office was responsible for helping to create one of the first Enterprise Communities in the country—the Beadle and Spink Enterprise Community, BASEC. Additionally, RD assisted in developing the very first American Indian Empowerment Zone in the United States at the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. Under the leadership of Dallas, Rural Development helped establish the South Dakota Value Added Agriculture Development Center, which now creates opportunities for farmers and ranchers to add value to the raw commodities produced on their operations, and capture the profits from these value-added products. Dallas is one of South Dakota's leading advocates of farmer-owned value-added cooperatives in South Dakota.

Through the Rural Housing Service, South Dakota Rural Development has disbursed $320 million since 1995, which has benefitted nearly 6,000 families in our state. Moreover, RD has distributed $173 million in funding under the Rural Business Cooperative Service program, which has saved 2,001 and created another 1,414 jobs in South Dakota since 1995.

Finally, Dallas and his family have always been dedicated to public service, and I know he will continue to contribute to our state and it's citizens in the future. Therefore, I wish him all the best and I will continue to rely upon his valuable insight on the economic development needs in South Dakota. On behalf of the people of South Dakota, I want to thank Dallas for being a true public servant who has helped improve the quality of life for thousands of people all across South Dakota.●

CLOUDCROFT, NEW MEXICO

● Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, recently the city of Cloudcroft, New Mexico was named one of the world's "10 Overlooked and Underrated Winter Destinations," by the editors of Fodor's Travel Publications.

Cloudcroft hasn't changed much over the years. There are more summer homes than before, but the permanent population has not grown substantially, and the Village still maintains a small-town atmosphere that is so appealing to the tourists who come from every state in the Union and many foreign countries. They appreciate the attitude of the locals and the laid-back feeling of the community as contrasted to the high-speed life in the big cities.

Cloudcroft is located in the southeastern area of New Mexico. A small mountain village located in the heart of the Lincoln National Forest. It is a great travel location for both the outdoors and indoors visitors. For individuals who enjoy the outdoors, it offers year-round hiking, mountain biking, skiing, golfing and other activities. For the indoors visitors it offers a variety of unique shops, restaurants, and museums.

Cloudcroft is not commonly known for its glitzy ski resorts like other cities in New Mexico but rather as a perfect location for families learning the ropes. It offers a number of great inns and the distinction of having no stoplights. A great place for families to take their vacations. Children can play outside and adults can enjoy the quietness of the village.

Cloudcroft offers several festive events such as the New Year's Eve Torchlight Parade down the Cloudcroft mountain, caroling in the Clouds and Currier & Ives Candelit Christmas in December, or the full-moon ice-skating in February.

When visiting Cloudcroft, one must not miss the opportunity to go sledding on the dunes of White Sands National Monument or visit the Sunspot National Solar Observatory. No matter
