

odious ways." (Testimony of Rev. Patrick J. Wilson III before the House Subcommittee on the Constitution, February 26, 1998; Preliminary and Jurisdictional Statement in Trinity Baptist Church v. City of Richmond, (E.D.Va. filed August 20, 1997).)

Twenty-two of the twenty-nine zoning codes in the northern suburbs of Chicago effectively exclude churches, unless they have a special use permit. Zoning authorities hold almost wholly discretionary power over whether a house of worship may locate in these areas. John Mauck, a Chicago attorney who serves many churches in this area, handled the case of a church, His Word Ministries to All Nations, interested in buying property after it outgrew its space in the basement of a home. When it sought a special use permit in 1992, an alderman delayed the request three times, resulting in months of delay in the purchase of the building. After the third postponement of the hearing, the alderman had the church's property rezoned as a manufacturing district. Because churches cannot locate in a manufacturing district, the church was forced to withdraw its application for special use after paying filing, attorney and appraiser fees. The church spent approximately $5,000 and wasted an entire year seeking the special use permit. (Testimony of John Mauck before the House Subcommittee on the Constitution, March 26, 1998; Affidavit of Virginia Kantor in Civil Liberties for Urban Believers v. City of Chicago (N.D. Ill. 1994); Testimony of Douglas Laycock before the House Subcommittee on the Constitution, July 14, 1998).

In his testimony, Marc Stern stated that orthodox synagogues are often required to have a specific number of parking spaces, based on the number of seats in the sanctuary—even though the sanctuary will be filled with worshippers who do not drive. (Testimony of Marc Stern before the House Subcommittee on the Constitution, March 26, 1998).

Chicago attorney John Mauck testified about several cases of racially motivated opposition to black churches, and about a case in which the mayor told his city manager that they didn't want Hispanics in the town. He also testified about other statements of bigotry. Marc Stern testified about a case in which a small congregation sought permission to convert a private home into a small synagogue. One council member considering the converted use "warned that if the application was granted, this nearly all white suburb would begin to resemble an adjoining city which was largely minority and full of storefront churches." (Testimony of John Mauck before the House Subcommittee on the Constitution, March 26, 1998; Testimony of Douglas Laycock before the House Subcommittee on the Constitution, July 14, 1998; Testimony of Marc Stern before the House Subcommittee on the Constitution, March 26, 1998).
