

to do before the big meet this weekend," I replied.

Being responsible isn't always easy, but anything that's worth while rarely is. However, I know from experience that responsibility pays off.

Responsibility is an active character trait—it is something that must be demonstrated rather than just an attribute that a person possesses. Being responsible means putting impulsive actions on hold and making good decisions based on sound judgment while keeping one's long term goals in mind and acting accordingly. Following this approach to responsibility has helped me maintain outstanding grades and become an emerging leader to my team and classmates. Everyone can and should be responsible to a certain degree and accountable for their actions. A responsible person is dependable, reliable, and trustworthy. Living with these traits has opened up numerous possibilities for me and helped me to further mature and become even more responsible.

As a captain of my cross country team, I am responsible for my teammates to a certain extent although they are still responsible for themselves and we are all held accountable by our coach. For example, I am responsible for locking up the locker room and making sure that everyone knows about all practice times. I must be dependable and reliable to fulfill these duties and trustworthy so as not to abuse my authority. These actions, in turn, allow me to set a good example and be looked up to by my teammates as a positive role model. I have become confident in myself as a result of being responsible and have become able to handle additional responsibilities.

I have increased my responsibility in my community resulting from my experiences in a team setting. I am often asked by my neighbors to take care of their houses and pets while they are on vacation. I have done this for time periods of up to five weeks! Doing this task takes discipline and self control in making sure that the necessary duties are completed without fail and whether or not I am in the mood for the job.

Successful instances of responsibility within my community have led me to seek responsibility to my country. Having recently turned eighteen years old, I upheld my national responsibility to register with the Selective Service System and was eager in becoming a registered voter. I have learned that the significance of responsibility is that it grows proportionally in that small responsibilities soon lead to larger responsibilities, which is an essential part of growing up. The circumstances in life are always changing, by responsibility is always a good choice and responsibility has continually changed my life for the better.●
