In addition to these contributions, Dr. Muick has distinguished herself through her contributions to the development of a countywide Agricultural Easement Plan and countywide Open Space Plan for Solano County.

She has also provided invaluable assistance in expanding the docent program at Rush Ranch, which each year gives more than 1,500 school children the opportunity to learn about the customs and lives of the Native Americans who were the original inhabitants of this land.

Mr. Speaker, it is appropriate that we recognize Ms. Muick today for her innumerable contributions to her community and that we wish her well in her new position as Executive Director of the California Native Plant Society.

CORPORATE FRAUD AND THE ECONOMY, "LET'S ROLL!"

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, July 22, 2002

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, let's roll!

Earlier today this distinguished body of lawmakers passed H.R. 3917, a measure which acknowledged the bravery of the passengers of Flight 93. As you know, on September 11, 2001, Flight 93 was captured by terrorists who intended to use that aircraft as a weapon of mass destruction. They failed because the American people resisted and said, "Let's roll!" The terrorists that took over Flight 93 were selfish individuals acting without morality, accountability, or shame. Their actions attempted to rob Americans of their security and cast a dark cloud over the future. When faced with that crisis, the passengers of Flight 93 declared, "Let's Roll!"

Well Mr. Speaker, we are once again faced with the actions of selfish individuals that are acting without morality, accountability, or shame. These individuals have managed to rob the American people of their financial security, thereby casting a dark cloud over the future. This time corporate greed, as opposed to an aircraft, is the weapon of mass destruction. We cannot stand by idly while the U.S. economy is robbed for personal gain, American lives are destroyed, investor confidence plummets, and a dark cloud is placed over the retirement plans of millions. Mr. Speaker, let's roll!

Among other things, corporate executives have overstated the profits of their companies by billions of dollars. This fraud has caused stock prices to plummet and wiped out the savings of hardworking Americans that invested in these companies as they prepared for retirement.

Why would a company find it so easy to overstate their profits? How is it possible to tell such a monumental lie and get away with it? If the average citizen were to overstate their income, the Internal Revenue Service would come after them looking for its share; many Americans have discovered that the IRS can be a relentless creditor. That fact alone is enough to keep the average American honest. However, our biggest corporations and corporate executives are not concerned. They have been allowed to self-regulate, thereby evading tax laws and creating a work ethic that is devoid of ethics and thrives on greed.

Big businesses have not been concerned with their overstatement of profits because they were not making the requisite tax payments and did not believe they would be caught. Consequently, they felt free to lie and evade tax laws without shame or remorse. These companies are apparently indifferent to the public needs that tax revenue is needed to support. They do not seem to care if the elderly are not able to receive prescription drugs and good health care; they do not seem to care if roads and sidewalks are poorly maintained; they do not seem to care if highways and bridges are overcrowded; and they do not seem to care if public schools are understaffed and inadequately supplied. One reason they probably do not seem to care is because they have the tacit assistance of key leadership in the Republican party as they short change the national purse and rob the American public.

For example, last year the President urged, and Republicans passed, a so-called tax cut that in reality gave each American a three hundred-dollar advance that had to be repaid on April 15th, but created even more opportunities for corporations to reduce their tax bill thereby pocketing billions of dollars that could have helped to keep the U.S. economy thriving. It is the big corporations that received real reductions. For those that assert that the American people saved a few dollars, you need only check the balance of pension plans nationwide to realize that the public was indeed taxed in a very big way!

Conversely, when faced with the possibility of paying taxes big corporations have been able to merely shift company assets to offshore tax havens where U.S. tax laws do not apply. Democrats in the House have proposed legislation that would put an end to such corporate abuses but the Republican leadership refused to take up these issues. Consequently, Americans get ripped off three times. They are robbed of their pension and retirement funds, and the US economy is robbed of corporate tax revenue and the shortfall is made-up by robbing social security funds.

Well the stuff is hitting the fan. Now that the extent of corporate fraud is coming to light, now that Americans have seen their 401K plans disappear, now that the "Kenny Boys" of corporate America have been able to cast a cloud over the future of millions of hardworking Americans, the public is once again ready to resist and declare, "Let's roll!" . . . Republicans, however, are urging baby steps.

The Senate passed a strong bill, S. 2673 "The Public Company Accounting Reform and Investor Protection Act" (the Sarbanes Bill) by a unanimous vote of 97-0. This bill is a bill for those that are tired of being robbed by corporate America and are ready to roll. Among other things, by defining new corporate crimes, creating independent oversight, protecting whistle blowers, banning insider loans, extending the statute of limitations, and holding CEO's personally accountable, the Sarbanes bill sends a clear message to big business that further abuses will not be tolerated. Democrats in the House, including myself have been pushing for similar reforms, but the Republican leadership in the House is afraid to roll.

It's true that Republicans in the House have requested longer criminal penalties, but those penalties apply to a shorter range of crimes. They have not embraced new laws against destroying documents or tampering with evidence; they have not embraced new laws which would extend the statute of limitations for bringing cases of corporate fraud; they have not embraced measures that would end conflicts of interest and require greater accountability; they have not embraced measures that would protect whistle blowers and give honest Americans a chance to come forward without fear of retaliation. All they have done is request more years for a narrow range of crimes and they do this with the knowledge that the Attorney General has not bought any criminal charges, against any CEO involved in any of the numerous fraud cases that have surfaced. Millions have suffered because of corporate fraud and the Attorney General is merely watching from the sidelines.

Mr. Speaker I urge this Congress to raise the bar on corporate accountability, and deal a strong blow against corporate fraud. This is a real crisis, we cannot afford to merely give a superficial finger wag as the "Kenny Boys" of corporate America ride off into the sunset with rich indifference. Millions of Americans are struggling to replace their future after being robbed by corporate greed. If my Republican colleagues in the House really want to restore investor confidence and protect the financial security of the American people, the solution is clear, we can not take baby steps . . . Let's roll!

SENATE COMMITTEE MEETINGS

Title IV of Senate Resolution 4, agreed to by the Senate on February 4, 1977, calls for establishment of a system for a computerized schedule of all meetings and hearings of Senate committees, subcommittees, joint committees, and committees of conference. This title requires all such committees to notify the Office of the Senate Daily Digest—designated by the Rules committee—of the time, place, and purpose of the meetings, when scheduled, and any cancellations or changes in the meetings as they occur.

As an additional procedure along with the computerization of this information, the Office of the Senate Daily Digest will prepare this information for printing in the Extensions of Remarks section of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD on Monday and Wednesday of each week.

Meetings scheduled for Tuesday, July 23, 2002 may be found in the Daily Digest of today's RECORD.
