

community by selflessly giving his time and energy to a number of volunteer organizations. His remarkable philanthropic accomplishments are surpassed only by the level of integrity and honesty with which he has conducted himself each and every day of his life. As we celebrate his tremendous accomplishment of having a day, "Harry W. Mussell Day," named after him by the citizens of New Castle, let it be known that I, along with the people of Colorado, applaud his efforts and are eternally grateful for all that he has done for the community of New Castle and the State of Colorado.

Harry has served in the Glenwood Springs Rotary Club for nearly 35 years, having a perfect attendance record for 32 straight years. Even when Harry was out of town, he always made a point to find a local Rotary Club Chapter, so he could attend the weekly meetings. Not only is Harry a lifetime honorary Rotarian in Glenwood Springs, but he also started Rotary Clubs in Aspen, Carbondale and Rifle, and has attended nine international Rotary conventions.

In addition to his dedication to the Rotary Club, Harry has devoted an enormous amount of time to a number of other organizations. He has been a volunteer with Colorado Mountain College's Senior Programs, serving on the advisory council of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program for several years. In addition, he has volunteered at "The Gathering", a senior lunch program held every Monday in New Castle and Wednesday in Silt. In 1997, Harry was a candidate for the Glenwood Post Humanitarian Service Award, and has previously served on New Castle's Senior Housing Committee.

Mr. Speaker, it is clear that Harry Mussell is a man of unparalleled dedication and commitment to his community and to the people who reside in it. It is his unrelenting passion for each and every thing he does, as well as his spirit of honesty and integrity with which he has always conducted himself, that I wish to bring before this body of Congress. He is a remarkable man who has achieved extraordinary things and enriched the lives of so many people. It is my privilege to extend to him my sincere congratulations on the advent of "Harry W. Mussell Day," as he is most deserving, and I wish him all the best in the future.

HONORING CENTRAL CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY MEN'S BASKETBALL ON THEIR VICTORY IN THE NORTHEAST CONFERENCE TOURNAMENT

OF CONNECTICUT

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 12, 2002

Mrs. JOHNSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to the Central Connecticut State University (CCSU) men's basketball team for their accomplishment this season.

The CCSU Blue Devils defeated Quinnipiac College by a score of 78-71 to win their conference, improve their record to 27 wins and 4 losses and more importantly secure an invitation to the NCAA tournament for the second time in 3 years.

As the buzzer sounded the capacity crowd of 3,556 erupted in celebration of our hometown Blue Devils continuing their nation-leading winning streak to 19 games.

Mr. Speaker, to watch the students storm the court, and to hear Head Coach Howie Dickenman, himself a CCSU graduate, say "This was an event tonight, an event that the whole city rallied around" is to understand what March Madness is all about.

I am proud to be a resident of the city of New Britain, home of the 2002 Northeast Conference regular season and conference tournament champions. I hope my colleagues will join me in congratulating this exemplary group of student-athletes, their coaches, parents, classmates, and others who supported and cheered them on this season.

Mr. Speaker, their exceptional play this season is an inspiration to all of us. Congratulations to the Blue Devils, and best of luck in the Big Dance. To steal a phrase from Dick Vitale and Bristol Connecticut's own ESPN, CCSU you are "awesome with a capital A baby!"

A TRIBUTE TO NANCY BLOOMER

HON. MARK STEVEN KIRK

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 12, 2002

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Speaker, many of our colleagues and staff will celebrate the service of Nancy Bloomer to our country tomorrow.

Nancy served the House International Relations Committee for many years, both in the minority prior to 1995 and in recent years in the majority. The committee dealt with critical issues of our time—the cold war, Central America, Desert Storm, Haiti, Bosnia, and Iraq. After the elections in 1994, Nancy and the new committee staff director, Rich Garon, assembled a team that helped guide this House through the transition to a Republican majority.

Many people did not know what a Republican majority would do at the helm of the committee. Barely anyone was around in 1954 when Republicans last took charge. Under Chairman BEN GILMAN, Nancy and the committee team leapt into action as dedicated internationalists, committed to America's role in the world. We passed key parts of the Contract with America, the American Overseas Interests Act and numerous other pieces of legislation designed to strengthen U.S. foreign policy.

I was a staff member of that team. I remember Nancy as the complete professional, helping Chairman GILMAN organize many different member requests into a coherent whole. In those days after the cold war and before the War on Terror, it was hard to build a central core of members with a common vision of America's role in the world. It took vision by members of this body and it took solid staff work by Nancy and her colleagues through endless hours spent between hearings, mark-ups and consideration of legislation on the floor.

Nancy should be very proud of her work. Congress has played a strong hand in modernizing the State Department, paying our dues to the United Nations and backing up key allies in need. We also played the leading humanitarian role in feeding starving North Koreans and helping refugees around the world. Much of this work would not have been done or would have not looked easy to do without Nancy's contribution to her country. As she departs the Congress after years of service, we wish her well and know that America is stronger overseas in part due to the service of Nancy Bloomer.

HONORING AMERICAN AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION FOR 100 YEARS OF SERVICE AND FOR TAKING AN ACTIVE ROLE IN THE SAFETY OF AMERICANS

HON. MICHAEL K. SIMPSON

OF IDAHO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 12, 2002

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to congratulate AAA on 100 years of serving Americans. On March 8 in my home state of Idaho, the Oregon-Idaho AAA office will hold a grand opening for its brand new building in Boise.

When AAA started 100 years ago, America was starting to emerge as a technological trendsetter. Alexander Graham Bell was experimenting with electricity and the light bulb. The Wright Brothers were jumping off hilltops to attempt flight. Henry Ford was beginning his own company to replace horse and cart with steel and wheels. This was the environment in which AAA began—an inventor's paradise—where good ideas became life-altering institutions.

In 1902, American motorists needed better roads, so nine regional auto clubs in Chicago took on the task. Since then, AAA has expanded its mission from helping kids and parents know the life-saving value of car seats, to developing signature roadside service, to the famous TripTik maps to travel discounts. AAA also continues to fight for better roads for safer Americans.

AAA in Idaho has a long history as well, starting in 1920. In fact, the new 14,000 square foot building is named after Richard "Dick" Navarro, AAA Idaho's President from 1981 to 1993.

Congratulations AAA on 100 years of serving Idaho and for taking an active role in the safety of Americans. Your outstanding work is appreciated and shows by your 48 million loyal members.

COMMEMORATING ELIZABETH BUFFUM CHACE

HON. JAMES R. LANGEVIN

OF RHODE ISLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 12, 2002

Mr. LANGEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I come before you to recognize the accomplishments of a great person in Rhode Island history, Elizabeth Buffum Chace. A controversial figure in the 19th century because of her progressive views on slavery and women's suffrage, Chace has since earned immense respect in Rhode Island for her determination and willingness to fight for just causes. Today, in celebration of her great deeds, the state honors Elizabeth Buffum Chace by placing a statue of her on permanent display in the State House.

The dedication of the Elizabeth Buffum Chace statue comes as the result of an extensive search conducted by the Rhode Island

Commission to Memorialize the Contributions of All Rhode Island Women, which was established in May 2001 to address the notable lack of female figures in the State House statuary. After reviewing thousands of nominations, the Commission selected Chace for her many contribution to Rhode Island, and I wish to recognize some of her notable achievements.

Born in 1806 in Smithfield, Elizabeth Buffum was raised as a Quaker. Her life was strongly molded by the values of independence and simplicity instilled in her by her family. Her passion for justice first became evident in the 1830s when she campaigned against slavery. Founder of the Fall River Anti-Slavery Society, she mounted a door-to-door campaign to further the abolitionist cause, and she and her husband, Samuel Chace, often hid fugitive slaves in their home. So passionate was Chace about abolitionism that she ultimately severed ties with her beloved Quaker roots because the religion would not strengthen its position against slavery.

Upon returning to Rhode Island, Chace continued her anti-slavery efforts and also spoke out in favor of women's suffrage and temperance—two of her greatest passions. As one of the founders of the Rhode Island Women's Suffrage Association, she objected to the political and social subjugation of women and advocated the admission of women to Brown University. Additionally, she tackled the unpopular issues of homelessness and prison reform, simultaneously making enemies and progress. Throughout these campaigns, she never neglected her family and was a caring and dedicated mother to her ten children. She maintained her strong spirit until her death in 1899 at the age of 93, having written an article just one year earlier for the Women's Journal, a suffrage newspaper.

Chace is certainly an apt choice as the first Rhode Island woman honored by a State House statue, though I am confident that today merely marks the beginning of a greater trend in recognizing remarkable women in the halls of the Rhode Island Capitol. I wish to thank my good friend, Secretary of State Edward Inman, for his vision and leadership in trumpeting the accomplishments of women in our great state, and I look forward to working with him on other important initiatives to enhance the civic pride of all Rhode Islanders.

PAYING TRIBUTE TO CHARLIE GALLAGHER

HON. SCOTT MCINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 12, 2002

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, it is a great honor to recognize an extraordinary man whose kindness and good deeds embody the spirit of Colorado, and this nation. Charlie Gallagher is a pillar of the Denver, Colorado community, but the impact of his contributions reaches beyond the city to touch the entire state. In recognition of Charlie's many accomplishments and philanthropic generosity, the Ancient Order of Hibernians chose him as the 2002 Irish Person of the Year. This is a distinguished achievement that recognizes the dedication and commitment of an individual to his or her community. As Charlie celebrates this achievement, I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge his kindly spirit before this body of Congress.

Charlie Gallagher has overcome numerous obstacles in his life and has used his experience to help others overcome similar circumstances. He started out in an inner-city Irish neighborhood in Toledo, Ohio, living in a house where ten family members shared one bathroom and three bedrooms. The grandson of Irish immigrants, Charlie's family instilled in him the values of education, hard work and determination. It is this foundation which Charlie used to found Gallagher Enterprises LC, an extraordinarily successful private equity firm in Colorado. Like many Americans, Charlie rose from hardship to prosperity, but has remained true to his roots. He has adopted the motto, "if you've been blessed and if you've been lucky, you gotta give back". He has lived his life accordingly.

Charlie funded the establishment of several buildings and additions for many educational institutions, ranging from grade school to higher education institutions, in his home state of Ohio. For almost twelve years, he has supported over 100 students from underprivileged backgrounds by providing them with full tuition, room and board. Beginning this year, Charlie has pledged to fully fund 100 students at Denver's Metro State College for five years. In addition to his philanthropic contributions, Charlie continues to serve his community as a board member of the Metropolitan State College of Denver Foundation, Denver Area Council of Boy Scouts of America, the Catholic Foundation for the Archdiocese of Denver and the National Jewish Medical & Research Center. He is a Trustee of the Irish Community Center and the Vice Chairman of the Denver Art Museum. In addition, he helped to raise $50 million for the art museum and was instrumental in securing city bonding for the museum's expansion. To continue his generous support of the community, Charlie and his family frequently donate their time, money, and energy through the Gallagher Family Foundation of the Denver Foundation. This organization gives generously to numerous causes every year and serves as a model for philanthropic foundations throughout the nation.

Mr. Speaker, Charlie Gallagher is an extraordinary individual and it is my pleasure to bring forth his accomplishments and generosity before this body of Congress, and this nation. Charlie's life serves as an example for anyone who has ever faced and overcome adversity in their life. Charlie, thank you for all you have done for the State of Colorado and good luck in your future endeavors.

ON INTRODUCTION OF BILL TO IMPROVE IMPLEMENTATION OF NATIONAL FIRE PLAN

HON. MARK UDALL

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 12, 2002

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I am today introducing a bill to improve the way the federal government is working to reduce the risk of wildfire damage in the most vulnerable communities of Colorado and other states.

The bill is cosponsored by my colleague from Colorado, Representative JOEL HEFLEY and my close colleague from New Mexico, Representative TOM UDALL. We have worked closely in its development and I greatly appreciate their support.

The bill deals with the fuel-reduction program that is a key part of the National Fire plan. Under that program, the land-managing agencies remove brush and other material that can fuel high-intensity fires through techniques such as burning ("prescribed fires"), mechanical thinning, vegetation control (such as defensible space around homes and buildings) or timber removal.

I have supported that program, but have had some questions about the way the Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, and the other land-managing agencies have been implementing it. So, I joined a number of our colleagues in the House and Senate in asking the General Accounting Office (GAO) to review the steps the agencies have taken so far to see if improvements should be made.

GAO has now completed that review and submitted a report that includes a number of recommendations. This bill would require that those recommendations be adopted. I am attaching a fact sheet that outlines the main provisions of the bill, as well as the "Results in Brief" portion of the GAO report.

The GAO highlighted the need for two things—more and better interagency coordination, and better focus on identifying and responding to the highest-risk communities in the wildland/urban interface area.

Improvements in these matters are important nationally, but they are particularly important for Colorado and other western states. That is because Colorado, like other Western states, has been experiencing ever more growth and development in and near forested areas. We are seeing more people, structures and investments placed at risk.

It is this increasing risk to people and property—increasing because of growth as well as because of the unnatural forest conditions that we have created in many forests in Colorado through decades of fire suppression policies—that led to my interest in focusing on questions of wildlife management. And two particular things then lead me to take action.

First, I took a tour of an area west of Boulder, Colorado, called Winiger Ridge. It is near an area where there was a major forest fire in 1989. Following that fire, a number of citizens, along with the Forest Service and Boulder County officials, got together to find a way to reduce the danger of a repetition of such a dangerous blaze. That group's efforts ultimately lead to the identification of conditions that lead to wildfire risks and the recommendation that some steps be taken to reduce that risk. The Winiger Ridge area was chosen as a location to explore some of these techniques—which involve some mechanical thinning and some controlled burning. When I toured this area and learned of the issues and the proposed strategy, I was struck by the condition of the forest—a condition of dense stands of small diameter trees—and, more importantly, I was very concerned about the homes and families that reside within this area. These homes and families are literally in the path of a possible major fire that could be devastating.

It was important to identify this Winiger Ridge area because soon after my tour of it, another fire arose there in the summer of 2000, called the Walker Ranch fire. That fire
