

Children"; and International Funeral Directors Association award as Funeral Director of the Decade.

His excellent reputation in his field has led him to be appointed to various positions in different organizations, such as Chairman of the New York State Funeral Directors Advisory Board, Vice-President of the Council of Senior Centers and Services of New York City, and Board Member of Retired Senior Volunteer People (R.S.V.P.).

Mr. Watts has been an important part of many community associations such as the Rotary Club in Upper Manhattan, the Washington Heights/Inwood Chamber of Commerce, the Washington Heights/Inwood Development Corporation and many others. In every organization of which he is a member, Mr. Watts has given his time to leave a positive mark on the communities or people he has worked with. His legacy has been so extraordinary in these communities that he has been honored by most of them.

The Harlem Boys Choir has honored Mr. Watts for the Creation of Adopt a Child in 1984. He also received the Washington Heights/Inwood Chamber of Commerce Man of the Year Award in 1984. In 1985 he received the Community Resident Award from the Police Department of New York City for donation of Police Vests to the 34th Precinct.

Mr. Watts' exemplary career and many contributions make him much deserving of the honor and tribute that will be paid to him by his many friends and colleagues on the 19th of March of 2002.

IN HONOR OF DORIS S. SCHWAB

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 13, 2002

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of Doris S. Schwab, who is retiring after 30 years as Executive Director of Senior Citizen Resources, Inc. Ms. Schwab's unwavering commitment to Cleveland's senior community has been invaluable. Her generosity, intelligence, and unselfish dedication will be greatly missed.

For over 30 years Ms. Schwab has worked tirelessly to create much needed resources to serve Cleveland's senior citizens. In 1971 she organized and established the Crestview Senior Center, a Multi-purpose Center serving the elderly in collaboration with the Cleveland Jaycees. In the same year she became Executive Director of its parent organization, Senior Citizen Resources, Inc.

Over the next few years Ms. Schwab worked diligently to expand the Center by creating new sites throughout the Cleveland area. In 1978 she piloted a site called Brighton Center. By 1979 she secured funding for and established a second Multi-purpose Center, Deaconess-Krafft, which was built on the Deaconess Hospital Campus. Between 1976 and 1981 she piloted a site in the Southwestern area of Cleveland at the Brooklyn Heights United Church of Christ and Brooklyn Acres. She secured a Community Development Block Grant to fund and establish a third site operating one day a week at the City of Cleveland-owned Estabrook Recreation Center. Throughout the 1980s she also worked with Dea-coness Hospital and MetroHealth Medical Center to establish their programs serving senior citizens.

Between 1998 and 2000 as a result of Ms. Schwab's dedication to the senior community, funding in the amount of $332,000 was secured for the renovation and construction of the Memphis Fulton Senior Center and administration offices of Senior Citizen Resources, Inc., Crestview Senior Center relocated to this new site. By this time the centers were serving over 3,000 senior citizens yearly in the Old Brooklyn community of Cleveland. Today the centers continue to thrive as a result of Doris S. Schwab's vision, leadership and unwavering commitment.

I ask my colleagues to join me in rising to honor Doris S. Schwab and her truly remarkable accomplishments for the senior community of Cleveland, Ohio.

REPEAL OF GINNIE MAE FEE INCREASE

HON. JOHN J. LaFALCE

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 13, 2002

Mr. LaFALCE. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, I introduced H.R. 3926, a bill to repeal the scheduled increase in the Ginnie Mae guarantee fee that is scheduled to take place in October, 2004. The purpose of this repeal is to prevent what amounts to an unwarranted and unnecessary tax increase on homeownership.

The 1998 Higher Education Act Amendments included a provision unrelated to education which would prospectively increase by 50 percent the annual fee that the Government National Mortgage Association, also known as Ginnie Mae, charges each year on mortgage loans.

Ginnie Mae facilitates an efficient secondary market for Federal Housing Administration, Rural Housing Service, and Veterans Administration single family mortgage loans, by guaranteeing the timely payment of principal and interest on such loans. In exchange for this guarantee, Ginnie Mae charges an annual fee of six basis points on each mortgage loan, which is generally passed along to the borrower. The risk is minimal, since Ginnie Mae's function is to advance funds in the case of default, for which Ginnie Mae is subsequently made whole either through restored mortgage payments or through the federal guarantee by FHA, RHS, or VA on the underlying mortgage loan.

The Administration's fiscal year 2003 budget concludes, with regard to Ginnie Mae, that "Fee collections, interest and other income are expected to exceed expenses by $834 million in 2002 and $808 million in 2003." For the purposes of credit scoring, Ginnie Mae is projected to make a profit for the taxpayers [negative credit subsidy] of $398 million in fiscal year 2003.

Given the substantial profits that Ginnie Mae makes each year, and the low risk that is taken to make such profits, the 50 percent increase in fees from six basis points to nine basis points that is scheduled to take place in 2004 is both unnecessary and unwarranted. This scheduled increase would perpetuate a regrettable trend in recent years of diverting housing resources, such as FHA profits and

Section 8 rescissions, to non-housing purposes.

Moreover, since the fee increase is likely to be passed along to borrowers, the effect will be to raise mortgage rates for low- and moderate income homebuyers, including notably veterans and rural residents. Over the life of a loan, this can translate into thousands of dollars of additional mortgage interest payments.

Therefore, we should repeal this unnecessary and harmful tax increase on homeownership before it takes place. H.R. 3926 does precisely that.

Whereas, September 11, 2001 was a day of horror and tragedy that will forever live in the memory of Americans, and;

Whereas, more than 3,000 people from many occupations, nationalities, ethnic groups, religions; and creeds were brutally murdered by terrorists, and;

Whereas, members of the New York City Fire Department, New York City Police Department, Port Authority and other Public Safety Personnel, through their valiant, courageous and heroic efforts saved the lives of thousands under unprecedented destructive circumstances, and;

Whereas, more than 300 New York City Firefighters lost their lives in the effort to save others, and;

Whereas, Congressman MAJOR R. OWENS and the people of the 11th Congressional District salute bravery and dedication of all who gave their full measure of devotion, and;

Whereas, we deem it appropriate to highlight the courage and valor of individuals and groups in a variety of forms and ceremonies: Now therefore be it

Resolved: That on this 10th Day of March, Two Thousand and Two, Congressman MAJOR R. OWENS, and representative of the people of the 11th Congressional District, pause to salute the sacrifices of these honored men, and to offer their heartfelt condolences to families of these African American Firefighters who died at the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001.

That the text of this resolution shall be placed in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of the United States House of Representatives.

Given by my hand and seal this 10th day of March, Two Thousand and Two in the Year of our Lord.

TRIBUTE TO ROY COLANNINO

HON. EDWARD J. MARKEY

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 13, 2002

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the House of Representatives take this opportunity to honor Roy Colannino, Police Chief of the great city of Revere, Massachusetts, and a highly distinguished member of our Nation's law enforcement community. Chief Colannino recently retired from the Revere Police Department after dedicating 37 years of his life to the cause of protecting the safety of his fellow citizens and the community at large.

Chief Colannino joined the Revere Police Department in 1965 as a member of the Police Reserves, and was immediately recognized as a bright and energetic addition to the force. During his 37-year career, he served as Patrolman, Sergeant, Lieutenant, Captain and Chief. While working full time and raising a family, Chief Colannino continued his education at Northeastern University in Boston where he earned a Bachelors Degree in Criminal Justice in 1981. As he ascended the ranks of the Revere Police Department, he earned high accolades from his superior officers and the deep respect of his fellow colleagues at each stage of his career with the force. As the executive law enforcement officer in Revere, Chief Colannino developed a highly successful community-policing program that joined the Revere Police Department with the city's community leaders in an innovative and effective new partnership. His commitment to incorporate his officer corps into the fabric of every neighborhood has been particularly beneficial for this diverse community.

Mr. Speaker, since September 11, 2001, our nation has rightfully reflected on the incredible service our police and fire professionals provide to our communities. Roy Colannino exemplifies that service and the sacrifices these men and women, and their families, endure for us on a daily basis. He has served the City of Revere, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and our nation at an incomparable level of professionalism, and dedication and human caring for nearly four decades. I ask that my colleagues in the United States House of Representatives join me in wishing him all the best in his retirement.

CHRISTOPHER BLAHA—HERO
AVENGER

HON. GARY L. ACKERMAN

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 13, 2002

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to thank and praise Army Lieutenant Christopher Blaha for his heroic actions in the defense of our nation. I would like to share with my fellow colleagues the following two articles describing Lieutenant Blaha's incredible service in our fight against terrorism. September 11, 2001 was a horrific day for the United States, yet brave men, such as Lieutenant Blaha, show us all that the spirit of America has not, and will not, be broken. Mr. Speaker, we will prevail.

[From the New York Post, Mar. 11, 2002]
FRONTLINE GI'S BATTLE CRY FOR BUDDIES
KILLED IN WTC ATTACK—HERO AVENGER
(By John Lehmann)

On every grenade he threw at the al Qaeda fighters, New Yorker Christopher Blaha wrote the name of the best friend he lost to terrorists on Sept. 11.

Also burned into the Army lieutenant's mind was the memory of a second buddy, who died trying to save lives at the World Trade Center.

After a fierce eight-day fight in remote Afghan mountains, 24-year-old Blaha, from Great Neck, L.I., returned to safety yesterday and immediately spoke of his two lost pals, Andrew Stergiopoulos, who worked for bond firm Cantor Fitzgerald, and FDNY firefighter Jonathan Ielpi.

"There was definitely a vindictive side to it—I can go back and tell their families everything we did," Blaha said, as he rested at the Bagram air base near Kandahar.

As his fellow soldiers cheered the returning troops, Blaha, fighting with the Army's 10th Mountain Division based in upstate New York, told how he had written Stergiopoulos' name on his grenades.

Blaha's mom, Cooky said her son had formed a bond for life with Stergiopoulos as the pair grew up in Great Neck, playing ice hockey for a community team, the Great Neck Bruins.

John Hughes, the father of skating gold-medalist Sarah Hughes, also played on the team. "Andrew and Chris were real close—I'm just so proud of what he's done," Cooky Blaha told The Post.

Stergiopoulos' brother, George, said from his home in Great Neck that his family was "touched" by Blaha's words. "It's been very hard," he said. "It would have been Andrew's 24th birthday on March 7."

"I saw Chris going off to boot camp, and we've been hoping that he's OK. That's really touching, what he said."

Ielpi, a 29-year New York City firefighter with two young sons, had known the Blaha family for years, having attended St. Aloysius elementary school in Great Neck with Christopher Blaha's eldest brother, Jack.

Ielpi's mom, Anne, said last night her family had been thinking of Blaha during his Afghanistan mission and was hoping he returned safely.

"We've known the family for years and we think it's great if he can get a little retaliation," she said. "It means a lot to everyone."

Blaha had told his mom before leaving for Uzbekistan in January that he would dedicate his mission to his friends.

"He's just a kid from Great Neck really, but he rang this morning and told me he had been ordering in the planes with the bombs and I couldn't believe it—he's made us all proud," she said.

A MESSAGE WITH EVERY GRENADE—HOW
SOLDIER FROM LI REMEMBERS A FRIEND
(By Keiko Morris)

Mourners have remembered those lost on Sept. 11 with flowers, letters, balloons released into the sky and eulogies. 2nd Lt. Chris Blaha had his own way.

He wrote the name of a childhood friend, who died in the terrorist attacks, on every grenade he lobbed at enemy Taliban and al-Qaida positions.

Blaha, a 24-year-old Army officer from Great Neck, marked the end of an intense battle with an excited call to his mother on Sunday, using a reporter's satellite phone. He told his mom about his role in Operation Anaconda, the most recent U.S.-led military offensive in Afghanistan.

He said he was filthy, cold and unshaven, but safe. He told her that he directed a B-52 where to drop bombs on enemy positions. And he told her about the grenades—every one in memory of his friend, Andrew Stergiopoulos, 23, who worked at Cantor Fitzgerald.

"Chris was in Ranger School on 911," said his mother. Cooky Blaha, an office manager who lives in Great Neck. "I had to tell him . . ." He was infuriated, she remembered.

"Now he feels like he can do something about it," she said. "I'm proud of him."

Stergiopoulos was not the only childhood friend of Blaha's to die in the attacks. Jonathan Ielpi, 29, a New York City firefighter and father of two, was friends with Blaha's older brother, Jack. Blaha went into battle with the memory of both in his heart, his mother said.

Blaha went to Hofstra University and graduated in December 2000 on an ROTC scholarship. He went directly to basic training and later to an Army Ranger School at Fort Benning in Georgia. He left for Uzbekistan in January and was sent to Afghanistan in late February, his mother said. That was about the last time she heard from him until Sunday.

"I was a little worried when those guys got killed and I thought things weren't going too well," Cooky Blaha said. ". . . He's a little, short, tough kid. He shops at Nordstroms, wears Armani. He drives a Porsche. He's a Great Neck kid, so I was worried. But he did great."

All three knew each other since they were affectionately known as "rink rats," young Great Neck skaters who either play hockey or take up figure skating. They all played for the Great Neck Bruins in a youth hockey program.

The Great Neck Bruins retired both Ielpi's and Stergiopoulos' numbers and a banner was hung at the Parkwood Ice Rink as a permanent memorial, said Anne Ielpi, the mother of Jonathan Ielpi. Saddle Rock Bridge, the place where everyone went to stare at the burning towers on Sept. 11, was renamed the 9-11 Memorial Bridge.

Anne Ielpi heard of Blaha's tribute from a friend on Sunday morning.

"I said, 'Good for him, keep on throwing them,'" Ielpi said. "Knowing that someone is over there doing something in my son's name, it gives me solace."
