

The acclaim for that production convinced her to take the plunge and in 1976 start her own business, along with a close friend, who later would become her husband. Thus was born Quicksilver Associates, Incorporated.

Diane's work experience taught her that there was a real need for creative outsource corporate audiovisual support. With this in mind, she started calling on corporate 500 companies, such as Quaker Oats, CBS, and International Harvester. As a pioneer of smears, zooms, starbursts, and other new and innovative graphic techniques, Quicksilver provided corporate customers with the creativity needed to customize their own business presentations. In 1978, Quicksilver won an International CLIO Finalist Award for its promotional piece on International Harvester's Scout, a sports utility vehicle apparently ahead of its time.

As a premier audiovisual production studio, Quicksilver employs approximately 30 people within its four divisions, New Media, Video Production, Meeting Production, and Planning and Creative Services, generates sales of approximately $4.5 million annually, and hosts a "who's who" of corporate clients that include ABN/AMRO, Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Household International, and United Airlines.

As a founding member and former President of the Make a Wish Foundation of northern Illinois, Diane received the first Fountain of Hope Award and currently serves on the Board of Directors of the Make a Wish Foundation of America. Diane and Quicksilver also have offered their talents and resources to help other nonprofit organizations throughout the year.

So, Mr. Speaker, I am indeed proud to bring to the attention of America Diane's achievements, for it is an example of how small businesses can achieve in America. Small businesses account for 99.7 percent of America's employers. They played a vital role in helping to bring America out of this economic downturn. To help create and ensure America's small businesses continue to survive, we must engage all available resources in facilitating entrepreneurship development, providing low or no interest loans and more technical assistance to programs for small businesses.

So, again, I congratulate Ms. Diane MacWilliams, President of Quicksilver Associates in Chicago, for being our State's Small Business Person of the Year.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. VISCLOSKY. Mr. Speaker, on May 7, 2002, I was unavoidably absent due to the primary election in my district. Had I been present I would have voted "yea" on rollcall votes 127 and 128.

tleman from Maryland (Mr. HOYER) is recognized for 5 minutes.

WELFARE REFORM

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from the Virgin Islands (Mrs. CHRISTENSEN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mrs. CHRISTENSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to bring to the attention of my colleagues the plight of the U.S. offshore Territories as it relates to welfare reform and the reauthorization process currently being undertaken in the House.

Mr. Speaker, although the U.S. Territories, Guam, Puerto Rico, and my district, the U.S. Virgin Islands, are required to meet all the TANF requirements, they do not have access to all of the tools that other jurisdictions have to successfully move people from welfare to work.

Mr. Speaker, the Territories are island jurisdictions, where the ability to move from one jurisdiction to another in search of work is just impossible. As a consequence, in the Virgin Islands, while our welfare rolls have been lowered, we have failed to meet the work participation rates. Despite the fact there was no work to send the many willing participants to, we have been penalized by fines.

This in itself is unfair, given our special circumstances, but also consider the fact that we do not receive several other sources of funds that States have at their disposal to overcome similar obstacles. We get no supplemental grant funds, even though our average dollars per person are extremely low; and we do not receive contingency funds, even though we have experienced economic downturns and high unemployment.

That is why the gentleman from Guam (Mr. UNDERWOOD) and I have joined the gentleman from Puerto Rico (Mr. ACEVEDO-VILÁ) in sponsoring H.R. 4236 to bring parity to the U.S. Territories as they seek to move their citizens from welfare to work.

We will be seeking to have this included in a substitute bill. H.R. 4236 would include Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands in the TANF supplemental grants for population increases and exclude this funding from the section 1108 cap.

TANF supplemental grants are specifically intended to assist States, and it should be territories also, with higher than average growth rates and/or lower than average welfare funding per poor person. The latter characterizes my district.

It would also include Puerto Rico, Guam and the U.S. Virgin Islands in the TANF contingency fund, and also exclude this funding from the section 1108 cap. The TANF contingency fund was intended to assist localities in times of economic downturns when the need for family assistance is greater, evidenced either by significantly higher unemployment rates, or significant increases in the utilization of food stamps. Both are operative in the U.S. Virgin Islands, and currently the TANF contingency fund excludes the Territories.

H.R. 4236 would also provide Puerto Rico, Guam, and the U.S. Virgin Islands access to all of the funding streams under the Child Care Development Block Grant and the matching grant, while excluding this from the section 1108 cap. These Territories receive CCDF funding under the general block grant discretionary funds. However, they are not authorized to receive funding under 2 subprograms under entitlement grants, the mandatory and matching funds. Provisions to authorize these two funds could provide up to $70 million for child care if matching funds requirements were met.

Another area, title IV-E foster care, we would like to take that out of the section 1108 cap as well. Title IV-E foster care is included in the section 1108 cap. As a result, abused and neglected children in foster care services compete for Federal funds with needy families on TANF, poor seniors, and blind and disabled individuals. This is compounded by the fact that Medicaid is also under a cap.

We would ask in this bill that the Territories be reimbursed for providing transitional medical assistance to TANF leavers outside of the current Medicaid cap. States receive reimbursement for the medical cost of TANF recipients while they move into work. Currently the Territories are not authorized to participate in this element of Medicaid, and even if they were, because of the Medicaid cap, the Territories would not be allowed to receive any reimbursement for these costs.

If the Territories are expected to meet the same work requirements as the States, it is essential that they be authorized access to receiving similar Medicaid reimbursements for their TANF recipients.

Mr. Speaker, I come before this body because it is important that all of our colleagues understand the unique plight of the Territories. We want to help our constituents make the step from welfare to work. More than that, we want to give them a hand up and out of poverty. I hope that when these issues are before this body, we will have the support of our colleagues to give the Territories parity in the effort to reauthorize welfare reform and to give us the tools to make welfare reform a real success in our districts.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BROWN of South Carolina). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CUMMINGS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CUMMINGS addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.

GUN AMNESTY ON MOTHER'S DAY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, Members are coming to the floor as we approach Mother's Day. I am coming as well. Many mark Mother's Day in their own ways, very diverse ways. But if we ask the mothers of the Nation what would they most want for Mother's Day, the choice of many would be gun safety legislation to protect their children. The proof, of course, is that 2 years ago on Mother's Day, almost a million mothers and their families used Mother's Day to come to their Nation's capital to work productively for just such legislation. We do not yet have the gun safety legislation for our children these mothers so desperately wanted, but in recognition of Mother's Day this year, I thought that it would behoove me to introduce a realistic piece of gun safety legislation, recognizing that in many ways this issue has been off the radar screen, to find a way to put it back on the national agenda. And so I have introduced the Nationwide Gun Back Act of 2002.

Mr. Speaker, hopefully this is the kind of gun safety legislation everyone can join in, whether pro or anti so-called gun control, because this is simply about how to help people voluntarily get illegal guns out of their own homes, and jurisdictions would, of course, participate only voluntarily.

My bill would provide $100 million in Federal funds, a real pittance in our budget, to allow cities across the United States, small towns, counties, to do gun buy-backs of the kind that were done so successfully just a few years ago in the District of Columbia and in other parts of the country.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms would evaluate the proposals and distribute the funds. A jurisdiction would have to certify that it was capable of destroying the guns within 30 days of running an amnesty program, and of being fully capable of conducting such a buy-back program.

Let me tell Members why I think all Members would want to be for this. There are throughout this Nation millions of people who know there are illegal guns in their homes who cannot come forward to get rid of them without implicating a relative. They fear if they came forward and said take this gun out of my house before some relative uses it on another relative, or somebody commits suicide, they cannot come forward without implicating a son, a daughter, a grandson, and so they sit there knowing that gun is in the house and unable to get rid of it.

I want to say to those folks who want to get that gun out of the home, a gun illegally there, a gun for which there is no license, we will buy back the gun, usually for $50 or $100 to encourage people to come out.

We did this in the District of Columbia; enormous success. Long lines. More than 6,000 firearms were turned in in three buy-backs. Not only did we do this in the District of Columbia, a number of other cities across the United States did the same thing. We did a kind of pilot program that showed that it could work. The notion that there would be hundreds of people standing in line waiting to give a gun to the cops is, I think, what all of America would like to see when it comes to gun safety for our children.

It is children, as we see, who get hold of these guns, who want these guns, who use these guns because that is a child-like thing to do. We need to get these guns out of our homes. After using almost $400,000 in forfeiture money, some HUD money, we had to stop collecting the guns because we no longer had funds to buy back the guns, for goodness sake, on Mother's Day.

If we want to do something to keep youngsters from getting hold of guns, going into the classroom and shooting at teachers and students, doing God knows what with guns, let us find a noncontroversial way of reducing gun violence. This, it seems to me, is just that way. It simply says wherever Members stand on guns, they are for guns being only in the hands of those people authorized to carry them. If a mother or father sees a gun brought into their home by a kid, allow that family member to get rid of that gun. This is the way that I would celebrate Mother's Day.

HONORING MOTHER ON MOTHER'S DAY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mrs. JONES of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I rise this afternoon to join with my colleagues in celebration of Mother's Day. I particularly want to celebrate my mother. Yesterday was election day in the State of Ohio; and my mother, and she is going to be angry when I do this, who will be 81 years old on April 19, ran for State Central Committee, unopposed, won overwhelmingly.

Mom, here is the campaign literature right here that was sent out on your behalf.

I want to say that I have a wonderful mother and I am so pleased to have the opportunity to celebrate Mother's Day with her this coming weekend. She has been a guiding light and beacon in the lives of me and my family, not only my two sisters, one who lives in California and one who lives in Cleveland, but my husband's family as well.

I want to say to Mary Elizabeth Tubbs, my mom, happy Mother's Day. I am counting on you to stand up on behalf of all of the 21st Senate District as the Democrat Central Committee woman in the State of Ohio.

After learning all of these wonderful things from my mother, I have to take a moment and say I am pleased to be a mother as well. Yesterday my man child, Mervyn LeRoy Jones, II, 18 years old, and a senior at Shaker Heights High School said, "Mom, I have a great Mother's Day present for you, but it will be early."

I said, "What is it?"

He said, "I am going to take you to school."

I said, "That is good. What are we going to do in school?"

He said, "You and I are going to recite poetry together."

He knew that I liked poetry a whole lot. We go to the class, which is poetry writing, and I have a favorite woman poet whose name is Mona Lake Jones. Mona Lake Jones has written a lot of culturally sensitive poetry, and one piece is called "Being the Mother of a Black Child: It Ain't No Easy Thing."

So my son and I recited this piece of poetry together. It goes on to say being the mother of a black child, it ain't no easy thing, it makes you call on Jesus, and listen to the angels sing.

Mervyn and I alternated these verses together. The topping on my Sunday was at the end Mervyn said to his class, I brought my mother to school today. And he said, "You know, Mom, I am not going to have any money on Sunday, but I knew how much you liked poetry so this is your Mother's Day present; I recited poetry with you in poetry class."

Mr. Speaker, I want to celebrate and trust that other mothers around this country have wonderful opportunities to celebrate Mother's Day this weekend. Those whose mothers have passed on, or whose children have passed on, step back and remember some of the great memories and times you had together, and think about how blessed you are to have been a mother or a daughter or son, or to have someone who cared as much as mothers care for you.

PAYING TRIBUTE ON MOTHER'S DAY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I too rise on this occasion of Mother's Day weekend to pay tribute to those who bring to life and nurture and educate the children, the families of our communities and our world, and as my dear colleague, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES) so eloquently stated in the prior Special Order, when we think about it, mothers have the most important role in the world because they create the love that holds, the center that holds their families together. I think that their idealism helps inspire the world every day, not in big measures always, but in smaller signs of love and affection.
