Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, on Saturday, June 22, our Nation lost one of its great heroes: My good friend, Justin Dart, Jr. Today, my colleagues Senator KENNEDY, Senator HATCH, and Senator GREGG, and I are introducing a bipartisan resolution to honor Justin Dart. His memorial service will occur tomorrow, July 26, the 12th anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Justin Dart was the godfather of the disability rights movement. For 30 years he fought to end prejudice against people with disabilities, to strengthen the disabilities right movement, to protect the rights of people with disabilities. Millions of Americans with disabilities never knew his name but they owe him so much.

Justin was instrumental to the passage of the ADA and many other policies of interest to individuals with disabilities. When President Bush signed the Americans With Disabilities Act, he gave the first pen to Justin Dart. He truly was the one who brought us together and give the inspiration and guidance to get this wonderful, magnificent bill through. I was proud to be at his side when he received the Medal of Freedom from President Clinton. Today we are proud to introduce this resolution to honor him and commemorate his tremendous contribution to the lives of Americans with disabilities across this country.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the resolution and preamble be agreed to en bloc, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements related thereto be printed in the RECORD at the appropriate place.

TO AMEND THE COMMUNICATIONS SATELLITE ACT OF 1962

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent the Senate proceed to the consideration of S. 2810 submitted earlier by Senators HOLLINGS, MCCAIN, BURNS, and ENSIGN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the bill.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 2810) to amend the Communications Satellite Act of 1962 to extend the deadline for INTELSAT initial public offering.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I rise today, along with my Commerce Committee colleagues to speak to legislation that would extend the deadline for Intelsat to conduct the initial public offering required of it by the ORBIT satellite privatization law.

Under ORBIT, Intelsat must conduct an IPO by December 31, 2002. Intelsat has made substantial preparations to do just that. Recent disastrous events in the telecommunications market, however, now make this statutory deadline unrealistic and potentially contrary to the policy objectives of ORBIT. This bill would therefore give Intelsat another year in which to conduct its IPO and also provides the FCC authority to allow an additional extension of time if warranted by market conditions.

The goal of ORBIT's IPO requirement was to substantially dilute the ownership of the privatized Intelsat by its former owners, many of which are foreign government entities. I continue to support this goal. The Commerce Committee has been provided with significant evidence that this goal is already in the process of being achieved. For example:

July 18, 2001: Intelsat privatized in a transaction that resulted in 14 percent of the new entity being held by non-signatory investing entities;

April 26, 2002: Intelsat filed its IPO registration statement with the SEC;

May 2002: Natural dilution of Intelsat signatories continued as foreign governments privatized their telecom operations: Intelsat non-signatory ownership increased to 22 percent;

June 14, 2002: The FCC issued its ORBIT Act report, finding that, "On the whole, we believe that U.S. policy goals regarding the promotion of a fully competitive global market for satellite communications services are being met in accordance with the Act."

June 21, 2002: Intelsat received clearance from the New York Stock Exchange to file a listing application to trade its ordinary shares on that exchange.

This is a good start. More remains to be done, but it appears that Intelsat has been proceeding in a manner consistent with launching its IPO prior to the December 31, 2002 ORBIT deadline. Recently, however, uncontrollable external events overtook all of us. WorldCom's bankruptcy is but the latest financial debate in the telecommunications industry, which has been unstable. Capital markets are extremely unsupportive of additional investment at this time. There arguably could not be a worse time for a satellite communications company to consider an IPO.

If forced to move ahead with an IPO before the end of 2002, Intelsat will probably receive a reduced price for its shares offered. Foreign entities that still own significant portions of Intelsat are aware of this likelihood and would therefore be discouraged from offering their ownership interests for sale. Instead of the substantial dilution of prior owners contemplated by the ORBIT Act, a year—2002 IPO might not achieve much dilution whatsoever. In that instance, Intelsat would have complied with the procedural requirement of ORBIT without the substantive result that we in Congress sought: dilution of previous owners. Given the current adverse conditions in the stock market in general and the telecommunications sector in particular, the only way to ensure the dilution results sought by ORBIT may be to allow Intelsat to further delay its IPO. That result is good public policy that is also good for the long-term health of the satellite communications industry.

Mr. President, this bill needs to be enacted this year. I thank my colleagues for their support and I urge the prompt passage of this legislation.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the bill be read three times and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements be printed in the RECORD at the appropriate place with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 2810) was read the third time and passed, as follows:

S. 2810

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

(2) by striking "December 31, 2002;" and inserting "June 30, 2004;".
