

prepared both a live presentation and a written report of their activities over the past year and competed against students from 30 countries to receive this prestigious award. A panel of 18 international business leaders, including representatives from KPMG, Wal-Mart, Sara Lee and Pepsi-Co, named Drury University's SIFE Team World Cup Champions for the second time in three years.

SIFE students are making a positive impact in their community and beyond, through service projects that teach entrepreneurship, market economics, ethics and financial responsibility to struggling business owners, school children and economically disadvantaged individuals. By applying the concepts they are learning in the classroom to everyday life, they are taking the guesswork out of economic theory.

Drury University's SIFE team worked on a number of projects over the past year, helping high school students develop a t-shirt company that is self-sustaining and student-run. The Drury team also established an entrepreneurial camp to teach young people in southwest Missouri's growing Hispanic communities the entrepreneurial skills needed to develop their own businesses.

Drury University SIFE team volunteered more than 5,000 hours of service to their community last year. The students at Drury, however, are not alone. SIFE teams around the world engaged in hundreds of thousands of hours of community service, impacting millions of people. Too often, the energy and idealism of our youth are never fully utilized. In SIFE, young people are given an opportunity to contribute meaningfully to their society. It is encouraging to see bright, passionate college and university students work to "change the world" with a common sense approach that stimulates economic empowerment.

Mr. Speaker, I commend the achievements of Alvin Rohrs, the President and CEO of Students In Free Enterprise, and his team of co-workers at the SIFE World Headquarters in Springfield, Missouri. His leadership has enabled SIFE to plant the seeds of free enterprise on campuses across our nation and around the world. Mr. Rohrs and his team work tirelessly to ensure the principles of free enterprise are firmly rooted in the hearts and minds of college and university students on more than 1,500 campuses worldwide. By encouraging social entrepreneurship among SIFE students, Mr. Rohrs and his staff have fostered real change in countries around the globe. In Ghana, SIFE teams taught impoverished villagers how to make and market soap from locally available resources. For the first time in that community, money now changes hands, and the people who live there have a source of income. Alvin Rohrs and his team are also supporting programs in places where free enterprise education is rare. In China, a SIFE team is helping managers of a state-owned enterprise privatize the business and develop a plan for success in the face of an emerging market economy.

The success of SIFE has been well documented by both the national and international business community. Business and industry leaders frequently participate in SIFE competitions, judging SIFE teams and scouting future business leaders. They see and understand the importance of SIFE to the economic future of our nation and our world, as we all learn to compete in a global market that emphasizes education and communication.

Mr. Speaker, I want to congratulate the students from Drury University's SIFE team. These students may be completing their studies on a small campus in southwest Missouri, but they are making a difference. Along with their peers in 37 countries, these young people are changing the world, one person, one community and one project at a time.

HONORING GLEN AND LYNN TOBIAS

HON. NITA M. LOWEY

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, November 17, 2003

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate my friends Glen and Lynn Tobias as they are honored for their distinguished leadership by the Anti-Defamation League. The Tobias' years of service, integrity, and commitment should serve as an example to all of us. I ask unanimous consent to submit a letter of congratulations I recently sent them.

NOVEMBER 10, 2003.

GLEN AND LYNN TOBIAS
*Anti-Defamation League,
New York, NY.*

DEAR GLEN AND LYNN: I write with such respect, admiration, and gratitude for your invaluable contributions to the Anti-Defamation League. The ADL's Distinguished Leadership Award is a fitting tribute to your years of service to this vital institution, and I am proud to join with those who honor you as you receive the recognition you both so deeply deserve.

A key aspect of your leadership has been your constant willingness to battle against all forms of racism and intolerance. The dramatic rise in global anti-Semitism over the past few years threatens to undermine the stability and progress we seek in the Middle East, Europe, and around the world. Through your efforts, the ADL has led the counter-attack against this scourge, by seeking to measure the rise in anti-Semitism and to address it in meetings with key heads of state and foreign ministers, as well as at an international conference meant to bring Jewish and non-Jewish leaders together to create a strategy to combat the problem.

On our own shores, your efforts to educate the public have been greatly appreciated. You have led crucial initiatives to expand ADL's education programs on campuses and schools, especially about hate crime prevention. You also educated the public and Members of Congress on the threats to religious liberty and civil rights by federal and state voucher programs for private and religious schools—an effort greatly welcomed by myself and my colleagues on the Hill.

For all these reasons and many more, you are richly deserving of the ADL's Distinguished Leadership Award. I would like to thank you once again for your friendship and years of service to ADL, to the United States, and to the global community, which have all benefited from your wisdom, your diligence, and your desire for equity and peace.

Sincerely,

NITA M. LOWEY,
Member of Congress.

A TRIBUTE TO WESNER MOISE,
M.D.

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, November 17, 2003

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in honor of Wesner Moise, M.D. in recognition of his commitment and service to his community and his outstanding accomplishments in the field of medicine.

Wesner is the director of Geriatric Medicine at Interfaith Medical Center. He has been a solo practitioner at the same Brooklyn location for 27 years. He earned his medical degree from the State University of Haiti. He joined St. Johns Episcopal Hospital, now Interfaith Medical Center, for a rotative internship after completing an additional six-month rotation in pathology. He spent the next three years in the Department of Medicine and became chief resident. He remained very active in the Institution and served on different committees: Quality Assurance, Infection Control and the Medical Executive Committee.

Wesner has always had a special interest in the elderly. He provides free seminars to senior centers, screening examinations and flu vaccine. He is also a founding member of the Haitian Association of Physicians Abroad (AMHE), New York Chapter and frequently lectures on health care issues affecting the Haitian community. He is a member of the American College of Physicians, the New York State Medical Society, Kings County Medical Society and American Geriatric Society.

Dr. Moise and his wife Mireille, an artist, have been married for thirty-three years. They are very proud of their three children who all graduated from Harvard University. Patrick, an entrepreneur, is developing a software company in Seattle, Washington. Astrid is an aspiring academic cardiovascular surgeon. She is presently doing research on stem cells and angiogenesis at the University of Pennsylvania. Michael, a financial analyst, is presently pursuing his MBA at Columbia University. The Moises are the quintessential "Interfaith Family." His wife and four sisters all worked as registered nurses at Interfaith.

Dr. Moise's philosophy can be summarized as follows: Be all you can be, make a difference for your community, be a role model for your children, and be supportive of your family.

Mr. Speaker, Wesner Moise, M.D. has dedicated his time and medical expertise to the community through his own practice and his work at Interfaith Medical Center. As such, he is more than worthy of receiving our recognition today and I urge my colleagues to join me in honoring this truly remarkable person.

IN HONOR OF GARY A. BELLER

HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, November 17, 2003

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Gary A. Beller of New York, in recognition of his retirement from an extraordinarily accomplished and distinguished career of over thirty years in the corporate legal profession.

The practice of law is itself a worthy pursuit. It is an accomplishment to do outstanding work for outstanding companies, as Mr. Beller has done for two venerable giants of the financial services industry—American Express early in his career and more recently MetLife. But what I have learned is that the preeminent characteristic of the career of Gary Beller is his devotion to best practices and legal excellence; setting the standard for highly ethical and skilled legal work and consistently exceeding that standard out of sheer energy, talent, and sense of responsibility.

As 2003 draws to a close, Gary Beller retires from his position as senior executive vice president and general counsel for MetLife. Mr. Beller joined MetLife in November 1994 and has since overseen the company's extensive legal affairs group as well as the mergers and acquisitions department. One of the notable accomplishments of his tenure at MetLife was his contribution to bringing the company public in 2003 from its previous status as a mutual company. MetLife became one of the most widely held public stocks as result of the successful completion of the transaction.

This is the kind of high quality work that has made Gary Beller well known and respected professionally. To those who know him and work with him, Mr. Beller personifies the best of the corporate legal profession. The perfect example is his chairmanship of the Insurance Marketplace Standards Association, an organization devoted to establishing the best in ethical market conduct for the insurance industry.

In addition to his professional success, Mr. Beller has also been a leader in his community. He served as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Citizens Crime Commission of New York for 10 years and remains a Vice Chairman today. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of Lenox Hill Neighborhood House, one of New York City's renowned social service agencies.

In recognition of his outstanding accomplishments, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring the dedication and service of Gary Beller as he retires from MetLife. He is a role model of civic involvement, corporate loyalty and professionalism, and service to the legal profession. He deserves our congratulations and well wishes as he begins his retirement.

Order of the Arrow and is a Warrior in the Tribe of Mic-O-Say.
