

undertakings in all phases of club, church and community work. Mrs. Esther Jones Lee of 1548 Parker Street, Berkeley, began club work in California in 1913 as a member of Mothers Charity Club. Prior to her residence in California, she worked with the Fannie B. Williams Club in Buxton, Iowa, where she was United States post office clerk. Later she taught school in Macon, Missouri.

Mrs. Lee served in every department of the California State Association and was elected to the presidency of the State Association in 1926, becoming the thirteenth president. Following the election to the presidency, she joined Fannie Jackson Coppin Club.

Mrs. Lee was Chairman of Affairs during the Fifteenth Biennial Convention of the National Association of Colored Women's Clubs, Inc., in 1926. She was one of the California women accorded special credit for her influence in obtaining the keys to the City of Oakland for this gigantic meeting—the largest and finest group of colored women that had ever crossed the Continent. At the next National Convention which convened in 1928 in Washington, D.C., Mrs. Mary McCleod Bethune, the national president, fittingly referred to Mrs. Lee as "the local chairman of the National in Oakland, California." Mrs. Lee was overwhelmingly elected a member of the Board of Control. Mrs. Bethune appointed Mrs. Lee as her special representative to the Y.W.C.A. Biennial Convention which was meeting in Sacramento, California.

Mrs. Lee attended the Seventeenth Biennial Convention in Hot Springs, Arkansas in 1930. She was delegated to give the response to the address of the Arkansas governor, local officials and others. During the Hoover-for-president campaign, she was head of the Women's Division of Northern California.

Mrs. Lee has given valuable information on numerous historical facets for the State Association's records—two of them being the inadvertent birth of the unit called "Northern Federation," and the founding of Fannie Wall Children's Home, and how and why it was named.

During the presidency of the late National President, Mrs. Mary D. Talbert, 1916 to 1920, Mrs. Lee was appointed regional official for California of the Anti-lynching Campaign.

Mrs. Lee has been prominently identified with the women's work of the General Baptist Association of California, its auxiliaries and also fraternal orders. The honor of Club Mother for 1954 was conferred upon her by Fannie Jackson Coppin Club.

Mrs. Lee's service in important offices on the National State, Regional and local club levels have blazed a trail and laid a foundation upon which we are pursuing and building. The potency of her character, intellect, personal energy and Club fealty, has buided the State Association and Fannie Jackson Coppin Club in paths of high purpose and achievement.

SUPPORTING INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

HON. JANICE D. SCHAKOWSKY

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, February 27, 2003

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing a resolution supporting the goals of International Women's Day. International Women's Day is celebrated each year on March 8 by the United Nations and millions of people around the world in recognition of the contributions of women and men throughout history who have worked for gender equality and in acknowledgement of the work that has yet to be done.

I am proud to be joined in this effort by the gentlewoman from Illinois (Mrs. BIGGERT), the gentlewoman from California, our distinguished Democratic Leader (Ms. PELOSI), and the gentleman from California, the ranking Democrat on the International Relations Committee (Mr. LANTOS), and several other members. I also want to acknowledge the assistance my colleague from Illinois, the distinguished Chairman of the International Relations Committee (Mr. HYDE), has given me.

Women all over the world contribute to the security and well-being of their communities, families, and nations. Yet, women still have yet to achieve full political and economic equality and millions of women continue to face discrimination, abuse, and violence in their daily lives. International Women's Day serves as a time to recognize this reality and to join together across cultures, languages, nations, ethnicities, and income levels to celebrate a common commitment for equality and justice.

It is my hope that this Resolution will find unanimous support in the House of Representatives as a demonstration of the commitment members share to working for fairness and justice for all people around the world.

I urge the House leadership to schedule this measure for a vote next week so that the members of the House may join our international partners in recognition of International Women's Day.

IN HONOR OF NATIONAL PEACE CORPS DAY, FEBRUARY 28TH 2003

HON. SAM FARR

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, February 27, 2003

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker, this Friday is National Peace Corps day. All over the country, former Peace Corps volunteers are bringing their skills, knowledge and experience to schools and community centers, sharing their experiences from all parts of the world.

Since 1961, more than 168,000 have volunteered in the Peace Corps. I was among the first in the mid-sixties. I spent two unforgettable years working as a Peace Corps volunteer in Medellin, Colombia. I have carried that experience with me ever since.

National Peace Corps Day will be a day of reflection for me. As I think back to my experience—and how it led me into public life and ultimately here to the U.S. Congress—I also think of the new opportunities for the next generation. I think of the fifteen volunteers from my home district who are now all over the world serving as Peace Corps volunteers. In particular, I think of Matthew Allen who began his service in Thailand last April. I remember him talking to me, asking me if going into Peace Corps was the right thing to do. I remember telling him that going into Peace Corps would be one of the most important decisions of his life.

It was for Matthew Allen, and thousands like him, that I introduced a bill last Congress—the Peace Corps Charter Act for the 21st Century—to increase the number of volunteers in the Peace Corps. I would like every American, who is qualified and wants to serve in the Peace Corps, to have the same opportunity that I did.

I have introduced the bill again this Congress—H.R. 250. Among other things, it authorizes sufficient funds to double the number of Peace Corps volunteers by 2007. The President shares this goal and I hope that he will support this legislation. The bill also calls for the Peace Corps to enhance person-to-person contacts with the Middle East. It calls for Peace Corps to provide expanded training in HIV/AIDS treatment for volunteers in Africa and Asia.

H.R. 250 also authorizes the creation of a new fund which supports the third goal of the Peace Corps—bringing the Peace Corps experience home to communities in America. This is exactly the spirit of National Peace Corps Day.

I would ask my colleagues to join me in celebrating Peace Corps today and everyday. Contact Returned Peace Corps Volunteers in their districts. Ask them to bring the story of Peace Corps to their schools and community centers. I would also ask them to support H.R. 250, so that everyone who is willing and able will have the opportunity to become part of this great American experience.

TRAINING FOR REALTIME WRITERS ACT OF 2003

HON. RON KIND

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, February 27, 2003

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to sponsor the "Training for Realtime Writers Act of 2003," which I introduced this afternoon with Representative ISAKSON from Georgia. I also would like to thank Senator HARKIN for introducing the companion bill in the Senate.

Today, over 28 million Americans are deaf or hard of hearing. Approximately 90% of these individuals rely on captioning services to participate in mainstream activities. In addition, research has found that many more people can benefit from watching captioning television, such as those learning English as a second language, illiterate adults, young children learning to read, and remedial readers.

Today the potential audience for captioned television is estimated at nearly 100 million, including the deaf and hard-of-hearing. There are approximately 30 million learning English as a second language, 27 million illiterate adults, 12 million young children learning to read, and 3.7 million remedial readers.

Furthermore, the events of September 11th demonstrate how imperative it is to have more closed captions. The captioning industry was strained to capacity in this effort to ensure that round-the-clock news and information was accessible to the deaf and hard of hearing citizens of our country. Without this service, a segment of our population would have been without critical information during a national crisis.

The Telecommunications Act of 1996 mandated that all television programming be fully captioned by 2006. The mandate is unrealistic, however, given the current number of trained closed captioners. Presently, schools are educating only half as many closed captioners as are needed to provide captioning services, leaving thousands of hours of programming unavailable to the deaf or hard of hearing. Thus, this legislation we are introducing today will provide grants to schools to educate students to become proficient in closed captioning and provide this important service to many people.

It is not right for so many of our citizens to be without access to such significant news or be excluded from mainstream activities due to a lack in captioning services. Let us fulfill the promise we made in the Telecommunication Act of 1996 and help the deaf and hard of hearing and many others by increasing the number of qualified closed captioners. This will ensure access to closed captioning television for everyone who requires such services.

WAR WITH IRAQ

HON. JIM McDERMOTT

OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, February 27, 2003

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I commend this speech by the leader of the liberal party in the House of Lords.

Baroness Williams of Crosby: My Lords, I too thank the Deputy Leader of the House for the very forceful, although not at all untypical, way in which she addressed the House. We on these Benches share completely the objective of the disarmament of Iraq. There is no question about that.

I want to remind the noble Baroness of the second part of Resolution 1441. It states that Iraq should have, "a final opportunity to comply with its disarmament obligations under relevant resolutions of the Council", and that it has been accordingly decided, "to set up an enhanced inspection regime with the aim of bringing to full and verified completion the disarmament process".

The difference between these Benches, the noble Lord, Lord Howell, and the noble Baroness, Lady Symons, is straightforwardly that we believe that the present draft resolutions pre-empt that process, that it is not yet completed, and that there is still an opportunity to avoid war. Let me say very clearly, in case there is any misunderstanding, that we believe that we, as powerfully as any other part of this House, have an obligation to our troops to make absolutely certain that men and women are not put into war, risking their lives, unless it can be shown to be absolutely necessary to do so. It is to that that I intend to address my remarks. The first question is whether we are convinced that Iraq is an imminent and present threat. There is no question but that it could be a potential threat, although I must dispute briefly with the noble Lord, Lord Howell of Guildford. Not only the CIA in the United States but Ministers in this House have on more than one recent occasion admitted that there is no clear evidence to link Al-Qaeda to the Government of Iraq, much as we might find things easier if that were so. That must be stated very explicitly, because repeating a misconception over and again does not turn that misconception into a truth. Therefore, I doubt whether we can show that Iraq is an imminent threat.

If we are seeking imminent threat, I need only quote from a very senior colleague of mine who is the head of the security unit in the Belfer Center at Harvard University. Ash Carter is a former National Security Agency assistant secretary. He said: "News reports late last week indicated that . . . North Korea is trucking the fuel rods away where they can neither be inspected nor entombed
