

VIII, 3469, 3498). While the Chair is not aware of any precedent with regard to the accuracy of an address by the President of the United States in a joint session, the Chair rules that allegations of factual inaccuracy in the contents of a speech, as opposed to the fidelity of its transcription, whether by the President or by a Member, are matters for subsequent proper debate and do not give rise to a question of the privileges of the House. To rule otherwise would be to permit collateral challenges under the guise of a question of privilege to the factual correctness of every word uttered, whether or not alleging the unauthorized inclusion of those remarks on the RECORD.

The Chair, therefore, rules that the resolution does not constitute a question of the privileges of the House under rule IX.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, further parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state his inquiry.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Is the effect of your ruling that whatever the President says must be considered correct since we have no chance to debate him, we have no chance to question him?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has ruled that debate over the next weeks or months in the House can go to the question of the factual accuracy of the previous statements of the President; but it would not be proper to do so in this type of resolution or in this form.

Mr. McDERMOTT. So the body does not have a way to deal with the statements made in the State of the Union message? We must accept it, and there it is?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The House has the right and the responsibility to respond to the President's address during subsequent debate.
