

as America's Black Holocaust Museum in Milwaukee, the Wisconsin Black Historical Society, and the Milwaukee Art Museum. In addition, numerous sites around the State commemorate Underground Railroad activity in Wisconsin including the Milton House Museum. These sites, as well as your local library, are wonderful resources for learning more about the invaluable contributions of African-American teachers, writers, artists, healers, freedom fighters, farmers, businessmen and women, and families to the history of our Nation.

Many Wisconsin colleges and universities are celebrating African-American contributions and heritage this February as well. For example, the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point is holding the annual Soul Food Dinner and Gospel Festival. The University of Wisconsin-Superior will be hosting a visit from author Bakari Kitwana, and the Association of Students of African Descent will sponsor performances of African American readings, poetry, and music. At the University of Wisconsin-Madison, the Wisconsin Black Student Union is sponsoring lectures and movie showings.

As stimulating as all this activity in February is, however, we should not relegate the study of black history to just this 1 month. February should be, and remain a starting point for a year long and life long exploration of the rich and varied contributions of our African-American communities.

President of Hampton University since 1978, Dr. William R. Harvey has introduced innovations that have solidified Hampton University's stellar position among the Nation's colleges and universities. His innovative leadership is reflected in the growth and quality of the University's students, academic programs, physical facilities and financial base. During Dr. Harvey's tenure as President, the student enrollment at Hampton University has increased from approximately 2,700 students to over 6,000. Moreover, the SAT scores of entering freshmen have increased approximately 300 points. His commitment to expansion and innovation in academic programs has resulted in 45 new academic programs. THE ULTIMATE CHALLENGE

• Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise today in recognition of Grants, NM, and the 20th Annual Mount Taylor Winter Quadrathlon. "The Ultimate Challenge" is a great program that encourages tourism and health in New Mexico.

I commend the people of Grants and Cibola County for their initiative to promote tourism in New Mexico through conducting the world-renowned Mount Taylor Winter Quadrathlon. "The Ultimate Challenge" is an innovative program which has adapted the traditional Triathlon to the varying terrain of Grants and the surrounding area. Instead of being a traditional Triathlon, which includes biking, running, and swimming, contestants have the opportunity to bike, run, ski and snow-shoe.

The Quadrathlon begins in Grants at 6,500 feet and continues all the way up Mount Taylor to an elevation of 11,301 feet, and concludes with a return trek to Grants. This multi-sport event allows those in the race to see the beautiful beauties of New Mexico, from our pristine deserts to our snow-covered mountains.

The race, which starts out with a 13-mile bike ride, begins in the desert; as the competition continues up Mount Taylor, the athletes are able to see 100 miles from horizon to horizon on a clear day and are given the opportunity to appreciate why New Mexico is indeed the Land of Enchantment.

I applaud Grants for being innovative in not only promoting tourism, but also by encouraging healthy lifestyles throughout their community and the world. The Quadrathlon, which solicits participants from New Mexico and across the globe, has improved the lives of many New Mexicans by giving them healthy goals for which to strive.

Grants has fostered a world renowned event by promoting the Quadrathlon for the past 20 years. I am proud to recognize Grants and the surrounding community for continually supporting such a beneficial event. On behalf of the Senate and the State of New Mexico, I thank these special New Mexicans for making a difference in our lives.●

RECOGNIZING LARRY LAYMAN

• Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, today I recognize Larry Layman, a Halifax area forester, who retired on January 1, 2003, ending a 30-year career of service to the Virginia Department of Forestry.

Larry Layman graduated from Virginia Tech with a Forestry and Wildlife degree in 1973 and began his career with the Virginia Department of Forestry as a forester in the Farmville Regional Office. On August 1, 1974, he was promoted to Halifax County Area Forester.

Mr. Layman has spent countless hours providing forest management advice, supervising planting crews, suppressing forest fires, working with crews in the application of herbicides and marking pine stands to be thinned. His ability to communicate proper forest resource management practices to forest landowners has resulted in greatly improved forest resources in the county.

I congratulate Mr. Layman on his years of dedicated service to the people of Halifax County and the Commonwealth of Virginia and wish him well in his retirement.●

RECOGNIZING THE GAZETTE-VIRGINIAN

• Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, today I recognize the Gazette-Virginian newspaper in South Boston, Virginia, as it celebrates its 100th birthday.

The Gazette-Virginian is Virginia's ninth largest nondaily newspaper. Its predecessor, the South Boston Times, began publication over 114 years ago as a weekly newspaper serving the South Boston area of Virginia. In 1903, the name was changed to the Halifax-Gazette. Since that time, the paper has continued to grow to meet the needs of the area.

Acquired by the Shelton Family partially in 1946 and then wholly in 1958, the paper has flourished under their leadership. O. Lynn Shelton served as editor of the paper and was succeeded in this position by his son, Keith Shelton.

In 1963, the Halifax-Gazette became the Gazette-Virginian and began publication twice weekly. In 1998, the Gazette-Virginian went on-line, offering its readers a new avenue of communication. Today, the Gazette-Virginian employs 21 dedicated, full-time employees and boasts a circulation of 11,500, making it the most subscribed to paper in Halifax County.

I congratulate the Gazette-Virginian on its success and wish it many prosperous years of outstanding news coverage to come.●

CELEBRATING BAILEY'S U.S. POST OFFICE'S CENTENNIAL

● Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I take this opportunity to recognize the U.S. Post Office in Bailey, MS, as it celebrates its 100th year of existence. The Bailey Post Office began its service in December of the year 1902, when John A. Bailey was appointed as the first local postmaster by Henry C. Payne, the Postmaster General of the United States. The Bailey Post Office was opened in the already existing structure of the Bailey Grocery and has been serving the Bailey community ever since.

Since its inception in 1902, the Bailey Post Office has reliably served the people of the city of Bailey and the surrounding area and currently has two mail routes that cover 700 families in the Bailey community. Such longevity can be attributed to the character and work ethic that Bailey Post Office employees have exhibited over the years, but more than that, it is a tribute to the small town values present in a place such as Bailey. The fact that Leon Bailey, the grandson of the first ever Postmaster General in Bailey, still lives in Bailey speaks volumes about the tightly knit community the people of Bailey enjoy. During the recent centennial celebration, more than 300 members of the community gathered to commemorate the occasion.

Such a sense of community is rare in today's world, and as such it should be commended. That is why I felt the need to pay tribute to the current and past workers of the Bailey Post Office as well as the current and past members of the community.●

ECONOMIC REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT DATED FEBRUARY 2003 WITH THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COUNCIL OF ECONOMIC ADVISERS FOR 2003—PM 14

from the President of the United States, together with an accompanying report; which was referred to the Joint Economic Committee:

ECONOMIC REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Congress of the United States:

The economy is recovering from the effects of the slowdown that began in the middle of 2000 and led to the subsequent recession. The American economy has been hit hard by the events of the past three years, most tragically by the effects of the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. Our economy and investor confidence were hurt when we learned that some corporate leaders were not playing by the rules. The combined impact of these events, along with the three-year decline in stock values that impacted business investment, slowed growth in 2002. Despite these challenges, the economy's underlying fundamentals remain solid—including low inflation, low interest rates, and strong productivity gains. Yet the pace of the expansion has not been satisfactory; there are still too many Americans looking for jobs. We will not be satisfied until every part of our economy is vigorous and every person who wants a job can find one.

We are taking action to restore the robust growth that creates jobs. In January, I proposed a growth and jobs plan to add needed momentum to our economic recovery. We will accelerate the tax relief already approved by Congress and give it to Americans now, when it is most needed. Lowering tax rates and moving more Americans into the lowest tax bracket will help our economy grow and create jobs. Faster marriage tax relief and a faster increase in the child tax credit will especially help middle-class families, and should take effect now. We will take steps to encourage small business investment, helping them to expand and create jobs. We will end the unfair double taxation of corporate income received by individuals. By putting more money back in the hands of shareholders, strengthening investor confidence in the market, and encouraging more investment, we will have more growth and job creation. These steps will allow Americans to keep more of their own money to spend, save, or invest. They will boost the economy, ensure that the recovery continues, and provide long-term economic benefits through higher productivity and higher incomes.

As our economy recovers, we also have an obligation to help Americans who have lost their jobs. That is why we extended the unemployment payments for workers who lost their jobs and improved incentives for investment to create new jobs. I also proposed a bold new program of reemployment accounts to help workers searching for jobs.

Our commitment to a strong economy does not stop with these important steps. We will continue to strengthen investor confidence in the integrity of our markets. We will develop better ways to train workers for new jobs. We will make the Nation's regulations and tax code less onerous and more reflective of the demands of a dynamic economy, and expand opportunities for open trade and stronger growth in all nations, especially for emerging and developing economies.

Our Nation's economic progress comes from the innovation and hard work of Americans in a free market that creates opportunities no other system can offer. Government does not create wealth, but instead creates the economic environment in which risk takers and entrepreneurs create jobs. With the right policies focused on growth and jobs, strong economic fundamentals—and hard work—I am confident we will extend economic opportunity and prosperity to every corner of America.

GEORGE W. BUSH.
THE WHITE HOUSE, February 2003.
