SENATE MEMORIAL 18

Whereas, New Mexico's Nations, Tribes and Pueblos are centuries-old communities that established and continue to employ well-organized tribal self-governing systems; and

Whereas, the existence and significance of Indian self-government and tribal sovereignty over tribal homelands was acknowledged in New Mexico from the outset of European contact as evidenced by the early Spanish Land Grants, the recognition of civil and political rights by the independent Government of Mexico, the United States in the 1848 Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo and by the State in its Enabling Act of 1910; and

Whereas, the State has continued to recognize and respect the sovereign tribal governments of New Mexico through many state laws that encourage the use of cooperative agreements that authorize and encourage the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Branches of the New Mexico Government to coordinate and work cooperatively with the Nations, Tribes and Pueblos of New Mexico; and

Whereas, the Senate celebrates and honors the governments, leadership and contributions of the Nations, Tribes and Pueblos of New Mexico through an annual recognition day known as "American Indian Day", occurring this year on February 4, 2003; and

Whereas, the Governor is in the process of executing agreements reaffirming government-to-government relationships between the State and the Nations, Tribes and Pueblos of New Mexico; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of New Mexico That it salute and honor the Nations, Tribes and Pueblos of New Mexico by reaffirming its recognition of their status as sovereign governments and the Legislature's commitment to interact with the Nations, Tribes and Pueblos on a government-to-government basis so as to promote intergovernmental cooperation, coordination and communication on all matters; and be it further

Resolved, That the New Mexico Congressional Delegation be encouraged to support and reaffirm the government-to-government relationship between states and tribes and the fundamental principle that Indian Nations, Tribes and Pueblos retain their inherent sovereign rights over their tribal lands except as provided by Congress in an act of law or by the ratification of a treaty; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate express its high regard for the Pueblos, Nations and Tribes of New Mexico and all they have done to strengthen community through their willingness to work cooperatively with the State in many areas such as Taxation, Tourism, Environmental Protection, Social Services Delivery, Health, Education, Gaming and Public Safety; and be it further

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. WYDEN:

S. 692. A bill to require the Federal Trade Commission to issue rules regarding the disclosure of technological measures that restrict consumer flexibility to use and manipulate digital information and entertainment content; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, today I am introducing the Digital Consumer Right To Know Act. The thrust of this bill is quite simple. Digital media companies are racing to develop technologies to combat piracy. Some of these anti-piracy measures could have the effect of restricting lawful, legitimate consumer uses as well as unlawful copying. My bill says that if digital content is released in a form that prevents or limits reasonable consumers uses, consumers have a right to be told in advance.

The shift from analog to digital technologies carries many potential benefits for all concerned—for technology companies, for producers of music, video, and other content, and above all, for consumers. Digital technologies, together with the rise of the Internet, promise to expand exponentially the possibilities for circulating, marketing, manipulating, and using creative works. There is so much more you can do, and so many fertile fields for innovation.

The shift to digital, however, also carries twin risks. The first, and the one on which Congress has focused most of its attention to date, is the risk of piracy. Digital technologies can greatly facilitate unlawful copying and distribution. This is a real problem, because people and companies that create copyrighted works must be fairly compensated. America's information-based economy depends on it.

The second, closely related risk is that, in combating piracy, the baby will get thrown out with the bathwater. In the name of anti-piracy
