

impression that he has endorsed all of these increases to the VA budget. In fact, the President has requested only about a 25 percent increase in appropriated funding over 5 years; the remainder has come from funding added by Congress and from increased collections of copayments from veterans.

Keep in mind that during the same period, the number of veterans entering the VA health care system grew by almost 50 percent. Additionally, medical inflation (which VA forecast at five percent per year) increased by seven to eight percent per year. The total average annual increases of eight percent over the five budget cycles in question still have required VA to take dramatic action to continue to deliver health care services to veterans. In addition to halting enrollment for tens of thousands of veterans with incomes as low as $25,000 who might not be able to afford private health insurance, VA has proposed elimination of nursing home care for all but the most severely service-disabled veterans.

Moreover, the President has actually opposed Congressional efforts to add funds to the VA health care system. On July 26, 2002, Congress authorized $275 million to address the costs of caring for VA's higher priority groups—service-connected and low-income veterans and those in need of specialized services. The President failed to designate these funds as emergency spending pursuant to the Balanced Budget Act, so the additional resources Congress sought to provide, which would have remained available to the agency throughout fiscal year 2003, were sacrificed.

The Bush Administration also objected to Congressional attempts to add $1.3 billion for veterans' health care in the FY 2004 Emergency Supplemental for Iraq and Afghanistan Security and Reconstruction Bill. Joshua Bolten, Director of the White House Office of Management and Budget (OMB) wrote to House and Senate appropriators on October 21, 2003: "The Administration strongly opposes these provisions that would allocate an additional $1.3 billion for VA medical care . . ."

A second Bush term would likely create an even more difficult funding environment for veterans' programs. OMB guidance leaked to the Washington Post this spring indicated that, for fiscal year 2006, the White House would require VA to identify $910 million to cut from its fiscal year 2005 budget request for discretionary programs—primarily, medical care, construction, and research.

The President also told the VFW: "We've reduced the large backlog of disability claims by about a third; we will reduce it even further."

Again, not so and not likely. When President Bush assumed office in January 2001, 278,334 veterans' disability claims were awaiting a VA rating decision. As of August 21, 2004, there were 330,380 disability claims awaiting a rating decision. The one-third reduction claimed by President Bush is not supported by VA's own data.

I am concerned that the Bush Administration's emphasis on productivity as a goal in itself, has actually been harmful to veterans. Veterans need a timely accurate decision when they apply for benefits. In an effort to meet production goals, I have found veterans rated on the basis of inadequate medical examinations which do not fully address the impact of a veteran's disability on his or her ability to function. It is tempting for well-meaning VA employees under pressure to reduce the backlog to decide the claim rather than sending the examination back to correct the deficiencies.

One measure of accuracy is the marked increase in veterans' claims pending at the Board of Veterans Appeals (BVA). When President Bush assumed office, 87,291 appeals were pending. As of August 14, 2004, there were 149,222 appeals pending. With increasing frequency, BVA continues to send claims back for evidence which should have been obtained before the claim was decided.

The prospect for the future is even worse. Despite increasing numbers of claims for service-connected compensation from the current wars in Iraq and Afghanistan as well as past conflicts, the Bush Administration fiscal year 2005 budget calls for 289 fewer full-time employees to handle disability compensation claims than were on the rolls in 2003. Cutting employees who decide these claims at a time when the number and complexity of claims is increasing does a great disservice to veterans.

The misdirection in the President's speech continued: "For more than a century, federal law prohibited disabled veterans from receiving both their military retired pay and their VA disability compensation. Combat-injured and severely disabled veterans deserve better. I was proud to be the first President in over 100 years to sign concurrent receipt legislation."

Considering his threats to veto it, his party's vehement objections to it, and the behind-closed-doors Republican "compromise" that excludes two-thirds of those eligible and forces the rest to wait 10 years to receive full benefits, "proud" seems an odd choice of words.

"We're getting the job done in Washington, D.C.," said the President to the VFW. Earlier this year, VFW then-Commander-in-Chief Edward S. Banas, Sr., gave his own assessment: "The President ignored veterans in the State of the Union Address and with [the] release of his 2005 budget, it is further evident that veterans are no longer a priority with this administration . . . the American people will not tolerate this shoddy treatment of America's veterans, especially at a time of war."

VIDEO VOYEURISM PREVENTION ACT OF 2003

SPEECH OF

HON. CHARLES A. GONZALEZ

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 21, 2004

Mr. GONZALEZ. Mr. Speaker, I wish to express my strong support for passage of S. 1301, the Video Voyeurism Prevention Act. I wish to thank Chairman OXLEY, Senator DEWINE, Senator SCHUMER, as well as Chairman SENSENBRENNER and Ranking Member CONYERS for their work on this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, unfortunately video voyeurism has become a rapidly growing national problem. With the development of the Internet and miniature camera technology, anybody can now readily invade the privacy of another by secretly videotaping or photographing others and putting those compromising images on the Internet. We all regularly see pop up advertisements on the Internet for new miniature camera technology. Undoubtedly this technology is being used by many "Peeping Toms" to spy on others. It is time that Congress takes a stand against the growing misuse of these new technologies.

S. 1301, the Video Voyeurism Act makes it illegal for anyone on federal property to capture an improper image of another under circumstances that clearly violates the privacy of that individual. It is my hope that this legislation will spur individual states to follow suit and update their criminal codes to ensure that their citizens are similarly protected from video voyeurism in areas under state jurisdiction.

Mr. Speaker, every American has a fundamental right to privacy that should be protected from intentional, unwanted incursion. S. 1301, the Video Voyeurism Prevention Act takes an important step towards updating our nation's privacy protections for a new generation of video and camera technology. I support passage of this legislation.

DOCTORS FOR DESIGNATED DRIVING

HON. ANDER CRENSHAW

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, September 23, 2004

Mr. CRENSHAW. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize the achievements of Doctors for Designated Driving which is putting one of President George W. Bush's guiding principles—compassionate conservatism—into practice.

Doctors for Designated Driving is a group of physicians dedicated to working with the hospitality industry and other groups to promote the role of the designated driver. The group recognizes cooperating partners for their commitment to public safety through publicity and recognition awards including the "Platinum Key of Life."

I am proud that the Jacksonville Jaguars, together with the National Football League and the Techniques for Effective Alcohol Management (TEAM) Coalition, are supporting the designated driver programs during the 2004 season with a special incentive. This year Alltel Stadium—home of the Jacksonville Jaguars and host of Super Bowl XXXIX—encourages responsibility by providing fans a designated driver booth program where participating patrons receive free non-alcoholic drinks. Fans who register to be a designated driver will pledge not to drink alcohol, will drive their friends and family home safely, and will ensure that everyone always buckles up. At the end of the season, the TEAM Coalition and the Jacksonville Jaguars will select one designated driver to represent the team at Super Bowl XXXIX. The selected designated driver will receive two tickets to the game and hotel accommodations.

I want to commend my friend, Dr. Howard Forman, for his work in founding Doctors for Designated Driving. With our strong support, it is my hope that Doctors for Designated Driving will be successful in the promotion of designated drivers throughout the nation.

CALLING FOR THE SUSPENSION OF SUDAN'S MEMBERSHIP ON THE UNITED NATIONS COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS

SPEECH OF

HON. BOBBY L. RUSH

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, September 22, 2004

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support S. Con. Res. 137, calling for the suspension of Sudan's membership on the United Nations Commission on Human Rights. For nearly 20 months now, there have been atrocities in Darfur, Sudan. The group that have been committing these killings are called "Janjaweed." The Janjaweed are a Sudanese government sponsored militia group.

There is a creditable amount of testimony to confirm that the Sudanese government have been using the Janjaweed as an extension of their military to forcibly remove the Black Africans in Darfur from their land. The Janjaweed have been linked to brutal executions, rape, pillage and burning of villages.

Recently, the Secretary of State had no choice but to acknowledge the genocide publicly. He has returned to the UN with a new resolution calling for sanctions if Khartoum refuses to disarm militias in Darfur and to allow more African Union soldiers in to monitor.

We are aware that there are American companies with interest in Sudan but principles must come before profits.

I rise to ask all Members to join us and call for Sudan's membership on the United Nations Commission on Human Rights to be revoked and I unequivocally support this resolution.

A TRIBUTE TO MAJOR GENERAL TONY L. CORWIN, U.S. MARINE CORPS

HON. JERRY LEWIS

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, September 23, 2004

Mr. LEWIS of California. Mr. Speaker, it is with pleasure that I rise today to recognize Major General Tony L. Corwin, United States Marine Corps. Major General Corwin has served as the Legislative Assistant to the Commandant of the Marine Corps for the last five years.

Many Members of Congress and their staffs have come to know General Corwin as an exceptional spokesman for the United States Marine Corps. His straightforward approach and extensive knowledge of programs and policy have been of great benefit to the U.S. Congress, and our national security.

Through the effective communication efforts of General Corwin, the U.S. Congress has been kept fully informed of the crucial programs vital to the success of America's force-in-readiness: the United States Marine Corps. These important programs include, the Joint Strike Fighter (JSF), the V-22 program, the Expeditionary Fighting Vehicle (EFV), the KC-130J, the Maritime Prepositioned Force (Future), initial issue of gear for the individual Marine, LHD-17, LHA (R). General Corwin is thoroughly knowledgeable on all of these programs.

General Corwin has provided Congress with vital information regarding the purchase of the Blount Island Maritime Prepositioning port facility, and why it is vital to the United States' national security. As a result of his efforts, the House has agreed to provide $115 million to acquire this property. In his role as lead liaison with the Marine Corps, General Corwin has overseen the responses to more than 25,000 congressional inquiries made to House and Senate Members. His responses have always been timely, accurate, and professional.

The Marine Corps Air-Ground Combat Center at Twentynine Palms—the Corps' largest base—is in my district, and I receive numerous requests from Marines, and their family members on a myriad of issues. General Corwin and his superb staff have helped me provide top-notch service for these defenders of our Nation.

General Corwin is known for his in-depth knowledge of the legislative issues and operational requirements of the Marine Corps. But he is also greatly respected as a dedicated leader and officer who possesses a deep and abiding passion for what it means to be a Marine. He has an unquestionable devotion to duty, impeccable integrity, absolute sound character and is a consummate professional. Through his assignment as the Legislative Assistant to the Commandant, General Corwin has served the Congress and our Nation extraordinarily well.

As Chairman of the Defense Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee, I have had invaluable insights and great appreciation for the caliber of General Corwin's work. He sets a high standard for others to emulate. I wish General Corwin and his wife, Thanya, and their wonderful family continued success in their future endeavors. Many thanks, General Corwin. Our Nation benefits from your outstanding leadership.
