

Arrogance. What do you call it when they ignore the advice of the State Department that we have to have international support for the war and international participation in the keeping of the peace? We had neither.

Arrogance. What do you call it when they rush to war, and the Pentagon says that rush to war prevented us from being able to protect our soldiers in a proper way, and now one out of four casualties is because we were improperly prepared to keep the peace?

Arrogance. That is what you call it.

CREATING AND KEEPING JOBS IN AMERICA

(Mr. TIAHRT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Speaker, one of the most important domestic issues facing us and our children and grandchildren is America's ability to compete in the world market.

Over the last generation, Congress has passed laws and legislation, perhaps with good intentions, but with disastrous consequences, in the form of regulations and policies. These regulations and policies have made it difficult to stay competitive. We have divided the challenges into eight categories; and for a period of 8 weeks on the floor of the United States House, we will debate and vote on measures to change the system and make America more able to compete globally. Our goal is more high-quality, high-paying jobs. We call it Careers For the 21st Century.

The eight issues are lowering the rising cost of health care; cutting bureaucratic red tape; lifelong learning for a skilled work force; applying fair trade policies; tax relief and simplification for reducing the burden on tax preparation; energy policy that will create 700,000 jobs; research and development initiatives; and ending lawsuit abuse.

Real solutions for real problems, so that American working families can make their dreams come true.

GETTING ALL AMERICANS AFFORDABLE HEALTH COVERAGE

(Mr. LAMPSON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LAMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to bring to this body's attention an editorial that was in the Houston Chronicle just a week or so ago by Dr. John Stobo, who is the president of the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, Texas.

Dr. Stobo talks of a 43-year-old emergency room patient with shortness of breath who had already had a doctor's visit where x-rays had been ordered. She could not get the x-rays because she could not afford them, did not have the health insurance, and her employer, a small business owner, did not provide it.

She could not afford a second doctor's visit and is now diagnosed, when she made it to the emergency room, with lung cancer. Since she saw the doctor, the cancer spread aggressively; but if she had had that x-ray 9 months earlier, her prognosis might have been more positive.

It is an absolute moral scandal that Dr. Stobo's patient, along with 43 million hard-working Americans, people with jobs, have no health insurance.

A study by respected analysts Jack Handley and John Holahan estimates that basic health insurance for all uninsured Americans would cost $69 billion a year if typical of the sort now held by middle- and low-income Americans.

We will consider legislation next week that will change this. Let us get all Americans affordable health insurance.

OLD BACKPACK 4 IRAQ PROGRAM

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, Americans are rightfully confident that the prison abusers are a tiny few of the over 300,000 American troops who have served in the war on terror to protect American families.

A more representative symbol of our troops' efforts is the Old Backpack 4 Iraq Program of the 3-178 Field Artillery Battalion of the South Carolina Army National Guard led by Lt. Col. Mark King currently deployed in Iraq. They are collecting used and new backpacks containing school supplies to be provided to Iraqi children.

The backpacks can be loaded with pencils, pens, notebooks, crayons, rulers, construction paper, a small teddy bear, shampoo, toothpaste, toothbrush, BAND-AIDS, soap, wash cloth, and a towel.

I urge my colleagues to assist in this collection and bring backpacks to the Second Congressional District offices in Washington, West Columbia and Beaufort, along with offices of the Lexington County Chronicle. The first load must be completed by Thursday, May 21, so I can personally take them with me on a delegation to Iraq the next day. We will continue to collect them in the future.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September 11.

ASK QUESTIONS OR STUPID THINGS HAPPEN

(Mr. EMANUEL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, Chairman GRASSLEY from the other body said, "We Republicans have never quite reached the level of competent oversight that the Democrats developed. We tried to emphasize legislating and we have delegated so much authority to the executive branch of government and we ought to devote more time to oversight than we do."

This Congress in the last 43 days has been in session 14 days. What have we done with our time? We have named 11 post offices, recognized the Garden Club of America, recognized the importance of music education, authorized the use of the Capitol grounds for the Soap Box Derby.

What has happened to our troops? 175 have died in the last 43 days, bringing the total in Iraq to 775.

While we name post offices and recognize sports teams, our constituents are asking questions of how we got in a war without an exit strategy, and for what purpose did we miscalculate and how did we miscalculate our entry into that war.

And this week, how are we handling controversies in Iraq? We are going home a day early. President Kennedy once said, "To govern is to choose." We can name post offices, or we can ask questions, and even this Congress might try to do both.

JOBS AND TAX RELIEF

(Mr. PITTS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, last month our economy created 288,000 jobs; 867,000 jobs have been created this year alone. Manufacturing employment is up, weekly jobless claims are at their lowest since October of 2000, our economy is on the rebound, and we have tax relief to thank for that. It is proof that when working families keep more of their own money, it works.

Today, we are going to act to prevent a tax increase. Current law says that the 10 percent tax bracket which was created in the 2001 jobs plan will expire. If that happens, 73 million working people will pay higher taxes next year, with an average tax increase of $2,400 in the next decade.

Today, we will see who in this House wants to prevent this tax increase. Working families need every penny we can let them keep.

SUPPORT BIPARTISAN TOBACCO BUYOUT LEGISLATION

(Mr. ETHERIDGE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, for the past several years, I have worked with a bipartisan coalition of Members to pass critical tobacco buyout legislation on behalf of American tobacco farmers. Unfortunately, the House Republican leadership has opposed us at every turn.

This week, Senator JOHN KERRY announced his support for tobacco buyout legislation. His support stands in stark contrast to comments made last week by President Bush, who dismissed the crisis facing tobacco farm families by saying the current tobacco system does not need to be changed.

Since 1997, tobacco farmers have seen their income cut by over half. Thousands of farm families have been forced out of business. The entire economic background of rural southeast America has been crippled, yet the President says nothing needs to be changed.

Senator KERRY supports a buyout to revitalize our corner of rural America. A buyout would create tens of thousands of jobs in rural America, which are desperately needed.

Time is running out for our tobacco farmers. I call on the Republican leadership in the House and the Congress to follow Senator KERRY's leadership and pass the bipartisan tobacco buyout and restore hope to tobacco country.

REFORMING CIVIL JUSTICE SYSTEM IN REGARD TO MEDICAL LIABILITY

(Mr. BURGESS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, yesterday on the floor of this House, we passed legislation that will once again reform the civil justice system in regards to medical liability. Then the question came up last night during the hours of debate on this House as to how in the world is that going to lower the cost of health insurance for the uninsured.

Well, true enough, lowering the cost of liability insurance will not have a direct effect upon the cost of providing insurance for the uninsured, but certainly removing the embedded cost of the civil justice system and the embedded cost of defensive medicine from the medical justice system will go a great way towards alleviating the crisis in the cost of medical insurance.

It is estimated from a study done in 1996 that $50 billion a year could be saved in the Medicare program if doctors were not practicing defensive medicine.

The fact of the matter remains, Mr. Speaker, we passed that bill in the House, it is awaiting action on the other side of the Capitol, we have a President right now who will sign that bill, and I think that is an important part for the American people to bear in mind.

STOP CALLING THOSE WHO ASK QUESTIONS UNPATRIOTIC

(Mr. PASCRELL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PASCRELL. Mr. Speaker, a quote: "I cannot support a failed foreign policy. History teaches us that it is often easier to make war than peace. This administration is just learning that lesson right now. The President began this mission with very vague objectives and lots of unanswered questions. There is no timetable, there is no legitimate definition of victory, there is no contingency plan for mission creep, there is no clear funding program, there is no agenda to bolster our overextended military, there is no explanation defining what vital national interests are at stake."

Who said that? Not a Democrat, but the majority leader, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DELAY), said that on March 28 of 1999.

□ 1015

I say, end calling those people who ask questions unpatriotic. Read your own history. Read your own legacy. This is a disgrace, what you did in 1999, and then you accuse us when we ask a question. Read your own literature.

TRIBUTE TO JEREMIAH KIRK JOHNSON

(Mr. BISHOP of Utah asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Today, a special service will be held at the National Peace Officers Memorial to honor those whose devotion resulted in the ultimate expression of Christ-like love: They sacrificed their lives for others.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay special tribute to one who gave his life in the service of others. Jeremiah Kirk Johnson, who died in a tragic traffic accident while on duty for the Emery County Sheriff's Department, exemplifies the life of service which I wish to honor.

A devoted husband and father, he spent every spare moment around his children because of his great love for them. At the time of his death, he had been promoted to deputy sheriff in Emery County, and was instrumental in helping to set up the drug court which had the effect of getting drug offenders off the street. He was a giant of a man, yet gentle.

Jeremiah will be missed a lot. He cannot be replaced, but his example can be honored.

He was a model U.S. citizen. He devoted his life to service of our country, and he will be forever remembered as a hero, a son, a husband, and a father.

COVER THE UNINSURED AND SUPPORT KIND SUBSTITUTE

(Mr. ROSS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROSS. Mr. Speaker, as the Congress and the country mark Cover the Uninsured Week, I add my voice to those who are ready to do something meaningful about the problem of the uninsured.

Nearly 80 percent of the uninsured are the working poor, and often work in small businesses. They have jobs and are trying to do the right thing, but they cannot afford an insurance policy for themselves or for their families.

My colleagues on the other side of the aisle claim that association health plans are the answer, but more than 500 organizations representing millions of people oppose these plans, association health plans, because they know that they will compound the problem by creating an unlevel playing field that will likely lead to cherry-picking, adverse selection, and yes, increased costs for sicker individuals.

I urge my colleagues to support the Kind substitute, which will provide a tax credit to businesses that will pay for 50 percent of the premium for health insurance for their employees.

OFFICERS IN CHARGE IN IRAQ FAILED IN THEIR DUTY

(Mr. SHIMKUS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, as a Member of Congress, as a West Point graduate, and as a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserves, I am saddened by recent revelations at Abu Ghraib Prison. I am sad and disappointed and feel personally attacked by an organization I hold in high esteem.

The Chaplain said today in his prayer that we seek justice, equity, and freedom. In this case, we failed.

A commander is responsible for all his unit does and fails to do. This is a basic creed of the United States Army.

As the criminal proceedings unfold and those involved receive the consequences of their actions, some officers in charge need to stand up and say, I was in command, and I failed.

IRAQ IMAGES

(Mr. McDERMOTT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, the ship of state sails without a rudder.

Increasingly, the world sees our presence in Iraq as an occupation, not a liberation. Any talk of democracy has been replaced with images of brute and brutal force.

The President talks about a superb Cabinet Secretary, but America and the world reel in horror and shame over what was done in the name of defending our country.

If only the administration had paid attention. The Red Cross knew, but the administration would not listen. American leadership and credibility have cratered deeper and deeper, yet the administration remains deaf to what happened and the need to act.

The administration heaps praise on one of its own, even as it seeks to silence the images. They sent him to Iraq, I guess, to get him out of town, but the images have stirred the world. As it has for so long, the world looks to
