

this. It is unfair to our growers, unfair to our farmers, unfair to an industry that produces substantial numbers of jobs and economic opportunity.

The sugar beet industry in the Red River Valley of North Dakota has $1 to $2 billion of impact in our economy, and once again I say they can compete and they will compete when asked to compete anywhere around the world, but they cannot compete against unfair trade, and dumped sugar is unfair trade, yet that is exactly what we are connecting to in these trade agreements and that is why we want to stop it right now before it goes further.

Australian representatives are in Washington, DC, now. The ambassador for the United States who negotiates trade agreements says he wants to finish this agreement by the end of January. If they finish this agreement with Australia, my hope is the Senate will have expressed itself by that time in a way that says: Do not do this with respect to sugar. Do not take steps that potentially destroy the sugar industry in this country, that potentially destroy the opportunity of beet growers in the Red River Valley to make a living. That is not a step forward; that is a step backward for this country.

I hope the trade ambassador hears this. I don't understand for the life of me why we got a message yesterday saying, I am going to do the right thing, I won't have sugar in the negotiations with Australia, and then today—and this is on ABC, incidentally, Online, you can go to the Internet and see it—today the United States trade official denied that the trade ambassador said that. I don't understand this at all.

My hope is the Senate will do what it has done before on this issue of sugar. The Senate has taken a position on this before. The sugar program of ours works. It provides good prices, advantageous prices for the American consumer, it provides assured quality of supply, and it provides an opportunity, with fair trade, for our growers to make a living in this country in the sugar industry, an industry that is important to our country.

I am going to have this resolution introduced at the conclusion of my remarks. My hope is my colleagues in Congress will support it. I know there are many who are strong supporters of the position that it is fine to negotiate trade agreements but it is not fine to undercut our country's interests with trade agreements.

It is almost impossible for me to begin talking about trade without describing the circumstances in which we find ourselves. We have the largest trade deficit in human history right now, the largest deficit ever after our trade negotiations and agreements have been put in place—the largest deficits ever. We have an agreement with Canada and take a modest trade deficit and turn it into a big one. We have an agreement with Mexico and take a trade surplus and turn it into a big deficit. The trade deficit with Japan just keeps growing. The deficit with China is out of sight, well over $100 billion and will probably reach $130 billion this year; almost a third of a billion dollars a day in trade deficit with just China alone. With Europe? I can't even begin to describe the problems we have with Europe in beef and other areas. The fact is, we need to fix this.

Will Rogers said many years ago, the United States of America has never lost a war and never won a conference. He must surely have been thinking of our trade negotiators. It takes them no more than a week or two to come back with a trade agreement that undercuts especially the interests of American agriculture, but if you look at the trade deficit, I would say undercuts this country's economic interests. It is not in this country's economic interests to continue to see this trade deficit grow and grow and grow.

That trade deficit, incidentally, is connected to the process by which jobs stream out of this country, by companies that decide they want to produce elsewhere and ship into this country, by companies that decide they want to move jobs offshore. "We want to create a new mailbox someplace in the Bermudas or Bahamas or some other tax haven country in order not to have to pay taxes to the U.S., and at the same time close our factories and ship jobs overseas."

That is what this measure is, that is the consequence of this, and that is why this has to change, in my judgment.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Wyoming would like to be added as an original cosponsor of the resolution.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Wyoming. He has been an assertive and strong voice on a number of these trade issues, including specifically the sugar issue. I am proud to have him as a cosponsor on this resolution.
