STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. EDWARDS:

S. 2303. A bill to help American families save, invest, and build a better future, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. EDWARDS. Mr. President, I rise to introduce the Better Future for American Families Act. Today's legislation will strengthen progressive tax credits to help middle-class families save, invest, and get ahead.

For more than 200 years, our country has been propelled by this single, powerful idea: All Americans should have the opportunity to rise as far as their hard work and God-given potential can take them. In the last generation, however, the American Dream of building something better has been replaced with the hope of just getting by.

Due to the rising costs of housing, health care, and other necessities, many families are no longer saving for the future. In fact, they need to borrow to get through the present. Personal bankruptcies reached an all-time high of 1.6 million a year in 2002. Almost one in five households approaching retirement can expect to retire in poverty, and this rate is even higher for African American and Hispanic households. The middle-class—the foundation of this country—is sinking.

If we want to create new wealth in this country, we should start by rewarding the work and responsibility of America's families. What's right for our economy, our democracy, and our society is consistent with our values as well: Every American should have the chance to be an owner—to buy a home, save for college, invest in America, or put money aside for a secure retirement.

In current law, there is a Saver's Credit that matches retirement savings of low-income families up to dollar-for-dollar. The credit has been a success, but it does suffer from some limitations.

First, the Saver's Credit will expire in 2006. The Republican budget plan fails to extend it, even as it extends other tax cuts enacted in 2001. My legislation would make it permanent.

Second, the credit phases out rapidly, providing only a small benefit to many middle-income families and creating high marginal tax rates for millions of savers. My legislation would expand benefits for families earning less than $50,000.

Finally, although 57 million taxpayers are eligible for the maximum credit on paper, 80 percent of them cannot actually benefit from it because they lack income tax liability. These are families that need help as much as anyone, and my legislation would make them eligible for the credit.

This legislation would make a real difference for American families. A family that saves the maximum under this plan every year from age 25 to retirement will have a nest egg of $200,000 on top of any other savings, pensions, and Social Security.

Here in Congress, it is our responsibility to make sure that families working for a living have the tools they need to move forward. My legislation is not about creating another government program to protect families; it is about helping families help themselves.

If we help families save, we can unleash a new era of possibilities with a stronger economy because we're saving and investing more; with families at ease because they have financial security; and with our children prospering because they have a strong foundation on which to build. I urge all of my colleagues to join me in supporting this effort.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the legislation be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:
